CAUCUS HAS ENDED.

The Question Now Seems to Be, Who Has Gained By It?

BUT ONE VOTE BY SENATORS.

Opinions Are Divided as to Possible Changes.

WASHINGTON, March 1. — The Democratic senatorial caucus on the tariff bill is over, and both sides are claiming to have made progress for the interest they represent. The outcome is in the nature of a victory for the Democratic members of the finance committee who prepared the bill, as it was returned to them without any instructions to make changes.

Immediately after the adjournment of the caucus, Senators Gorman, Brice, Hill, Smith, Murphy, and one or two others who have been known to be very much opposed to the bill as it was prepared by the finance committee, held a consultation, and their attitude was in direct contrast with the members of the finance committee.

During the three days, which ended last night, while the tariff bill was being considered, but one vote was taken, and that but a few minutes before adjournment. This was on a proposition to instruct the finance committee to put iron ore on the dutiable list, without fixing any rate whatever, and this was lost by a vote of 19 to 17.

Senator Pugh stated that he would not be bound by the action of the caucus and reserved the right to support his motion in the senate. Several senators at once declared that it would be useless to take any more votes, because if senators did not intend to abide by the action of the caucus, it put an end to the power of the caucus.

Soon after this, Senator Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee, moved that the caucus adjourn to meet at the call of the chairman, with the understanding that the finance committee should continue its work on the bill and report it as soon as possible.

All Will Be Heard.

Senator Brice said last night that every Democratic senator between now and the time when the bill is reported will be accorded a hearing by members of the finance committee.

While members of the finance committee are generally reticent, what they and their friends say indicate that they feel that the caucus has resulted in a vindication of the bill which they have prepared, and instead of being instructed by the caucus they are free to present such a bill as they think is best suited to the principles of the party and the necessities of the revenue.

Opinion seems to be divided as to whether the committee will now make any changes. The impression is that some changes of a minor nature will be made, as well as some concessions granted, where the Democrats have been apparently unjust, and where the changes will not necessitate other changes in the bill.

Gorman's Argument.

Senator Gorman made the principal speech of the afternoon. It was moderate and conciliatory in tone, containing a great deal about the necessity of party harmony. He did not want the Democrats to go before the country divided on this issue, which had been one of the great campaign issues of the party. He wanted the industries of the country protected so as not to put American labor on a par with that of Europe.

Coal, iron ore, and all manufactured products, he thought, should have some pretection, so that the party would be sure of holding what it has gained in the north. He was opposed to an extension of the ad valorem system, and believed that better results would be obtained by specific duties.

The bill, as it now stood, discriminated in favor of New England industries against those of the middle states. He and those who represented these states felt that some changes should be made and concessions granted to the men whose Democracy could not be questioned.

Senator Ransom of North Carolina spoke at some length and urged party harmony.

Senator Jones of the sub-committee spoke in an explanatory manner of the bill, giving many details of the measure. He thought it would be very poor policy to change the work of the committee radically, and said that if once begun there would be no end to it.

Senators Morgan and Pugh spoke for iron ore, and Senator Berry spoke in support of the bill as framed.

The vote on iron ore practically put an end to the caucus, which adjourned at 4:45. Efforts will be made to get the bill into the senate early next week.

The Republicans look upon the result of the caucus as one of distinct advantage to them and possible disaster to the bill. It is thought that the strength which the opponents of the measure have shown indicates that the bill will either be radically amended in the senate or that it may be postponed to the first Monday in December.

A HIGH ROLLER.

Young Furnald Has a Very Bad Record In Many Cities.

BOSTON, March 1.—Walter Guy Furnald, who is under arrest in San Francisco, is well remembered by some people at the Quincy House, where he worked in the summer of 1892. From them the following facts were learned:

Furnald is a native of Manchester, N. H. He is about 25 years old. His father, David O. Furnald, is a native of that city. About the first of May, 1891, young Furnald, who had been clerking in a hotel in Manchester, left that city, ostensibly to take a position in the Murray Hill hotel in New York, but before going he obtained permission of his father to draw a check of $500 on the New Hampshire Trust company, his father agreeing to furnish the money.

After he had left Manchester, however, his father learned that he had eloped with a married woman from that city, and was intending to go to Europe. His father then gave the New Hampshire Trust company orders not to honor the check, but it was too late. He had already passed the check at the Murray Hill hotel at New York and gone.

In the summer of 1892 he came to Boston and got a position, first as cashier and later as room clerk at the Quincy. There he met Mrs. Belle Mann, wife of the proprietor, who became greatly enamored with him, and in October the couple eloped and went to New York.

There the proprietor of the Murray Hill nabbed him for passing the worthless check for $500. He was arraigned Nov. 1 for the offense, but was released, his father appearing, telling the story, and settling the bill.

As soon as he was released on that offense he was arrested again for stealing $2500 worth of diamonds from Mrs. Katharine Post of Chicago. He had been on very intimate terms with her in Chicago before coming to Boston.

He is now under arrest at San Francisco, charged with robbery.

At the age of 24 he came to Liberty and went into the tannery business. He served in the executive council of Governor Bodwell and Governor Marble; was member of the senate in 1889 and 1891.

A CURIOUS MUDDLE.

The Czar of Russia and Other Notables Mixed Up In It.

INTRIGUES QUIETLY HATCHED UP

Through the Medium of Princess Marie d'Orleans.

PARIS, March 1.—A sensation has been caused by the appearance of an article in The Figaro, in which the Czar of Russia, Princess Marie d'Orleans, wife of Prince Waldemar of Denmark; Count de Beauchamp, a captain in the French army and military attache at Copenhagen; General Borius, secretary general and chief of the military household of President Carnot, and others, play conspicuous roles.

Some idea of the gravity of the revelations may be gathered from the fact that Premier Casimir Perier yesterday submitted to President Carnot, for his signature, a decree removing Count d'Aunay, ex-minister to Copenhagen, from the diplomatic service, owing to his connection with the affair. The revelations are associated with the Franco-Russian alliance, and appear to have been the result of intrigues, carried on behind the backs of the Dupuy ministry.

This is not the first time that the name of Princess Marie d'Orleans has been connected with court intrigues. The princess is said to be a remarkably clever and attractive lady; she is a daughter of the Duke of Chartres, was born Jan. 13, 1865, and was married to Prince Waldemar, who is a captain in the Danish navy, on Oct. 22, 1885. Some idea of the power of intrigue which the princess is said to possess may be gathered from the fact that ex-Minister Lourens does not scruple to describe her as the "conscious artificer" of Prince Bismarck's downfall.

"The Good Goddess."

The party sprouting up around Prince Henry of Chartres is said to consider the Princess Marie d'Orleans as its Bona Deaux (Good Goddess). The favor in which the princess stands with the czar is based both upon family relations and the pleasure he takes in her unconventional conversation and high spirits. The crown of Norway has been dangled before the eyes of the Princess Marie d'Orleans by French diplomats, and French men-of-war were at her beck and call.

Whenever the czar was at Freidensberg he was much in company with his sister-in-law. The czar frequently accompanied her through the woods. Being a thorough French woman and spontaneous in her impulses, she suggested that during the sojourn of Admiral Avellan and the Russian officers in Paris last autumn the czar should receive two French war vessels at Copenhagen, where he was then on a visit to the royal family.

The princess communicated these facts to the French minister at Copenhagen, and the czar, in due course of time, inspected the two French warships, which were sent to Copenhagen.

The chief incident mentioned in connection with the revelation is the alleged attempt to obtain, through the Princess Marie d'Orleans, an idea of the czar's real feeling on the Franco-Russian alliance.

A Quiet Deal.

With this object in view, Captain Beauchamp is said to have approached the princess, telling her of the information which was required by President Carnot.

The princess, according to the story, is said to have replied vaguely to the suggestions of Captain Beauchamp, who, subsequently, handed some written questions to the favorite of the czar, asking the princess to try and obtain answers to them.

The first of these questions was: "What does Russia expect of France in return for the friendship she is manifesting towards her?"

The second question was: "Do you think the czar considers himself pledged towards France, at any rate, so far as the defensive is concerned?"

At the request of the princess these questions were left with her for two days. Later Captain Beauchamp wrote to the princess, saying that a reply was awaited at the Elysee palace.

Cat Out of the Bag.

Then, it seems, it occurred to the princess that she could not allow the matter to proceed further without placing herself in a false position toward the French government, and consequently she sent for the French minister at Copenhagen, Count d'Aunay, and informed him that she felt bound not to leave the government in the dark in regard to what was going on.

M. J. D. Pasteur, who was then secretary of the French legation at Copenhagen, immediately communicated the facts to the French government, and, it appears, in accordance with instructions received, called again on the princess and persuaded her to hand him the questions.

The Dupuy cabinet a few days later came to grief, and when the present ministry was formed the French minister to Denmark, Count d'Aunay, went to Paris and delivered the document to Premier Casimir-Perier, with the result already told.

In conclusion, it may be mentioned that Captain Beauchamp has been recalled from Copenhagen and is told to take a year's leave of absence.

Count d'Aunay has been dismissed from the diplomatic service on suspicion that he was the author of the sensational publication in The Figaro. He has written to the papers denying the authorship and protesting against his dismissal without explanation, while the scandal has been the talk of diplomats for weeks. He declares that he will appeal to the council of state

Editorial Comment.

MALDEN IS to have an all-night street lighting service but it will cost considerable money—$25,000 per year. Nearly $1 per inhabitant of the city. The one o'clock service cost $20,000 per year.

IT IS as useless for Boston to try to be the largest city as it is for Quincy to try to pay Boston salaries to its city officials. "Greater Boston" would be a big city, but "Greater New York" will outstrip it. New York now comprises 38.85 square miles but at the next election the voters are to decide whether it shall be enlarged to 317.77 square miles. This will increase the population to about 3,000,000. Boston is too large now to be well governed. The government of small cities and towns are nearer the people and more responsible.

IT WAS GRAND.

The Concert by Johnson's Quintette Club Delighted a Large Audience.

The concert given in the Evangelical Congregational church, Wednesday evening, in aid of the organ fund of the Washington Street Congregational church at Quincy Point, was pronounced by all who attended as one of the best ever given in Quincy. The large auditorium was well filled long before eight, several hundred attending.

This was the first appearance in Quincy of the Herbert Johnson Quintette club, of Boston, and judging from the encores received by every number, the audience hope it will not be the last. The club was assisted by Mr. Joseph L. White, baritone, and Mr. Hoyt L. Conary, reciter.

The opening number on the programme was "The Old Oaken Bucket," beautifully rendered by a quartette, consisting of Miss Winnifred E. Hopkins, first soprano; Miss Nelle Chase Call, second soprano; Miss Kathleen M. Russell, first alto; Miss Agnes May, second alto. Miss Hopkins and Miss May are pupils of Mr. Johnson and both possess voices of much promise and brilliant future.

Following the quartette Mr. Conary gave a pathetic recitation entitled "The First Settler's Story" which was listened to with the closest attention, as were all of the selections given by him and in every instance he responded to encores.

The tenor solo "O Dolore" by Mr. Johnson was received with loud applause and of course he had to sing another.

Our popular number, "1900, or the Future Music" by the quintette, proved to be a medley, containing many bits of the popular airs of today and was received by the audience with much enthusiasm.

Mr. White's baritone solo, "Only Waiting," was finely rendered, and so well received that he cheerfully sang another selection.

The contralto solo by Miss May, entitled "Good Bye Sweet Day," was one of the gems of the evening. Miss May has a rich voice of much depth, and she handles it in a skilful manner, every note being distinctly heard all over the auditorium without any seeming exertion on her part.

Perhaps the favorite of all was the duet "Columbus' Vision" from 1492 by Mr. Johnson and Mr. White. The applause was so loud and prolonged that the audience were rewarded with a repetition.

Mr. Conary made a change in the last recitation on the programme, giving instead of "Gone with a Handsomer Man," two readings, "Ladder of Fame" and "Animacule."

The concert was brought to a close by the rendering of that beautiful song, "I'm a Pilgrim," arranged by Mr. Johnson and sung by a sextette, composed of the Quintette Club and Mr. White. It was finely rendered, and the audience lingered a few moments hoping another selection would be given. During the whole programme the audience and artists were in touch, the audience liberal in their expressions of pleasure and the artists generous in their responses and repetitions.

The flowers and plants were contributed by Mrs. A. B. Packard, and the stage decorations were arranged by Mr. W. H. Sampson. The ushers were Mr. Fred E. Drake, Mr. W. I. Dewson, Mr. Dexter E. Wadsworth, Mr. Walter M. Packard, Mr. Henry L. Souther, Mr. W. Henry Dean and Mr. H. P. Kittredge. The audience was one of the largest and most dressy that has been brought together at an entertainment of this kind in Quincy this winter.

Handy Birds to Have.

Pigeon Flying says, "Dr. W. G. He says: All of my homers are at present trained to my home five miles distant, and are very useful in carrying messages to Mrs. Kendall, as for instance, if friends are to return with me at evening for dinner, etc., I always have a few birds at hand for use, and at home, have electric arrangements which give notice of the bird's arrival."

The Young Peoples' Society.

"To meet Mr. Thompson," was what brought the large crowed to the Wollaston Unitarian church vestry, Wednesday evening. This was the title of a light society drama which was played by the members of the Younge Peoples' society, assisted by Mr. Nelson Smith, violinist; Miss Packard, soloists; and Miss Humbert, pianist.

The committee and those who assisted were: Miss Helen Foster, Miss Jameson, Miss Taylor, Miss Foster, Miss Fairbanks, Miss Howard and Miss Kingman.

Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

WEYMOUTH.

Hon. William Cushing of Weymouth announces himself as a candidate for the position of Postmaster. Postmaster George P. Lyon's term expires in April, and it was thought up to this time that Selectman John F. Dwyer would be appointed to the position. CRUELTY TO HORSE.

Constable Furnald and John Doherty Have a Set to—The Latter Arrested.

John Doherty employed by James Gordon of Hingham drove through this city Wednesday afternoon on a swill team Doherty was drunk and as he drove down Washington street he was beating his horse, who was on the run, with a walnut club.

He was seen by Officer Furnald who gave chase and overtook the man at Quincy Point. Officer Furnald told the man that he must stop beating the horse. Doherty, however, was bound to do as he pleased about the matter and Officer Furnald attempted to place him under arrest. He resisted and in the scrimmage that took place struck the officer, who in turn knocked him down and placed him under arrest. Doherty was arraigned in the district court this morning as will be seen by the court record in another column.

Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burrowes entertained a number of their many friends, from this city, Weymouth, Braintree and Nashua, N. H., at their residence on South street, Wednesday evening, the occasion being the 33d birthday anniversary of Mr. Burrowes, that always celebrates that day with a similar gathering.

After the usual exchange of greetings and congratulations, there was an impromptu musical entertainment in which Miss Lucier of Nashua, N. H., Miss Clarke of North Weymouth and Miss Burrowes were heard in pleasing vocal selections, and Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Garey, Mr. John Dee of Braintree, and Miss Lucier in instrumental music. Acting charades, and cards followed, and ices, cake and coffee were served during a lull in the festivities.

Another year in Mr. Burrowes life was well on its way when good night was said, and the guests took their departure with wishes of a happy future for their host and hostess.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

First Meeting of the Special Committee on the Unemployed.

BOSTON, March 1.—The petition of the unemployed for certain social and economic reforms came before the special committee to inquire into the subject of the present distress among the industrial classes.

The principal advocates of measures of relief were Morrison I. Swift and Frederick N. Casson. Mr. Swift said that the number of persons in this state who are at present in idleness is between 38,000 and 39,000. Since the census was taken industrial conditions have not improved, and there has been a steady increase in destitution. The state cannot allow this to go on, for it is undermining the state itself. If it is necessary to have schools it is necessary to have the people fed. Mr. Swift proceeded at great length upon the lines already followed in previous addresses.

Mr. Casson's remarks were brief and of an ethical character. He indorsed what Mr. Swift had said. Society as an organizer should care for its units, and it was upon this assumption that he based his argument. It is the duty of the state to provide the people with work; for it is the duty of the state to seek its own elevation and advancement.

By a vote of 12 to 25 the senate refused to reject the resolve for an amendment to the constitution providing for biennial elections.

The committee on fisheries and game, to which was referred an order to investigate the steamer Ocean Gem, for the purpose of ascertaining if the appropriation proposed was sufficient to make the steamer seaworthy, reported that in its opinion $600 will be sufficient to effect necessary repairs.

The committee on public service reported a bill that every member of the district police force shall hold office during good behavior, and until removed by the governor, after due hearing, for such cause as the governor may deem sufficient.

In the house, the bills to limit the sale of malt or fermented liquors to one-quarter of a barrel when sold by brewers, and to preventing the bottling of malt or fermented liquors on the premises of brewers, on which adverse reports were returned, were recommitted.

Committee reports: Reference to the next general court, a resolve for a monument on the site of the building of the first town meeting and first free public schools; a resolve requiring the bureau of statistics of labor to investigate the subject of municipal employment bureaus; also a resolve to provide for the publication of a course of studies for elementary schools; ought not to pass on a bill to authorize street railway corporations to dispose of their surplus electric power.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Retribution.

An editor sat in his easy chair,
With an uncut beard and frizzly hair;
There was nothing to do, nothing to write;
The copy had all gone in for the night;
His thoughts far away from subjects deep,
His head fell back, and he went to sleep.

He dreamed that he dropped far down in a well
Till he came to the gates that opened in hell,
And he knew from the noise and the terrible din
That thousands were suffering tortures therein.
As louder and louder their voices ascended,
He recognized many whom oft he'd befriended.

He knocked at the door of the devil's own home,
But the devil was out, his imps were alone.
"The rules are explicit," they went on to explain;
"No editor can ever pass in here again."
Then they bolted the door and took out the key,
While the editor peered through the bars to see.
The frightful sight which greeted his eyes
Was, of all that he saw, the greatest surprise.
The devil came home with a terrible shout:
"I don't want you here; come, now, get out!"
Then he opened the gate with secret springs,
While a thousand poor souls clung to his wings.

The editor stole into that dismal room
And heard each soul consigned to its doom;
Some were compelled forever to sit
In the fiery depths of the bottomless pit,
While others were doomed forever to gaze
Through redhot glass in the fiery blaze.

Then the devil said, with a terrible curse:
"I am sorry, my friends, I have nothing worse
For you who have come to the realms of shade
And left your subscription bills unpaid.
But I'll send you down to the sulphur sea,
Where through all the ages of eternity
The only thoughts which can enter your mind
Are of newspaper bills you left behind."

—Phil Dean.

His Reasons.

"People sometimes ask me why I spell my name with two n's," said Representative Hermann. "When I was a student in Maryland years ago, I got the idea into my head that I would follow the fashion and eliminate the extra letter. I started in by writing to my father, a respected and prominent physician in Baltimore, and signing it in the improved way, 'Your affectionate son, Binger Herman.' My father quickly detected the change, and back came a letter whose earnest reproaches I have never forgotten.

"He pointed out that the name stood for one of the greatest heroes of antiquity, Armenius, the Hermann of Tacitus, who stood like a bulwark against Roman lust of conquest, and to whose leadership the ancient Germans owed the preservation of their nationality, their language and their freedom. He said that name was given me by those who alone had the authority to confer it, and with their consent the name should never be altered, even in respect to a letter. The rebuke I received so impressed me that I concluded if the name was good enough for my father it would be good enough for me."—Washington Post.

PROBLEM UNSOLVED.

Gladstone's Plans Are Still the Subject of Much Comment.

THE QUESTION OF HOME RULE

Would Not Be Dropped Even If He Did Retire.

LONDON, March 1.—The Daily News in a leading article says: "Yesterday's cabinet council may perhaps clear the air of the rumors which are now distracting the public ear. It is quite certain that Mr. Gladstone has not resigned, and it is equally certain that if he did retire the home rule question would not be dropped.

In another article The News says that Mr. Gladstone has taken no step in the direction of resigning, and, as bearing on the improbability of an early dissolution of parliament, it notes that a cabinet minister, who is not a resident of London, has just rented a house for the coming season.

The Standard says: If Mr. Gladstone's resignation is not tendered within a few days it will probably be deferred until the queen's return from Florence. It is recognized that a reconstruction of the government on the eve of a new association would cause great inconvenience, especially to budgetary business.

The Times in a leading article says it is improbable that Mr. Gladstone's interview with the queen had any direct bearing upon the crisis in the cabinet. "We do not pretend," The Times says, "to be in the secret of the ministers, but we feel justified in assuming that Mr. Gladstone has postponed his resignation, on which, there is little doubt, he decided a few days ago. Viewing the possibility of a section of the Radicals opposing Lord Rosebery as premier, it is not unlikely that a stopgap will follow Mr. Gladstone's retirement."

Rejected by the Peers.

LONDON, March 1.—The house of lords, by a vote of 60 to 55, refused to accept the house of commons' rejection of Lord Salisbury's amendment to the parish councils bill. On the other hand, the peers offered a compromise amendment.

May Pass Today.

It would probably have passed last evening if the house had not preferred to adjourn early and finish the matter up today. When the house adjourned at 4 o'clock it was the general expectation that before it adjourned today the bill will be sent to the senate.

BRAZIL'S ELECTION.

Moraes Will Probably Be the Successor of President Peixoto.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 1.—For the moment interest in the warfare between the insurgents and the government forces has almost disappeared, and people are concentrating their attention upon the presidential election, which is taking place today.

The Republican candidates are Prudente Moraes of Sao Paulo for president and Manoel V. Pereira of Bahia for vice president. A section of the Republican party has nominated Baes Carvalho of Para for vice president.

The election of Moraes is nearly certain, as there is no organized opposition to him. Alfonso Penna of Minas-Geraes was nominated, but he declined to run.

The amendment was defeated by a vote of 20 to 26.

Rockwell and then turned the revolver on himself and ended his own existence instantly. The tragedy occurred in the Hotel Eiffel, where McNabb and the woman had registered as E. J. McNabb and wife.

Widow Sues For $5000.

CHICAGO, March 1.—R. W. Patterson, one of the oldest and best known Presbyterian clergymen of Chicago, died yesterday. He had been an ordained minister for over 50 years.

THE INSOMNIA RECORD.

An Indiana Farmer Sets the Mark High and Puzzles the Physicians.

Since the case of George Woodruff, the Rossville (Ind.) farmer, has been made public through newspaper accounts of his strange affliction numerous inquiries are being received from medical men in all parts of the country. Mr. Woodruff is a substantial farmer, well known in his and adjoining counties.

Some two months ago upon retiring as usual at night he found himself unable to sleep. Woo it as he would, sleep would not come. The next night he was also unable to sleep, but felt no worse for his wakefulness. For two months he has gone with less than an hour's sleep. On the third night a physician was called, but even under the influence of opiates Woodruff refused to close his eyes. The only thing which conquered his ailment was a quart of whisky, taken in rapid doses, and that only produced a half hour's sleep. Then his attending physician gave up the job, confessing his inability to fathom the mysterious ailment. He had heard of people sleeping indefinitely, but here was a case of a man who couldn't sleep at all, and who was apparently none the worse off because of it. Several other medical men took a hand at Woodruff, but each was in turn baffled.

Woodruff complains only of a slight distress in his stomach, but his appetite is unimpaired, and he attends to his duties as he did previous to breaking the record as a man who defied ordinary rules of nature and to whom it was all the same whether it was night or day. About three years ago he had a similar attack, but it lasted only a week.

Reports of his strange disease became current several days ago, but they were discredited. To satisfy all doubters Woodruff has made a statement of the truth of the reports. His physician and family declare that he has slept less than an hour in two months, and that all his faculties are unimpaired. His physician will make extensive comments on the case for several medical journals.—St. Louis Republic

GREATEST IN THE WORLD.

Kiralfy's Projected London Amusement Park Will Cost a Million.

Imre Kiralfy is at the head of a company of English capitalists which proposes to take a long lease of Earl's court, in the west end of London, and build one of the greatest amusement parks in the world. The plan for the enterprise is outlined by Charles B. Atwood, the Chicago architect who designed the Art building and other structures of the fair. He has just returned from London, where he has been assisting Mr. Kiralfy. It is proposed to produce a replica of the Court of Honor as it appeared at the World's fair. The reproduction is to be exact and on a scale of one-third. The lagoon, the MacMonnies and electrical fountains, the peristyle and the facades of all the buildings bounding the court will appear.

Arrangments will be made to reproduce all the grand electric light effects on fete nights. Other features of the amusement park will be a Ferris wheel, 50 feet larger in diameter than the one at Jackson park; a theater capable of seating 10,000 people, in which will be produced "America," and a large hippodrome, such as are conducted in Paris. Over $1,000,000 will be expended in the work of construction. —Chicago Journal.

TAKE PART OF THE TIPS.

Grievance of the Paris Waiters Which Is Considered Just Grounds For a Strike.

There is much dissatisfaction among Parisian waiters, and a general strike among them has been spoken of. It is estimated by their trade society that there are 40,000 of them out of work, and the men contend that the masters take advantage of this to cut down their earnings. Practically, fixed wages are unknown. The men pay so much to the masters in proportion to the business they do. Thus in great cafes on the boulevards they have to pay at the cash desk the full selling price of whatever they serve plus 5 per cent. In some cases, it is said, the rate has been increased of late to 6½ and even 7½ per cent. Of course this percentage represents a portion of their gratuities, which they have to give up.

In Paris the general rule is for customers to give 'tips" at the rate of a halfpenny for every 10 pence expended. This is at the rate of 5 per cent, which would show a loss to the waiter of 2½ per cent on the larger percentage. In practice, however, the tips are higher, as no one gives less than a penny, however small the purchase, and some customers, of course, give more than the recognized minimum.—London News.

Horrible Abuse of Children.

A horrible disclosure has been made in Biskipitz, Austria, by the arrest of a gang of men who for some time have been engaged in crippling children for the begging trade. Several unfortunate children were found in the house with their legs and arms broken and bound in positions of deformity. One little girl had both eyes gouged out. Instruments which had been used in producing physical deformities were discovered in the cellar. After the children, who had been stolen, were sufficiently deformed they were sold to other persons for begging purposes.—Vienna Letter.

An Aged American In Italy.

David Dudley Field, who is enjoying his tour in Italy with all the enthusiasm of a young traveler, celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday in Rome. He was entertained at luncheon by Mr. Terry, the veteran American artist. Mr. Potter, the American minister, and his wife and several others of his countrymen congratulated the hale, hearty old man. Mr. Field is now in Florence and will remain six weeks more in Italy.—Rome Letter.

WAR ON THE LORDS.

Vigorous Attack by Gladstone In the House of Commons.

THE QUESTION OF RESIGNATION

Leads to a Premature Protest From Radicals.

LONDON, March 2.—Mr. Gladstone made his appearance in the house of commons at 3:30 yesterday afternoon. He was received with prolonged and enthusiastic cheers, which were repeated with even more enthusiasm as he rose to speak on the parish councils bill. He was in excellent voice and showed no signs of physical weakness.

The government, he said, was of the opinion that the time for passing the parish councils bill back and forth between the two houses had ended, and had determined upon a decisive course. Refusal to adopt the amendments of the house of lords means the loss of the bill.

The other day the government was obliged to lose a bill because the house of lords had entirely destroyed the principle of it. In the case of the parish councils bill, however, the principle of extension of the local government remained, therefore the government was willing to withdraw its opposition to the amendments of the house of lords. It was perfectly obvious, he said, that a collision between the two houses could not continue.

The End Not Yet.

The government in accepting the lords' amendments did not intend to end the controversy by any means. It was a matter to be submitted to the arbitration of the nation. The government intended to take the parish councils bill as it came from the house of lords in order to save it from the wreck of the session, but he desired to make it clear that the real issue involved the right of the house of lords to interfere with the work of the house of commons.

Mr. Balfour, who was cheered as he rose, said that the speech just made by Mr. Gladstone amounted to a declaration of war upon the house of lords. He did not fear the premier's covert threats. If the government would appeal to the country, the Conservatives would welcome the attempt to make public opinion of the house of lords the issue.

Several minor amendments made to the bill by the house of lords were accepted without debate, and the house then adjourned till Monday.

The speech of Mr. Gladstone is variously interpreted. in some quarters it is supposed to herald a speedy dissolution. In others it is thought that it discounts the idea that the queen will favor the choice of a peer as his successor.

The queen will hold a council of the ministers at Windsor castle on Saturday. The business to be discussed will be connected with the prorogation of parliament.

Protest of Radicals.

A deputation of extreme Radicals, headed by Mr. Labouchere, waited upon the Liberal whip, Mr. Majoribanks, and protested against the idea that Lord Rosebery should be elected to succeed Mr. Gladstone, saying that if the premier was not chosen from among the members of the house of commons they would leave the Liberal party. Mr. Majoribanks promised to submit the views of the deputation in the proper quarters.

The deputation expressed to Mr. Majoribanks their high regard for the character, talents and services of Lord Rosebery and the other peers who had been mentioned for the premiership. Their attitude, it was stated, was based upon political and not personal grounds.

Some of the members of the delegation incidentally mentioned Sir William Harcourt as a man who commanded their confidence, but that they had no desire to hamper the choice of a premier, or to advocate the claims of any particular statesman.

The visit of the Radical deputation to Mr. Majoribanks caused a great deal of curiosity among the members in the lobbies in the house of commons. Many Radicals regarded the action of the Labouchere deputation as premature and declined to take part in it.

Samuel Storey, M. P., in an interview, said that he intended to give a dinner to the leading Radicals so that the matter of the successor to Mr. Gladstone could be discussed, but the question, he said, had assumed a stage which demanded greater urgency.

Mr. Labouchere, on the contrary, professed to have no special information in the matter.

"Gladstone's Last Speech."

The Times says: We have reason to believe that Mr. Gladstone has made his last speech in parliament, as premier, and that he is determined to resign before the new session opens. Our information is to the effect that he announced his decision to a few persons before he went to Biarritz, and that he never swerved from that decision. At the audience on Wednesday, he informed the queen of his intentions. He will take the necessary official steps in the next few days. The close of a great career cannot be contemplated save with sadness and regret, the least of all by those who cannot command consolation of faith in its beneficence and unqualified admiration of its achievements. Friends and opponents are united, and this crisis by a common sentiment of respectful sympathy that overleaps all differences and antagonisms.

The Daily News, describing the scene in the house of commons during Mr. Gladstone's speech, says: When Mr. Gladstone struck the keynote of his speech a stirring scene occurred. Some of the members sprang to their feet, many of them waved hats, while all along the ministerial ranks there ran a thunderous cheer. He says: "My duty terminates with calling the attention of the house to the fact that in considering these amendments we were considering the inseparable party question, enormously large, which will become profoundly acute and which must at an early date receive a settlement from the highest authority."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: It is curious to notice that in what was probably Mr. Gladstone's last of many thousand speeches in the house of commons, his sentence was for open war against the British constitution, and that in what was his last of many thousand divisions, he found the whole Tory party in the same lobby with himself. So the wheel has come to a full circle, but how he will be missed!

RIVAL LABOR UNIONS

Engage In a Bitter Contest Over Boston Garment Workers.

BOSTON, March 2. — The smouldering fire of rivalry and hostility between the American Federation of Labor and the Knights of Labor in this city has broken out anew and threatens to involve these two great labor organizations in a protracted struggle that will extend over the entire country.

This time the Knights seem to be the aggressors. By a bit of stratagem they have spoiled a settlement between the largest Federation union in the city and its most powerful adversary, just at a time when a settlement would have saved the union from what now threatens to be dissolution.

About six months ago the United Garment Workers' union of the American Federation of Labor, composed of 1800 garment workers, placed a boycott on the products of the shops of the clothing manufacturers of this city. The grievance was that the manufacturers, acting as the Clothing Manufacturers' association, refused to accede to the union's demand that all goods should be marked by the union label.

Both sides had been anxious for a settlement, and concessions were made when, it is alleged, the Knights of Labor stepped in and succeeded in inducing the manufacturers, by various arguments, to break off relations with the Federation union.

The Federation people denounce the action of the Knights as an unwarranted interference and a gross outrage. They say that there are not more than 60 members of the only garment workers' assembly in the city, while they have a membership of more than 1800. The purpose of the Knights is, they claim, to break up their union and to force the clothing operators into the Knights of Labor.

The officials of the Knights of Labor say that the boycott was unwarranted from the first, and that it has been the means of bringing hundreds of men and women to the verge of starvation and to pauperism. While they do not admit that they propose to break up the union, they say that the workers in the craft will never be well off until they are Knights.

The affair has created much excitement in labor circles, and is bound to precipitate another of the bitter struggles that have so badly disorganized the ranks of organized labor here.

SIXTY YEARS' SENTENCE

Has Been Changed to a Fine of Six Thousand In Cold Cash.

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 2.—The state supreme court met yesterday and rendered a decision in the case of the state vs. John O'Neil of Rutland. The court denied O'Neil's petition for an arrest of judgment and sentenced him to a fine of $6160 and two months in the house of correction.

This is the most unique case ever before the Vermont courts and has been on trial for 12 years in one form or another.

O'Neil, a liquor dealer in Whitehall, N. Y., sent liquor to Rutland in jugs. He was arrested in 1882, convicted before Justice Bailey in Rutland for 457 offences, and sentenced by Bailey to 28,836 days, or over 79 years, in the house of correction.

Defendant appealed to the county court, when he pleaded guilty of 307 offences, reducing the penalty to about 60 years.

He appealed to the supreme court on the ground of excessive and unusual punishment, but the decision of the lower court was affirmed.

The case was then taken to the United States supreme court on the plea that the Vermont prohibitory law was unconstitutional. That court decided that it had no jurisdiction.

As a last resort it was taken back to the state supreme court on a motion to arrest judgment.

An Inhuman Pair.

BOSTON, March 2.—Frank Baudet and Ida Darling, his paramour, living at 14 Davis street, were arrested last night for an assault and battery on Madeline Baudet's 9-year-old daughter on Feb. 26. It is stated that the woman struck the girl several severe blows with a strap on the naked body, after which the father picked up the child and dashed its head on the floor, inflicting such injuries that she has been unconscious ever since. The girl is suffering from a fractured skull.

University Gets $400,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—The estate of the late J. C. Wilmerding, liquor merchant, is valued at $2,000,000. The greater portion is bequeathed to relatives and friends and provision is made for founding a school of industrial arts in connection with the State University of California, to cost $400,000.

BLAND'S BILL PASSES

Its Friends Managed to Muster Up a Majority of Thirty-Seven.

A CAMPAIGN OF FILIBUSTERING

Contemplated by Republicans Against the New Tariff.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The long struggle in the house over the Bland bill for the coinage of the silver seigniorage and the silver bullion in the treasury was ended by the passage of the bill by a vote of 167 to 130, a majority in favor of the bill of 37.

The special order to bring the bill to a vote was adopted by a bare quorum immediately after the house convened. This broke the opposition of the filibusterers and they were powerless to do anything further to place an obstacle in the way of the bill.

The bill as passed was in the nature of a substitute for the original text of the measure. The changes do not affect the material features of the bill. An analysis of the vote by which it passed shows that 138 Democrats, 21 Republicans and 8 Populists (total 167) voted for it, and 80 Republicans and 50 Democrats (total 130) voted against it.

The Tariff.

The Democratic members of the senate committee on finance were closeted in the committee room during the greater part of yesterday, and announced that they had made satisfactory progress in shaping the details of the bill.

A large part of the time was consumed in the listening to representations from senators dissatisfied with the Wilson bill and with the action of the tariff sub-committee prior to the caucus. Senator Hill discussed New York's interests for more than an hour, and asked for many changes looking to increased protection.

The Republicans are preparing to oppose what they call the undue haste of the majority of the committee, and will insist upon the consideration of the bill in full committee, paragraph by paragraph. Should they be voted down in this and the bill be reported to the senate over their protests, it is said the Republicans will at once begin a campaign of filibustering, the plans and details of which are alleged to have been agreed upon for some weeks.

Senator Voorhees said yesterday that the bill which the committee would report would, in the main, be satisfactory to the entire Democratic party in the senate, and would receive its united support, and he hoped it would be passed within the next 30 days.

Sugar.

Senator Voorhees was asked if there would be any discrimination in favor of refined sugar in the tariff bill. He replied that there would not be if he could prevent it. This fact, coupled with what is known as to the views of Jones, Vest and Mills on the sugar question, renders it pretty certain that the sugar trust will get a black eye.

Senator Hoar did not interpose his objection to Voorhees' resolution to allow Mills to take Senator Vance's place on the finance committee during the latter's absence with the expectation of defeating it, but simply to show to the Democratic side that the Republicans do not approve of such action.

Senator Hoar's course in the matter caused so much feeling on the part of Mills that he told Voorhees that he would not serve. Voorhees immediately withdrew the resolution.

A Peculiar Accident.

SING SING, March 2.—The through train of the American express was wrecked on the Hudson River railroad here. There were no passenger coaches. Two engines became detached, and in trying to bring them together the wreck occurred. One engine fell into the river. Engineer Donahue went with it, but was taken out unharmed.

Dozen Persons Reported Drowned.

CINCINNATI, March 2.—A special from Wabash, Ind., says that a rumor comes from Bloomingburg, Ind., that a lady schoolteacher near Bloomingburg was crossing the ice on the Tippecanoe river, with a dozen of her pupils, when the ice broke, and nearly all, if not every one, were drowned. The rumor is not confirmed.

Militia on Hand.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 2.—With six seriously wounded and one dead as the result of the riot at the Eagle mines, there has been great excitement but no further bloodshed. Further trouble is threatened and three companies remain on the scene. Martial law will be declared if necessary.

Tragic Sequel to an Elopement.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 2.—Coachman Herman Ludbeg eloped with the daughter of his employer, Dr. Tefft, in July last. Ludbeg last night made his appearance here, and after trying to murder Dr. Tafft, blew his own brains out at the door of Dr. Tafft's residence.

White Must Pay For an Insult.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., March 2.—Zech White was arraigned before Judge Chapman yesterday for sentence for hanging Secretary of Agriculture Morton in effigy. The judge imposed a fine of $200 and costs. A motion for a new trial was overruled.

Steward Rice Is Dead.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 2.—Steward George A. Rice died at his home here last night of paralysis, aged 68. He had been on Fall River boats for 45 years. He was a great public favorite and was well known all over the country.

BETWEEN THE Boynton system and Meigs' system, Quincy will favor the former as it has plans for an extension to this city, while the latter goes to Milton.

CONGRESSMAN EVERETT, McEttrick, Stevens and O'Neil voted with the Massachusetts Republican members against the seigniorage bill, but all were in the minority as the bill passed the House, 168 to 129.

THE WHITEHALL, N. Y., liquor dealer who sent liquor in jugs to Rutland, Vt., for sale, has escaped the sentence of 79 years, which has been reduced to two months and a fine of $6,160. The fine is probably a small part of the cost, as the case has been on trial in one form or another in different courts for twelve years. Great must be the profits of liquor selling to run these risks.

Several of the granite men report that business is picking up and that they are receiving quiet a number of new orders but the reason more help is not being put on is the lack of stock which the cold weather has prevented quarrying.

Prof. R. H. Mohr, the most refined and artistic character artist on the stage, has consented to give one of his inimitable performances on next Thursday evening at the Wollaston Unitarian church, in aid of the church choir.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Phillips were given a surprise Wednesday evening at their residence on Union street by about 30 of their Weymouth friends, the occasion being the 26th anniversary of their marriage. The evening was passed in a pleasant manner with games, etc.

The monthly meeting of the Epworth league of Wollaston was held in the vestry of the Methodist Episcopal church on Thursday evening. Reports were given by each of the chairmen of the six different departments under which the work of the league is carried on, and plans for future work were also discussed. The past month has been a successful one for the league.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor gave an informal sociable at the Wollaston Congregational church vestry on Thursday evening. At the conclusion of the social entertainment a brief business meeting was held at which the various committees made their reports. Ice cream and cake followed the business program.

The Ladies' Social Union of the West Quincy M. E., church will serve a "C. C. Supper" in the vestry of the church on Wednesday evening, March 7th, at six o'clock. Bill of fare: City Comforts, Cereal Compounds, Cordial Cheer, Creature, Cheer, Crystal Clear, Cucumbers Cured, Churned Cream, Cuisine Compounds by Competent Cooks, and Country Cousins Comforts. THE BAL MASQUE.

The Sons of Veterans Annual a Grand Success.

THOSE PRESENT IN COSTUME.

The Patriot Girl, Charley's Aunt, Yum-Yum and Others There.

The third annual bal masque of Francis L. Souther, camp 27, S. of V., was held Thursday evening at Hancock hall, and was by far the most successful in point of numbers that the camp has ever held.

Entrance to the hall was had by the lower door and it was fun to watch the gay masqueraders as they skipped across the floor enveloped as they were in wraps intended to keep the make up of their costume hidden from the piercing eyes of the spectators.

They came singly, in pairs and in groups, so that by 8 o'clock when the entertainment commenced the centre of the floor presented a pretty picture. There were clowns, Mexican gentlemen, soldier boys, monks and Indians, flower girls, summer girls, winter girls, little bo peep, two little girls in blue, daisy bell, goddess of liberty, girls in blue, girls in red, girls in yellow and girls in costumes that comprised all the colors of the rainbow, a pretty little milk maid and an ugly looking butcher. Some of the most noticeable costumes were

The Patriot Girl.

This lady had a costume made up of PATRIOT headings on the front of which the pictures of its editors, Mrs. Green and Mr. Prescott were plainly discernable. The young gentleman who impersonated "Charley's Aunt" was perfect and caused consideradle merriment. The little Yum Yum and the butterfly girl also attracted considerable attention.

The entertainment opened with a selection entitled "Col. Mitchell's March," by the Sons' of Veteran Drum, Fife and Bugle Corps, under the direction of Mr. Charles Paine, which made its first appearance in public on this occasion. Their selections were well rendered and left no doubt in the mind of the hearers but what they will be a credit to the organization. The other numbers on the programme were given by Mr. J. J. Leggett, reader; Mr. Bert Steed, tenor soloist and Prof. Charles Barron who gave a selection on the banjo and harmonica at one time. Prof. Barron is one of West Quincy's young men and has a brilliant future before him, upon the numerous amusement platforms of the State.

At 9 o'clock the grand march took place in which about 50 couples took part, being led by Capt. and Mrs. Holmes. The march was a very pretty affair and caused much merriment to the spectators, as they tried to find out the features behind the many colored masks.

After unmasking, the participants gathered in a group in front of the stage, when a photographer who was present took a flash light picture of the group.

Dancing was then in order until 2 o'clock this morning. Refreshments were served during a brief intermission.

CHURCH SOCIAL.

The Ladies Tell How They Worked to Earn a Dollar for the Society.

The Ladies' Society of the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church held a very pleasant and interesting social at the church on Wednesday evening.

The exercises took the form of an experience meeting. For a few weeks past the members of the society have been busily engaged in earning at least one dollar each for the society. It was expected that every one attempting this would secure the amount by some method different from her ordinary way of procuring money. The meeting was held for the purpose of bringing in the money earned, and also of telling the method of earning it. Each one was asked to give her experience in the form of an original poem.

At the appointed time the ladies assembled in the vestry and headed by the pastor and the president of the society, Mrs. Emerson, marched to seats on the platform. One stanza of "Blest be the tie that binds" was sung, and a brief prayer offered by the pastor. Mrs. Emerson then called the roll of members, beginning with the pastor's wife. At her request her husband responded for herself and the other members of the family. The other ladies of the society responded as their names were called, relating their experience, most of them in poetic form, and a few giving their productions a musical rendering. The experience meeting closed with a spirited and enthusiastic poem by the president in which she related her own experience.

Several gentleman, not to be outdone by their wives and lady friends, also contributed to the result, one good friend aiding the ladies to the amount of five dollars. At the close of the experience meeting, numbered tickets consisting of blue and white ribbon were issued, entitling the holder to refreshments. The gentlemen were decked with blue ribbon and the ladies with white, and each was expected to find a partner having a corresponding number before partaking of the cake and cocoa.

The social was a very enjoyable one, and the cash results will net the treasury of the society at least fifty dollars.

A Large Flight of Stone Stairs.

Messrs. John Cavanagh & Son are loading on a special car at the works of the O. T. Rogers Granite Company, the middle flight of steps in the entrance to the Huntington Mausoleum at Woodlawn, New York City. This stone is so wide that it would not go through the bridges on the N. Y., N. H., & H. R. railroad, unless loaded at an angle of forty-five degrees with top of car.

The three flights of steps in this entrance are the largest ever cut in this country in solid pieces, weighing in the rough seventy-five tons each, and from twenty-five to thirty tons each when finished. They are well worth a visit to the quarry to see.

The Best Food For Children?

is worthy every parent's study; not only what they can eat, but what gives the most nourishment. No children are better, and most are worse, for eating lard-cooked food. If, however, their food is prepared with the health-vital new vegetable shortening, COTTOLENE instead of lard, they can eat freely of the best food without danger to the digestive organs. You can easily verify this by a fair trial of Cottolene. Sold by 3 and 5 lb. pails by all grocers.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

Henry H. Faxon Writes an Open Letter.

THE PATH OF DUTY DIFFICULT.

Sympathy Must be Regulated by Good Judgment.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The most perplexing problem receiving public attention at this time is how to deal with the unemployed. Many of those who are now making the greatest clamor for assistance can be recognized as the men who, in prosperous seasons, spend much of their earnings in the saloons, where anarchists, so-called socialists, certain labor reformers and all the other political devils assemble to denounce and malign every man who seeks to gain an honest living and does not countenance their un-American ideas. The families of such agitators would have suffered untold privations but for the liberality of the much-abused capitalists who have made good use of their opportunities, and saved their money instead of squandering it in dram-shops and like resorts.

It is disagreeable and discouraging to the charitably inclined people of this community to extend aid to the wife and children of a family in the winter months when it is well known that the husband and father, had he been industrious and sober when labor was in demand, could have provided for those dependent upon him and have done his part toward remedying the present situation. Another deplorable fact which may be mentioned in this connection, is that at the last municipal election in Quincy there were 1060 men who voted to license the sale of intoxicating liquor, and this, too, after a period of twelve years in which the absence of the saloon had resulted in innumerable blessings to all the people. I believe if the truth of the matter could be ascertained, it would be found that nine out of ten of those who are making the most noise about labor are those who would again entail the curse of the open dram-shop in our midst.

No man in this city has been more liberal with the wage-earners than I have, and more ready to bestow charity to the deserving, but the path of duty is indeed difficult of discernment when the question is considered of aiding a family whose sufferings have been caused by a dissolute father. I have known of many cases where the food, and even the raiment donated, have been taken from the home and pawned for strong drink. Men who lay in a stock of quarters and half barrels of ale every few weeks and then solicit charity, deserve censure rather than substantial help. There are many well-disposed philanthropic persons whose indiscriminate distribution of alms produces incalculable harm. Sympathy must be regulated by good judgment or love's labor will be lost.

Again, there are strong and reasonable objections to the proposition that has been advanced compelling cities, at the expense of their tax-payers, to create unnecessary work for those whose ambition does not extend beyond the needs of today. There are men who, as heads of families, by honest toil and economy have gained a trifling fee in a home, would thus be compelled to contribute for the support of those who have shirked their duties.

There are many among the unemployed who are too indolent to work and their chief aim is to serve as obstructionists to all endeavors in the direction of honorable enterprises, and just so long as such a condition of affairs exists, uncertainty will hinder and demoralize all kinds of business. The tendency of labor reformers is to "kill the goose that lays the golden egg." For years this class have complained that the wealthy citizens were not taxed nearly as much as they should be, and many are the instances in which I have known those who contributed their poll taxes grudgingly for the needs of the city or town, finding fault because the Adamses were not more heavily taxed. Our honored townsman, Charles Francis Adams, has, I trust, sought a more genial clime where he will be free from such petty jealousies. I desire to remind those who have always endeavored to retard the welfare of our city, that one of its lasting blessings would not have been enjoyed but for the generosity of Mr. Charles Francis Adams in giving to us the beautiful park where the children of the same men who have maligned him can wander at their will.

The city can better afford to lose as citizens a thousand of those who have clamored for an increase in the taxes of the large property holders than to part with one of that ancient and honored family. Charles Francis Adams is a great loss to this municipality and, although I did not always agree with him, I wish that hundreds of such men would settle here to assist in directing the city's business. If the working-men had sacrificed as much proportionately as Mr. Adams has for the interests of Quincy, the present condition of affairs would not have been realized, but in its stead there would be an abounding prosperity among all classes. I wish to clearly state that toward those afflicted by these times, who have manfully played their part, I feel the keenest sympathy and will always join with others in any wise plan to help them, but it is the law of nature that their recovery must be largely their own work. BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Supreme Court Judges' Reply to the Questions on Woman Suffrage.

BOSTON, March 2.—The justices of the supreme court have sent an answer to the questions propounded by the general court relative to the constitutionality of giving municipal suffrage to women. A negative answer is returned in each case. The questions were:

First—Is it constitutional in an act granting to women the right to vote in town and city elections to provide that such act shall take effect throughout the commonwealth upon its acceptance by a majority vote of the voters of the whole commonwealth?

Second—Is it constitutional that such act take effect where accepted?

Third—Is it constitutional that such act take effect upon its acceptance by a majority of all voters, including women specially authorized to vote on this one question alone?

Justices Holmes, Barker and Knowlton dissent.

AT THE WICKET.

On Monday evening John Adams Council, R. A., of Wollaston, entertained Paul Revere Council of Beachmont. Brockton Council was expected, but owing to the condition of the weather failed to appear. After the regular order of business, the members gathered around the well laden tables and partook of a good old South Shore clam chowder, provided by the veteran, Al. Williams. Bro. Walker of Paul Revere Council, who is also a member of the Webber Quartette, rendered some excellent selections both vocal and instrumental. A pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the very fine rendering of some of the old darkey songs by Mr. Chas. J. Anderson, one of the thirty-nine survivors of the crew of the old Frigate Kearsarge; he was steward at the time of the famous engagement with the Alabama. This completed the most enjoyable evening in the history of the Council. And it was unanimously considered that the stay-at-homes were decidely "not in it."

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

ADVANCES IN SCIENCE.

The Natural Function of Digestion at Last Perfectly Imitated.

We cannot go beyond a certain point in imitation of nature's handiwork. We have never been able to give life to artificial eyes, limbs, etc.

We can imitate processes—when we understand them. Till a short time ago scientists thought that the stomach digested all our food. Under this erroneous impression pepsin was always prescribed for indigestion.

Now we know positively that the stomach digests only albumenous foods (meat, eggs, cheese, etc.), and that pepsin only attacks albumens.

Scientists discovered the ferments and the process by which starch (our most important food) is digested, and Paskola was the result of their discoveries.

To aid a weak digestion starch food must be cooked and digested before it enters the mouth. The best way of doing this is embodied in Paskola.

The free vegetable ferments in Paskola aid in the digestion of other foods and relieve all symptoms of indigestion almost immediately.

Paskola is not a medicine but simply a pure natural starch food naturally pre-digested. It permanently cures where medicine gives only temporary relief.

What it will do for dyspeptics, anæmics, consumptives and all people suffering from thinness, mal-nutrition and wasting diseases, is explained fully in a 16-page pamphlet, which will be sent free on request.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Who Would Not Go?

Could we but know
The land that ends our dark, uncertain travel,
Where lie those happier hills and meadows low—
Ah, if beyond the spirit's inmost cavil,
Aught of that country could we surely know,
Who would not go?

Might we but hear
The hovering angels' high imagined chorus,
Or catch betimes, with wakeful eyes and clear,
One radiant vista of the realm before us,
With one rapt moment given to see and hear—
Ah, who would fear?

Were we quite sure
To find the peerless friend who left us lonely,
Or there, by some celestial stream as pure,
To gaze in eyes that here were lovelit only—
This weary mortal coil, were we quite sure,
Who would endure?

—E. C. Stedman.

Illiterate Statistics.

A few men were discussing the progress of education in this country.

"You're doing a good deal of talking here," said one, "but I'll bet any man in this crowd a new hat that here in London there are at least 50,000 persons who can't speak a word of English."

The crowd was staggered at first, but recovered in a moment, and hat bets were made. Then it was suggested that some one should go after the statistics.

"Before you do that," said the man very coolly, "I want to bet £1 apiece all round that there are twice that number that can't read and write."

Again the crowd felt the pressure of a bluff, but it rallied soon, and every man who had a sovereign put it up. The newspaper man stood to win eight hats and £6. The man to get the statistics was about to start.

"Hold on," said the man with the iron nerve. "I can tell you now who the first 50,000 are."

"Tell us," was the unanimous command.

"Babies under one year," was the reply, "and under four years for the other 100,000."—London Tit-Bits.

Measuring Brain Work.

An apparatus for measuring brain effort has been made by J. L. Balbi, who suggests that the arrangement might be made to point out the proper studies for children, or those which can be pursued with the least work and most profit, says an English paper. In the center of some heat conducting material he places a thermo-electric pile, which is connected by flexible wire to a sensitive galvanometer. The slightest rise in temperature, due to rush of blood in the head, is indicated by the galvanometer, the effect, of course, increasing with the intensity of the mental work. —Pittsburg Dispatch.

HONEST ELECTIONS.

De Moraes Is the Choice of the Voters of Brazil.

A LAWYER OF HIGH PRINCIPLES.

Change of Administration May End the Long War.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 2.—The elections took place yesterday and passed off quietly. They were conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, neither soldiers nor police being present at the polls. Trouble had been expected, but none occurred.

Official returns have not yet been received, but it is certain that Senhor Prudente de Moraes has been elected president and Senhor Victorino vice president.

The elections were suspended in Para, Desterro and Rio Grande do Sul, owing to the fact that the places are held by the insurgents.

Senhor Moraes will assume the presidential office on Nov. 15. It is hoped that the result of the elections will bring the war to an end.

Respected by All.

Prudente de Moraes, who it is thought has been elected to succeed Peixoto as president, is a lawyer and about 50 years of age. He was known even during the empire as an ardent Republican. He is wealthy and lives on his large coffee plantation at Campenas, in the state of Sao Paulo. He is now president of the senate.

He is conceded by every one to be a man of high principles. He was a member of the first congress of the republic, and it is claimed by his friends that he would have been elected president in the place of Fonseca had the vote been a fair one. He did not advocate the abolition of slavery, because, being very conservative, he did not consider the time ripe for such legislation.

Heavy Storm at Queenstown.

QUEENSTOWN, March 2.—From 10 o'clock Wednesday evening till yesterday morning a storm raged here with the greatest violence. Many houses were unroofed, trees were uprooted and great damage is reported. Boats were several hours late on account of the terrific winds and waves.

British Diplomat Not Recalled.

PARIS, March 2.—The Cocarde story in regard to the demand for the recall of the British ambassador is denied upon authority.

A Highly Sensational Story.

TACOMA, March 2.—It is claimed that smugglers have been actively at work for some time and they have imported thousands of dollars' worth of opium and landed hundreds of coolies. A local paper states that the smugglers, when hard pressed by custom officers, have thrown their live slaves into the Sound, putting chains and balls on them to ensure them going to the bottom.

Sisters and the Public Schools.

PITTSBURG, March 2.—The introduction of the sisters of charity into public schools is meeting with opposition from the Junior Order of American Mechanics. Counsel will inquire into the constitutional right of the nuns to wear the garb of their religious order while teaching in the public schools.

A Brutal Murder.

BRADFORD, Pa., March 2.—Dan Macauley, a well-known character of Ridgeway, was murdered by H. C. Taylor, a lumber dealer. A quarrel ensued after a demand made by Macauley for payment for some work, and Taylor beat and kicked him until he was dead.

A Memphis Tragedy

MEMPHIS, March 2.—J. W. Deming, who had alienated Bettie Wrench's affection from her husband and then deserted her, was shot by her on the street last night and killed. Before he died he shot and seriously wounded Mrs. Wrench.

Death of Ex-Governor Downey.

A HORRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Robbers Murder Mother and Child and Are Themselves Killed.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 2.—Mrs. Moore Baker and her 6-months-old babe were murdered in their home at Franklin Park. The murderers were William Thompson and Henry Baker, both colored, 18 and 20 years old. They effected an entrance to the Baker homestead about midnight. In a front room slept Mr. Baker, his wife and their 6-months-old child. Mrs. Baker heard footsteps on the stairs, and when the door opened and she saw Thompson's face she screamed.

Thompson carried an ax in his hand. He rushed at Mrs. Baker, who had sprung from her bed, and sent the sharp blade deep into her skull. Thompson then jumped for the bed. The ax again descended, this time into the body of the baby, and it, too, was killed instantly.

Mr. Baker was awakened and he sprang for Thompson. Baker closed on the fiend, and a terrible struggle ensued for the possession of the axe. The sharp ax cut the hands and bodies of both men, and blood flowed from a dozen wounds. Finally, Baker secured possession of the weapon and buried the ax in the murderer's brain. Thompson dropped like a log.

The other colored man, Henry Baker, turned and fled too soon for Baker to reach him with the ax. The white man, seizing a shotgun, rushed after the fleeing murderer and caught him in the rear yard. Both charges blazed from the barrels of the shotgun and the colored man fell mortally wounded. He lingered a few hours, when he, too, died. Mrs. Baker, her child and Thompson were killed within five minutes.

Moore Baker is seriously but not dangerously injured. There was $150 in his house and it is believed the negroes knew of this.

IN A ZEBRA SUIT.

Boss McKane Has Begun His Long Sentence at Sing Sing.

SING SING, March 2.—John Y. McKane arrived at Sing Sing depot at 3:12 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was at once taken to the prison, where he is to serve six years for his political crime in the last election.

After being put through the usual questions as to age, religion, etc., and giving his valuables to a friend to take home, McKane was placed in the barber's chair, and his mustache and imperial that have formed so distinctive a part of his personal appearance were quickly shaven off. His head was not shaved. He was then given a bath. McKane was next handed a convict's suit of stripes, which he put on himself.

This rough suit consisted of a brown flannel shirt and a white and black striped coat, vest and trousers. No cell was assigned him. He will, for the present, be in what are known as the idle ranks.

McKane went through all this ordeal with firmness, and showed no signs of depression.

WAS BADLY BRUISED.

Body of a Murdered Man Accidentally Discovered In a Brook.

GEORGETOWN, Mass., March 2.—At a late hour last night the body of an unknown man, about 60 years old, was found in a brook close by the home of Joseph Yeaton, at this place, under circumstances which point to a cold-blooded murder.

When the man's body was drawn out of the water it was discovered that his feet were tied together with a stout rope. A large rock had been placed under his coat, ostensibly for the purpose of sinking the body, and his hands were tied behind his back.

A number of marks on the head and body showed that considerable violence had been used. The body, which was not badly decomposed, weighed about 175 pounds.

The discovery was made by the man's elbow appearing above the water. The police are working on the case, but the man has not been identified.

An Unsafe Structure.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 2.—There is no truth in the story that Gardiner's island lighthouse has been destroyed. The only damage done by the storm was the destruction of the water tank. The lighthouse, however, has for several years been considered unsafe, and repeated complaints have been made about it.

Home Reading Clubs.

Half hour reading clubs are just now enjoying a widespread success, and unlike most fads of the day possess a praiseworthy object—the encouragement of a wider knowledge of good and useful literature. They may be composed of any number of persons, with a small initiation fee—25 cents. Each one must devote a half hour daily during the club year to the reading of any work in either English or a foreign language, with the exception of newspapers, periodicals or novels other than those by standard authors. A fine of a cent is imposed for every half hour missed, and these fines, with the initiation fees, are devoted to the purchase of two prizes, to be awarded by a committee of judges, for the best selection of books read and the least number of half hours lost.—Home Magazine.

Victoria an Her Grandchildren.

The accident reported recently to one of the little Princesses Battenberg undoubtedly had a pronounced effect upon the English queen, who is devotedly attached to all the Battenberg children. Only a few weeks ago one of the London weeklies told how, a day or two before, the queen was busily looking over and signing important state papers, using, as usual, one of her favorite big quill pens. The youngsters were in the room, bothering as only youngsters can, and the ruler on whose dominion the sun never sets tried in vain to get them to be off. At last they proposed a bargain. "Gran," they said, "give us each one of those lovely, feathery pens."

The price was considered low for the service, and it was quickly paid, and peace and Victoria reigned together for the rest of the morning.

Grandma Wray's Say.

Grandma Wray of Fairbury, Ills., who has just celebrated her one hundred and second birthday, says: "I hear people talking of hard times now. Why, if those who are indulging in that kind of talk should see half as hard times as I have experienced in my life the insane asylums would have to be established in every county and would be enlarged to hold the crowd. Many times have I taken the ax and gone with my brothers and sisters to the hills of Virginia and cut wood. We girls used to cut just as much wood as the boys. We would swing the axes with every bit as much vim as they. Where is there a girl of 15 years nowadays that will do work like that? Many times have I taken a hired man's place in the field with a hoe, cultivating tobacco, corn and even cotton."

A Tea and Shopping Club.

Woman came into a further square foot of her rights the other day in London when another club devoted exclusively to feminine membership was opened. It is the Tea and Shopping club, in Regent street, inaugurated with the object of providing for the comfort and convenience of ladies visiting the west end for shopping or other purposes. Gentlemen may be admitted as guests, but will not be allowed to penetrate farther than the first floor. It will be an Adamless Eden above stairs. Two of the rules are that the conduct of a servant shall in no instance be made a subject of personal reprimand by any member, and that "no member shall give money or gratuity to any servant of the club." There is a committee of ladies, with a mere man secretary.—London Sun.

A Vassar Enthusiast.

The General Alumnæ association of Vassar college covered itself with glory at its recent annual meeting in electing Mrs. J. Welles Champney to the office of president. Mrs. Champney is the personification of gracious womanliness, and she added much to the charm of the dinner which followed the election by her graceful tact. Mrs. Champney's reputation as a writer is too well known for comment. She is an enthusiastic supporter of Vassar, and one of the most entertaining of the ninety odd magazine stories that have come from her pen is "The Vassar Girls." When a student at the college, she was one of the party who went with Professor Maria Mitchell to a western city to make observations of a total eclipse of the sun.—New York Letter.

Shall Women Preach?

The Sunday School Times of Philadelphia, having been taken to task for standing on un-Scriptural ground regarding women speaking in church, reaffirms its belief that "it is certainly a fair inference from the spirit and teaching of Paul that he would rejoice in the efficient service and sound words of Christian women today in the Sunday school and in the missionary field."

That women as well as men are divinely called to the ministry, and that no one has a right to exclude them is the conclusion reached by Rev. J. S. Hughes in an article in The Christian Evangelist and by Rev. J. M. Jay in a sermon reported in The Brethren Evangelist.

Her Words Take Hold.

Esther G. Frame and N. F. Frame for more than 20 years have been preaching with wonderful effect in a score of states, east, west and south. While they are ministers of the Friends' church, they work among all Protestant denominations and are everywhere welcomed and beloved. They are now conducting a series of meetings in Des Moines. Mrs. Frame was born in Wayne county, Ind., that Quaker community which has fostered many progressive men and women. —Des Moines Letter.

A Child's Suggestion.

Mrs. Theodore Sutro's well known charity is directed more particularly toward children, although she is actively interested in charitable enterprises of all kinds. She is vice president of the New York Kindergarten and Potted Plant association, of which Mrs. George J. Gould is president, and which owes its origin to the thoughtful action of a child who once brought a 5 cent piece to Mrs. Sutro and asked her to buy some flowers with it for poor children.—New York Herald.

REFUSED A PEERAGE.

It Is Now Definitely Known That Gladstone Will Resign.

WANTS NO SEAT IN THE CABINET

But Will Gladly Co-operate With His Successors.

LONDON, March 3.—Mr. Gladstone arrived at Windsor castle yesterday afternoon, and was in consultation with the queen before dinner. During this consultation, the premier intimated to the queen his intention to resign, but the formal tender of his resignation is deferred until after the meeting of the privy council.

In his consultation with the queen Mr. Gladstone explained to her majesty the reasons for his retirement. The queen expressed her regrets that the country should lose his services, and offered him a peerage. This Mr. Gladstone declined to accept. Mr. Gladstone recommended that Lord Rosebery be appointed as his successor.

A telegram was sent later to Lord Rosebery, who is at Epsom, summoning him to Windsor this evening. It is understood that he will accept the premiership, but that there will be only two other changes in the cabinet.

Henry Labouchere, in an interview, was asked what he would do if Lord Rosebery became prime minister. In reply, Mr. Labouchere said that if the Conservatives moved want of confidence in such a government he would not support the government, and he thought that at least 20 members were in full sympathy with his view of the situation, and that if they were driven to extremes they would even overturn a government headed by a peer.

It is learned upon good authority that Mr. Gladstone will not accept any position in the soon-to-be-organized administration. The general feeling in the Liberal clubs is that if Mr. Gladstone was to remain a member of the cabinet it would hamper his successors, and take away their freedom of action, though it is understood that he has intimated his desire to give his successors counsel and co-operation whenever required.

The Thunderer's Comment.

The Times, in an editorial, says: Mr. Gladstone's retirement in some sense is a turning point in the history of the kingdom.

The house of commons will be profoundly changed by his withdrawal from public life. He has been the watchful guardian of the dignity and authority of the house, even when the habit of autocratic power has rendered his imperious temper difficult to control. The house will miss his restraining influence, which is more than ever required now, when manners are degenerating and respect for constituted authorities is regarded by many as a mark of weakness.

In a further article The Times says: It is unusual for the queen to seek advice from a retiring premier, but, if out of compliment for Mr. Gladstone's long and faithful service, she should ask his opinion, it is likely that he would name Lord Rosebery as the man best able to hold the cabinet and party together. The queen's choice appears to lie between Sir William Harcourt, the Earl of Kimberly and Lord Rosebery. All the ministers, with the possible exception of Sir William Harcourt, are willing to serve under Lord Rosebery. Most of them feel strongly that this will be the best arrangement.

It is not certain that they would accept Sir William Harcourt as premier. The Earl of Kimberly might conciliate everybody. A feeling exists that if the premier is to be a peer, which is undesirable, but probably inevitable, the choice should fall upon Lord Rosebery. If it does, he will not hold the foreign portfolio, and John Morley will leave the Irish office for a more dignified position.

Was Not Necessary.

The Daily News, in an editorial, says: We deeply and earnestly deplore the fact that Mr. Gladstone has felt it incumbent upon himself to retire. Nobody is able to see from his outward demeanor and his conduct of business any necessity for it. The Liberals would have preferred to retain him upon whatever terms that were dictated by a perfectly curable malady; but, of course, he must be his own judge. We see no ground for the statement that his resignation was sprung upon the party.

Elsewhere The News says that it is probable that any communication Mr. Gladstone has to make will be by the letter to the chairman of his election committee. We understand, The News says, that there is no reason whatever, why, in the course of a few months, Mr. Gladstone should not entirely recover his eyesight.

The Standard says: It is understood that Mr. Gladstone will retain his seat in parliament. It is regarded as certain that the Earl of Kimberly will have the foreign office, while Mr. John Morley will succeed him as secretary for India. The Parnellite members regard the retirement of Mr. Gladstone as a betrayal of the Irish cause, and are inclined to oppose any ministry of which Mr. Gladstone is not a member

VISITING BOSTON.

Mrs. Lease Gives Her Opinions on Questions of the Day.

BOSTON, March 3.—Mrs. Mary E. Lease of Kansas arrived in Boston yesterday afternoon from New York. She is to lecture in New England during the next three weeks. Mrs. Lease consented to an interview when requested by a reporter, who was on hand to meet her. She spoke readily upon all subjects broached, except when Masonry was suggested.

Speaking of the decision of the supreme court of Massachusetts against woman suffrage, Mrs. Lease thought it a gain for the cause in the east, especially when the numerical division of the bench, 4 against and 3 for, was considered.

"The adverse decision is not discouraging," said Mrs. Lease, "On the contrary, it shows that the question is awakening greater interest than ever before. As to the antipathy of women already entitled to vote for certain public officers, nothing is to be said. Universal suffrage is undeniably and forever right in principle, and is bound to prevail."

Mrs. Lease has given a great deal of attention to the problem presented by the army of unemployed. She says the distress is due solely to lack of money as a medium of exchange. "A cramped circulation is the disease, and demonetization of gold is the remedy."

"I don't care to say much about Masonry," replied Mrs. Lease to a query in that direction. "But if women are entitled to suffrage, why are they not entitled to all excellent things. No; I am not going to establish a woman's branch of the Masonic order, but, together with several prominent women in the land, I have already begun to form an order on lines similar, perhaps, but much broader. How would 'The Maids and Matrons of Accepted Masonry' sound?" she asked, as she indicated that the interview was at an end.

DECREES OF PEIXOTO

Which Indicate That He Has Not Yet Given Up the Fight.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 3.—On all sides here people are congratulating themselves that the election passed off quietly; but the action taken by President Peixoto would seem to denote that further trouble is brewing, and that the end of the wearisome revolution is not so near at hand as it was at first believed.

President Peixoto issued two important decrees yesterday. The first of these calls for an increase in the strength of the regular army, and will therefore impose additional burdens upon the people and increase the already heavy taxation to a great degree.

This increase of the strength of the regular army is said to be the first step in a movement to crush out the rebellion in this neighborhood and in the south, and should this object be attained, it may be said that the additional burden which the people will be called upon to bear will, after all, be a blessing in disguise.

The second decree issued by the president provides that persons accused of treason shall be tried by military law, which would seem to indicate that additional repressive measures are necessary. At the same time, it is announced that martial law will not be proclaimed so long as the situation remains as tranquil as it is now.

WITHOUT FLINCHING.

General Jubal Anderson Early Met Death Like a Warrior.

HIS LIFE BLIGHTED BY A JILT.

Story of His Battles In Behalf of the Lost Cause.

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 3.—United States Senator John W. Daniel, at 11 o'clock last night, in a sad voice, announced that his old commander, General Jubal A. Early, at whose bedside he has been a constant watcher for some days, had gone to his eternal reward. General Early died at 10:30. He passed away in the presence of his family and physician, his kindred and several intimate friends. He met death unflinchingly, with his hand resting quietly in Senator Daniel's.

General Early's Career.

The part luck plays in making or marring men's fortunes is illustrated in General Early's career. More than once during the civil war he came very near turning the scale at important crises in favor of his people, yet he emerged from the conflict under a cloud which remained to embitter the last 30 years of his life.

GENERAL JUBAL A. EARLY.

Early was a Virginian. He was born in Franklin county in 1816, graduated at West Point, served with the regulars in Florida, and with the Virginian volunteers in Mexico, and at the first Bull Run led a brigade. In his second battle, Williamsburg, Va., May 5, 1862, he was severely wounded, and did not resume his command until the battle of Cedar Mountain, Aug. 19, 1862. He fought at second Bull Run and Antietam, and had the good fortune to command the line on Marye's Hill which checked the Union advance at Fredericksburg in May, 1863.

At Gettysburg he commanded a division in Ewell's corps and led the same troops in the Wilderness campaign of 1864 up to the battle of Cold Harbor. After that battle he was sent to Lynchburg to oppose General David Hunter's attack upon that important position. After repulsing Hunter he planned an invasion of the border states. General Lee gave him full discretion in the matter, and with 12,000 men (according to Confederate historians) he crossed the Potomac at Shepherdstown the first week in July. Grant's army lay at that time in front of Petersburg, fully engaged in the effort to inclose the place with besieging lines.

Moved Quickly.

So rapid were Early's movements that the Washington authorities had no forewarning of the raid. Maryland was in a state of terror. The president called out the militia of the eastern states, and after considerable urging Grant sent the Sixth corps from Petersburg to Washington. On July 9 Early defeated a force composed of the garrison of Baltimore and a division of the Sixth corps, all under General Lew Wallace, at Monocacy Junction, Md., and immediately marched to the gates of Washington.

Meanwhile his cavalry detachments threatened Baltimore and destroyed the railways north of that city, but the delay caused by those operations was fatal to Early's plans. It was the 12th before he was ready to attack the Washington defenses, and then a reconnaissance showed him that they were garrisoned by veterans of the Army of the Potomac. He abandoned the movement and returned to the Shenandoah valley.

Sheridan soon confronted Early in the valley with troops from the army at Petersburg and defeated him in two battles, at Opequon and Fisher's Hill, Sept. 19 and 20. But on Oct. 19 Early surprised Sheridan's camps at Cedar Creek and came very near redeeming the valley from Union control. Sheridan saved his army by the memorable ride from Winchester and a stirring appeal to his troops.

Disappointed In Love.

At the opening of the spring campaign in 1865 General Custer defeated Early at Waynesboro, and Lee was compelled by public opinion to select another commander for the Confederates in the valley.

After the war General Early practiced law in Richmond and New Orleans, and was associated with Beauregard in managing the Louisiana lottery. He died a bachelor, having had his first romantic love affair spoiled by the fickleness of a northern girl whom he rescued from drowning at White Sulphur Springs during his cadet days.

The lovers were engaged, and the lieutenant was anticipating a happy termination to the romance when his hopes were blasted by the receipt of a newspaper containing the notice of the marriage of his charmer with a northern man. He put aside the uniform, with its hateful associations, and left the army until war's alarms summoned him to the battlefields of Mexico. After the Mexican war he returned to civil life.

In 1867 General Early published a memoir of his campaigns. He was for a time president of the Southern Historical society

AMATEUR DRAMATICS.

Last of the Entertainments of the First Church Social Club.

The members of the Criterion club of Boston are clever actors and gave a very pleasing dramatic entertainment at the chapel of the First church last evening. The advertised programme was changed because of illness of one of the actors, and in place of "Petticoat Perfidy" there was substituted the comedietta "Breaking the Ice" and a scene from "The Hunchback."

First on the programme was a domestic play in one act by Jerome K. Jerome, entitled "Barbara." The scene was in Barbara's lodgings in London, and the parts were admirably taken by Miss Ramsay, Miss Spinney, Miss Oliver and Mr. Caton. Particularly good was Miss Ramsay's Barbara. It exhibited true friendship to a remarkable degree and required a great sacrifice, but she was equal to the occasion.

In the comedy scene from "The Hunchback," Miss Ada L. Briggs as Helen, was a good schemer, and Mr. Walter H. Dugan acted well the backward lover.

Mr. Porter as Captain Selby and Capt. Jones, and Miss Derby as Miss Marton and Miss Smith, were the characters in "Breaking the Ice," and they gave an amusing flirtation, a genuine quarrel and final makeup, true to life.

Piano selections by Miss Fuller, both before and between the plays, added much to the programme.

Young Men's Christian Asso.

The session of the Congress Tuesday evening was a lively one.

The talk by Mr. Samuel Russell, of the Ruggles street church, last Sunday, was unusually interesting and bore good fruit.

The interest in the gymnasium work continues to grow. The business men's class numbers about fifteen. "Hand Ball" is the favorite game and is exceedingly fine exercise, and furnishes no end of amusement.

A good set of encyclopædias are much needed in the library. The young men frequently call for something of the kind, and very often at times when they cannot get into the public library. Who will make the association a present of a set?

Rally for workingmen Sunday afternoon at 3.30. Subject: "The Workingman and the Christ-life." Speakers, Mr. William Patterson and Mr. Peter W. Dackers. This will be the first of a series of similar meetings to be held this month. Several prominent speakers from out of town have been engaged.

Mr. George A. Litchfield, president of the Massachusetts Benefit association gave an informal talk on "Life insurance" in the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening He told how life insurance originated, explained the governing principles of risks and the various systems. The business of taking risks began in 1690.

Life insurance is a product of Christianity, the principle of "doing unto others as you would have others do unto you." It is simply the agreement of a large number of people to contribute a small amount each to aid those dependent upon one of their number.

Some of the important requirements of the State laws were explained, especially those covering the surplus and reserve funds, and restrictions of benefits to those having just claims. Mr. Litchfield said that it was a good thing for young men as soon as they commenced to earn money, to take life insurance, as it taught them to be systematic and exact in using their income, and to be economical in their expenditures. He would not advise young men to take life insurance simply for a money investment. He considered the co-operative banks the best institutions in which young men can invest their earnings.

At the close of the talk many questions were asked by the young men present, which drew out many interesting facts.

Instead of an entertainment next Thursday evening, Rev. C. W. Wilder of Wollaston, will give a talk on the subject, "How worlds are made."

BRAINTREE.

Town meeting Monday!

During the past week several cases of scarlet fever in the north part of the town have been reported.

Mr. Fred Adams, formerly a baggage master on the Old Colony railroad, has returned to town from an extended trip in the west.

J. Franklin Bates, who resolved at first to run as an Independent candidate has decided upon second thought, not to do so. This is creditable to Mr. Bates, for we do not believe in bolting the regular nomination.

Wednesday evening was the third ladies night inaugurated by Braintree Lodge, K of H., held in G. A. R. hall. A large number were in attendance. A very fine entertainment was given, mostly by out of town talent, and the occasion was a very enjoyable one.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid society connected with the Baptist church, was held in their rooms in the Town Hall on Thursday afternoon and evening. A good number were present. The programme was sewing for the afternoon and for the evening sallads, hot rolls, cold meats pies, cake, ice cream, etc. As usual a nice time was enjoyed by all.

Thursday morning Mrs. William Cameron of St. Johns, N. B., died of gangrene, at the residence of Mr. C. L. Plummer, on West street. Mrs. Cameron leaves a daughter in South Weymouth. The services will be held this afternoon at her late residence at 2 o'clock. Remains to be put into T. B. Vinton's receiving tomb and ultimately conveyed to St. Johns, N. B.

Wednesday night at a meeting of the Bachelor club of East Braintree, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President,—William Buckley.
Vice-President,—James J. O'Keefe.
Secretary,—Alverdo H. Mason.
Treasurer,—E. J. Thomas.
Executive Committee,—John P. Dugan.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First church held their annual meeting Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Will Morrill's. There was a large number present and the following officers were elected:

President,—Mrs. J. Shaw.
Vice Presidents,—Mrs. J. F. Hayward, Mrs. M. E. Gibbs, Mrs. T. W. Sampson.
Secretary and Treasurer,—Mrs. Arza B. Keith.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Hiram Kelley.

BRAINTREE CAUCUS

Nearly 500 Votes Cast for Candidates for Selectmen.

J. FRANKLIN BATES DROPPED.

W. W. Mayhew to Run with Messrs. Clark and Scollard.

Last night one of the largest caucus ever held in the town of Braintree for the purpose of nominating town officers, took place at the Town Hall. There must have been six hundred people present and not a woman among them.

Hon. F. A. Hobart, chairman of the town committee, called the meeting to order, and was afterwards unanimously chosen moderator, and Henry A. Monk, secretary.

The cause of excitement was over a contest for the nomination of candidates for selectmen from the north and east parts of the town. In the former case there were two and in the latter there were three candidates.

The Town Clerk, Samuel A. Bates, and Town Treasurer, Peter D. Holbrook, were nominated by acclamation, so also was Ansel O. Clark for selectman from the south part of the town.

The fight began when the nomination of a candidate from the north part of the town was reached. As we have said there were two candidates for the nomination; the present incumbent, J. Franklin Bates and Wallace W. Mayhew.

We ought to state here that the selectmen have hitherto acted as assessors, but on motion of E. E. Abercrombie, the assessors are to be a separate board for at least one year. This being understood, the nomination of a candidate for the north part of the town was proceeded with, by ballot and the use of the check list, but not before the following committee was appointed by the chair to sort and count the ballots: Daniel Potter, William L. Gage, George F. Hussey, Frank Morgan, Edwin F. Porter.

The following is the result of the ballot:

Whole number of ballots,	491
Necessary for choice,	246
Wallace W. Mayhew,	267
J. Franklin Bates,	222
Scattering,	2

Wallace W. Mayhew was therefore declared the nominee of the caucus.

The nomination of a candidate for the east part of the town was next in order. There were three candidates, the present incumbent, John V. Scollard, J. Murray Knight and Arthur L. Hobart. The result of the ballot was as follows:

Whole number of ballots,	476
Necessary to a choice,	239
John V. Scollard had	242
Arthur L. Hobart had	128
J. Murray Knight had	104
Scattering,	2

John V. Scollard was declared to be the nominee.

The following committee, consisting of Elmer E. Abercrombie, Douglas A. Brooks, Albert E. Avery, John Kelley, Brainard T. Dyer, Amasa S. Thayer, L. W. Morrison, reported the following candidates for nomination to other offices which report was accepted and adopted:

School Committee for 3 years,—Thomas A. Watson and S. C. Bridgham.

To fill a vacancy,—Carrie F. Loring.

Water Commissioner and Commissioner of sinking fund,—James T. Stevens for 3 years.

School Fund Committee, — Peter D. Holbrook.

Board of Assessors for one year,—Elisha Thayer, Charles A. Belcher, Andrew J. Bates.

Fence Viewers,—George H. Holbrook, William A. Kane, Albert R. Hobart.

Auditors,—Daniel Potter, L. W. Morrison, W. L. Gage.

Constables, — Horace Faxon, William Hill, Albert Hobart, Henry Dugan, Jr., James R. Qualey, Charles R. Damon, Frank E. Rudderham, Thomas Hollingshead, Benj J. Loring, Jr., John Kelley, Commercial street, Charles M. Loring, L. E. Baverly, F. Alton Oliver, Thomas Downey, Herbert A. Holbrook, Conrad Mischler.

Town Committee, — F. A. Hobart, Douglas A. Brooks, Will W. Mayhew, John Kelley, Albert E. Avery, L. W. Morrison.

Judge Asa French was nominated for moderator to preside at the annual meeting on Monday.

PAPA FLEUTELOT, MISER.

A French Millionaire Who Begged In the Streets and Died In Filth.

A miser of the story book type died about two weeks ago in Auxerre, France. Although he never had wife or children, he was known to all persons in the city as Papa Fleutelot. He had been a public figure for a generation and could be seen daily in storm or sunshine tottering in his rags through the streets to gather odd bits of coal and wood and cigar stumps. Papa Fleutelot died in his eighty-fifth year and was buried in the potter's field. The French police, who suspect everything, still suspected the old man's pretenses of poverty, despite the recent shifting of public opinion, and they searched the hut in which he had lived and died. Filth was ankle deep up stairs and knee deep in the cellar. The first search was rewarded only with the discovery of 400 bottles of Bordeaux, vintage of 1790. The second search, however, revealed a hole in the cellar wall, behind a pile of indescribable dirt. From this hole the police dragged a chest, and in the chest they found the treasure. From top to bottom it was stuffed full with mortgages, government bonds, shares in stock companies and title deeds. All showed the keenness of Papa Fleutelot in investing his savings, for without exception the securities were of the highest class. Their face value was 1,000,000 francs, but as many of the bonds and stocks are above par they can be sold for a much larger sum.

For more than 11 years the old man had neglected to clip his coupons. He had let them accumulate until they represented a market value of 140,000 francs.

Among the many pieces of real estate whose ownership was revealed by the contents of the chest is a large tract of land near Villeneuve-sur-Yonne. On this land there are 400 acres of fine forest and several buildings of the ancient indestructible make. It had been more than 40 years since anybody at Villeneuve knew who owned the estate. When Papa Fleutelot died in his hovel, but 20 centimes, or less than 5 cents, was his total cash capital. As was expected, the usual number of heirs have appeared since the old man's body was buried in the potter's field. They affect to believe that still more treasure is concealed in his hut, and they are taking it down piece by piece in the hope of enriching themselves.—Paris Exchange.

A LONG CHASE.

A Detective Followed a Man Seven Thousand Miles For Stealing $5.

Seven thousand miles for a prisoner was the record made by Postoffice Inspector G. H. Waterbury, and his story told in United States Marshal Haskell's office rivaled in interest the tales of some of the great French detectives. The national government never forgives a crime, no matter what the circumstances, and cold blooded justice is always demanded. In Haskell's private office was seated W. Y. Dressler, a young man belonging to one of the best and wealthiest families in Hanoverton, O. Last summer Dressler was traveling with T. R. Howard of Kansas City and George Hartson in New Mexico, and Howard confided to his friend that his mother was to send him a money order for $5. They were in Albuquerque at the time, and Dressler got the letter, opened it, forged Howard's name and stole the money.

The postoffice authorities were notified, and on Oct. 13 Dressler fled from Albuquerque with Waterbury, one of the shrewdest detectives in the secret service, on his trail.

"I chased him to Los Angeles," said Waterbury, "and there I lost him, but I got trace of him in Santiago, where he led a merry life. I reached San Francisco nearly as soon as he did, but he was away like a deer, and I entered Yuma just as he was leaving. From there I followed him to Tucson, but he dodged me, and I next found his tracks in El Paso, Tex. From there he jumped to Texarkana and then disappeared toward Ohio. I communicated with Marshal Haskell. He detailed a man, and together we journeyed to Dressler's home, arresting the young man in his father's house." Dressler will be taken to Denver for trial.—Cleveland Leader.

Curiosity of Easter Day This Year.

Easter day falls on Lady day this year for the first time in the history of the United States. The last time these two days fell together was in 1742, and they will not clash again until 1951. Lady day has somewhat lost its significance and importance of late years, and it has never been such a special day in this country as in some others where the leasing and renting system is more general.

It is still, however, the first quarter day of the year, and although for convenience rents and premiums are generally made payable on March 31 the law in some states still recognizes March 25 as quarter day. Easter has to fall exceptionally early to come into contact with Lady day, and the coincidence will cause inconvenience in countries where a legal holiday and a legal payday will be simultaneous.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Against the House of Lords.

The parliamentary committee of the trade unions congress, which is the cabinet of the British Liberal party, has been holding several secret sittings in London, making preliminary arrangements for the great demonstration in Hyde park against the house of lords. The announcement of the subject will be publicly made as soon as the peers have finally finished with the employers' liability bill, and the killing of that labor measure will be made the pretext for the promised display, the dimensions of which will probably exceed anything of the kind in recent years. The London trades council is prepared to march 250,000 men into the park, and there will be imposing delegations from the provinces.—London Cable.

H-O Hornby's Oatmeal

Personal.

Hon. William B. Rice of this city related an amusing incident in his life, at the Boot and Shoe Club dinner in Boston on Wednesday evening last. "It was after the war," he said, "and I with another country boy was trying to start a little business in Boston.

"We had $300 capital. I went over to New York to try and sell some goods, but without much success and remembering the loyal reception I had received in the City of Brotherly Love, while marching through with my regiment I journeyed over. With my bundle of shoes under my arm I began to canvass the various shops. I had not gone far before I found out I was being followed. Just as I came out of one store the individual tapped me on the shoulder "My young friend" he said, "have you got a license?"

"I confessed that I didn't have one with me just then. 'Well,' he said, 'you will have to come along with me,' and I did. We got into a liquor place, before a justice of the peace, and after we had talked the matter over they said they would let me out for $150. It staggered me, to say the least, with a memory of the only $300 we had in Boston. I told them I should like to see a friend first, and they assented. His advise was to go and see a lawyer. The first thing the lawyer did was to ask me to hand over $25, and then he advised me to settle for $300. I was disgusted. I made out the check and paid it."

Parish Meeting.

The annual parish meeting of the Universalist Society was held at the vestry on Thursday evening. The meeting was called to order by the parish clerk, and George H. Hobby was elected moderator. Reports of Treasurer, Collector, Parish Committee and Visiting Committee were read and accepted, and the following officers elected for the ensuing year:

Clerk, Warren S. Parker; Treasurer, J. W. Russell; Parish Committee, J. W. Russell, Arthur C. Merritt, R. G. Thompson; Trustees, William Parker, George W. Prescott and W. S. Parker; Auditors, R. G. Thompson and George W. Prescott. A visiting committee of ladies were also elected.

The meeting then adjourned to Friday evening, March 9th.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Judge Not.

Judge not! Thou canst not tell
Why he, thy brother, fell.
Wilt, too, thy flowers might,
Exposed unto the blight;
Thy singing birds quite dumb,
'Neath darkened skies, become.

Judge not! Thou dost not know
Why he has acted so
Be not so sure thy grain
Could long resist such rain;
Thy bark, thus tempest tossed,
Might not the bar have crossed.

Judge not! Thou canst not say
Just where the blame to lay.
From strings long snapped in twain
Comes out the sweet refrain;
From streamlets frozen deep
Not soon the waters leap.

Bid not from that poor heart
The one last hope depart;
But, judging, questioning not,
The past all, all forgot,
Let silence be the gem
Of mercy's diadem.

FALSE SYNTAX FOR ECONOMY.

The Only Consideration That Could Have Prevailed In Boston.

The telegraph operators were telling stories. The tall man, who has held a key all over the country, had the floor.

"You see a good many jokes in the papers," said he, "about the culture of Boston and the habit people living there have of using big words and correct grammar and all that. Most of you think that these jokes have no foundation in fact. Now, I know better. I was receiving clerk in the Western Union office there a good many years ago, and some of the messages handed in to me were corkers.

"One summer I had the cable window. One day two women dressed in black and greatly agitated came in and inquired the rate per word to London. I told them it was 28 cents. They consulted for a minute, and then one of them asked for a blank. I told them where the blanks were, and one of them wrote a message. The other took it and read it two or three times.

"Then she came over to the window and asked again how much it was a word to London. 'Twenty-eight cents,' I told her. She looked at the message dubiously. The other woman came up to her and said, 'Don't you like it?'

"'No,' she said, 'I don't like it. That form is improper. You say that Charles suicided this morning, when it should be said that Charles committed suicide this morning.'

"'But,' said the other, 'if we put it in that way we will save 28 cents.'

"The woman who objected turned this proposition over in her mind for a long time. Finally she said, 'I don't think that such syntax is excusable.'

"The other took the blank and read the message a few dozen times. 'We're poor,' she said decisively after studying it in all its phases, 'and we can't save 28 cents any easier.'

"This partially convinced the woman who objected. 'But what will our friends think?' she asked dubiously.

"'I suppose they will notice it, but we can't help that.' Then the two women retired to one corner and had a consultation. After talking earnestly for 10 minutes they wrote out another message. So help me, this is the way I got it: 'Charles suicided this morning. False syntax used because it is cheaper.'

"And they paid me 28 cents a word for it. All of which," continued the tall operator, "illustrates one of the curious ways in which a woman's mind works."—Buffalo Express.

The Hearing on the Unemployed—Fast Day Bill Postponed.

BOSTON, March 3.—At the continued hearing before the special committee on the unemployed, Morrison I. Swift said that he would not be contented with a commission on the unemployed unless it was entirely independent of the labor bureau. Edith Merrill wanted public schools for teaching housework, nursing, fine mending, cooking, etc. Edwin D. Mead favored a commission and a scientific examination of the subject. He believed in colonization, and said that Massachusetts should take the initiative. He declared that there was enough work on our roads to keep our unemployed busy for 10 years to come. He spoke in commendation of the system of public stations in Bavaria. Emily G. Balch also favored a commission. Josephine Rand favored Edward Bellamy's plan of state farms. There will be hearings on Monday afternoon and evening in the Representatives chamber, which was granted by a vote of 77 to 27.

OUTCOME DOUBTFUL.

Silver and the Tariff Worrying the Business World.

POOR DEMAND FOR FANCY GOODS.

The Best Feature Is the Decrease In Failures.

NEW YORK, March 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: With no more definite information than a week ago, regarding the outcome of the financial or revenue disputes, perhaps more people have come to the belief that the end will answer their wishes. Certainly rather more are taking limited risks in business, especially in stocks.

The fall of silver to below 60 cents here, and after a slight recovery its renewed weakness, have an unfavorable influence on some markets. The announcement that import duties are to be imposed by India, if confirmed, may increase the difficulty. The passage of the seigniorage bill by the house has not had time to produce much effect, but is not financially reassuring.

More works have resumed or increased hands or hours than have stopped or reduced, but numerous reductions in wages continue to lesson the purchasing power of those at work. The demand from distributors is almost exclusively for medium or low priced woolen and cotton goods; for $1.50, and not for $3 boots, and for shoes rather than boots. Some salesmen and traders find indications that stocks of the higher priced goods remaining on hand are much larger than usual, and bankers judge that much of the demand for commercial loans is virtually for renewals to carry such unsold stocks.

Print cloths are accumulating and several mills of importance have closed.

The Wool Market.

In all branches of the woolen manufacture the demand is yet far below the usual mark, but it is somewhat improved in worsted and dress goods, and leading mills have been taking wool quite largely.

Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston show a decrease of only 8 per cent for the week, which is the best for a long time, and there is more buying, but almost exclusively of medium or low priced goods.

Cotton receipts for the week are still slightly above last year's; the fall in silver and the closing of some mills hinder a rise in prices.

The decrease in domestic trade reported by clearings is 40.8 per cent for the week, and 25.6 outside New York, a little less than last week.

Imports of merchandise still show a decrease of 40 per cent, while exports of domestic products for three weeks are 5 per cent larger than last year.

The most encouraging feature of the week's record is the continued decrease in number and importance of failures.

Came From England.

LACONIA, N. H., March 3.—Dolly Beeley, an adventuress, had her identity established yesterday by a photograph received by City Marshal Scott of this city from Brantford, Ont.; also by a letter from Sheffield, Eng., which says she is the daughter of a respectable tradesman in that city. His daughter has caused him much trouble and expense.

Persia Worried by Silver.

LONDON, March 3.—A dispatch from Teheran says: The government has officially announced that the mint will no longer coin silver for the public. It also declares that the importation of silver is prohibited for the future, and that a month hence the customs authorities will treat as contraband all silver not ordered by the mint.

Victims of Wild Beasts.

DURAT, Mex., March 3.—A party of Americans left here 15 weeks ago on a hunting expedition in the Sierra Madre mountains. They became separated, and three were lost. Search resulted in the bodies of two of them being found close together in a ravine. They had been partly devoured by wild beasts.

Patterned After Harvard.

NEW HAVEN, March 3. — The vote to ratify or reject the new constitution of Yale's four athletic organizations was very light. The total vote was 511, Of these 496 were in favor of adopting the constitution and eligibility rules. The new rules as to eligibility are very similar to those adopted at Harvard.

A Terrible Accusation.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Isaac Cahn, 61 years old, a retired merchant, is charged by his two daughters, Rosa and Emma, aged 24 and 26 years, of having been for years guilty of brutally assaulting them because they refused to submit to inhuman proposals. Cahn was held in $1000 bail for examination.

Their Fate Is Sealed.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 3.—Pritchard, Bella, Balko and Nikuline, the entombed miners at Williamstown, are still buried in the tunnel, where the cave-in occurred. Ramlio was taken out alive, but died soon after. All hope of finding the four entombed men alive has been abandoned.

Lacked a Mother's Love.

CINCINNATI, March 3.—Mrs. Alice Ireland, married six weeks ago, committed suicide by shooting herself yesterday. She left letters saying she took her life because her mother has not treated her well from childhood. Both families are prominent in Cincinnati society.

Will Assert Their Rights.

PARIS, March 3.—A dispatch from Constantinople says that an American commission will proceed to Sivas immediately in order to settle the questions affecting the United States which have arisen recently owing to the Armenian disputes.

The Farce Ended.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 3.—Attorney General Lamar has nolle prossed the case against Charles Mitchell and also the cases against the Duval Athletic club members and others.

Four Miners Killed.

KANSAS CITY, March 3.—An explosion occurred in a coal mine at Brush Creek yesterday afternoon, by which four miners were killed and several injured.

Guilty of Murder.

PARIS, Me., March 3.—In the trial of Abner T. Thorne for the murder of Harrison A. Whitman the jury returned a verdict of guilty in the second degree.

A DECOY LANTERN

Set Out by Train Wreckers Failed to Accomplish Its Work.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 3.—Engineer McKinney of the Rock Island saved his company a heavy loss in treasure and also escaped with his life by an exhibition of nerve last night. Passenger train No. 18, eastbound, left the Union depot at 5:20 p. m. Three miles east of this city and about half a mile from the place where the Rock Island was robbed two months ago, is a deep cut. As the train glided into the cut, a red lantern flashed across the track, near the middle of the cut, and torpedoes exploded under the wheels.

McKinney looked a little beyond the lantern and saw several men with guns, and it flashed through his mind that they were robbers. His train was nearly to a standstill when he realized this fact, but he lost no time, and seizing the throttle, pulled it wide open. Then he and his fireman jumped down into the bottom of the cab, and not a minute too soon, for when the robbers saw them move they fired a volley into the engine and cab, but luckily hurt no one. The train dashed through amid a perfect shower of bullets, the bandits, wild with rage, firing into the coaches as they passed, and creating consternation among the passengers, who crawled under the seats and hid their valuables. When the train reached Stockbridge it was found over 100 bullets had hit it.

PLANS FAILED.

Two Trains Narrowly Escaped Being Wrecked at Augusta, Me.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 3.—A dastardly attempt at train wrecking was made here last night. The passenger train from Boston, which arrives here at 7.15, was bowling along at 35 miles an hour, and had reached a point half a mile below the city, at the state house siding, when the locomotive struck a pile of rocks and old iron, which had been heaped upon the track. This was scattered right and left, and almost at the same instant a big cedar sleeper, which laid across the rails, was struck. The cowcatcher caught it and sent it spinning one side of the track.

The train did not stop. On arriving here it was found that the axle of the forward ponies were scratched to the depth of an inch; the steam box and other parts of the engine were scratched; otherwise no damage was done.

Half an hour later a freight train from the west at that place struck the same sleeper, which had been returned to the track by the wreckers. The sleeper crowded under the pilot and against the ponies, and in this condition the train came to Augusta station, where the sleeper was removed by jacking up the engine.

Both trains narrowly escaped being wrecked, as there is a steep embankment running to the surface of the river at this place.

CONCORD'S SENSATION.

Law and Order League Inaugurates Big Liquor Raids.

CONCORD, N. H., March 3.—Agents of Law and Order league, accompanied by two deputy sheriffs, made a raid upon all the liquor selling establishments in town yesterday. For several days the league has had a number of spotters at work obtaining evidence of liquor selling. And yesterday considerable liquor was seized.

Great excitement has prevailed in the city since the raid was made. At 7 o'clock last evening one of the spotters was recognized by the crowd on Main street, and they commenced to jeer at him and abuse him, at first good naturedly, but soon the crowd began to get rough and the police were compelled to take the man to the station for safe keeping. All is quiet at present.

Yesterday afternoon a saloon keeper threw one of the new deputy sheriffs out of his place and another keeper knocked his door in the face of a deputy. The confiscated liquor, which is worth $3000, was taken to the city hall.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A general air of listlessness marked the demeanor of the congressmen who were in their seats when the house was called to order yesterday, and the calm after the storm was particularly noticeable. Consideration of the pension appropriation bill, however, brought out an exciting incident. Funk of Illinois shook his fist in the face of Meredith of Virginia, and the excitement was so intense that the sergeant-at-arms was called upon to restore order.

Courageous Officers.

STROUDSBERG, Pa., March 3. — About midnight a mob of 200 armed people attempted to break into the jail and lynch Richard Purcer, the murderer of Christian Ehler. Two policemen and others assisted the sheriff in defending the jail. After an hour's heroic effort they succeeded in driving back the maddened mob.

Queen Will Be Pensioned.

OMAHA, March 3.—W. F. Alexander, special commissioner of the provisional government at Honolulu, passed through Omaha yesterday, on his return from Washington. He said: "The provisional government has won the fight. It will give the queen a pension and retire her, providing she behaves herself."

Bottum Speaks His Mind.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Bottum, in his address in the Coughlin case, energetically attacked expert medical testimony, called Attorney W. S. Forrest a "monomaniac on the cause of death," and roundly scored the methods of the defense.

A Double Execution.

BATON ROUGE, La., March 3.—Dave Johnson and Mansfield Washington swung into eternity yesterday. Johnson died almost instantly. Washington quivered a few moments. The negroes murdered Professor Van Hofe on Oct. 30, and Mike Kane on Nov. 3.

Outsiders May Compete.

PLANS OF CONGRESS.

Nothing Very Exciting In the Program For This Week.

SUGAR A DISTURBING ELEMENT.

Senators Fail to Agree Upon the New Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—There will be a lull in the house for several weeks after the excitement that has existed there since the holidays.

It is the intention of the house managers to push the consideration of the appropriation bills to the exclusion of everything else during the coming week. Two days, probably three, will be taken to complete the consideration of the pension appropriation bill. After it is disposed of, the district of Columbia and consular and diplomatic bills will consume the balance of the week. When these are completed, the election cases will be taken up and then the house will return to the other appropriation bills.

The senate has made so little progress toward legislation during the past two or three weeks that the calendar has changed only in a small degree, and the special orders, made some time, except in the case of a few speeches, are still undisposed of.

The printing bill, the Russian thistle bill and the McGarrahan bill all hold their places where they can be called up in order, but they are subject to displacement if any question of more general importance should be presented, even though informally.

If the tariff bill should not be reported during the week, it is still likely to be referred to and speeches made upon it. It is the subject which is uppermost in the minds of all senators, and is liable to appear unexpectedly in some shape.

There will also be more speeches on the Hawaiian question. Senator Caffery has not yet made his speech on the subject, of which he gave notice some time since, and there are also other senators who probably will wish to be heard if opportunity offers.

For the rest, and if no other general subject should present itself, the senate may be expected to take up the calendar and dispose of as many of the minor bills as possible.

Finance Committee Delayed.

The Democratic members of the senate committee of finance find it necessary to take at least one more day to consider the tariff bill before presenting it to the full committee.

They had been very anxious to complete the bill Saturday, so as to be able to lay it before the full committee today, and they did not relax in this purpose until the last moment before completing their work when they found it necessary to give so much time to the senators who wanted to be heard on the various schedules, but they had comparatively little time for consultation.

Consequently they were unable to send the bill to the printers, but they promise to complete the bill in time to have it printed for presentation tomorrow. The committee have progressed so far, and have heard the dissatisfied senators so fully that they feel confident now of being able to carry out this program, although there is considerable detail work still to be done.

While some of the schedules of the bill have been agreed to for the time being by the committee, the work is not considered finally concluded upon any of them, and important changes are liable to be made up to the last moment before the meeting of the full committee. For this reason members of the committee decline absolutely to give out any of the rates fixed. They also refuse to confirm any figures published, and while they do not say that the rate of 40 cents a ton on iron ore and coal are erroneous, they assert that whatever figures they may have agreed to, even on these articles, are still subject to change, and that as it is with these articles so it is with the entire list.

Worried About Sugar.

The contest between the members of the committee and the discontented element has been very sharp. Senators Hill, Gorman, Brice, White, Caffery and Smith, and possibly two or three other senators, constitute a very compact organization, and they constitute an influence which the committee is finding it difficult to resist.

These senators have been in constant consultation. Still members of the committee do not believe that the opposition of the senators will go to the extent of opposing the bill by their votes.

Sugar is still, as it has been from the start, the most disturbing element with which the committee has been called upon to deal, and there is far greater trouble in fixing a rate satisfactory to the refiners than to the planters.

The Republican members of the committee have not changed their purpose of asking for an explanation in committee of the changes made, and they will insist upon explicit and comprehensive statements. Senator Morrill has reiterated his purpose to this end within the past day or two, and other Republicans members of the senate finance committee will sustain him in his position.

If the Democratic members comply, as it is supposed they will in a measure, it is probable that some time will be consumed, so that even though the bill be presented to the full committee tomorrow it cannot be definitely stated just when it will be reported to the senate. The Democratic members are pledged, however, to get it in at the earliest practicable moment.

BROTHERS DISAGREED.

Election of Officers Led to a Big Rumpus at a Society Meeting.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The eighth annual convention of the Independent Order of Brith Abraham, a fraternal and benefit association, opened yesterday. The morning session was wholly occupied with the reading of annual reports, showing the society in good condition.

The afternoon session was devoted to the election of officers for the ensuing year, and so intense was the bitterness developed that the convention almost broke up in a free fight. The trouble began after the election of Max Stern to the office of grand master. There were five candidates for the office of first grand master. Among them was Jonas Hecht, to whom the others objected. Hecht's withdrawal was demanded, but refused. Then all the nominees but Hecht withdrew their names. The name of Hecht was voted upon, and although most of the ballots were blank, his friends declared it an election. His opponents maintained it was no election.

Pandemonium reigned and the delegates kept yelling at the top of their voices. Chairs and tables were upset and combatants toppled over them and rolled together in each other's arms on the floor. Men ascended the platform and lifted up their voices, together with the chairman, in an effort to restore order, but for a long time it was to no purpose. Finally Grand Master Stern succeeded in quieting the delegates and declaring no election. Hecht then withdrew, and Emil Newman was chosen deputy grand master.

BAILEY IS DEAD.

Thousands Have Been Amused by His Funny Stories.

DANBURY, Conn., March 5.—James Montgomery Bailey, the famous Danbury News Man and originator of American domestic humor, died suddenly yesterday morning. He had been ailing two weeks from pneumonia and bronchitis, but his illness was not considered dangerous. The announcement of his death has cast a gloom over the city, as he was its most popular and beloved citizen. He leaves a wife. He was 53 years old.

Had Many Victims.

TORONTO, March 5.—W. G. Campbell of Oakland, Cal., has been in this city lately and many business men now mourn his departure. It is claimed that his swindling will reach many thousands. Campbell lived high and easily ingratiated himself with the swell society. He wooed a respectable young lady and the wedding was set, but his wife arrived unexpectedly from California and spoiled his plan.

Croker Was Wrathy.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 5.—Richard Croker was very wrathy when a reporter showed him dispatches stating that Congressman Dunphy arraigned him as the instigator, promoter, rewarder and upholder of fraudulent vote and electio crimes in New York. When asked for a statement in answer to Dunphy's charges, he said: "If Dunphy made these charges against me, I will have him arrested. I do not care to further discuss the matter until I have seen Dunphy's letter."

A Disease-Infected Ship.

BOSTON, March 5.—At anchor in midstream, just below the quarantine station, is the foreign steamer Venetian, flying the fatal yellow flag which denotes a contagious disease aboard. As she came to anchor Saturday night the quarantine officers rowed to her side and ascertained that several of her crew were suffering from smallpox. Late yesterday afternoon one death and several new victims were reported.

Was Short-Lived.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 5.—Eighty freight handlers employed on the Central Vermont road steamboat wharf here went on strike yesterday against a reduction in wages. They had been receiving 15 cents an hour week days and 25 cents on Sundays. An order was given to cut to 15 cents for Sunday work. The men were called back in an hour on a promise that the old rate would be maintained.

Had No Fire Apparatus.

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., March 5.—The Congregational church here, a brick structure, costing $35,000, the only church in town, was destroyed by fire last evening. The insurance is $18,000. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue in the chimney. Lack of any fire fighting apparatus made it impossible to save any part of the building.

A "Nobleman's" Troubles.

QUEBEC, March 5.—Viscount de Villenouve, a French nobleman, was arrested here at the request of the French government on a charge of extensive forgeries, alleged to have been committed in France in 1892. The viscount was remanded pending extradition proceedings.

Hundreds Saw the Funeral.

FRANKLIN PARK, Pa., March 5.—Final scenes in the Franklin Park tragedy were enacted when Mrs. Baker and her little girl Gertrude were laid at rest. Hundreds of villagers from the surrounding country gathered to witness the ceremonies and talk over the tragedy again.

To Marry a Diplomat.

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—The engagement is announced of Miss Eleanor Louise Elverson to Jules Patenotre, French ambassador to the United States. Miss Elverson is the only daughter of Publisher James Elverson.

Troubles Are Over.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—The U. S. S. Yorktown has entered port. The Yorktown has been on the Callao station for four months on account of threatened war between Peru and Ecuador. The release came on the adjustment of the south coast difficulties.

They Inhaled Gas.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 5.—Daniel McCormick, member of the Democratic state committee from Worcester, was found dead in bed with a woman at South Framingham yesterday. Both were asphyxiated.

Crack Chess Players Matched.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Steinitz and Lasker have signed articles for a match, 10 games up, for $2000 a side and the chess champion of the world. Play will begin on March 15.

LOSS OF THE VENUS.

Not a Man Aboard the Rebel Transport Was Saved.

SPLIT IN TWO LIKE CARDBOARD.

Explosion Probably Caused by Shots From Shore.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 5.—The reports of the loss of the rebel transport Venus has been confirmed. On Friday morning the armed rebel transports Jupiter, Marte and Venus, which were lying off Porto Madama, took up positions off Porto Madama and opened a bombardment against the government batteries. The guns in the batteries responded quickly, and quite a lively fire was exchanged.

Suddenly there was a terrific roar heard above the booming of the guns, and it was at once conjectured that an explosion had occurred. At first it was thought that disaster had befallen the transport Marte.

Immediately after the sound of the explosion was heard those along the shore saw a huge column of reddish brown smoke ascending and spreading out to wide dimensions as it arose. It was seen as the smoke cleared away that the explosion had occurred on the Venus. The vessel had been torn in halves, and almost immediately afterwards the stern half of the wreck went to the bottom. The bow half was on fire and in a few minutes the flames were raging furiously. This portion of the Venus floated for half an hour and then went down.

Not One Was Saved.

The Venus was commanded by Captain Vasconcellos. He with three officers and 29 men made up the complement of the vessel. Every soul on board of her was lost.

Some of the crew could be seen for a time on the forward part of the vessel as it drifted helplessly burning, and efforts were made to rescue them, but the boats that were dispatched on this work were slow in reaching the scene of the disaster, and by the time they arrived the men on the wreck were forced by the fire into the water.

Many theories are current as to the cause of the disaster. The most probable of these is that a shot from the shore batteries struck the Venus amidships and plowed its way through the hull and boilers. It is pretty certain that the magazine did not explode, for the smoke, as stated above, was of a reddish brown color, whereas the smoke of powder is gray. At any rate, whatever the cause of the explosion, its force must have been terrific, as the vessel was blown in halves as if made of cardboard.

It has been reported that the insurgents on the islands of Vianna, Engho and Pontal had revolted against their leaders, and declared in favor of the government. There is no basis of truth in these reports. The insurgents on the islands in question are enthusiastic in support of their leaders. No importance attaches to the capture of Bage by the government forces. The place is of little, if any, strategic value.

War About Over.

It is generally believed that the insurrection here and in the south is virtually over. The rebels are losing at all points, and to an impartial observer the end of the long-drawn-out struggle is in sight. By far the most bloody battle that has been fought during the revolt took place early in the morning of Feb. 9 at Armacao mountain, when the insurgents lost 250 men.

As the entire rebel force here numbers less than 800 men, their loss on this occasion was a very serious blow to them. The rebels at first repulsed the government troops, but the discovery of a large supply of whisky proved fatal to the attacking force. The rebels devoted themselves to drinking the whisky, with the result that in a very short time a battalion of them were placed hors du combat.

It was while the greater number of the rebels were in a helplessly intoxicated condition that the severe loss was inflicted upon them by the government troops. Those who were uninjured and had sense enough to flee took to their boats and soon placed themselves outside the range of fire.

Short of Men.

The rebels are very seriously crippled, owing to their lack of men. In addition to this every one of their ships has, with the exception of the Aquidaban, been shot full of holes by the government's forces. Their facilities for repairing the damages done their ships are very meager, and consequently the vessels are not at all seaworthy.

In many of the states of the south, notably Sao Paulo, where the population is made up of German and Italian immigrants, the feeling in favor of the government is very strong. Volunteers are coming in freely from all parts of the state of Sao Paulo, and in the city of Sao Paulo the very best men among the residents have enlisted in support of the government.

Anarchists' System of Blackmail.

PARIS, March 5.—Thirteen anarchists were arrested here yesterday. The police made a search of the lodgings occupied by the prisoners and found and seized a quantity of explosives and a mass of anarchist documents. Numbers of well-to-do persons have given money to anarchists with a view to ensure themselves against outrages.

A Brush With Blacks.

LONDON, March 5.—A dispatch from Bathurst says that a West Indian regiment had captured a stockade in a native village near Bathurst. The natives attacked the British position, and severe fighting followed, but the natives were repulsed. Nine soldiers were wounded.

Kossuth Is Very Sick.

TURIN, March 5.—Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, has suffered a relapse and is again seriously sick. Dr. Basso, his physician, despairs his recovery, as he refuses to take regular medical treatment.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Editorial Comment.

TOWN MEETING today in the suburbs; Quincy voters can quietly look on and see how their country cousins in Weymouth, Braintree and Milton do business.

IT IS surprising how far a person can ride and how cheaply on the electric cars. It is now possible to take an electric car at North Wepmouth can ride in the electrics to Lynn and Swampscott for 16 cents, while the fare by the steam cars is something like 75 cents, including a walk across the city from the Old Colony to the Union depot.

THE LOCATION of a new fire department house will probably come up again in the City Council tonight. The latest report is in favor of the unused part of the Willard school lot, and that is the best location yet suggested. If any other site were to be selected it should be toward Brewer's corner rather than toward the Milton line. The Willard school house is just a mile from the Milton line via Willard street and about the same distance from Braintree either by Willard or Centre streets. In locating this new house it should be considered as a steamer house, for a steamer must soon be located there. A steamer will be not only for the protection of West Quincy but the other parts of the city. Its natural district would be Adams street, the Old Colony railroad and the Braintree and Milton town lines. Outside of this, it should respond to all second alarms.

If the steamer at the Central fire station was called to Houghs Neck, the West Quincy steamer would have to cover the remainder of the city. So it would be if there were calls from the other outskirts.

If the Centre steamer was at Atlantic, the West Quincy steamer must cover the South, Centre and Quincy Point as well as West Quincy. Therefore it should not be located nearer the Milton line than the Willard schoolhouse, and it might be placed at Brewer's corner and still give West Quincy excellent protection. Would not Brewer's corner be the best location, all things considered.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

Few as Willing to Express an Opinion as Mr. Faxon.

THE FAXON LETTER DISCUSSED

Considerable Truth in What He Says—All Don't Agree.

The open letter of Henry H. Faxon on "The Unemployed" provoked considerable talk and discussion; and the LEDGER thought it would be interesting to its readers to print some of the views expressed but then the difficulty arose, as few were willing to go into print.

Liquor drinking is undoubtedly the cause of a very large percentage of poverty, yet there are many needy ones who are not reduced by drink. When times are good they can earn but $1.50 to $2 per day, and with constant work it is a struggle to make both ends meet, let alone providing for "rainy days."

A few interviews follow and the LEDGER opens its columns to all who wish to be heard.

John L. Miller.

It is his same old hobby. The letter struck him as rather harsh. There are many men unemployed who are willing to work but can not get it and there are those who we see every day on the street corners who do not want to work. Drink is not the cause of all the poverty, not by a good deal, although there are men that will drink anyway. He believed that liquor was a small part of the cause of poverty in this city.

There is no city on the face of the earth where there are so many nationalities as there is in Quincy, where there is so little drinking. There were some that would go to Boston and get drink but a very small proportion.

John J. Byron, well known in labor circles was interviewed. He said there was a great deal of truth in the article, but he refused to be interviewed for publication.

Councilman John O. Holden said he agreed with Mr. Faxon in some things he said in his letter, but it was not always liquor that caused poverty, although there was no doubt but that it was the cause of some of it. There were other causes than that. Sickness and labor strikes were responsible for many cases; then people were improvident. If Mr. Faxon could look up all cases of poverty he would find that very few were caused by liquor. He is very apt to overestimate it and to lay all ills to the liquor habit.

Councilman T. J. Lamb

said: There is a great deal of truth in the article. His one idea is that liquor causes it all. There is always a certain amount of people who do not want any work. You cannot make a man perfect no matter how much you try, men will drink liquor as long as it is manufactured and sold. He had always voted against license. If there was a license in Quincy he would shut up his store inside of twenty-four hours, as there were men who would spend their money for liquor before they would pay their grocery bills. Such men as Charles Francis Adams are good men to have in a city and it was too bad that we did not have more of them.

George H. Field

Agreed with Mr. Faxon to this extent, that liquor is largely the cause of pauperism. We always have the unfortunate honest poor but in many of these cases if it had not been for the excessive drinking of the husbands when alive, they could have provided in some manner for their widow and families when they had gone, through some one of the mutual societies now in existence.

Fire Alarm Boxes and Police.

The Council Committee on Fire Department and Police met Saturday night to consider the petition from the Granite Manufacturers' Association for better police protection and more fire alarm boxes. It is probable that the committee will report the necessary amendment to the ordinance governing police, increasing the permanent force and also offer an order appropriating the necessary money for the new fire alarm boxes.

WOULDN'T PAY A DEBT.

James Trask Fatally Shot by His Brother-In-Law.

PEABODY, Mass., March 5.—James Trask was shot twice by his brother-in-law, Calvin Mason, at his home yesterday afternoon. Mason, it is claimed, had loaned Trask $800 several years ago, and being out of work was badly in need of money and had repeatedly asked his brother-in-law for part payments so that Mason could provide for his wife and five children. In every instance his appeal had been useless.

This treatment is said to have made Mason turn to drink, and when in that condition would worry over the fact that Trask would not assist him when it was in his power to do so. Mason yesterday afternoon made another appeal for part payment of the loan, which was again refused. Mason thereupon pulled a revolver and fired it at short range. The first shot entered the right lung, and internal hemorrhage has set in and will prove fatal. Mason after the shooting gave himself up to the police.

The Georgetown Mystery.

GEORGETOWN, Mass., March 5.—The identity of the Georgetown victim is still an unsolved problem. Noah R. Kneeland, whose house is about an eighth of a mile from where the body was found, states that on the evening of Dec. 21 he heard three successive screams coming from the direction of where the body was discovered. Mrs. Holcomb, whose husband's name is on the backstrap of the vest found upon the victim, states that she gave the vest to a tramp last November.

Was Probably Assaulted.

SALMON FALLS, N. H., March 5.—John Batrequin was found under the abutments of the Boston and Maine bridge at this place in an unconscious condition, with his head in a pool of blood. Doctors have no doubt that he was foully dealt with and his body taken to where it was found to give the impression that he had met his death by falling from the bridge. He was known to have been drinking with a number of men Saturday night. He is not likely to recover.

'Twas Vermont Day.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—The first state day at the midwinter fair was celebrated here yesterday. That event was Vermont day. A large crowd of Vermonters were on the ground. The formal exercises took place at Festival hall, which was profusely decorated. Incidental to the speeches an excellent musical and oratorical program was rendered. The weather was all that could be desired, and 17,500 people entered the gates.

Steamboats Crushed and Sunk.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., March 5.—An ice gorge in the Missouri river gave way unexpectedly yesterday and two steamboats were caught in it and sunk. They were the Mary Bennett and the Vint Stillings. The crews escaped, making their way to shore by jumping from one ice cake to another. Both boats will be a total loss.

Sultan Came to Terms.

MADRID, March 5.—A dispatch from Melilla states that General de Campos, who was sent to the Sultan of Morocco to present Spanish demands for indemnity for the attacks made upon Riffian tribesmen, has brought negotiations to a successful conclusion. The sultan will pay the sum of 20,000,000 pezates.

Wounded With an Oyster Knife.

BOSTON, March 5.—Charles J. Zinn, 25 years old, quarrelled with his wife May, and it is alleged stabbed her over the left breast with an oyster knife, inflicting a dangerous wound. The husband claimed it was an accident. He was placed under arrest.

Discovered In Time.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Another attempt to destroy World's fair buildings by fire was made last evening. In the station house, just south of the terminal station, and but for timely interference, three buildings would probably have been destroyed.

Has the Jimjams.

ST. LOUIS, March 5.—H. C. Lord, who disappeared from Hurst's hotel last Thursday, has turned up at the city hospital, where he is suffering from delirium tremens. Lord is traveling for a Boston shoe company.

A FAD.

An Essay Delivered Before the Eliot Club of Wollaston.

The following interesting essay was read at Mrs. Jewell's, before the Eliot Club, on Wednesday evening last:

When a part was assigned me in this evening's programme, I said to myself, "I will think it over awhile, but I know I shall be obliged to decline, for it certainly is an impossibility to describe what does not exist,—I have no "fad."

I thought of the hobbies or fads of my friends and decided that I surely could lay claim to none of them. I can not paint upon either canvas or china. (How I wish I had the talent!) I do not make collections of rare jewels or valuable bric-a-brac (for obvious reasons), and I must confess that no slight inducement would tempt me to adopt one of the popular pets of the season,—for I loathe chameleons.

All at once, I remembered an amusement of my childhood which I have never outgrown, and though I never call it a fad or a hobby, perhaps it may pass for one after all.

Do not be surprised my near neighbors and friends, you who see me every day, and who know that my journeys usually end at Wollaston at night,—when I tell you that my fad is travelling. This badge gives but a hint of the many miles I traverse by rail, by ocean steamers, in canoes, on the backs of elephants and camels, in gondolas, balloons, snow shoes and sledges. How I do this can only be glanced at in a five-minute article.

Just when I began to read books of travel I do not remember, but I have never forgotten the eagerness with which I pored over the "Robo Books," the "Florence Stories," "Norway and the Norwegians," "Spectacles for Young Eyes," and others of that class which filled my brain with pictures of foreign lands and the desire to visit them. Often, instead of conning the the Geography lesson of the day, I traced upon the maps the routes which the heroes of my stories followed;—learning perhaps as much of true Geography as if I had confined my attention wholly to bounding the state of Tennessee.

Later, come more mature books of travel, descriptive novels and poems,—a recreation I still indulge in. How delightful, in one short week to go with Dr. Kane to the Artic regions, accompany Sir Aruyas Leigh on his voyage to the Tropics, and still find time to attend the chariot race with Ben Hur, and visit Loch Katrine with Snowdown's Knight!

Next to books come illustrated lectures and articles by the fortunate members of the Eliot Club, who, having travelled in reality, give us such vivid pictures, that, for the time being, we listeners are transported to California, Mexico, Texas, to the "White City" and Yellowstone Park, across the water to the streets of Naples, thence to Pompeii, without the fatigue attending such long journeys, the discomfort of seasickness, or the doubtful pleasure of riding donkeys through beds of ashes.

Who in these days of illustrated books, countless pictures, and art museums cannot, for an hour at least, forget the cares and duties of every day life and travel to the scenes portrayed by so many masters hands? How the world is spread before us by photography alone!

I have lately fallen into the habit of visiting Soule's photograph rooms on Washington street, whenever I have a spare half hour in the city, and always feel amply repaid in looking over the portfolios. I believe their is hardly a noted picture in this country or Europe whose photograph may not be seen there.

I have one other mode of travelling, so fanciful that I feel almost ashamed to mention it. Perhaps I can give it no better name than day-dreaming. As I sit at an upper window and look out on the beautiful landscape, the water and the hills, I imagine that these familiar scenes are those of lands far away.

Our lovely water view becomes now the Bay of Naples with the smoke stack of some steam tug behind an island for an imaginary Mt. Vesuvius. Those little steamers are not going to Nantasket and Downer Landing, but are on their way to the islands of Capri and Ischia. Or again, I begin to reconstruct the picture and try to imagine a scene in the harbor of Venice,—when,—the door-bell rings, and I come down to reality and the front hall.

If I am so far gone in my dream as to imagine I am descending some marble staircase to take a gondola for a trip on the Grand Canal, the illusion vanishes when I open the door and a small childs says, "Is the Doctor at home?"

Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward in a pathetic sketch entitled the "Lady of Shallot" gives a picture of a little cripple whose whole life has been spent on a bed in a hot attic with a cross, overworked sister always stitching at the one window, who yet had a source of happiness a view of the world as seen in a 7x9 looking glass hung by the window at such an angle that it reflected what was passing in the miserable street below.

She was always wonderfully cheerful and would only occasionally acknowledge to her ever complaining sister that the day was hot, and the children did fight in the glass.

I am not so enthusiastic over my fad but that there are times when it fails to satisfy, when faith yearns for sight, when the harbor is gray, an east wind blowing, and the hills do not in the least resemble the Swiss mountains, or even the bold cliffs of Benvenure,"—but the Lady of Shallott died when her looking-glass was broken, so I will take care that my substitute for travelling content me, unless some happy day should come when substance can replace shadow.

JOSIAH QUINCY'S METHODS.

He Makes a Full Statement to Investigating Committee.

The investigation at Washington into the granting of the contract for lithographic work for the Patent Office Gazette has interested friends and political enemies of Josiah Quincy, who seems to have been deeply involved. He has made a full statement of the facts, which has been published in full, and it in turn is receiving comment.

The Herald's editorial conclusions on the investigation will be of interest to Quincy readers:

The statement made to the Senate investigating committee by Mr. Josiah Quincy, the accuracy of which none, whether Republican or Democrat, who has the least acquaintance with him, will think for a moment of doubting, is illustrative at once of strong and weak points in his character. As the one charged by the Democratic national committee with the literary work carried on in his behalf during and between campaigns, Mr. Quincy had induced Mr. Kenney and others to interest themselves in the publication of the American Industries, a periodical having for its object the support of Democratic economic policy. Mr. Quincy took no financial risk in this himself; but when it was found that the venture was not a specially prosperous one, and that by securing for Mr. Kenney the lithographic contract from the interior department he could financially strengthen himself, he (Mr. Quincy) seems to have thought that he owed it to those who had advanced their money at his suggestion to do what he honestly could to help them out.

"The contract was secured because the bid of Mr. Kenney was lower than that of the company that had formerly done the work, and the government is a monetary gainer by the change; but, in spite of this gain, it is probable that the old and well worn methods would have been continued if Mr. Quincy had not exerted himself in his friends' behalf. If he had been out of office, no exception could have been taken to this course, for public work is something for which all citizens have a right to bid, and the old company, no doubt, had strong friends to present its case. But he was, even though temporarily and, perhaps, unwillingly in office, and although obligation to help those who had gone into a losing venture at his suggestion made it incumbent upon him to do what he could to assist them, the proprieties in the case, especially as a civil service reformer, would require that he should not use his political influence in such a matter, except in the most negative and restrained manner. Here were two conflicting impulses, one creditable to Mr. Quincy as a man realizing his personal obligations; the other creditable, if he followed it, to his high sense of official propriety. Unfortunately, he allowed the former rather than the latter to control his action. There was no wrong done; but he evidently succeeded in securing for his friends a consideration for their propositions that would not otherwise have been accorded them."

A Reception.

The members who were appointed as a Committee to conduct the exercises and arrangements of the 31 annual ball masque, held by the Sons of Veterans on March 1st., were given a most bounteous dinner at the residence of Bro. S. A. Allen. The repast was to commemorate the grand success and financial returns of the ball.

The following menu was served:

Frankfort Sausages.
COLD DISHES.
Turkey, Ham, Tongue.
Mashed Potatoes, Cramberry Sauce.
SWEETS.
Frozen Pudding, Charlotte Russe.
FRUITS.
Oranges, Nuts, Bananas.
CAKES.
Raisins,
Pound,
Fancy Cakes,
Macaroons Kisses.
ICE CREAM.
Vanilla.
Coffee, Rolls.

Mr. S. A. Allen was the caterer.

After the dinner speeches were made by Captain M. C. Holmes, 2d Lieut. A. F. White; reading by Brother Frank Gardner; Brother Parrot, and Foss furnished selections on the piccolo and accordion. Brother F. O. Lapham made a few interesting remarks. After which the hour being late it was decided to adjourn.

Surprise Party.

Several of the young friends and schoolmates of Annie Mitchell surprised her at at her home on Howard street, Quincy Point, Saturday afternoon, the occasion being her twelfth birthday. She received many pretty little presents. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in games. At three o'clock the children marched into the dining-room, where a table was bountifully spread with good things which only little folks know how to enjoy. At five o'clock the children separated for their homes, wishing Annie many more happy birthdays.

TODAY'S COURT.

George Anderson of Quincy was fined $5 for drunkenness.

Patrick McAteer of Quincy was fined $5 for drunkenness and $5 for disturbing the peace.

The Late Dr. Donovan.

A correspondent of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal pays this tribute to our late townsman:

A breath of spring is in this winter morning; but its sweetness is tinged with profound sadness that Dr. Samuel M. Donovan whom so many have known so long as physician and friend, lies in the silence of death. His sunny smile and cheery welcome are among the valued recollections of the past. With an accomplished mind that led him to a conscientious absorption of what his profession taught him, was a rare, refined taste that embraced whatever was fine in art, music and science. His acquaintance with roses was a particular element; and while we, duller, knew and loved them as roses; he had the species and variety of each especial flower at tongue's end.

Tenderness in him was of a delicate quality, especially towards children. "His quiver was full," but he did not pass by any child slightly. Meeting him one morning with his buggy crammed full of little ones, we pointed to one asking, "Are they all yours?" "No," said he, "that one is not." "Why," said we laughingly, "have you not enough of your own?" "Well," was the answer, "that little chap saw us, and wanted a ride, so I took him in." Lately, speaking of illness and weakness, he said, "I ask one thing, to see all my children grow up to be fine." Now, the little light-haired, blue-eyed brood are fatherless.

His ready assimilation of medical knowledge made him a valued physician. He was a fond husband and a good friend. He was prominent in our charitable work and among our poor. We were not ready to spare him; but resting in the hope that if his brief life had incompleteness here, and trusting that it will find full completeness in the beyond to which he precedes us, we lovingly, respectfully, lay this memento of a friend of many years, upon his bier. A. E. F.

In Prison for Life.

Word was received in this city Saturday that Patrick Donahoe, a former resident of this city, had been sentenced to life imprisonment in Ireland for inflicting fatal injuries upon a policeman with a bottle. Donahoe came from County Cork, Ireland, to this city several years ago and settled in West Quincy. During his stay in this city he gave the police considerable trouble and was in court a number of times for drunkenness, and assaults that arise from drunken rows. Last fall he returned to Ireland working his passage as a cattle tender. Nothing has been heard from him since, until Saturday, when the above word was received.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. Daniel Hayward a well known citizen of Braintree died suddenly Sunday afternoon, on an electric car near Pope's hill. Heart desease was the probable cause. Mr. Hayward was a well known citizen of Braintree where he has resided for many years. He leaves a widow, three sons and a daughter.

"Canned Peaches."

A highly respectable and widely respected clergyman living in a country parish not far from Boston received a communication from a New York house dealing in wines and liquors not long ago, saying that they would be very glad to furnish him with anything he needed in their line, and as an inducement for his patronage added that they were aware that the arrival in a country place of wines and liquors for the use of the clergyman was apt to create comment, if not scandal. And they offered in case he purchased goods from them to have them securely packed in a wooden box, where they would be free from examination, and to have the box marked "Canned peaches."—Boston Herald.

Runaway Legs.

Lady Canning tells a story about her father, Lord Stuart de Rothesay, who was embassador at St. Petersburg in the forties. He was afflicted with a sort of nervous paralysis, which deprived him of the control of his limbs. Once his secretary saw him running rapidly along the quays. Afterward he heard himself called and found Lord Stuart clinging to a lamppost. "I wanted particularly to speak to you, but could not stop. My legs ran away with me."

The Human Family.

The human family living on earth today consists of about 1,450,000,000 souls—not fewer, probably more. These are distributed literally all over the earth's surface, there being no considerable spot on the globe where man has not found a foothold. The extremes of the blacks and whites are as five to three, the remaining 700,000,000 intermediate, brown, yellow and tawny in color.—Exchange.

Among the degenerate Romans from A. D. 100 to A. D. 500 titles were graded with almost mathematical exactness, and men of different social rank insisted on being addressed as illusters, spectabiles, clarissimi, perfectissimi, egregii, and so on, according to their position.

In his story of the last moments of Lincoln Horatio King relates that Stanton, when the attending physician, with his finger on the great martyr's pulse, announced that the end had come, said with deep feeling, "He now belongs to the ages."

A Boston paper states that a Chicago grocer sells soap every tenth cake of which contains in its center a gold dollar, and that the citizens of Chicago are in consequence getting to look tolerably clean.

FLEECED BY EMPLOYES.

How the Carnegie Company Got Into Trouble With Uncle Sam.

PITTSBURG, March 5.—The Times today publishes the following: The Carnegie Steel company has permitted itself to be made the victim of a big conspiracy. This, in brief, is the true explanation of the assessing of $140,489.91 damages or fine laid by President Cleveland and Secretary of the Navy Herbert against the company for furnishing the government with armor plate, which, to quote Secretary Herbert, "Was good, all excelling the lowest limit in the specifications, yet portions of it were not up the highest possible mark of excellence."

The conspirators were four in number, all well-known workmen, who until recently were employed at the Carnegie Homestead plant. The price they received as a reward for their conspiracy was about $35,000, or 25 per cent of the damage assessment made by President Cleveland.

One of the conspirators, who got but $2000 out of the $35,000 reward, learning that he had gotten the "short end" of the deal, gave expression to his feelings, and skilful questioning brought out the entire story.

The article says further that the conspirators substituted defective armor for the first class armor which the company intended should be furnished the government.

ON SOCIALISTIC LINES.

Unemployed of Boston Air Their Grievances on the Common.

BOSTON, March 5.—Several thousand people assembled upon Boston Common yesterday afternoon in response to an appeal from the leaders of the "Association for the Benefit of the Unemployed." The speeches were mild in tone, every speaker advocating the principles of state socialism. Resolutions were adopted stating that the relief committee of Boston had failed in its work, because of lack of funds and there being no representative of workingmen on the committee.

After thanking the relief committee for what it had done, however, the resolutions went on to state that the unemployed would not tolerate charity, but required bona fide and useful work, and advocated the establishment of state farms and factories, and urged the adoption of a plan for the improvement of public roads. The resolutions will be presented to the legislature.

A Wicked Insult.

ELLSWORTH, Me., March 5.—When Rev. T. F. Butler, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church, went to the church to hold morning services yesterday he found a cross covered with creosues smeared with tar and feathers, and with a placard reading, "Butler's Doctrine, Heathenism, Atheism and Infidelism." A skull was at the top. No one knows the insulter, but some low plot is believed to lay at the bottom, for Father Butler has not an open enemy.

Business Delayed.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Although the spring term of the supreme court begun today, none of the cases which have been awaiting a hearing by a full bench can be taken up at once. There are 25 of these cases on the waiting list. The delay is necessitated by the absence of Justice Jackson, who is in Florida for the benefit of his health.

Explosion and Fire.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 4.—A tremendous explosion shook the business center of the city. Chemicals in the establishment of Lewis Balie & Co. had exploded, blowing out the rear wall and the front doors. The explosion was followed by fire. The drugstore and several adjoining buildings were gutted. Total loss $125,000.

Kid Hogan's Last Battle.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Edward Hogan, alias "Kid" Hogan, was killed last night by being stabbed in the neck. He challenged Augustus Schaeffer to fight. The challenge was accepted and Schaeffer knocked Hogan down. It is supposed that during the fight Schaeffer stabbed Hogan.

A Correction.

ROCKLAND, Me., March 5.—L. G. March, formerly secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, has returned to this city, thus correcting a story that he had skipped. March did leave business in an unsettled condition, but it was because he was called away unexpectedly.

Service Not Impaired.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Of the different appropriation bills reported to the house, the diplomatic takes the least money from the government. Although a saving of $46,000 has been effected this year, it has been made in directions which will not impair the efficiency of the service.

Non-Union at Reduced Pay.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 5.—The Mt. Washington glass works has notified its operatives that beginning March 12 the shop will become non-union with a 10 per cent reduction. The operatives belong to the national union and have decided to go out on strike.

A Triangular Row.

BOSTON, March 5.—Michael Reardon, who was stabbed in seven places by James Mellin last Friday, was discharged from the emergency hospital last night and arrested for assault and battery on Mellin. The three participants in the affray are now under arrest.

Chili's Election.

NEW YORK, March 5.—A Herald dispatch from Valparaiso says the elections began yesterday without disturbances of any kind. Strict vigilance is maintained to prevent any outbreak, and thus far everything is quiet.

Mexican Mining Disaster.

ESCALON, Mex., March 5.—A premature explosion occurred in one of the mines at Sierra Nojaja as the last shaft of the day was leaving. Three of the miners were killed and several injured.

Talmage Will Remain.

BROOKLYN, March 5.—At the Brooklyn tabernacle yesterday Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage said to a congregation that crowded the church to doors that he had decided to remain their pastor.

Firemen Injured.

WATERLOO, N. Y., March 5.—Fire in the cellar of the Towsley House block did about $5,000 damage. Two firemen fell through the sidewalk openings and were badly hurt.

Infant Fatally Burned.

BOSTON, March 5.—At a fire in the tenement occupied by Mrs. Lizzie McLaughlin on Buttrick place Frank, the 2-year-old child of Mrs. McLaughlin, was fatally burned.

Told by the Fireside.

There are fads in bonnets and dresses and wraps,
And fads so funny and strange,
And though it may seem unlikely perhaps,
'Tis a fact, there's a fad in a range.

On the crinoline dress there are plenty of jokes.
And the fad is a subject of zest,
But the range that will tickle both young and old folks,
Is the Glenwood—it leads all the rest.

The fire kindles up with quickness and ease,
Cooks your food through and through, in a manner to please,
Save your heat, save your coal, save your patience and rest,
By using "The Glenwood," acknowledged the best.

Judgment for Dr. Amick.

ST. LOUIS, March 4.—Judgment was rendered yesterday in favor of Dr. Amick, of Cincinnati, against the St. Louis Clinique. This medical journal questioned the merits of this treament for consumption, which many physicians here say is the only cure for this disease. Amick keeps his formula to himself, and sends, free, medicines proving to the consumptive he can be cured. All this is against the medical code; hence the attack and vindication.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" ystem. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

AN AMERICAN QUEEN

AND HER FOUR DAUGHTERS.

A Scene on the 3 O'clock Express Between Boston and Worcester, Mass.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

It was a pretty sight.

The passengers turned around in their seats to better note the something unusual.

A noble looking woman had entered the car, followed by four daughters, ageing from fifteen to twenty years. The mother had one of those good and wholesome faces that one so rarely sees, but that men and women always admire. The daughters had the same healthy, wholesome look. They were well born, well cared for, and, without doubt, never suffered from any of the ills that curse many women.

Mothers owe a duty to their daughters that in too many cases is neglected.

Nature has provided a time for purification, and if the channels are obstructed, the entire system is poisoned and misery comes.

Mrs. Chas. Hines of Duncannon, Pa., a woman of large experience, in speaking of a mother's duty, says: "Watch carefully your daughters' physical development.

"Mothers should see that nature is assisted, if necessary, to perform its office, and keep their daughters well informed as to matters concerning themselves."

Irregularities, from whatever cause, are sure indications of organic trouble. With irregularities come disturbance of the stomach and kidneys.

Violent headaches often attack the victim, pains shoot everywhere. Extreme irritability follows quickly, and then utter despondency overwhelms the already overburdened life. Unless the obstruction is removed at once, your daughter's whole future will be darkened.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will accomplish the work speedily. It is the most effective remedy for irregular or suspended action known.

TO MY MOTHER.

Sometimes it seems thy face—thy long hid face—
Looks out on me as from a passing cloud,
Till I forget they clad thee in thy shroud
And laid thee sleeping in thy faroff place.
So once again the tender, healing grace
Of thy dear presence is to me allowed.
Wilt thou not bless the head before thee bowed?
Wilt not thy voice thrill through the empty space?

How lone and cold the world without thee seemed!
Regaining thee, how warm it is and bright!
Yet all in vain to reach thee do I seek,
And then I wake to know I have but dreamed,
And thou art silent as the silent night.
With tears I call thee, yet thou dost not speak.

—Louise C. Moulton in Youth's Companion.

A Simple Fire Escape.

A simple, easily procured, inexpensive and practical means of escape from upper stories may be found in a stout duck sack and a strong manilla rope. The sack should be deep and wide enough to hold several persons and have a rope well bound around the top to which the rope bail is attached. If no appliance be provided to hold a stout sail across the window on the inside, then several wraps must be taken around some article of furniture, wife and children dumped into the sack, the husband paying out the rope and letting them down. The sack is then drawn up, when the remaining occupant goes into the sack with the slack end of the rope, and paying it out lets himself down. Rope and sack will pass unhurt past considerable sheets of flame from windows below, and if occasionally treated to a strong solution of alum water, or even strong brine, are of difficult ignition. The deep sack dispels the feeling of fear in not beholding the dizzy height and also protects from flame in passing windows. Every window should have strong staples into which a rail can be inserted and which should be ever ready if needed. A cool head could thus let down, in many cases, numerous loads, and for that matter there may be rope enough to allow all the paying out and pulling up to be done by some one on the ground. Private instructions should be in every room, and each occupant should be made familiar with the working.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Physiological Effect of Music.

The results of numerous experiments made with scientific care by a Russian physician to determine what, if any, are the physiological effects produced by music are thus summarized: An influence on the circulation of blood is noticed, the pressure sometimes rising and sometimes falling, though the action of musical tones and pipes both on animals and men expresses itself for the most part by increased frequency of the beats of the heart; the variations in the circulation consequent upon musical sounds coincide with changes in the breathing, though they may also be observed quite independently of it; the variations in the blood pressure are dependent on the pitch and loudness of the sound and on tone color; in these variations of the blood pressure also the peculiarities of the individuals, whether men or lower animals, are plainly apparent, and even nationality, in the case of man, is claimed to exhibit some effect.—New York Tribune.

A LITTLE LOVE OF MINE.

I know a clever little maid
And sweet, who claims me for her knight,
And I confess I'm half afraid
She thinks whate'er I do is right.
The reason why I may not tell.
She's five, while I am twenty-nine,
And yet we love each other well,
I and this little love of mine.

She has a slender, lissom form,
Brown eyes where trust and truth abide,
A Cupid's mouth where kisses swarm,
Rose cheeks where dimples deftly hide,
A smile she borrowed from the skies
In some rare hour of summer time
That's sweet or serious, glad or wise,
As suits this little love of mine.

La reine petite, the little queen,
Swift to forgive as to command,
The daintiest monarch ever seen—
She keeps her subjects well in hand,
Their happiness her only task.
She rules by childhood's right divine,
And richer kingdom none may ask
Than has this little love of mine.

The boundary of her empire lies
In home's fair walls; her wealth untold,
The lovelight in her mother's eyes—
A treasure greater far than gold.
Aye, running over is her cup
With love's most rare and costly wine,
And she—she gayly drinks it up,
This charming little love of mine.

Fresh be the draft! I wish the hours
May bring her what she most may prize,
Soft dewy dawns, and fragrant flowers,
And light winds calling to the skies.
But if my soul might win the bliss
To beg a boon from Father Time
'Twould be to leave her as she is,
This dainty little love of mine.

—Ross Deforris in Youth's Companion.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

When I was a boy, I attended a public school in a New England town not many miles from the Hub. The teacher of classics in that institution was a man of the name of Virgil Monson, who was by birth and training a Puritan, but one whom culture had somewhat liberalized, though he retained many prejudices of the average Yankee.

In person he was short, heavy and thickset. His head was dome shaped, but it appeared to me that his bumps of veneration and combativeness had been unduly developed at the expense of the bumps of conjugal affection, which was sufficient explanation of the fact that he had not yet committed matrimony, though he had turned 35 at the time I first knew him.

Whatever may have been his defects, I must do him the justice to say that his forehead was broad and high, sure sign of intellectuality; his nose of the Roman variety, which always indicates strength of character and tenacity of opinion, while his manner of compressing his lips pointed not the less certainly to his firmness, to which a square chin also contributed.

His disposition was by no means lamblike, nor his temper equable, as his red hair—what there was of it—and red beard bore abundant testimony to the contrary. I grieve to say that much learning had made Mr. Monson not mad, but bald. The dome part of his head was wont to shine like the golden dome of the state capitol in Boston, especially after the vigorous polishings he gave it in his toilet. A fringe of sandy hair surrounded the aforesaid bald surface like the diverging rays of light around the aurora borealis.

Add to the foregoing an excitable temperament, a quick and nervous manner, a love of pedantic display, a fondness for Greek and Latin roots and most of all for natural science, and you have a tolerably fair description of an interesting personality.

It was our professor's habit to seek recreation in the woods during the intervals of pedagogical labor, and there, amid the sighings of trees, the singing of birds and the chirpings of crickets, to combine his pursuit of health with the study of natural science. After spending an afternoon in the fragrant seclusion of the forest he would return with his pockets full of botanical and entomological specimens. Among the last may be mentioned caterpillars, moths, butterflies and other denizens of the woods.

His room was next door to mine and had the appearance of a museum. There were numerous books, of course, on all sorts of subjects, ferneries, cabinets of minerals and chloroformed butterflies, suspicious bottles containing queer creatures in all stages of alcoholic intoxication and aquaria containing living fish, toads, lizards and so on.

Absorbed as he was in his duties at school, his favorite studies and pursuits, Mr. Monson had had little time to think of matrimony, and though some designing mammas had pressed the question home to him his invariable reply had been:

"I don't need a wife. I am happy enough as I am."

This reply served as a wet blanket to the enthusiastic interest his lady acquaintances entertained in his happiness. Though his character and disposition were not such as to make him popular with the fair sex, still the few who knew him respected him, wondered at his prodigious learning, which he took no pains to conceal, and secretly laughed at his eccentricities and hobbies.

Having evaded Cupid's darts so long and with such signal success, no one supposed for a moment that he would succumb at last to the charms of a coquettish country girl. But so it turned out, thus proving the truth of the old adage that there is no fool like an old fool. He fell a victim to love so late in life that, like mumps and measles, it attacked him with greater virulence than it would have done in his younger days.

The girl, whom we will simply call Lilian, was a brunette of fascinating manners, but rather homely features. But if she satisfied Mr. Monson's notions of an ideal woman no one else had a right to complain. She was still attending school, though past 21 years of age, and as fate would have it was boarding in the same house as the professor. It was observed by the landlady and her daughter that after Lilian's advent Mr. Monson was changed from his own self. He paid more attention to his toilet than before, brushing his fringe of hair with unusual care and having his beard trimmed oftener than had been his wont. At the table he had alternate fits of abstraction and loquacity. He lingered there as long as Lilian remained and would, after a supper, follow her to the sitting room, where he would talk to her by the hour about some Greek poet or some natural phenomenon. And when he showed her his various bugs, insects and reptiles, making a running commentary on their peculiarities, the landlady formed the very natural conclusion that the professor was badly "stuck."

The girl was a splendid listener and flattered Mr. Monson's vanity by her attention rather than by words of praise.

In about three months the professor had wound himself in a net as completely as the silkworm in its cocoon. As he grew more persistent in his attentions the girl became more coquettish. She would be very kind one day and distant and hard to please the next, thus tormenting the very life out of him.

At last, unable to bear the strain, he determined to risk all by a test question. A favorable opportunity presented itself one night when everybody had retired and the twain were alone in the parlor.

What took place there had better be told in the words of the young lady, who related the affair afterward to the landlady's daughter, not knowing that I was listening and taking it all in.

"Well," she said, "to begin from the beginning, your mother left the parlor as the clock struck 9, taking care to close the door after her. This emboldened him to draw his chair closer to mine. 'Do you think one can be happier when married than single?' he asked. I replied that I didn't know, not having had the experience of a married woman.

"'Well, don't you think so or believe so?'

"'Why, that depends on circumstances, Mr. Monson,' I answered. I knew what was coming all the time, but didn't want to show it.

"'But if there is love in the marriage, don't you think that there will be happiness?'

At this point he seized my hand and squeezed it until it fairly turned blue and said excitedly:

"'Then marry me, Miss Lilian. No man can love a woman more than I love you. Say but yes, and my very life is at your disposal to do as you please with it. Your happiness will be my first consideration. Here, on my knees, I ask you to grant my suit.'

"I turned my face around to look at him, and, oh! what do you think? You can never guess. I laugh every time I think of it. One of those nasty caterpillars had crept out of his pocket during the excitement and was making its way over his shoulder toward his collar. I nearly died with laughter at the comical situation. Upon this he got very mad and excited beyond control, but he remained on his knees the while. Said he:

"'You are laughing at a very serious matter. You trifle with me. Is this the way to treat the proffered love of an honest man?'

"'I am sorry, Mr. Monson. I was not laughing at you, but at something else.'

"I had barely finished saying that when that worm stood on the poor man's collar, and bracing its hind feet on it made a grab for his hair with its front feet. The nasty thing was so comical in all its movements that I laughed right out, making no attempt to control my merriment. He arose from his knees. His face was scarlet with rage. But as he turned the doorknob I commanded my risibilities enough to say to him:

"'Mr. Monson, I am very, very sorry for what has happened. I respect and esteem you as a friend, but I can never be your wife. But if you don't want another girl to laugh at you the next time you go a-courting you leave worms and bugs behind.'

"By this time the caterpillar had reached his bald spot and from that elevated perch was looking on the scene with placid enjoyment. He caught my eyes as they were bent toward the intruder, and just then, his excitement having subsided a little and no doubt feeling the nasty thing on top of his head, he caught it in his hand, crushing the poor worm at the same time. He then made a dart for the stairs, going over three steps at a time. That is all there was to this little romance of mine."

The next week the professor resigned his position in the school and left the town forever.—Yan Phon Lee in St. Louis Republic.

Soluble White Dextrin.

A writer in The Wollen-Gewerbe states that an entirely white dextrin, perfectly soluble in water, is now prepared by diluting 4 pounds and 6½ ounces nitric acid of 1.4 specific gravity with 317 quarts water, into which 2,205 pounds of starch are stirred. This mass is formed into cakes, which are at first dried in the air and afterward at 176 degrees F., and the cakes are then ground and the powder sifted, and heated from 212 degrees to 230 degrees F. for 1 or 1½ hours. In external appearance, this preparation cannot be distinguished from starch flour and is perfectly free from nitric acid. In the preparation of dextrin in the wet way with diluted acid, it is remarked that the time at which the last of the starch has been converted into dextrin must be carefully noted, as the continued influence of the acid causes the dextrin to become rapidly saccharose.

Where His Heart Was.

"Were you ever shot during the war, colonel?" asked the young woman of the warrior. "Only once. A bullet struck me right here," putting his hand directly over his heart. "Dear me!" she cried. "Why didn't it kill you? That is where your heart is." "True," returned the colonel, "it is where my heart is now, but at the time I was shot, fortunately, my heart was in my mouth."—Boston Woman's Journal.

ROSEBERY STEPS IN.

He Takes the Position at the Helm Vacated by Mr. Gladstone.

PARNELLITES WANT ASSURANCES

Of Continuance of the Present Home Rule Policy.

LONDON, March 5.—The "Man of Iron" surrenders the privy seat for the fourth, and undoubtedly the last time, with the same grace and candor which has marked his actions for the past half century or more.

Mr. Gladstone has retired to the ranks as a commoner, and yet will ever be known as one of the world's greatest statesmen. Englishmen, regardless of political affiliation or belief, will acknowledge the splendid services to the country and humanity now brought to a close.

The manner in which the queen announces the retirement of Mr. Gladstone to the people will prove interesting to Americans. It is contained in the court circular and is written by a court official. Every word of this circular is generally submitted to the queen in advance. The announcement is dated Windsor Castle, March 3, and begins thus: "The queen, accompanied by her royal highness, Princess Beatrice, drove out yesterday afternoon."

Then follows a list of the arrivals at the castle, headed by the names of the children of the Duchess of Albany, Prince and Princess Henry of Battenberg, the Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, American ambassador to the court of St. James, and the French ambassador, ending with the names of Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone. It then goes on to enumerate all those who attended her majesty's dinner party, wherein the names of Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone came last. This is followed by the information that the queen and Princess Beatrice went out this morning, and then comes the fact that a cabinet council had been held.

LORD ROSEBERY.

Finally, following the announcement anent the council, comes the announcement that Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone had an audience with the queen, and tendered his resignation, which was graciously accepted by her majesty. It adds that the queen has summoned Earl Rosebery, K. C., secretary of state for foreign affairs, and offered him the post of prime minister, vacated by Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, M. P., and that Earl Rosebery has accepted her majesty's offer.

Harcourt Remains

Mr. Gladstone yesterday wrote a letter to Earl Rosebery congratulating him upon his succession to the premiership. In his letter Mr. Gladstone promised to aid the new prime minister whenever his assistance was asked. It is understood that Earl Rosebery's communication to Mr. Harcourt has resulted in the latter consenting to retain his position as chancellor of the exchequer, and to his accepting the government leadership in the house of commons.

Lord Rosebery called upon the Earl of Kimberley yesterday and offered to him the post of foreign secretary, made vacant by his promotion to the position of prime minister. The new prime minister has appointed Munroe Ferguson his political private secretary.

Hundreds of letters and telegrams expressing regret because of his retirement from office were received by Mr. Gladstone. The Nationalists propose to present to him an address in recognition of the great services that he has rendered to the Irish cause.

The speech from the throne proroguing parliament was signed by the queen Saturday. It is neither long nor significant. The speech is the last official document prepared by Mr. Gladstone. It briefly refers to the protracted and laborious character of the session.

Prime Minister Rosebery held his first cabinet council at his residence yesterday afternoon. All the ministers were present except Mr. Asquith and Mr. Fowler, who, however, will retain the offices. The council was in session for only a short time. Upon its conclusion, Lord Rosebery sent a message to the queen, submitting the names of the members of the new cabinet.

Home Rule.

The Irish Independent of Dublin, which is a Parnellite organ, will contain an article saying that as Mr. Gladstone has now retired it will be necessary that full and complete assurances be obtained from Lord Rosebery that the government's home rule policy shall be continued. It adds that only on condition that Lord Rosebery, in the fullest sense, adheres to this policy and gives guarantees that a home rule bill will be passed within a practicable period of time can the Parnellites continue to support the Liberal government. On this point, the paper declares, there must be no weakness or hesitation. Lord Rosebery must show his colors immediately.

Interviews had with leading members of the house of commons show that while a section of the Radicals continue to strongly resent the selection of Lord Rosebery instead of Mr. Harcourt as Mr. Gladstone's successor, there is a large preponderance of Liberals who favor accepting Lord Rosebery.

The general feeling is one of confidence that Lord Rosebery will carry out the promises made by Mr. Gladstone.

The Irish Nationalists state that they do not feel as though they had any right to take part in the agitation over the leadership of the Liberal party, but, strong in the past promises of the government and their own voting strength, they rely upon the government giving practical attention in due course to the Irish claims.

The Wilson Tariff Bill Must Undergo Still Further Tinkering.

SOME HINTS PASS UNHEEDED.

Debate Is Expected to Begin About March 19.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Senators Jones, McPherson and Vest continued their work on the Wilson bill at the Capitol until 10 o'clock last night, but did not get the bill in shape to suit them and stopped at that hour with the intention of resuming the work today. They announced at the conclusion of the meeting that the bill would not be in shape to be reported to the full committee today.

The senators had the clerk of the house ways and means committee with them during the meeting last evening, and it is understood that they went over many items of the bill, making careful comparisons of the changes with the house bill. It has been found that some of the amendments made do not concur with the main portions of the bill, and many corrections have been found necessary at the last hour. This work is consuming much of the time of the committee, as well as that which it is necessary to give to the fixing of rates on the disputed items.

On Saturday it was understood that all of the controverted articles except sugar had been agreed to and settled, but yesterday it was asserted that there is another hitch, and a recast has been ordered on several of the articles taken from the free list and put on the dutiable list. The demands of the conservative senators, the committee asserts, are unreasonable, and it is not disposed to accede to them.

Committee Won't Yield.

The committee does not believe there has been any combination of the dissatisfied senators to kill the bill in the event they fail to get all that they demand. The Louisiana senators, the committee asserts, have endeavored to create this impression. They do not believe that the senators who are urging coal and iron ore to be put on the dutiable list would vote against the bill if those two articles were to remain on the free list.

Holding this view, the committee is not disposed to yield to the demands of those senators who have given so much trouble. The committee is willing to yield a little for harmony's sake, but not beyond the line where the Democratic party can stand and maintain its tariff reform policy.

Assistant Secretary Hamlin was before the committee to discuss the administration features of the bill, which come within that part of the treasury work over which he presides.

Its Future.

The course of the bill in the senate will become a matter of interesting conjecture. When it is finally reported it will be sent to the calendar, pending the preparation of reports and of speeches. This will take at least 10 days, and according to the judgment of a Democratic senator, the bill can hardly be called up for the commencement of the general debate before Monday, the 19th instant. As soon as debate is begun, the majority will insist that the daily sessions be held from 12 to 6 o'clock.

"We are trying to report a bill that will bring to it the support of the entire party," said Senator McPherson, "but whether we shall be successful remains to be seen. We have and are encountering many obstacles."

Reunited.

ST. LOUIS, March 6.—The two great bodies of Methodism met in a joint love feast and communion at Union M. E. church yesterday. All united in attesting their joy at burial of strife and dissension, symbolized by the service. The split in Methodism dates back to 1844, when a southern bishop did not see his way to liberate his slaves at the behest of the general conference.

Interested Maryland Creditors.

BALTIMORE, March 6.—The decision of Judge Hammond of the Massachusetts supreme court refusing to turn over $280,000 held by New England Iron Hall creditors to the Indianapolis receiver was read with great interest by the large number of members in Maryland. Judge Dennis will shortly be called upon here to decide practically the same question.

Officers of the Sorosis.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The Sorosis society elected officers as follows: President, Mrs. Fanny Helmuth; first vice president, Mrs. Jennie de L. M. Losier; second vice president, Mary A. Newton; third vice president, Henrietta Marion; recording secretary, Maude K. Clarke; corresponding secretary, Mary D. Hall; treasurer, Sarah E. Youmans.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Fritz Nolte, a sailor, 40 years old, visited a family named Freund in Brooklyn and shot Clara Freund, aged 14, in the neck. He then killed himself. The girl is fatally wounded. His object was to prevent the girl revealing the fact that he had attempted to assault her.

Out of Politics.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., March 6.—The retirement from politics of B. L. Hewitt, who was speaker of the house of representatives in 1880-81, is announced. Mr. Hewitt's candidacy for re-election was abandoned on account of sickness.

WILL BE APPRECIATED.

An Order of Much Benefit to Both Shippers and Shipowners.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Assistant Secretary Hamlin has issued a circular of great importance to shipowners, extending the "Lay order" privilege. Hitherto vessels in the foreign trade arriving in harbors late in the afternoon have been compelled to wait until 9 o'clock the next morning, when the customs office opens for business, to receive their permit to unload, and when arriving even as early as 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon they have been compelled to wait until the following Monday morning.

Under the new regulation the agents or owners of any steamship may in advance of the arrival of such steamship apply to the collector of the port for permission to unload such vessel immediately on her arrival. Any cargo discharged under this application must remain upon the wharf until removed in conformity with the terms of the regular general order to be issued after the completion of the entry at the house, and the cargo, during the time it is on the wharf, is to be at the owner's risk.

The vessel owners are also required to execute a bond in the sum of $100,000, to indemnify the collector for any losses and liabilities which may be occasioned by the unloading of the vessel in advance of issuance of the general permit. The unloading is to be done in the presence of an inspector of customs.

FATALLY WOUNDED.

A Tough Character Assaults a Farmer at North Stonington, R. I.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 6.—Ezekiel C. Turner, a farmer residing in North Stonington, was shot and mortally wounded by Michael McGowan, who entered Turner's house and demanded a drink of cider. He was refused by Turner, and when he attempted to assault him Turner went into an adjoining room for a gun.

After a hard tussel, the roughs managed to wrest the gun away from the farmer, and in the sight of the farmer's wife, McGowan pulled the trigger and delivered all the shot into the farmer's abdomen. Turner sank to the floor with the blood gushing from the wounds. As soon as he realized what he had done, McGowan and his companion named Donaghue fled. They were both arrested and held. Turner will not recover. McGowan belongs in Pawtucket, R. I., and has borne a hard reputation.

A Close Contest.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 6.—Two of the largest vessels in the coastwise fleet had an exciting race from Philadelphia to this port. They were the Mary A. Randall and the Stella E. Caplin. The race was to test the merits of the keel and centerboard built vessels, and the Randall, a centerboard vessel, reached this port about 10 minutes in the lead.

Election Day In Iowa.

DES MOINES, March 6.—Municipal elections were held in a number of cities throughout Iowa yesterday. The Republicans made gains in several cities that have been steadily Republican, and some others gained slightly in councilmen. The question of modifying the present prohibition law does not seem to have played a part.

Referee Was Humane.

SAVANNAH, March 6.—Thomas Silverthorn knocked out James Duffy in eight rounds at Thunderbolt last night. The ninth round was called, but Referee Dempsey declared it inhuman to allow the fight to proceed, and decided Silverthorn the winner.

Plenty of Work at Reduced Wages.

HAMMOND, Ind., March 6.—After being out a week, the East Chicago strikers decided to accept the reduction, and nearly all of them returned to work yesterday. The iron and steel mills run day and night to make up for lost time.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The leaders of the striking weavers announce that in a few days more the bosses will be forced to give in. The jobbers, they say, want some assurance that the goods ordered will be delivered on time.

Convict Commits Suicide.

SYRACUSE, March 6.—Jesse Wade committed suicide in Auburn state prison by hanging himself by a silk handkerchief from his cell door. Wade was sentenced for burglary. He had been in the prison but three days.

Portion of Deadwood In Ashes.

DEADWOOD, S. D., March 6.—Fire broke out here in Fashold's saloon, and destroyed all that part of the city lying between the center of Main street and Chinatown. The best portion of the city is in ruins.

COURTS WILL DECIDE

Legality of Leicester, Mass., Elections to Be Tested.

ELECTION DAY IN MAINE CITIES.

The Majority Still Clings to the Republican Party.

BOSTON, March 6.—The annual meetings in Massachusetts towns were held yesterday. Some were quiet as a lamb, while others resembled more the lion.

At Dedham it was the most exciting in the history of the town. The great fight was over the license question. Mrs. Anna E. Ely was a successful candidate for the board of overseers, being the first woman ever elected to such a position in the town.

At Hingham the townspeople turned out in full force.

The discussion at Middleboro was the most heated of any, and arose, as might have been expected, from the recent attack upon the town. When the question of town history was brought up it called forth many caustic words. One indignant citizen said that he hoped that it would be written by one who had breathed New England air more than six months.

There has not been such a vote cast before in the past 20 years in Danvers.

A Hitch at Leicester.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 6.—The legality of the votes taken at the town meeting in Leicester yesterday is to be tested in court by John McTamany, inventor of the ballot machine, which is authorized by the statutes for use in town meetings. At a town meeting last December it was voted to authorize the selectmen to procure the McTamany machines for the annual meeting.

The committee on election laws of the legislature came up from Boston to see the machines work, but were disappointed, as only 28 of the more than 500 votes cast were put in the machine. The opposition was led by A. E. Smith and William Bell, against whom McTamany threatens criminal proceedings for interfering with and intimidating voters. McTamany claims that the votes not cast in his machine are not legal, because the town has voted to use the machine and under the statutes is obliged to use it.

THE PINE TREE STATE

Shows That She Still Leans Toward the Republican Party.

BATH, Me., March 6.—James W. Wakefield (Rep.) was elected mayor with six aldermen and 17 councilmen. But one Citizen alderman and four Citizen councilmen were elected.

LEWISTON, Me., March 6.—The candidates for the office of mayor were Frank L. Noble (Rep.), Dr. L. J. Martel (Dem.) and T. F. Callahan (Citizen). F. L. Noble (Rep.) was elected mayor. Five wards went Republican and two Democratic. Excitement ran high, and there was fighting in wards 3 and 5.

EASTPORT, Me., March 6.—Charles A. Hume, Republican, was elected mayor. The Republicans also elected board of aldermen, and the remainder of their ticket.

DAMARISCOTTA, Me., March 6.—The Republicans carried Bristol, electing every officer. The town has been heretofore Democratic.

PORTLAND, Me., March 6.—Westbrook Republicans re-elected their mayor, the city clerk, 11 out of 13 aldermen, and eight out of 10 school committeemen.

AUBURN, Me., March 6.—Smith (Rep.) was elected mayor. The aldermen are unanimously Republican.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 6.—Hallowell Republicans elected L. D. Merchant mayor, and carried three out of five wards.

ELLSWORTH, Me., March 6.—Returns indicate that Nehemiah H. Higgins (Dem.) was elected mayor by 2 majority over Fred B. Aiken (Rep.). Four of the five aldermen are Republicans.

WATERVILLE, Me., March 6.—Christian Knauff (Rep.) was elected mayor. Five wards out of seven are Republican.

HALLOWELL, Me., March 6.—L. D. Merchant (Rep.) was elected mayor. Republicans carry three wards and Fusion two.

GARDINER, Me., March 6.—O. B. Clason was elected mayor. The Democrats carried one ward and Republicans the remaining six.

SACO, Me., March 6.—Republicans made a clean sweep here, carrying seven wards and electing Frank Foss mayor. At Old Orchard Republicans elected the whole ticket.

PORTLAND, Me., March 6.—Mayor Baxter (Rep.) was returned with 1200 majority. Five out of the seven wards went Republican, and Republicans also elected 16 out of 21 councilmen.

ROCKLAND, Me., March 6.—The city elections resulted in the re-election of Mayor Knight (Rep.). Every officer elected is a Republican.

The towns of Cape Elizabeth, Gorham, Burton and Kennebunkport also went strongly Republican.

Of the town officers of Bucksport, Me., John J. Lee for treasurer was the only Democrat elected.

A Disgraceful Affair.

LEBANON, O., March 6.—At the Missionary Baptist church four miles from here, there is a division over the pastor, and the congregation met to discuss his retention. Some one called the pastor a liar, and a general fight ensued. The pulpit furniture was wrecked, the pews and carpet ruined, and more than 50 persons injured.

Won't Race For Money.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 6.—John S. Johnson declares that he will not consent to meet Bicyclist Zimmerman for a money purse, as proposed by Zimmerman. Johnson says that while he will race Zimmerman for a "suitable prize" and the championship of the world, he will not race for money.

When you get fairly at it you will certainly want a new carpet or two, or some rugs—in a hurry.

—Senator Hoar proposes that the general government shall effectively outlaw the lottery business. The bill which he has introduced defines a lottery as any "scheme for the distribution of property by chance among persons who have paid, or agreed to pay, a valuable consideration for the chance, whether called a lottery, raffle or gift enterprise or by some other name," and then refers to the possession of, or arranging into the United States, of tickets, and extends the present law more rigidly than before to mailing, importation, etc., making the first offense punishable by fine or imprisonment, and continued offenses by incarceration only. It is made unlawful to import lottery tickets of any kind.

All these men, with other noted authors, are now writing articles of value and interest for the Boston Sunday Journal. The Journal, by the way, has made great bounds of late on account of its live news and entertaining special articles.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Location of Hose House in West Quincy in Debate.

A POPULATION OF 20,000.

Mayor Has Doubts, But Council Takes It for Granted and Acts.

All the twenty-three members of the City Council were present at the regular meeting of Monday evening,

The First Veto.

Mayor Hodges returned without his approval order No. 11, granting a license as a private detective to Daniel McGrath, stating as his only reason that he had no evidence that the city had the 20,000 population, required by Section 7 of Chapter 103.

The vote was reconsidered and the question came on passing the order to be ordained notwithstanding the objections of the Mayor, and it was defeated by a vote of 11 to 11 not the necessary two-thirds, as follows:

YEAS—Bigelow, Federhen, Holden, Johnson, Lamb, Litchfield, McKeon, Moxon, Rooney, Snow and Waterhouse—11.

NAYS—Adams, Anderson, Babcock, Baker, Clark, Holbrook, Lennon, O'Brien, Robbins, Shackley and Sullivan—11.

Just before adjournment, Councilman Johnson moved to reconsider. The committee had given the matter careful consideration and had obtained opinions from reliable sources that the city had a population of 20,000.

Councilman Holbrook wanted facts not opinions.

Councilman Johnson wanted to know where the Mayor got his facts.

The vote was reconsidered, and the order came up again for passage over the veto.

Councilman Holbrook wanted to know if the city had a population of 20,000.

Councilman Federhen thought the census and percentage should be considered. He believed the city had 20,000 population.

Councilman Johnson had it from three gentleman that the city had 20,000 population.

Councilman Holbrook wanted to sustain veto.

Councilman Anderson believed the State Board of Health estimated that city had a population of over 20,000.

The order was then passed over the veto by a unanimous vote.

Amendment to Ordinance.

Mayor Hodges forwarded a communication from Overseer Arnold requesting an amendment to the ordinance establishing the office of City Physician, relative to pay for medicines. Referred to Committee.

Petitions.

Applications were received from Thomas Alexander and Emma T. Baker as common victuallers, and from Abel Cain for State Aid. Referred to Committees.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for a location on Howard avenue, that residence of Chief of Police might be connected by telephone. An order granting the request was introduced, read once, and both referred to committee.

Councilman Lennon presented the petition of J. Warren Nightingale and others that lines of Centre street be defined. To Committee on Streets.

Reports.

The Committee on Lights reported recommending an incandescent light at corner of Willard and Bunker Hill streets, an arc light in place of incandescent at junction of Granite and School streets, an arc and three incandescent on Squantum street, two arc lights on Botolph street, and an arc light at "Four Corners" at Quincy Neck. The last was passed to be ordained, and each of the others advanced a stage.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the New England Telephone Co. a location in Ward Six. Read once.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported no legislation necessary on the remonstrance relative to granite in the new High schoolhouse. Accepted.

Hose 3 Location.

Upon motion of Councilman Moxon the order to purchase the Foresters lot, for a new fire station in Ward Four was taken from the table.

The adverse report of the committee was adopted and the order killed.

Another order making an appropriation for a hose house to be erected on the Willard school lot was taken from the table.

An amendment was adopted changing the location to the Donnelly lot.

Before advancing the amended order a stage, Councilman Moxon thought an order to purchase, the Donnelly lot ought to be considered.

Councilman Federhen said this was the purpose and an order had been prepared.

Upon motion of Councilman Holbrook the order under consideration was laid on the table, and Councilman Rooney read an order offered by Councilman Shackley which was written by Councilman Federhen. It appropriated $5000 for the purchase of the Donnelly lot. Read and referred to Committee on Finance.

The other order was taken from table and referred to the same committee.

New Minor Officers.

The special committee reported the following nominations and they were all elected:

Fence Viewers,—Charles S. French, Henry G. Pratt, James Nightingale, John R. O'Neil, Quincy A. Faunce, Cephas Drew.

Field Drivers,—William Faxon, George Crane, Patrick Connors, Samuel D. DeForrest, James Berry, William V. West Allen T. Williams.

Measures of wood and bark,—Eben W. Sheppard, Herbert D. Adams, Frank S. Patch, George P. Meade, John Golden, Thomas J. Foley, Lysander W. Nash, Bradford E. Boyden.

Fire Alarm Box.

Councilman Johnson offered an order for a fire alarm box at the corner of Washington and Arnold streets. To committee on Fire Department.

Adjourned at 9.10.

BRAINTREE.

Two Boards of Assessors Elected—Large No-License Majority.

The only business of the Braintree town meeting was the election of officers. The moderator was Judge Asa French.

At the opening of the meeting it was voted that the Selectmen should also act as Assessors, but nevertheless a separate board was balloted for. The successful candidates:

Selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor,—Ansel O. Clark, John V. Scollard, W. W. Maybury.

The meeting adjourned to Monday next.

WEYMOUTH.

The Republicans Elect the Ticket for Selectmen.

The election officers at Weymouth have been busy counting votes since early Monday afternoon. There were something over 1900 votes cast, and as the votes are considerably split up it takes a long time to count them. It was given out this morning that the result would not be ascertained before noon today.

Later.

The result of the vote in Weymouth was announced this noon and as a result the Republicans elected the whole board of selectmen, although in some wards their candidate was also nominated by the citizens' caucus.

The selectmen elected were:

Ward 1,—Henry A. Nash.
Ward 2,—Nelson W. Gardner.
Ward 3,—Charles E. Bicknell.
Ward 4,—Bradford Hawes.
Ward 5,—Gordon Willis.

License—yes, 782; no, 890.

The water appropriations of Weymouth were as follows: Water works, $24,400; extensions, $3000; hydrants and fountains, $7000.

Dedham elected a woman on the board of the overseers of the poor, Mrs. Anna E. Ely.

The new Randolph selectmen are: P. H. McLaughlin, F. M. French, and J. K. Willard.

Among the no-license towns are Milton, Braintree, Holbrook, Hingham, Randolph, Hyde Park, Dedham, Wellesley, Foxboro and Franklin.

Medway voted not to purchase the water works franchise or a steam fire engine.

—Editor Marden, the late State Treasurer, says substantially that the present state house is ninety years old, and has been altered so much that its architect, Mr. Bulfinch, wouldn't recognized it if he could come back to earth. It has got to be remodelled, any case, in time; why shouldn't it be done now, care being taken that the main features of the old building are either preserved or reproduced.

—President Cleveland appointed on Tuesday last, Winslow Warren of Dedham as Collector of the Port of Boston. He has been for years president of the Dedham water company, is one of the trustees of the savings bank and chairman of the parish committee of the Unitarian church.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

A Laboring Man Replies to Mr. Henry H. Faxon.

CHARGE UNTRUE AND A LIBEL.

The More Prominent Causes of Poverty —The Question of Taxation.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

In the mass of verbage, which Mr. H. H. Faxon has dignified by the name of a letter upon "The Unemployed," there are a few grains of truth, but they are so mixed up with cant about his favorite hobby—the drink traffic—and objectionable remarks about those in straightened circumstances, that it is difficult to recognize any truth whatsoever in such a tirade.

That there are a few families in this city whose poverty has been caused by strong drink, no one will seek to deny, but to say that most of those who are now in poverty through lack of employment, spent their money in the rum shop during prosperous times, is absurdly untrue, and a libel upon a large number of industrious citizens.

I have not time to enter upon this subject at any length, but will mention one or two of the

which have led to the unusual poverty which has existed during the past winter. In 1892 we had a lockout which lasted over four months, and many families were just recovering from the effects of the financial loss of that period, when the late depression in trade began, and hundreds were again thrown out of employment.

It may not be known to Mr. Faxon, but it is a fact nevertheless that even in prosperous times stonecutters as a rule do not average in wages much over $2 per day, while quarrymen average considerable less. Now I think it will be admitted that from such wages a man with a family to support cannot have a very large surplus to lay past against the proverbial rainy day, however much he may wish it.

Mr. Faxon's cheap sneers at "so-called socialists, labor reformers, and other political devils," are Unworthy of Notice.

Among these classes are probably the men who are guilty of the awful crime of complaining "that wealthy citizens are not more heavily taxed." This crime of itself would be enough in Mr. Faxon's opinion to send the criminal to the abode of all devils—political or social.

Referring to Charles F. Adams in the latter paragraph of his letter Mr. Faxon says: "The city can better afford to lose as citizens a thousand of those who have clamored for an increase in the taxes of large property holders than to part with one of that ancient and honored family."

I have no doubt, whatever, but this is true in Mr. Faxon's opinion, because to get rid of a thousand of would put off for a while at least, the day when those large property holders will be more heavily taxed; but I doubt very much if there are many outside of his own class who will share Mr. Faxon's opinion. I do not think, however, there will be any general exodus of large property holders from Quincy, even though Charles Francis Adams did leave, but if there were the city should stipulate that they take some of their ramshakle old buildings with them. These would certainly not be missed.

Mr. Faxon is without doubt an oracle upon the temperance question, and upon that subject I heartily agree with him, but as a writer upon the unemployed question, he is a total failure, for the sake of his own reputation as a man of common sense, and good intention, he should leave it severely alone.

NEMO.

South Quincy.

—Mr. Edward Brooks, president of the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association, has ordered 1200 quail from Chattanooga. He will spend all the appropriation available this year on quail; being of the opinion that these birds are better fitted for our climate than western grouse. All quail, however, are to be turned out to the eastward of Boston, and not in the high cold regions of the west of the state.

—The annual report of the Board of Assessors of Boston for 1893, states that the total valuation of the city, upon which taxes were assessed, for the financial year 1893-4, was $924,425,251; of which $417,280,175 was of land, marsh and flats; $290,482,100 of dwelling houses, stores and other structures; $202,015,500 of personal property other than bank stock separately assessed; $14,315,976 of shares in national banks, located and taxable in Boston.

To the Bicycle World a subscriber writes:

H=O Hornby's Oatmeal

Told by the Fireside.

There are fads in bonnets and dresses and wraps,
And fads so funny and strange,
And though it may seem unlikely perhaps,
'Tis a fact, there's a fad in a range.

On the crinoline dress there are plenty of jokes,
And the fad is a subject of jest,
But the range that will tickle both young and old folks,
Is the Glenwood—it leads all the rest.

The fire kindles up with quickness and ease,
Cooks your food through and through, in a manner to please,
Save your heat, save your coal, save your patience and rest,
By using "The Glenwood," acknowledged the best.

PATENTS
NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Write for instructions and advice.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Diverse Opinions on the Great Problem of the Unemployed.

BOSTON, March 6.—The committee on unemployed gave a hearing in the chamber of the house of representatives on the problem of the unemployed and alleviating their distress.

State Organizer Pillar of the American Federation of Labor said that state farms and state factories are impracticable. Labor asked for shorter hours and a larger share of the product of their work.

He would suggest to meet the question at the present moment all the state work needed should be done at once, and done by the state, not by contract. The state should build a Cape Cod canal and operate it.

Another thing which should be done is to increase the school age of the child and take children out of the factories, where now they are allowed to compete with the father. He was opposed to a commission on the unemployed.

Morrison I. Swift read the document adopted by the unemployed. He suggested that garment making shops be opened.

Patrick O'Neil, who ran for governor on the Socialist labor ticket, said the duty of the state was to provide for the culture of the citizens.

The legislative committee on insurance considered two bills in the interests of fraternal beneficiary organizations. The first authorized the latter organizations to grant inducements to procure new members.

J. H. Butler appeared for the petitioners, requesting the passage of the bill. H. H. C. Miller advocated the measure. The Knights of Honor insisted that existing laws in the commonwealth are by far too stringent. The proposed change would assist their organization. Several witnesses favored the plan.

The committee then heard the second bill amending the law so that the death fund may be used for no other purpose than therein described, excepting for the payment of counsel, witnesses and court fees incurred in contesting claims believed to be fraudulent. The hearing was then closed.

On Short Time.

SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., March 6.—The employes in the extensive locomotive shops of the New York, Lake Erie and Western railroad at this point have been placed on eight hours. The gangs were divided, each man working every alternate day.

Almost Ready For the Jury.

CHICAGO, March 6.—The Coughlin trial was adjourned last evening before Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Bottom had concluded his address to the jury. It is thought that the case will be given to the jury about Wednesday noon.

A Georgia Lynching Bee.

COLLINS, Ga., March 6.—Sylvester Rhodes, the negro who killed Robert Rosier at Cobbtown Feb. 24, was brought to this town last night. The negro was instantly surrounded by an enraged mob and was shot to death.

Palace For a Young Prince.

LONDON, March 6.—A dispatch from Berlin says: The emperor has bought a villa near the new palace at Potsdam, with extensive grounds, as a residence for the crown prince, who is not quite 12 years old.

No Wrangling.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The second session of the Brith Abraham society was held last night. The officers elected Sunday night were installed. The installation exercises were of a jovial character.

Collided In a Fog.

CALCUTTA, March 6.—Steamship Malda collided during a fog on the river with the ship Imberhorne. The Imberhorne was slightly damaged, but the Malda sustained serious injuries.

Atchison's Request Denied.

CHICAGO, March 6.—Chairman Caldwell has handed down his decision, denying the request of the Atchison road for a boycott against the Southern Pacific on passenger business.

Homeward Bound.

NORFOLK, March 6.—The presidential party, after gunning yesterday in Currituck sound, proceeded homeward, and reached Norfolk harbor last evening.

CORNS IN COURT.

A Novel Case In an Oregon Court In Which a Lady Offers to Show Her Feet.

Spectators in Justice Wood's court yesterday morning enjoyed an hour of comedy, in which H. D. Carmine and wife and Mrs. Luella Runyon were the principal actors.

Carmine was on trial on charges of assaulting Mrs. Runyon and tearing and destroying a cape belonging to her. The complaining witness testified that she was a chiropodist, and that she had contracted with Mrs. Carmine, who is a dressmaker, for some dresses and a cape, agreeing to tender her professional services in return. When the dresses, etc., were completed, Mrs. Runyon called for them, but found that Mrs. Carmine didn't need her services, but wanted her money. Carmine interfered in the trouble which followed and managed to tear the cape and get himself mixed up with the justice's court.

When Carmine was placed on the stand and had told his version of the affair, he was asked if his wife was troubled with corns or bunions. The attorneys for the defense excitedly objected to this and had a wordy war with Deputy District Attorney Malarkey, which resulted in a victory for the defense, the court holding that a husband was not supposed to tell all he knew in regard to his wife.

When Mrs. Carmine took the stand, however, the objection no longer held, and she was compelled to admit that she had a small corn which "never troubled her." In the discussion of corns and bunions which followed Mrs. Runyon demanded that Mrs. Carmine allow the court to examine her feet, and Mrs. Carmine won the day by spiritedly replying that she was willing to do so if the court thought it necessary.

Carmine was discharged from custody.—Portland Oregonian.

THE SINS OF FASHION

A Cincinnati Young Lady Couldn't Take the Sacrament Because of a Tight Veil.

A most shocking yet ludicrous thing occurred Sunday morning in one of the leading churches of this city. A beautiful young woman was the person guilty.

She was elegantly attired and wore one of those peculiar veils that fit closely over the bonnet and face and tie in a sort of hangman's noose under the left ear. After an eloquent and impressive sermon the bread in silver salvers was passed down the aisles by the members of the session. The lady who wore the curious veil took a piece of bread and tried to slip the knot at the ear, failing in which she vainly endeavored to put the morsel of bread under the veil into her mouth, but she only drew the loop tighter. She blushed, grew vexed and tossed the typical fragment of bread carelessly into the aisle. The elder turned just in time to observe her, and the plate almost fell from his hands. Several other faces took on a horrified expression and then a smile.

The fashionable young woman would have given her hope of heaven to have been able to retreat from those glances, but quick as she was after the service to reach the door she was not soon enough to escape the minister, who reprimanded her privately on the sins of fashion. —Cincinnati Tribune.

THE BRITISH CABINET

Kimberley Takes the Position Which Was Held by Rosebery.

MORLEY RETAINS HIS PORTFOLIO.

Radical Liberals Wrathy Over the Queen's Action.

LONDON, March 6.—The Standard makes the following official announcement: The Earl of Kimberley will resume the foreign portfolio; Henry Fowler, the Indian portfolio; and T. E. Ellis, now a lord of the treasury, will become patronage secretary to the treasury, succeeding Mr. Majoribanks, the Liberal "whip."

The appointment of Mr. Fowler, who is now president of the local government board, is a surprise, but it is regarded as a good one, as he is well informed upon the financial questions and difficulties of India.

John Morley has consented to retain his portfolio as chief secretary for Ireland, at the urgent request of Lord Rosebery and others of his colleagues. Lord Rosebery has called a meeting of his party to be held at the foreign office on Monday next.

Upon the recommendation of Mr. Gladstone, the queen has raised Stuart Rendel, member of parliament, to the peerage.

Sir Reginald Earl Welby, C. G. B., permanent secretary of the treasury, has, upon the recommendation of Mr. Gladstone, been raised to the peerage.

Sir Algernon West, upon the recommendation of Mr. Gladstone, has been appointed a privy councillor, and Chairman Cowan of the Midlothian Liberal association has been made a baronet.

Finally, the queen, upon the recommendation of Mr. Gladstone, has made George W. Spencer Lyttleton and George H. Murray (Mr. Gladstone's secretaries) companions of the bath.

Plain Talk.

At the annual meeting last evening of the council of the London Liberal Radical union James Stuart, M. P., a Radical and Home Ruler, proposed a resolution of regret at the resignation of Mr. Gladstone, and expressing congratulation to Lord Rosebery and Sir William Harcourt, and setting forth that it was the belief of the union that they would faithfully endeavor to carry out the Newcastle program, and give prompt effect to Mr. Gladstone's declaration of war against the house of lords.

George Howell, M. P., an advanced Liberal, in favor of home rule, seconded the resolution, but he said he did so with regret, because he thought with others that Mr. Gladstone had been hounded out of political life. Mr. Howell said it was useless to disguise matters, but the supposition was that the old lady of Windsor and some of his own colleagues had not been as strong as they might have been in keeping the Grand Old Man at his post. The Liberal Radical party would suffer by his desertion or resignation. They ought to bear that in mind when discussing the claims of rival candidates for the premiership.

Another speaker declared that the queen had influenced Mr. Gladstone to retire, because she wanted Lord Rosebery to be premier before he married a princess, this being a reference to the rumor circulated some time ago that Lord Rosebery would marry a daughter of the Prince of Wales.

The resolution of Mr. Stuart was then adopted.

No Thanks.

The Chronicle calls attention to this incident: One of the most significant events of Saturday may possibly have escaped public notice. On that day the great steward of our empire placed his resignation, after 60 years of service, in his royal mistress' hands. That resignation was recorded by the queen in the court circular, in the formal phrase habitual to the resignation of a prime minister. It was "graciously accepted."

There was not a line, not a syllable, of regret or thanks, and far less of personal sorrow than was expressed when Lord Salisbury, a statesman who, compared with Mr. Gladstone, is a mere youngling in the great business of government, relinquished office after vainly attempting to coerce Ireland. The queen notified the public of the fact of Lord Salisbury's resignation by stating that she accepted that resignation with much regret.

Her majesty, we gather, does not view with regret the departure from her council of the mightiest of living Englishmen, the heroic figure of his age and the statesman of whom our children's children will speak when we are in the dust, and there would be, we suggest, reasons above all others why the nation expected some touch of personal feeling from the queen when she bade farewell to her illustrious servant.

He alone of all others has been the safeguard of the English monarchy and its preserver at once against its unwise friends and open foes. Again and again has Mr. Gladstone held the bridge against Radicals when the smallest outwork of privilege or endowment attached to the royal house was attacked, and now he goes, this mightiest of all figures of the Victorian age, unthanked and dismissed with the phrase that covered the retreat of the feeblest of his predecessors.

The Thunderer's Comment.

Commenting upon the new peers, The Times says: What a grimly ironic destiny seems to dog the footsteps of Mr. Gladstone's recent policy. Not only is the new premier acclaimed with unanimity by the party and is a member of the chamber which the retiring chief denounced in his farewell oration, but what is more singular, Lord Rosebery never sat in the house of commons. At the same time the "whip" on whom the government relied to keep its motley party together has been called to the house of lords, while to cap the climax of incongruity Mr. Gladstone's latest official act is to add two new hereditary legislators to the upper house. The article predicts that Lord Rosebery will hold the party together only a short time.

The Daily News writes a eulogy of John Morley, who, it says, for the sake of Ireland, has consented to sacrifice himself.

IN CONGRESS.

No Business of Importance Transacted In Either Branch.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The senate held a short session and but little business of importance was transacted. A brief debate on silver was precipitated by the intention expressed by the vice president to refer the Bland seignorage bill (which had just been received from the house) to the finance committee. Mr. Stewart opposed this disposition of the bill and asked that it be allowed to lie on the table subject to being called up at any time. This was finally ordered. Mr. Stewart at the same time offered a free silver amendment to the bill.

The only other event of interest was the offering by Mr. Morgan of a resolution looking to the appointment of tariff commission members, which he offered as an amendment to the tariff bill. A number of bills of importance were passed.

An executive session of a little more than an hour was held, and a number of nominations confirmed.

The debate on the pension appropriation bill continued all day in the house, and at this considerable spirit was displayed. The principal speakers were Messrs. Dolliver, Hepburn, Enloe and Cannon. It is expected that the debate will be concluded this evening.

WATCH DISEASES.

SOMETHING LIKE THOSE OF THE HUMAN MECHANISM.

A Jeweler Calls the Ailments of a Watch Consumption, Rheumatism and Heart Failure and Explains the Analysis In Each Case.

"That's the twenty-third today—we're going to have an electric storm," remarked a down town jeweler as he was handed a watch having a broken mainspring for repair.

"How do you make that out?" inquired the customer.

"Why, by the number of broken mainsprings, to be sure," was the reply. "There is a regular epidemic to which watches are subject, much as humanity is to smallpox and cholera. It is produced by certain electric conditions of the atmosphere. The mainspring becomes magnetized and more brittle, and a slight shock will break it. Occasionally it will snap with no apparent cause whatever. I have had it happen to watches lying in the showcase or upon the rack there. You know, of course, that such atmospheric conditions frequently disturb telegraph and telephone lines and even prevent communication. That might be expected, as they are operated by electricity, but the effect on watches is singular. Frequently even a severe thunderstorm will produce it, but an auroral display, which seems to be an electrical disturbance, is sure to result in many broken watch springs, and no better term could be applied to the trouble than epidemic.

"No, there is no reliable protection against it, though many things have been tried and many thousands of dollars have been spent. Attempts have been made to temper the springs by electricity, a sort of inoculation against the disease. Then a small plate or disk of soft iron placed within the case to absorb the magnetism, a disinfectant, so to speak, has given some good results.

"Do you know," he continued in a discursive tone, "that a watch is similar in many ways to a human being? It has its diseases and decays, its epidemics, old age and finally dissolution. Yes, and each watch has its individuality and special characteristics, and the finer the watch the stronger this personality, if it can be so called, exactly as culture develops and strengthens individual character among mankind.

"Now, in this epidemic this watch feels the atmospheric condition as you do before a thunderstorm, only more acutely, as does a gouty or rheumatic person, being specially susceptible to such influence, and, perhaps having an inherent weakness at one point in the mainspring that snaps, fractures a vital organ. 'Heart failure' it might be termed, for the mainspring of the watch is its heart, its driving force. True, we can replace the mainspring, which cannot be said for the human heart, but there is no telling how soon surgery will attain that result.

"Then there's the hairspring of the watch, equivalent to its brain. It is affected by proximity to a strong localized electric force—for instance, the generator or dynamo of an electric plant. It becomes magnetized and stops—a sort of paralysis. The nonmagnetic watches have hairsprings made of a composition metal, tin, zinc and other varieties. The soft iron plate or disk I mentioned before gives protection to the hairspring as well as the mainspring by absorbing the magnetism. A few years since a number of railroad companies had these iron disks applied to the watches of many of their employees, but they are by no means a complete disinfectant.

"The lever of a watch also is subject to electric influences, and when polarized, having a forked end, it becomes a regular horseshoe magnet and first retards, then stops the hairspring—a sort of spinal meningitis, you see.

"The jewels and bearings are its joints and processes and are subject to sprains and dislocations as well as inflammation or too much friction. Any severe shock may result in a sprain or even dislocation to these joints. The latter will stop it and probably have immediate attention, while the sprain may remain unnoticed, but will render its movement irregular and eventually cause far greater injury than an actual breaking of the joints. At seas on the approach of a storm the ship's chronometers, of which three are usually carried, are 'put to bed,' as it is called, being packed in pillows to prevent injury by sudden jar from the ship's violent motion. A few minutes' error in the time of making observations might throw a vessel many miles out of its course.

"Then a watch has a kind of rheumatism. The oil with which its joints are lubricated dries and forms corundum, which irritates and cuts the pinions and bearings, creating friction or inflammation.

"Dirt to a watch, like biliousness to humanity, is its most frequent, disagreeable and least dangerous ailment. It come from all sorts of things—small fibers from the pocket, fine dust, microscopic matter from many sources, work through into the case and collectively disturb, retard and finally prevent motion altogether. The system becomes clogged, and a thorough cleaning out is the only corrective. In both these latter diseases atmospheric conditions materially influence the patient's condition, dry, dusty weather hastening the development and rendering the attack more acute. Rust or consumption is as deadly to a watch as to humanity, and after it reaches a certain stage is incurable. Once in the system its effects are never wholly eradicated, and a warm, moist atmosphere may at any time induce a return of the disease."—Chicago Tribune.

Brookline National Bank Teller Is Charged With Embezzlement.

MR. THATCHER IS UNDER ARREST.

Matter Will Probably Be Settled Outside of Court.

BOSTON, March 7.—W. Percy Thatcher, the teller of the Brookline National bank, is charged by the officials of that bank with the embezzlement of $3200.

Thatcher was arrested Monday night about 6:30 o'clock, after the books of the institution had been examined. He was taken to the police station, where he remained over night, and yesterday appeared before the district court. He pleaded not guilty, and the case was continued.

Thatcher has been in the employ of the Brookline National bank for two years, and was previously in the employ of the Maverick National bank of this city up to the time when that institution collapsed.

At the Maverick he was one of the confidential clerks of President Potter, and he was highly recommended to the Brookline bank officials. He entered that institution as a clerk, but his knowledge of banks and banking affairs made him an invaluable man, and, consequently, he was promoted to the position of paying teller.

The patrons of the bank held the young man in the greatest esteem, and on every hand the opportunity for advancement opened up for him brighter prospects, but the temptation was too great and the much trusted teller became a victim to the appetite for gain.

The discrepancies in Thatcher's accounts were not discovered until several days ago, and an expert was put to work upon the books.

He Confessed.

Thatcher had no idea as to what was going on until Monday afternoon, when he was requested to wait until the expert had completed an examination of certain books. He was confronted with the facts and protested his innocence, but finally confessed in view of the disclosures made.

Thatcher took his arrest very coolly, and refused to talk. The bank officials also were quite reticent regarding the real facts in the affair, but admitted that there was a shortage of $3200. Whether it would reach a higher figure or not they would not state.

May Be Settled Up.

This phase of the case leads many Brookline people to express the opinion that the matter will not be prosecuted in the courts, the bank officials manifesting a disposition to fix up the matter. Thatcher's bond will amply compensate for any loss.

There is also a desire on the part of Thatcher's friends to help him out of his difficulty, and unless the amount which the bank is short is increased, the end of the criminal proceedings will take place in the district court.

CITY FATHERS AT WAR.

Had to Be Escorted Home by a Detail of Police.

LOWELL, Mass., March 7.—A sergeant and detail of officers were called into last night's session of the common council, but by whose authority no one knows. The row was incident to a member's treachery, which elected George R. Davis, brother-in-law to Mayor Pickman, chief of police, as successor to the late Chief Howard, over James A. McQuade.

The Democrats fought President Sparks so vigorously that when the meeting was over he and Councilmen Ryan, Robinson and O'Connell, fearing violence from the crowd, went off under police protection, four officers being detailed by Sergeant Dunlavey to accompany them. The police committee demanded an explanation of Sergeant Dunlavey, who refused to recognize their authority. The committee assumed charge of the police and ordered Sergeant Dunlavey to report to them.

City hall was in a perfect uproar for a short time, and later the straight Democratic members went into session, passed resolutions of censure on President Sparks and decided to test the legality of his rulings. Captain Davis, the newly elected chief, has been on the force 15 years.

Wrecked a Freight Instead.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., March 7.—An attempt was made to wreck and rob an express train on the Gulf and Colorado and Santa Fe near Paulsville, I. T. Two piles of ties were placed upon the track, but a special freight train ran into them and down a 20-foot embankment. The train crew jumped and escaped injury.

Lynnfield's Hotel Burned.

LYNNFIELD, Mass., March 7.—This town sustained a great loss by fire last night, the Lynnfield House, the principal hotel in the place, being totally destroyed at a loss of $16,000. The hotel is one of the most popular resorts along the north shore, being the home of many summer guests every season.

MISSING MR. OXNARD.

Belief That He Could Be Found if Active Search Were Made.

PORTLAND, Me., March 7.—The Mysterious disappearance case, as published in Boston papers yesterday, created quite a flurry of excitement in this city for a time. Alfred L. Oxnard, the man purported to have been foully dealt with, is well known here, where he was engaged in business for years. He figured more prominently in the courts while here than he did in church, and was constantly at war with his brother, John Thomas Oxnard of Freeport, to whom the father left all of his property when he died.

Among other suits brought was the case for the recovery of insurance paid John T. Oxnard many years ago, which suit was instituted by Alfred L. Oxnard. Then came the suit for defamation of character and another to put old Mr. Oxnard under guardianship as being incapable of doing business. All of these cases were brought by Alfred Oxnard against his brother and were all thrown out of court.

Oxnard, the missing man, knew he had no case, and Seth L. Larrabee, his counsel in the case, knew this fact, too, and according to Hon. M. P. Frank, the counsel for J. T. Oxnard, Larrabee settled the case in payment of one-half his fee. Therefore the intimation of Boston papers as to Oxnard having been foully dealt with by his brother on account of the will is out of the question.

Jeremiah Rodgers of 74 Adams street is a brother of Oxnard's wife. He thinks Oxnard is within a day's journey of the city with a woman who has caused much trouble in his family.

A clew has been found which may lead to the discovery of Oxnard's whereabouts. It is reported that he was seen in this city not more than two weeks ago. Startling developments are expected soon.

IN CONGRESS.

Senator Berry and Others Object to Being Called "Obstructionists."

WASHINGTON, March 7.—A somewhat amusing episode enlivened the senate proceedings inaugurated by Senator Berry's personal explanation. A newspaper had included him in a group of portraits of nine Democratic senators, whom it charged with being "obstructionists" to the tariff bill. Mr. Berry denied that he had ever been anything but an earnest advocate of the bill, and on all occasions had urged its speedy report to the senate without modification. His explanation was followed by explanations from Senators Faulkner, Call, McLaurin and Morgan, which led to much amusement in the senate chamber.

The main interest of the day centered about the discussion as to the disposal of the Bland bill. Mr. Stewart gave notice that he would move to take it up this afternoon and make it the business before the senate until disposed of. Mr. Teller also spoke on the same subject.

The debate on the pension appropriation bill was continued in the house, the feature of the day being General Sickles' speech criticising the action of Commissioner Lochren. Agreement was reached whereby the debate on the bill will close at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Before the debate began the resolution for the investigation of Judge Jenkins' writ of injunction against the Northern Pacific railroad was taken up and passed.

Female Was Tender Hearted.

WICHITA, Kan., March 7.—A dispatch from Watongo says that four masked men and a woman raided the Traders' store at Cantonment. They robbed the proprietor and five clerks, and then took the money in the safe. At the suggestion of the female desperado the clerks were afterward refunded their wages and jewelry.

CLEVER, BUT UNFAIR.

London Truth Thus Characterizes Lord Rosebery's Appointment.

SHOULD RENOUNCE THE PEERAGE

In Order to Fittingly Retain His New Position.

LONDON, March 7.—Henry Labouchere, in an article which appears in today's Truth, says:

The responsibility for the acceptance of a peer as prime minister rests upon the Radicals unless a clear statement is made in the queen's speech that we are to have a different policy in regard to the house of lords than Lord Rosebery is supposed to entertain. Some of the Radicals will make it clear that they will decline the linking of the offices of peers, and the right of that body to interfere must cease. Lord Rosebery's public utterances with regard to Ireland are not all satisfactory.

The secrecy with which Mr. Gladstone's resignation and Lord Rosebery's appointment was managed was clever, but most unfair. Had the proper time been given, at least 100 radicals would have protested against a peer premier. We have not only a peer premier, but a peer in a pore. I do not object to any individual peer because he was born in the purple, and if Lord Rosebery is really a Radical, the difficulty of his being a peer may be surmounted by a bill allowing peers to renounce the privilege of the peerage in order that they may sit in the house of commons.

Mr. Labouchere then proceeds to argue that the house of commons cannot remain the ruling assembly while the premier is in the house of lords. In this connection, he says: "We will not have real control over him, as we can only turn him out by a hostile vote at the cost of ruining the party. We are also idiots to suppose that the electors will not perceive the utter absurdity of our position when we appeal to the country, with the cry of 'The abolition of the lords.'"

Mr. Labouchere concludes as follows: "I am now convinced that the Radicals dearly love a lord. Love and subserviency to the titled is the weak spot in the Anglo-Saxon race. We are a race of snobs, and are never happier than when indulging in an orgie of snobism."

The Future of Home Rule.

In a speech at Yorkville last night the Duke of Devonshire said that Mr. Gladstone's retirement was an event of the highest political importance. It was a satisfaction to all that he had outstayed his parliamentary reputation. It was the abdication of a ruler and leader of men in the plentitude of his strength and power. He, however, had left his successors a legacy of unsettled controversies.

Added to the Newcastle program there was the new task of undertaking the quarrel with the lords. If the declaration of war was the broad, clear issue of the house of lords' rejection of the home rule bill, they were willing to fight the matter before the country whenever the government pleased, but if the quarrel was based upon other and more recent measures he would regard them as mere pretexts.

The Liberal-Unionists, the Duke of Devonshire continued, will only offer Lord Rosebery a fair and honest opposition. They would uncompromisingly oppose home rule, but if home rule was shelved and the government devoted itself to useful legislation, such as the strengthening of the navy, the Unionists would be in no hurry to disturb the government.

The Liberal Unionists rejoiced that the government was headed by a man not indifferent to the interests and the greatness and honor of the country. The house of lords, however, would not consent to the gerrymandering of the British constituencies under the guise of a registration bill.

About Gladstone.

The Telegraph says: Mr. Gladstone has placed himself in the hands of Sir James Paget, the family's surgeon, and Oculist Nettercliff. We regret to say that there is undoubtedly a cataract forming on one of his eyes, with the prospect of a similar weakening of the other, but nothing that is not likely to yield to ordinary treatment. We are under the impression that he has by no means made his last speech in parliament.

Editorial Comment.

WILL THE Ward Four Councilman be so reckless in their demands for a new fire station that they will jeopardize all their chances. It seems so when they ask an appropriation of anything like $5000 simply for a site of a few thousand feet. It is a ridiculously large sum, and one which the City Council should never seriously consider. Some of the members are probably willing to see just how far others will carry it, but if they go too far, and it would seem now as if they had, they are liable to be brought up short. Should such an order happen to pass the Council, it would offer an excellent opportunity for a veto.

There is a disposition on the part of the City Council to give West Quincy a new fire station, and if possible one which shall be entirely satisfactory to the people of the ward, but they must agree, and furthermore should be reasonable in their demands. There is no particular location that must be secured for the site. If it is deemed inexpedient to locate on the unused part of the Willard schoolhouse lot, it can be located on any part of Copeland street between Brewer's corner and the depot, or on Miller, Cross, Common or Centre streets in the vicinity of Copeland street.

THE POPULATION of the city was under discussion at the City Council meeting Monday evening, and there seemed to be some doubt if the total was 20,000. The most reliable figures at hand are those of the census of 1890, which show a gain of 4,582 or nearly 38 per cent. over 1885. In 1885, the population was 12,145, and in 1890 it was 16,723. A like percentage of increase would make it 23,031 in May, 1895. This the LEDGER believes to be a low estimate, and would not be surprised if it went over 25,000 at that date. Brockton doubled its population in ten years,—from 13,608 in 1880, to 27,294 in 1890,—and Quincy should double in the ten years between 1885 and 1895. The population was 12,145 in 1885 and to double must increase to 24,290 in 1895. Quincy's increase is much faster than many anticipate. Compare the increase in voters and polls, the increase in births, in new houses, etc., etc., and see for yourself. The population today must be upward of 21,000, if not 22,000 or 23,000.

WHEN WE read about deadlocks like that in Everett between the mayor and aldermen, we are thankful that they cannot arise under the Quincy city charter. Everett is without an auditor and this state of affairs promises to exist some time.

MANY OF the town meetings are said to have been "the largest and most exciting in the town's history." We miss the old town meeting days.

Greater Boston Petition.

The following petition is on the desk of the City Treasurer at City Hall, but as yet no citizens has affixed his signature to it:

To the Hon. Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in General Court Assembled:

The undersigned petitioners, citizens of Boston and vicinity, respectfully petition for the passage of a law providing for the extension of the limits of the City of Boston by the annexation of adjoining cities and towns within a radius of ten miles of the State House, at any time when such cities and towns, or any of them vote to come in, and the City of Boston votes to receive them; substantially as provided in the "Greater Boston" bill introduced by Mr. Marcus C. Cook.

Town Meeting Notes.

Norwell voted no-license, and elected as selectmen, Alpheus Thomas, G. W. Griggs and Thomas Barstow.

Rockland will be a license town, the vote being—Yes, 455; No, 400.

Avon for the first time in its history voted in favor of license, giving a majority of five. The new Selectmen are Hiram Blanchard, Willian Geary and L. G. Littlefield.

Revere is still in the no-license column.

A meeting of those who have signed the petition for a division of the Sons of Temperance at West Quincy, will be held Thursday evening at the Methodist church, when the organization will be made.

J. A. Stetson Pierce has just placed a new and handsome soda fountain in his waiting-room in the Street Railway building, and it is unnecessry to say that the syrups used by him in it are the best.

Two or three rows of the best seats in the Boston theatre Tuesday afternoon, at the Press club benefit, were occupied by Quincy people, mostly young lady friends of Mr. Henry H. Faxon, who generously remembered them with tickets. It was a grand programme that was presented.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

[TO BE CONTINUED]

Christian Socialism.

Rev. Philip S. Moxom, who is to preach in the First church Quincy March 25, is an interesting figure at present in our religious world. He is one of the battle grounds where the disciples of the old and of the new contend. His religious position has been the occasion of no more controversy at this time than his radical position upon social and industrial questions. His strong article on Christian Socialism in the March number of the New England Magazine will attract the earnest attention of very many. It is not only a comprehensive and striking presentation of the subject, but is one of Dr. Moxom's most energetic and characteristic utterances. It is accompanied by a fine portrait of the courageous preacher who is just leaving Boston for his new Springfield church.—Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston.

The Story Discredited.

The relatives at West Quincy of Patrick Donahoes, who it was reported had been imprisoned for life in Ireland for killing a man, are inclined to discredit the story, as they received a letter from Millstreet last week, and although the letter did not come from him it said nothing about him and it is believed that if he had been imprisoned the letter would have been likely to have contained something about it.

There are fads in bonnets and dresses and wraps,
And fads so funny and strange,
And though it may seem unlikely perhaps,
'Tis a fact, there's a fad in a range.

On the crinoline dress there are plenty of jokes,
And the fad is a subject of jest.
But the range that will tickle both young and old folks,
Is the Glenwood—it leads all the rest.

The fire kindles up with quickness and ease,
Cooks your food through and through, in a manner to please,
Save your heat, save your coal, save your patience and rest,
By using "The Glenwood," acknowledged the best.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

MRS. RUSSELL SAGE TAKES HER STAND AS A WOMAN SUFFRAGIST.

Myra Bradwell's Career—Annuities For Single Women—The Chameleon Fad. Hon. Nellie Bass' Wedding—"We Killed a Bear, Didn't We, Peggy?"

"Will you vote to have the word 'male' stricken out of the United States constitution?" The question was asked by Mrs. Russell Sage, and the writer, being a woman, promptly replied in the affirmative and immediately added her name to the petition, which already contained the signatures of Mrs. Sage, Mrs. F. F. Thompson, Miss Helen M. Gould and others. Thus reassured, Mrs. Sage continued: "I am not a pronounced woman's rights woman, but since such women as Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Julia Ward Howe are leading a movement with this purpose in view I shall not withhold my name and my purse for its support. I am in favor of such a movement, as is also Mr. Sage.

"I thoroughly believe in women having a voice in the government, especially when they are taxed. Taxation without representation will no more be imposed on women today than it was years ago upon our ancestors when under the English yoke.

"There is a small town in the northern part of the state owned entirely by rich widows. They pay the taxes, but have no say in the town's government.

"Women, too, arrested for crime are never tried by their peers. Lizzie Borden would never have had to undergo the trial she did had there been women jurors."

"Do you think women would vote if they had the opportunity?" I queried.

"The best women would vote the best way," resumed Mrs. Sage. "Of course there might be the bad element, but I feel assured that less fraud would be practiced and the polls made more respectable by women voting. On the whole, I believe women would elevate politics as they have everything else they have gone into.

"Women are voting in Colorado, and if suffrage gets a footing in New York other states will follow."

This is a new venture for Mrs. Sage, who has been a prominent though unobtrusive worker in the cause of religion and charity for so many years back, but her sincerity may be judged by the interest she is taking in the movement.—New York Mail and Express.

Myra Bradwell's Career.

Mrs. Myra Bradwell, the first woman to be admitted to the bar in the United States, passed away at her home in Chicago on Feb. 14. Mrs. Bradwell was well known throughout the states. She began the study of law in 1852, when she became the wife of Lawyer James B. Bradwell. After carrying the case of women in law to the supreme court of the United States and meeting with defeat she succeeded in having a law passed by the legislature providing that any person of either sex might practice law in any state court.

Mrs. Bradwell studied law under her husband for several years. She was the first woman who was made a member of the Illinois Bar association and also of the Illinois Press association. The first weekly legal paper published in the western states was the Chicago Legal News, which was established 33 years ago, with Mrs. Bradwell as manager and editor. Lawyer Bradwell retired from the bench in 1869 in order to assist his wife in her large business to which the Legal News company had grown.

Mrs. Bradwell managed to find time in her busy life for much charitable and philanthropic work. During the civil war she was an active helper among the sick and wounded soldiers and did good work in the sanitary commission. She was a member of the Soldiers' home board. She was untiring in her efforts to secure the World's fair for Chicago.

Mrs. Bradwell was also a member of the Chicago Women's club and the Illinois Women's Press association.—Chicago Post.

Annuities For Single Women.

The question of providing annuities for daughters, after the English and French manner, is being discussed in Philadelphia, which city has a large contingent of attractive unmarried young women. It is asserted that these annuities can now be had in this country, as abroad, and it is pointed out that one bought and kept up for a terms of years, and perhaps increased, secures comfort and independence to the daughter who does not marry.

Considering the same topic from another standpoint, the Boston Home Journal speaks of a society for this purpose that has long been in operation throughout Denmark and works well and profitably.

"The general outline of the plan, it seems, is that a lady who does not feel sure that she means to be married or wants to be married should pay an annual premium to the central office. She receives a form of policy duly executed, and upon condition that she pays her annual premiums with regularity she will receive at the age of 40 a round sum, proportionate to the extent of her investments, and with probably certain bonuses."

The Chameleon Fad.

It is interesting to notice how the New York correspondents have seized upon the item of the wearing of lizards by women for enlargement and description. According to them, all the society women here in New York are in despair over the curtailment of their privilege to have an ugly little reptile crawling about them. As a matter of fact, not one "society" woman, certainly not one well bred woman or girl, has adopted the questionable craze. Actresses who affect such things, often as a matter of advertisement, took them up, and a large contingent of other women, who do such things because some one else does, and who belong to no particular class, either of the upper or lower tendom, wore them, but that was all. New York "society" women are open to criticism undoubtedly, but they don't "make up their faces and arms for every ball," "smoke cigarettes all day" or "drink and play poker continually," as they are often accused of doing in some of these remarkable missives that are dated from New York.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

Hon. Nellie Bass' Wedding.

Recent London prints just teem with accounts of the Hon. Nellie Bass' wedding grandeur. Everything was on a gigantic scale, from the palms in the chancel, 30 feet high and hung with orchids, to the two wedding cakes, each weighing 250 pounds, brought in vans and set up by the caterer's men into structures of 6 feet in height. A list of distinguished names figure as donors of gifts, some of the names rather outstripping the present, it seems to the casual reader—as, for instance, the Earl of Craven, who is credited with a pencil case, and the Duchess of Marlborough a blotting book. But the bride had no cause to complain. Her father emptied a jeweler's shop into her lap, and her husband picked up a few baubles for her, such as a diamond link necklace, a diamond wing comb, gold bracelet, with his name, "James," in diamonds, diamond and ruby ring, diamond and ruby pin, gold sleeve links with enameled monogram, diamond pin, gold ring, walking stick and some others. It was a great day for Burton-on-Trent.

We Killed a Bear.

Rev. J. W. Bradshaw of the Congregationalist church of Ann Arbor, Mich., preached a sermon against woman suffrage on a recent Sunday morning, being greatly concerned lest the bad women should outvote the good women. The Ann Arbor Democrat reviews the sermon and calls attention to the fact that "there are so few bad women, comparatively speaking, that as a class they never attempt to assert themselves in any place of civil government whatever." The Democrat says that Mr. Bradshaw's sermon carried little conviction and proceeds to console him in this fashion:

"Be sure, women will vote, the conservatives to the contrary notwithstanding, and when that day comes bad men and women will largely become a factor of forgotten history, while the present opponents of the cause will grasp the hand of the pioneer and proudly exclaim, 'We killed a bear, didn't we, Peggy?'"

A Fine Concert.

The Kaffir choir sang at the Wollaston Congregational church Tuesday evening. The choir was enthusiastically received by a crowded house and every piece received a hearty encore. This choir is composed of the representatives of seven distinct tribes of South Africa,—the Amaxosa, Fingo, Tembo, Bapedi, Basuto, Zulo and Cape. These South Africans should not be confounded with the common negro. There is indeed little trace of the negro type about several of them. The choir is collecting funds for the promotion of the technical education of Kaffir's and has been very successful having added several thousand dollars to its treasury.

A word about Mr. James H. BalMer, the musical director. He is the son of an English clergyman and a musician of wide attainments. He was a successful student at the Royal Academy of Music, London, where under Signor Manuel Garcia, he studied the art of voice production. The idea of organizing the African native choir was mentioned to Mr. Balmer as he lay ill in the Kimberley Hospital. When convalescent he commensed the formation of the choir by travelling through Cape Colony singing with four Africans and an Englishman for some weeks; subsequently augmenting the choir to ten voices, and ultimately to its present strength.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

WORKING WOMEN.

THEIR HARD STRUGGLE

Made Easier by the Timely Intervention of One Woman,

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

All women work. Some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. Many in stores, mills, and shops, tens of thousands are on the never ceasing treadmill earning their daily food.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance; and the nature of their duties in many cases quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints —ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhœa, or perhaps irregularity or suppression of "monthly periods"—causing severe backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing down, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society — all symptoms of the one cause — will be quickly dispelled, and you will again be free. Accept the truth.

You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only a woman can give. Her address is, Lydia E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

AN ESTATE WITHOUT HEIRS.

A Rich South Dakota Cattleman Dies Suddenly Without Making a Will.

A Chamberlain (S. D.) special says that the immense herd of cattle branded "J. B. S." ranging in Lyman county has been levied on by the treasurer of that county for taxes. The owner of the herd was John B. Smith, who is reported to have died suddenly in Minneapolis while on a business trip to that city some weeks ago. The Lyman county authorities, however, have no proof of his death, and there is no record in the probate court of that county showing that his estate has ever been probated. Parties claiming to have held a mortgage on the stock, but who are now known to be rustlers, have been running the cattle out of the country without any process of foreclosure, and the county treasurer finally came to the conclusion that it was time for him to act and accordingly levied on the balance of the cattle for the taxes due. Nearly 10,000 cattle were run out of the country.

Smith left from $8,000 to $10,000 in life insurance besides the large herd of cattle in question. It is regarded as very peculiar that his heirs have never attempted to settle the accounts of the deceased cattleman.

The Athletic Chaplain of the House.

The new chaplain of the house is one of the greatest athletes in the body and would make an admirable sergeant-at-arms. Chaplain Bagby is tall, slight and beardless, and he makes the shortest prayers that have been heard in the house for years. He is the youngest man who has been elected chaplain in the lower branch and is only 28 years old now. He is a southerner to his finger tips, but with any amount of real northern activity. All his life has been spent in the south, except during the few years that he studied theology at Yale. He is a splendid tennis player and wields the racket like a Hovey. His specialty is revival work, and he has had wonderful success in awakening religious enthusiasm. But he does not try to convert the congressmen.—Washington Letter.

Demanded Gold For His Cotton.

A few days ago Mr. Cole Nall was asked by a big farmer in this county to go out and buy his cotton, which he had not sold for three years. Mr. Nall went out, weighed and classified the cotton, which amounted to $14,000. Mr. Nall was about to write a check for that amount when the farmer said he would not accept anything but $5 goldpieces. Mr. Nall went to the New South Savings bank and got 2,800 $5 goldpieces and carried them to him, whereupon the farmer got out a jug and counted them into it for burial purposes.—Barnesville (Ga.) Journal.

SENATORS KEPT MUM

Wouldn't Give Out the Conclusions of the Finance Committee.

A STAND-OFF FOR THE TARIFF

Agreed Upon at a Conference of Republicans.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Democratic members of the senate finance committee adjourned a few minutes after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They had been holding occasional sessions during the day, going back and forth between the senate chamber and the committee room, and appearing at no time to be very busy.

All the appearances indicated when they adjourned that they had concluded their labors, but they refused to say that they had, and were very evasive in their replies to questions. Senator Voorhees said that he had called no meeting of the full committee, but none of the members would say positively in reply to questions by representatives of the press that no meeting would be held or that the bill would not be reported at once.

The Republicans' Scheme.

It develops that the concerted action of the Republican senators in their effort to take up the Bland seigniorage bill at this time, with the purpose of displacing the tariff bill, is the result of a conference held by the advisory committee of the Republican senatorial caucus.

Neither the free coinage Republicans nor the anti-silver senators care much for the Bland seigniorage bill as such. Of course, the anti-silver Republicans would oppose the bill, and if they support it now, or appear to do so, their only motive is to stand off the tariff bill. The silver men do not consider that the passage of the bill would have any influence whatever in behalf of silver, except to get this bullion out of the treasury. They will support it with this purpose in view, and with the hope of getting a free coinage amendment appended to the bill, which they may do by getting Democratic votes for the amendment.

The Silverites' Stand.

The silver Republicans are more or less divided as to the course to pursue with reference to the tariff. Several of them have said that while they would vote against the tariff bill, they would do nothing to delay its consideration.

The majority of them, however, would exert themselves to the utmost in the interests of silver, and, if it becomes apparent that they can accomplish anything for silver, of course would enter earnestly into the fight.

The Democratic members of the finance committee are evidently puzzled and annoyed at the announced determination of the Republicans to take up the bill. If Senator Stewart's motion prevails it will delay the tariff bill indefinitely.

They have not yet agreed on a policy with reference to this movement, but there is good reason to believe that Senator Faulkner's objection to the motion yesterday was inspired by the Democratic members of the committee. His objection followed very closely on a conference which he held with them on this subject.

Home Again.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—It was just nine days to within an hour from the time of his departure on his trip through the North Carolina Sounds when President Cleveland alighted at the door of the White House yesterday afternoon. Captain Donnell of the Violet said the party had excellent luck, shooting 31 brant, 13 swan, 8 geese, 6 snipe and 2 ducks, and that the trip throughout had been a very pleasant one.

A Failure.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Democratic house caucus, last night, called to consider the advisability of strengthening the rules failed to secure a quorum, and the 58 Democrats adjourned without reaching any conclusion. It was the general understanding that the effort to strengthen the rules and compel the attendance of a quorum had come to an end for the present.

Wants to Be Re-elected.

CONCORD, N. H., March 7.—Senator Chandler last night published in the Concord Evening Monitor the announcement that as other candidates for the office of United States senator have begun to solicit committals from Republicans who may become members of the next legislature, he is a candidate for a second full term.

Cleaning Out the Kearsarge.

COLON, March 7.—Two British schooners loaded with arms and stores recovered from the wreck of the Kearsarge have left for the island of Grand Cayman. It is not known what disposition they will make of their cargo. The position of the Kearsarge on Roncador reef has not changed.

A Lively Squabble.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 7.—At the meeting of the city council last evening B. F. Tanner (Rep.) accused F. V. Lynch (Dem.) of using his office for political purposes. Mayor Fearing gave the lie to Tanner's statements. A violent altercation followed, members almost coming to blows.

Building Up the Erie.

NEW YORK, March 7.—A resolution was presented at a special meeting of Erie stockholders to reissue $70,000,000 worth of new second mortgage bonds. As to the legality of the issue, the directors have no doubt on that point, and the plan has been declared feasible.

Chili In a Political Muddle.

SANTIAGO, March 7.—The Conservatives suffered a complete defeat in the elections for members of the Chilian congress. The minister of foreign affairs, minister of the interior and minister of justice all failed of re-election and a cabinet crisis is imminent.

Were Crushed to Death.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 7.—The rescuing party at work in the slate quarry at Williamston, where the tunnel caved in last Thursday, came upon two bodies yesterday. They were horribly crushed.

About the Northern Pacific.

MILWAUKEE, March 7.—Receiver Payne of the Northern Pacific company says there is no scheme on foot to reorganize the company. He says the report is only newspaper talk.

TROY'S ELECTION

Leads to a Fracas In Which a Man Is Murdered.

TROY, N. Y., March 7.—The local election in this city was most bitter, and was one of the severest struggles in years. Hand-to-hand fights took place all over the city and murder was added. This occurrence took place in the third district of ward 13. It was at 12 o'clock. A number of strange men entered the polling place at that hour. One insisted on voting. His name was Jeremiah Cleary.

Cleary's vote was challenged by the Republican inspectors. A heated argument, which had been begun within, was continued on the outside. A gang of excited men gathered about. In the midst of the argument clubs and revolvers were drawn, and a desperate encounter ensued. Robert Ross fell to the ground with a bullet in his brain. He died almost instantly. His brother William was shot in the neck below the left ear, and "Bat" Shea received a scalp wound. Neither Shea nor John Ross are thought to be mortally wounded.

No one seems to know just who fired the shot that killed Ross. Chief Detective Markham said that as far as the police could learn John Bowland fired four shots, and they think he is the man who did the killing. Bowland has given himself up to the police. He is held on the charge of murder. Judge Fursman refused bail for him. John Ross has made a statement in which he says he saw "Bat" Shea firing the shot that killed his brother.

At midnight it was ascertained that another man was mortally wounded at the ward thirteen tragedy. John McGough, one of the alleged gang of repeaters, who participated in the bloody riot, was found at his home suffering from the effects of a bullet wound in his abdomen. The bullet had penetrated the kidneys, and the physicians say he cannot recover. He is insensible now, but while conscious he states that he did not have a revolver and did not do any of the shooting. He says that he felt the bullet and started to go home. He fell by the roadside and was carried home by friends.

HON. RUFUS FROST.

One of the Bay State's Leading Citizens Dies at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Circumstances bordering on the pathetic attended the passing away in the Santa Fe depot yesterday afternoon of ex-Congressman Rufus S. Frost of Massachusetts.

Within 24 hours' ride of home, and with almost the last word, on his lips, "Take me home to die," he passed away.

A Raymond & Whitcomb excursion to Mexico, of which Mr. and Mrs. Frost should have formed a part, left Boston on Jan. 30. Business conditions, however, prevented their leaving with the party at that time, and they joined the excursion proper at San Antonio on Feb. 4. At that time Mr. Frost was apparently in the best of health. The excursion was continued to the city of Mexico, where Mr. Frost was seized with a severe attack of diarrhœa, which ultimately caused his death.

Mr. Frost was born in Marlboro, N. H., in 1826, and moved to Boston when 7 years old. He laid the foundation for his fortune in the wool business and established branches in New York and Chicago. He has been a prominent figure in politics, having been twice mayor of Chelsea, Mass.; in 1871-2 was a member of the state senate; in 1873 was a member of the governor's council and in 1874 was elected to congress. He was several times a millionaire. The remains will be taken to Chelsea for burial.

They Want Old Wage Rates.

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 7.—The executive committee of the Arlington mills strikers state that when the strikers submitted to a reduction in wages last September it was on the understanding that when trade revived they would receive the old schedule of wages. Several strikers claim they have never seen such a rush of business as now. The only condition on which the strikers will return to work is that the old rate of wages shall obtain.

Jesse Pomeroy Trying to Escape.

BOSTON, March 7.—Jesse Pomeroy, who is serving a life sentence in the Charlestown state prison, has made another attempt to escape. During the spring cleaning it was discovered that the convict had made an attempt to dig a hole through the wall in the back of his cell.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Audience was given by the house committee on judiciary to a large delegation of clergymen, who advocated the resolution for an amendment to the constitution recognizing God and Jesus Christ.

Early Opening of Navigation.

CATSKILL, N. Y., March 7.—The ice in the Hudson at this point is breaking up and in two days will have disappeared, if the present mild weather continues. It will be the earliest reopening of navigation in a number of years.

Cigar Business Is Dull.

KINGSTON, N. Y., March 7.—The cigar factory of Powell, Smith & Co. in this city has reduced its working hours to five a day, owing to slack orders and an accumulation of stock. The firm employs about 800 girls.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—Trade was inactive and prices remain low.

Milch cows and springers—There was a much larger supply than the demand required. Trade was slow.

Veal calves—There was a light flow, with trade very dull. The stock was of a fairly good quality, but as lambs can be bought at such low prices as at present, consumers will not buy veal, and the demand on the Boston market is very dull. Values on this stock were quoted off a full ½c pr lb from last week.

Sheep and lambs—Drovers complained that the demand was the worst for several years. They said that they could not sell their stocks at values even as high as they cost in the country.

Swine—A decline of ¼c pr lb from last week is noted.

VERDUROUS LAWNS AND FOLIAGE.

An Englishman Tells About the Careful Gardening In His Native Land.

Lewis Rose, a practical gardener, came to this country 10 years ago from England, where he was a farmer, and he trims and cuts according to English rules. Speaking of this country, he said:

You Americans do not know what good lawns are. In England the houses of the gentry are surrounded by acres of green sward that looks just like velvet. They mow the grass with a machine every week, and after the mower comes a heavy stone roller that rolls it down as flat as a piece of paper. It is just as smooth as that table cover there stretched over the table. The roller is to press down and heal any little break or tear in the turf made by the machine. If you break the turf anywhere, it is just like breaking your skin. You must fix it directly, or there will be a sore place on the lawn. Even if it gets well there will always be a scar there unless you mend it carefully. You should see the English lawns after a shower! The green is beautiful, and every blade of grass stands up straight, but all the little blades are of exactly the same length, and they look soft and level. The perfume of the new grass is delightful. They have windows generally that come down to the floor, and on the walls outside the house are climbing rose bushes all in bloom. The combined odor of roses and new mown grass is very pleasant.

You have to go at a lawn as if it were a piece of embroidery you were at work on. First you must have a good rich, decaying mold for the grass to live on. You cannot make grass grow in sand. Then as the grass comes up you must go over it step by step and dig out all the coarse grass and weeds and be sure to mend each place after digging up the roots. Then you will begin to find patches where no grass appears. You want to have grass seed handy and sow these places with it.

I water my lawns twice a day—in the morning before the sun gets fairly up and at night after it goes down. I mow the grass every week. After you have a good lawn you must watch every inch of it. You have no idea how easy it is to let a patch here and there get poisoned to death. When you find any foreign substance on a lawn that is likely to poison the grass, you want to dig it up, put fresh soil and fertilizer under it and fit a new and healthy bit of turf in the hole you have made. Then keep an eye on it afterward and water it well. The rich, decomposed sweepings from the stable make the best fertilizer.

In pruning trees you want to cut off every long shoot and make your trees compact and bushy like a full blown rose. Even wealthy Americans let their trees get scrawny, and they don't always cut them enough to prevent decay in some of the branches. It is easy to trim trees if you understand this principle. And the only reason I have been successful with my lawns is that I have been willing to take pains with them and do a lot of hard work.—New York Sun.

A Workman's Time Checker.

An English time check has been designed for use in factories and workshops for keeping a register of the time of the workmen. Its inventor claims that it is the only apparatus of the kind actuated and controlled by electricity. It contains no special clockwork and no complicated parts and requires no fixing. As many checks can be fitted to one clock as may be desired, and any ordinary clock can be adapted for the purpose. Each man is provided with checks, one of which he drops into the slot of the apparatus on entering the building. The checks are subsequently removed, and after their numbers have been registered placed on a board ready for the men to take when next leaving work. Any number of slots can be provided, but as a rule two only, marked respectively "early" and "late," are required. When the time for beginning work has gone by, the "early" slot is closed by an electrical attachment, and the "late" slot is opened. Before the next spell of work commences the "late" slot is closed, and the "early" slot is made ready to receive the checks of the workmen.—Exchange.

Very Ancient Jokes.

When Themistocles was trying to get money out of the Andrians for the Greece defense fund and told them that the Athenians would come with two great gods, persuasion and necessity, the Andrians replied that the Athenians were well off with two such serviceable gods, but they had two gods who always dwelt in their country—poverty and impossibility.

Cyrus' bitter jest about the fishes to the wretched Ionians, who had declined his overtures, and then after the taking of Sardis wanted to come to terms, has too much cruelty to be humorous. "Say," said the insulting victor, "that a piper, seeing fishes in the sea, were to pipe to them, thinking they will come out to the land, and when he was disappointed of his hope took a net and inclosed a great multitude of the fishes and drew them to land, and seeing them flopping about said to the fishes, 'Cease dancing to me, since you would not come out and dance when I played.'" —Westminster Review.

ONE MAN WAS KILLED

Iron Posts Saved Many Others From a Similar Fate.

A BRICK FIRE WALL COLLAPSES.

A Crash Which Startled Citizens of Stoneham, Mass.

STONEHAM, Mass., March 8.—The new Durkee building, in process of construction on Main street, fell with a crash at 6:10 last evening, causing the death of Nathan Loud, 72 years of age, and injuring several others. This building was to replace one partially destroyed by fire last fall, and was to be used for a store and tenements, with a hall on the upper floor.

Mr. Loud was passing along the south side of Minot street at the time, and was caught in the debris. He died from his injuries in about two hours, without recovering consciousness.

Willie Brooks, 12 years of age, received cuts and bruises, but was not dangerously injured.

James Dugan, 25 years old, was struck by bricks and timbers, and somewhat bruised.

Miss Maud Burdick was cut on the neck and was otherwise bruised.

An unknown man was knocked down by a falling joist, but got up without assistance, and went into a drug store, where he received attention, and then went away.

The Structure That Collapsed

was 29x100 feet, mainly a frame building, but with a brick fire wall on the northerly side. It was this wall that collapsed. It was built in January, and from the appearance of the bricks after the collapse it is thought that the mortar must have frozen and lost its tenaciousness. Late in the afternoon a portion of the wall fell away, weakening the whole structure and causing the fall. The men employed there quit work after the first portion fell.

William Merrow was building the structure. He hired men by the day, and there was no contract work about the job. He left the building when the men did. The tenement in the rear of the building was occupied by Warren A. Robbins. He and his wife were warned by falling bricks and Escaped In Safety.

Thomas A. Symmes has a bakery in the Sanborn building, next north of the Durkee building. This was crushed in by the falling wall. Mr. Symmes had left the bakery about two minutes before. His apprentice was in the shop, but escaped just as the falling wall crashed through the roof.

The iron posts on the front of the building held that part of the structure just long enough to allow the many people who were passing to escape before the whole fell. This probably prevented a larger loss of life.

The Georgetown Mystery.

HAVERHILL, Mass., March 8.—Georgetown mystery seems nearer solution than at any time since the first discovery of the body last Thursday. The police are working on an entirely new clew that bids fair to clear up the mystery surrounding the death of the murdered man. The clew leads to the finding of the sandy-haired tramp who left Topsfield almshouse in company with the victim Jan 10, as has been almost conclusively proven by Superintendent Chapman of that institution.

Mrs. Smith Can Fight.

DENVER, March 8.—Jack McAuliffe arrived in Denver yesterday. He spent the day in convivial enjoyment, and in Ed Smith's saloon, Mrs. Smith, who perhaps thought her husband and his friends had taken a drop too much, began pelting them with beer glasses. McQuaid of Providence attempted to pacify the enraged woman, and she proceeded to pummel him in most approved fistic fashion.

Shotgun Argument.

STROUDBURG, Pa., March 8.—Armed with shotguns, 25 citizens of Tannerville marched to the camp of the colored men, who were brought there a year ago to aid in constructing the new Wilkesbarre and Easton railroad, and ordered them to leave. The colored men promised to leave the county if they were given money to pay railroad fare.

Busy California Bandits.

MILTON, Cal., March 8.—The Angles Camp stage from this place was held up by two masked men, a few miles from Elkhorn station. The treasure box was rifled of its contents, and the passengers relieved of their valuables. An extra stage and buggy was also stopped and the passengers robbed.

Isleib Was a Shooter.

HALLETTSVILLE, Tex., March 8.—Frank Bartek engaged in a game of dominoes with William Isleib. The game wound up in a row. Bartek slashed Isleib with a knife, and the latter shot and killed Bartek. A week ago Isleib sat on a jury which acquitted Bartek on a charge of shooting a negro.

Police Suspected of Brutality.

ROCHESTER, March 8.—James Maxville of Geneva died yesterday at the jail at Canandaigua. The cause of death was given as typhoid fever, but it is alleged by some that it is indirectly due to the brutality of the Geneva police officials. The matter will probably be investigated.

Going Outside For Fresh Air.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Admiral Benham has cabled the navy department from Rio that he has transferred his flag from the New York to the San Francisco. The New York has been lying in Rio harbor for two weeks, and it is her turn to go outside for fresh air.

SISTERS AS TEACHERS.

Pittsburg's School Row Will Probably Go to the Courts.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—It is stated on what is regarded as reliable authority that the central board of education at its next meeting will reject the applications for teachers certificates filed by the Sisters of Charity who have been elected by the Riverside school board.

A straw vote of the central board has been taken, and it is said only about five out of 37 members favor issuing the certificates. In this event the legal battle will likely be between the central board and Rev. Father Cosgrove of St. James' church, through whose influence the nuns were induced to go on examination.

The contest will then be relieved of its sectarian aspect, and would be waged purely on legal grounds. It is argued that in rejecting the applications of the nuns, the central board will go on record as opposed to members of any religious order serving as public school teachers, ignoring entirely the question of the style of garment peculiar to any sect.

This of course will lay the issue open in its boldest phase and would effectually settle the legality or illegality of nuns officiating in public schools. If the central board accepts the applications of the nuns, State Councillor Kerr will at once take the matter into court.

Large sums have already been contributed for this purpose, and it is the intention to carry the case through the highest courts of the land should the nuns show a disposition to maintain their positions.

Whatever the result of the present controversy, there is a strong possibility that the state legislature will be called on at its next session to enact such laws forbidding the employment of nuns in public schools that will be unmistakable in their interpretation.

THE INDIANA'S TRIAL.

New Ship Will Show Herself to Be Without a Rival.

DELAWARE BREAKWATER, March 8.—The battleship Indiana, which left Cramps' shipyard in Philadelphia Tuesday, dropped anchor off the breakwater late yesterday afternoon after a most successful preliminary trial. The ship was put to sea and given a hard run of four hours over the course usually chosen by the Cramps for their builders' trials, the distance being 9 65-100 knots.

Three trips were made over this course. The first, under natural draft, was accomplished at a speed of 14 1-10 knots. The second, under half forced draft, in a trifle less than 15 knots, and the third, under forced draft, at 15 35-100 knots. The guaranteed speed of the Indiana is 15 knots.

The engines, which behaved splendidly, reached a maximum velocity of 128 revolutions a minute, the average under forced draft being 122; with selected coal and speeded over deeper water, there seems to be no doubt that the big battle ship will average 16 1-2 knots an hour when the official trial trip is made.

Everybody aboard is well pleased with the behavior of the Indiana. The steamer has no rock, and there is no doubt that she will take her destined place as the queen of battleships of the world.

The End Is Not Yet.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Deputy Attorneys General Lamb and Wernberg, who conducted the unsuccessful prosecution of K. F. Sutherland, justice of the peace of Gravesend, claim to have positive proof that the jury was bought. The jury was discharged because it could not agree. Steps will be taken to have the guilty parties indicted.

Moore Baker's Tribulations.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 8.—Moore Baker, whose wife and child were murdered at Franklin Park, says he was praised the first two days, sympathized with the next two, and is now criticised because he sold the effects of the bed chamber, where the tragedy occurred, to a museum representative.

End of Schooner Hopkins.

BIDDEFORD, Me., March 8.—Schooner L. H. Hopkins is in a sinking condition in Biddeford pool. She came in Saturday leaking badly. She started out yesterday, but was obliged to return. She will probably sink. The lifesaving crew rendered assistance.

Freight War Is Off.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The Pacific Mail company has evidently decided that its war with the North American Navigation company is at an end, as it has issued a manifesto that with the departure of the Acapulco dates the death of low tariff schedules.

Granted a Respite.

SYRACUSE, March 8.—John D. Teller, counsel for Lucius R. Wilson, condemned to die on the chair at Auburn prison during next week for the murder of Detective Harvey, has secured from Governor Flower a reprieve of 60 days for his client.

Diseased Cattle Killed.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 8.—Dr. Faust of this city, inspector for the state board of health, killed 15 head of the fine herd of Jersey cattle owned by Douglass Merritt of Rhinebeck. They were badly diseased with tuberculosis.

No Compromise.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—There were rumors at the courthouse of a compromise of the Breckinridge-Pollard case, but Phil Thompson, one of Mr. Breckinridge's attorneys, said that there were no grounds for such talk.

Case Won't Back Down.

ST. PAUL, March 8.—Representatives of the employes of the Great Northern railway called on General Manager Case to confer with him about the new schedule of wages. Mr. Case upheld the reduction. The leaders will consult about the matter.

To Suppress the Lottery.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The co-operation of the Canadian government in suppressing the operations of the Honduras Lottery company in this country has been obtained by the postoffice department.

One More Victim.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 8.—The body of another Hungarian laborer, who was entombed in the slate quarry at Williamstown, has been recovered.

INTEREST IN IRELAND

Alone Prevented Gladstone From Resigning Some Time Ago.

HERBERT GLADSTONE PROMOTED.

Grand Old Man Is Suffering With a Severe Cold.

LONDON, March 8.—The following bulletin was issued last night by Mr. Gladstone's physicians: "Mr. Gladstone is suffering from a troublesome cough, due to a catarrhal inflammation of the throat. His temperature, however, is only slightly above normal and his strength is good. He remains in bed."

Mr. Gladstone was in a cheerful mood during the day and was able to dictate replies to many of the letters he received inquiring about his condition and expressing sympathy.

Gladstone's Talk With McCarthy.

The Daily News this morning describes Justin McCarthy's interview with Mr. Gladstone on March 5. It says: Mr. Gladstone deprecated the idea that he should be presented with an address, a dinner or any other mark of gratification on the part of the Irish members. He appeared to be in happy spirits in his conference with Mr. McCarthy, and made varied references to the Irish question, with anecdote and reminiscences.

He spoke of O'Connell, and said that he possessed an intellect superb and statesmanlike. He said that although his comments on the Unionist transactions had been considered too strong, he was unable to withdraw them. He said nothing definite about the crisis, but he clearly indicated that he expected an unbroken line of policy. He would not have remained in office so long, but for the interest he took in Ireland.

Young Gladstone Honored.

Herbert Gardner, president of the British board of agriculture, has resigned.

As an outcome of Mr. Gardner's resignation it is announced that Herbert Gladstone will take the agricultural portfolio, and Right Hon. James Bryce the postoffice commissioner of public works, to whose office Herbert Gladstone was appointed yesterday.

The Times says: If it is true that Herbert Gladstone has been chosen to be Mr. Gardner's successor as president of the board of agriculture there might be more than a ripple of indignation, considering the fact that British husbandry is passing through the most painful experience it has ever known.

Discussing the chances for home rule, The Times says it believes that Lord Rosebery is impotent to break the Irish chain until he has reconstructed his party and its policy in opposition.

"A Clearing Out Sale."

Joseph Chamberlain, speaking at Birmingham last night, remarked that it was curious that the new premier had been conspicuous for his lukewarmness for home rule, while the second place was given to Harcourt, who signalized himself in his advocacy of home rule by the fury of a new-born zeal. The government, said Mr. Chamberlain, appeared to be preparing a sort of clearing out sale. It had a great deal of stock on hand which might very well be given away.

The Daily News says that the Marquis of Bute has written a letter in which he suggests that Mr. Gladstone be elected chancellor of the Welsh university as a mark of honor.

ENGLAND AND PORTUGAL

Involved In a Row Over an African Telegraph Line.

LONDON, March 8.—The government has received no news of the reported encounter between Portuguese and British forces in South Africa. It is known to the government that there has been trouble concerning the construction of Commissioner Rhodes' telegraph line across a strip of Portuguese territory at Tete.

The Anglo-Portuguese treaty provides that either government shall have the right to lay telegraph lines across the territory of the other, but Portugal claims that this right applies only to the governments and not to companies, and Mr. Rhodes is building the line in behalf of the British South African company. Five British gunboats are lying in the Zambesi.

A London Scare.

LONDON, March 8.—The alleged bomb found in Bow street yesterday turns out to have been nearly harmless. The tin canister discovered by the police only contained a blank cartridge covered over with a quantity of sand, and having a fuse attached to it.

Selous Won't Lecture.

LONDON, March 8.—Explorer Selous, who has just returned from South Africa, where he took part in the Matabele war, has abandoned his proposed lecturing tour to America.

Vacation For the Kaiser.

VIENNA, March 8.—The Emperor of Germany has decided to accompany the empress to Abazzia. Emperor Francis Joseph will visit them at Abazzia about Easter.

News From Rio.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 8.—The state of siege in Brazil has been extended until May. The vessels of the insurgent squadron are at present inactive.

Trainer Murphy's Fat Job.

PETALUMA, Cal., March 8.—Thomas Murphy, trainer and driver of trotting horses, has been appointed manager of the racing stables of the Czar of Russia, and with William Overholser, assistant trainer, will leave San Francisco on the 15th for St. Petersburg.

Editorial Comment.

FROZEN MORTAR was the cause of the collapse of the building at Stoneham Wednesday evening. How about our new High school, which was partially erected during the winter?

SENATOR MERRILL has kindly remembered us with the Manual for the General Court for 1894. It is one of the handiest books of reference in our library, and we welcome it annually. The gentleman will please accept thanks.

SENATOR MERRILL voted against the abolition of Fast day, but he was in the minority, the vote being 20 to 10 on passing the bill to a third reading. It has yet to be engrossed and signed by Governor Greenhalge, but there is no doubt now but April 19, the anniversary of the battle of Lexington will be observed for the first time as a holiday.

A COUNCILMAN stated at the meeting of the City Council Monday evening, that he was under the impression that the State Board of Health estimated the population of the city at over 20,000. Reference to the weekly reports of the board shows the estimate of Feb. 3, 1894, to have been 19,642. This is more generous than the board usually is. Previous to the census of 1890 their estimates, as afterwards proved, were considerably below. The percentages obtained by the census of 1884 don't appear reliable for estimating. For instance, they stated the percentage, voters of population in 1885, to have been 22.01, but this would make the population at present (on 3,674 voters) but 16,7[illegible]; however, the popula[illegible] of 188[illegible]. In 1890, [illegible] was 16,726 and everybody [illegible] shows that since that year there has been a large increase in voters and population. The percentage, polls of population in 1885, was 30.23 which would have made the population last May (5533 polls), 18,303.

BOOM FOR WARD FOUR.

Several New Buildings Talked for West Quincy this Year.

It is said that West Quincy is to receive a building boom this spring. Rumor says a business block will be erected on the land of Daniel Hayes on the corner of Copeland and Cross streets, with three stores facing on Copeland street, the upper part to be used for tenements; a business block on land of Mr. Desmond on Copeland street, adjoining the Farnum estate; and a new block by George A. Mayo on the Dallas estate on Copeland street.

If all the contemplated buildings are erected and this ward gets a new hose house there will be considerable business going on outside of the granite industry.

TODAY'S COURT.

Joseph Marsten of Quincy was fined $3 for drunkenness.

The Late Daniel Hayward.

The funeral of Daniel Hayward who died on Sunday at Dorchester, was held Wednesday from his late residence on Quincy avenue, East Braintree.

He leaves a widow, three sons and one daughter, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He was the son of Jonathan and Esther Thayer Hayward. He was married March 22, 1840, to Sarah Hannah Clapp, daughter of Col. Apollos Clapp of Dorchester.

He possessed many of the strong qualities, characteristic of his race of honesty, perseverance and industry.

He passed his life on the old farm, handed down to him from his ancestors 200 years ago, and who were among the first settlers of Braintree.

The C. C. Supper.

The C. C. supper given at the West Quincy Methodist church Wednesday evening, was quite largely attended.

Following the supper there was a short entertainment consisting of piano solo by Miss Grace Doble; singing by a quartette; reading, Rev. W. W. Baldwin; solo, Miss Alice Bradbury; living pictures by young ladies of the League, and Sylophone solo, Mr. Joseph Murphy of Weymouth.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

"Amateur Critic" Also Replies to Mr. Faxon's Letter.

POOR TAXED BEYOND EQUITY.

Case Would be Simple If It Was Only the Drink Question.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I have read with much interest the characteristic letter which began this subject in your columns, and the subsequent opinions by other persons in continuation or response thereto. The reformer is usually rewarded by the unreformed by their being to his virtues ever blind, and to his faults always unkind. And if Mr. Faxon finds that a few intellectual pellets should be aimed at his own hoary fore-top, he will possess his soul in peace in the knowledge that the new weapons of criticism are less fatal than those employed of old to kill the prophets.

In this inquiry neither the originator or his followers have laid down any lines as to how to grapple in future with such serious times as have straitened many well-regulated homes and brought misery into more improvident ones. I do not blame them in shirking specific treatment of this problem. The difficulties are realized by those only who try to solve them.

If it Could be Shown that the drink question plays so powerful a part as some men claim, the case would be much simplified. The drinker suffers for his misdoings in the doing of them. "Angels are bright still, though the brightest fell." Since the issue is not the relative merits of the unemployed and their more fortunate brethren, let it suffice to say that many of the former are physically, mentally and morally equal to the latter. If the cause were intemperance, legislation could remove it. To say that the supply is in excess of the demand hits the mark nearer. This is a question that has baffled the economist, and will, probably, until mankind is less selfish.

The spectacle of a horde of unemployed crowds besieging the municipal authorities with the menance of numbers, led by is a phase of this question which deserves the condemnation of every honest workman. Every workman, not to speak of the so-called leaders, ought to know that the municipal executive, as at present constituted, is as helpless in the emergency as an equal number of private citizens.

Sooner or later the problem must be grappled with. It cannot be solved without money. That the poor are taxed beyond the point of equity, however well-meaning the legislation, is evident. They are taxed on all sides. They have to pay more for all the necessaries of life than the rich have, because they have to buy under less favorable conditions. It is safer to tax those who can pay, though they will not unless taxed, than try to squeeze more money from those who have none to spare. How long will that the lean and hungry think too much and are dangerous?

I have not the shade of a shadow of sympathy with spoliation, anarchy or injustice, but if this problem should reach a crisis the wealthy have more at stake than the poor, and I think its solution is more within measurable distance by seeking relief from above than from below. How long it will be considered as one of the cardinal virtues to allow a portion of the American family to live—no, not to live, but to linger on the verge of starvation, while another portion of the same family has more wealth than it can by any ingenuity use or abuse in a lifetime, will depend on the ethical lenses through which this moral paradox may be viewed.

There are fads in bonnets and dresses and wraps,
And fads so funny and strange,
And though it may seem unlikely perhaps,
'Tis a fact, there's a fad in a range.

On the crinoline dress there are plenty of jokes.
And the fad is a subject of jest,
But the range that will tickle both young and old folks,
Is the Glenwood—it leads all the rest.

The fire kindles up with quickness and ease,

A BLOT ON ADMINISTRATION

The Removal of Postmasters—A Few Facts over which to Ponder.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

A few years ago Mr. Warren W. Adams succeeded Mr. Samuel H. Spear as postmaster.

The service Mr. Spear had rendered was satisfactory to the business community. He was personally courteous, of gentle character, non-aggressive in his bearing; his political affiliations almost unknown, and devoted to the faithful discharge of his duty.

Notwithstanding these facts, on a change of national administration there were not wanting men to sign a petition for his removal (carelessly done probably in some instances but equally or more effective in result, than the work of the most malignant) and Mr. Spear gave place to Mr. Adams, and shortly after died.

In the whirligig of time there has come another change of national administration, and again the officer who has become thoroughly efficient and trustworthy, gives place to an untried servant, and the change is very similar to the former one. Mr. Adams, it is conceded on all hands, has proven an almost ideal postmaster; the service has been perfectly satisfactory to the business community; they have so declared in a petition for his retention in office signed by many of the leaders in the business enterprises of this city. Still, in spite of it all, he is displaced and Mr. Burke is substituted.

It is well for a thoughtful community to ponder over these facts: 1st—That it is necessary to petition for the retention of an able public servant; 2d—that such a petition is disregarded and the politician is shown to be stronger than the whole business community, and bearing always in mind that the people, Republicans and Democrats or what not, alike pay the bill for this service, and that the office is theirs.

I strove earnestly with others to retain Mr. Spear, I have done what I could to retain Mr. Adams, and if Mr. Burke should prove a valuable officer under the same circumstances, I should be glad to do what I could to retain him. With me, it is not a question of men, but a question of justice and of policy.

I have no doubt that Mr. Burke will enter upon his duties with a determination to bring the work of the office to a still higher standard. I hope most cordially that he will have a great measure of success, but whether successful or not, Mr Adams' removal is a blot upon the Cleveland administration as the preceding removal was upon Harrison's, and the effect upon the moral sense of the community at large of such action is very degrading. R. F. CLAFLIN.

Park Theatre.

Popular "Charley's Aunt" was greeted with a rousing reception at the Park Theatre this week. In her new abode the jolly old lady seems destined to continue if not to surpass the unprecedented success she achieved during her long run at the Columbia. Her stay at the Park is indefinite, and fun-lovers will have ample opportunity to see, again and again, what has been termed the most laughable and at the same time most refined comedy on the stage today.

The innovations in the 3d act, which entitle the play to the claim of being a "second edition" are very attractive. The new comedy scenes are excellent and the Kaiser Wilhelm court dance, participated in by the entire company, has plainly made in Boston the same great hit it scored in London and New York.

On Tuesday, March 20, there will be a gala performance at the Park, at which souvenirs will be given out in commemoration of the 100th consecutive performance of "Charley's Aunt" in Boston.

Chance of a Lifetime.

Boston, March 7—The Century War Book which was issued in four volumes at $4 to $6 per volume a few years ago, is the only complete and graphic history of the late civil war. All of the leading generals in the union and confederate armies described the great battles which they fought, and the work was illustrated by the leading artists of the country.

To meet a great popular demand the the Century company has issued a people's edition to be sold in parts at 10 cents, thus placing this great work within the reach of everybody. It will contain 340,000 words of text and over 900 magnificent illustrations.

It can be had in New England only through the Boston Globe. Get the Boston Daily or Sunday Globe at once for full particulars.

SMOKED SHOULDER, 9 cents.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

KNEE BREECHES COMING.

So Say the Leading Tailors Who Wore the Costume at a Recent Banquet.

A notable dinner took place at Pittsburg last week. It closed the proceedings of a three days' session of the Merchant Tailors' National Exchange and was made memorable by the introduction of a new and gorgeous evening costume.

Four of the leading tailors of the United States wore this costume at the banquet, and its beauty and grace were so striking that the whole company of critical observers regarded it with enthusiastic admiration. The costume consisted of a silk velvet dress coat, satin brocaded waistcoat, satin knee breeches, silk stockings and the lace adornments affected by men of fashion a century ago. Undoubtedly the different colors which can be introduced into such a costume, according to the requirements of the varying types of manly beauty, would lend great brilliance to an occasion of evening festivity. Instead of the raiment of men being merely a foil to set off the bright attire of women it would be of itself a thing of beauty, with which feminine taste and art would have to compete.

The judgment of the merchant tailors at the dinner at Pittsburg was so unanimously in favor of the new costume that it will be the prevailing garb when the convention hold its next annual banquet. The tailors expect, too, that as the fame of its impressive beauty spreads abroad men will be unable to resist the desire to emulate the glory of their raiment.

Perhaps so, but how will it be regarded by the men with thin and crooked legs? Some men of great distinction and a most engaging personality suffer from those physical defects, but at present they are concealed by trousers, in chief part at least. Knee breeches and silk stockings would reveal them to every beholder. It is true that such men might resort to padding, but would not suspicion of the artifice get abroad and provoke unseemly merriment among women?

As it is, the dress of men is comfortable rather than handsome. If they go in for brilliant effects of color and material, they will have to stand criticism of their taste and the beauty of their proportions, from which, happily, they are now exempt.—New York Sun.

UNEASY RESTS THE HEAD.

The Ameer Kept at Home Through Fear That When the Cat's Away, Etc.

The ameer of Afghanistan, who in consideration of a big annual subsidy and frequent lavish presents is England's very good friend and trusty ally against Russian designs in India, is once more debating whether it is safe to leave his country a few months in order to pay a visit to Queen Victoria. It is the English fashion to picture the latter day Afghans as fanatically loyal to their sovereign and devoted to peaceful pursuits, but Ameer Abdur Rahman knows better and fears to leave his devoted subjects to themselves or to expose them to the probable temptations of Russian agents even temporarily. The truth is that the British government shares the ameer's distrust and is by no means anxious to see his highness in England. Negotiations are therefore proceeding to secure in his stead a visit from his two sons, Prince Habbibulla and Prince Mahomed Omar, said to be smart young fellows, who are carefully educated to believe that their bread, butter and other blessings depend upon English good will. At present the princes are devoted to each other, but they will not be Afghans if, when their respected father dies, they do not have a fierce fight for the succession. Then will come Russia's opportunity, as England knows very well.—London Truth.

Street Car Fares Recovered.

The law as an engine of justice is getting more effective. A West Side justice has given a judgment of 5 cents and costs to the plaintiff in each of three suits against the West Chicago Railroad company for having collected fares and failed to carry the complainants down town. Of course the injured individuals were put to some expense and much trouble to get their 5 cent damages and will probably incur further difficulty, as the corporation will appeal, but even this little triumph for the people is gratifying. If a hungry child stole a 5 cent loaf of bread, the state would bear the cost of prosecuting it, and the penalty might be more than restitution of the stolen goods. But it is very different when a rich corporation is the thief.—Chicago Times.

Boston's Busy Railway Station.

Work on the new Union station is rapid, and the coming spring will undoubtedly see it finished and the passenger traffic of the Fitchburg road turned over into the big trainhouse. When all is completed and the trains running, the Union station will be able to boast of having the largest number of passenger train movements in the world, something like 550 coming in and going out daily.—Boston Globe.

Breckinridge's Sadness.

Congressman Breckinridge of Kentucky has a sad way of speaking when he wishes to be impressive, which always is intensified in the last part of his speech. Tom Reed came into the house the other day while Breckinridge was winding up a speech and listened for a moment. Then he turned to General Cogswell and said, "Can you tell me the name of the deceased?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

Japs Going In For Watchmaking.

SILVER FIGHT IS ON.

Bland Bill Came Near Being Passed by the Senate.

HOUSE PASSES THE PENSION BILL.

All but One of the Amendments Suffered Defeat.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—An exciting and interesting debate was precipitated in the senate by Mr. Harris' motion for the second reading of the seigniorage bill.

This was opposed by Mr. Sherman, who moved its reference to the finance committee, and in the course of a strong speech in opposition to the bill said that its object was to divert a trust fund from its legitimate purposes—a thing which in Ohio would be a penitentiary offense. His motion was defeated, however, and the bill taken up as unfinished business, and almost before any one was aware of what had happened it passed its third reading and was on the point of passing the senate. Then its opponents recovered from their surprise and endeavored to prevent its passage, and on request of Senator Sherman it went over until today.

In the morning hour, Mr. Morgan introduced a resolution calling on the president for information as to the occupancy of Bluefields, Nicaragua, by the British. This was agreed to. The house bill appropriating $45,000 for saving the Kearsarge was also passed, as did the bill permitting General O. O. Howard to accept from the French government the decoration of the commander of the Legion of Honor.

Passed at Last.

After five days of debate the pension appropriation bill, carrying $151,000,000, was passed yesterday afternoon without division.

Throughout the debate there had been no criticism of the amount carried by the bill, debate being on the one hand confined to an assault on the manner in which the present commissioner of pensions had administered his office, and his alleged unauthorized suspension of pensions, and on the other to a defense of the attempt of the commissioner to purge the rolls of those who were not entitled to a place upon them. There were several very spirited speeches yesterday; those by General Henderson; Mr. O'Neil, in closing the debate, and ex-Speaker Grow.

All the amendments to the bill save one, that of Mr. Pickler to make the reports of the examining surgeons open to the inspection of the applicant or his attorneys, were defeated. They all fell under points of order that they were not germane.

The one which attracted most attention was that of Mr. Enloe to repeal a portion of the provision included in the act of last December to prevent the suspension of any pension except on 50 days' notice, so as to permit the suspension in case of plain prima facie evidence that the pensioner had procured his pension by forgery, perjury or other palpable fraud.

This amendment was offered at the suggestion of Commissioner Lochren himself, who, under the opinion of the attorney general, declared that if the act of last December stood over, $500,000 would have to be paid out to suspended pensioners, who were proven beyond all question not to be longer entitled to the pensions they had been drawing. Mr. Outhwaite, the chairman of the committee of the whole, however, ruled the amendment out on Mr. Martin's point of order that it was not germane.

Colombia Kicks.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The president transmitted to the senate the correspondence exchanged between this government and the governments of Colombia, Venezuela and Hayti, relative to the putting into effect of what is known as the reciprocity clause of the McKinley law. The correspondence with Hayti and Venezuela is of no importance, but the Colombian minister protests vigorously against the proclamation, and complains that it is a violation of the treaty of 1846 between his government and this, by which Colombia gave us the advantage of her differential tariff duties.

Cut Down by Lawyers' Fees.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 8.—Judge Henshaw has handed down a decision in the famous Murphy will case. The contest was between the children of Mrs. Murphy, widow of a millionaire merchant of this city. She left two wills of uncertain date, under which her two daughters claimed the greater portion of the estate. The decision is a victory for Lady Wolseley of London and three contesting brothers. Owing to expense of the long litigation, the estate is now said to be valued at not over $600,000.

Labor and Politics.

BOSTON, March 8.—Nearly 200 delegates from all the labor organizations of Boston gathered last night for the purpose of forming a new political party in the interests of the workingmen. After a chaotic wrangle of four hours a committee was appointed to draft a platform to be submitted to a subsequent meeting.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 8.—Major Banks, commanding three companies at Eagle, has removed a portion of the troops. Pink Brown, who furnished the dynamite to the strikers, was arrested near Montgomery. There have been 33 strikers arrested and many warrants are still unserved.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Count Lubienski, who was going to plant a Polish colony of sugar beet farmers in Antelope county, Neb., has given up the enterprise on account of the unfriendly tone of the Wilson bill toward sugar.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Gardner Island lighthouse on Long Island sound is to be permanently discontinued by the government.

ALL MIXED UP.

Palatial Car Company Stockholders Are In a Tangle.

PORTLAND, Me., March 8.—A meeting of the stockholders of the Harris Palatial Car company was held here yesterday for the purpose of taking some steps to clear the company from its present financial and legal complications, which at the present time prevents the manufacture of cars under the Harris patent and the use of the original car. During the meeting, which was a decidedly inharmonious one, charges of over-issue of stock or sales of stock above the amount of the original treasury stock were charged against one faction and similar charges were made by the other faction.

It was finally voted as the sense of the meeting that in order to further the plans of the corporation that Mr. Dunn, one of the directors, be asked to submit proposals for treasury stock at a meeting to be held March 21. Proposals are to be printed and mailed to each stockholder of record to deliver into the treasury one-half of his stock, the one-half so surrendered to be added to the treasury stock and a voting trust for a period of three years to be executed upon terms to be agreed upon by the persons advancing the money.

FRANCIS' PECULATIONS

Have Led to Some Interesting Suits In Western Massachusetts.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., March 8.—This city is excited over a test suit on trial by jury in the superior court of Camelle L. Herbette to recover $1000 from the Pittsfield National bank, claimed by it to have been appropriated by its late defaulting and suiciding cashier, E. S. Francis, to personal speculation outside of the regular bank business. Upward of $30,000 of such claims exist, of which $16,000 were entered for trial yesterday.

The victims of Francis' peculations insist in every instance that in their dealings they thought they were dealing with the bank, while that institution seems to repudiate their claims on the ground that they were dealing with him as an individual of their own knowledge.

As in many instances Francis affixed his abbreviated appellation of "Cashier" to his written transactions with these parties, the prosecution make this fact a strong point, and the issue is considered very doubtful, with strong probabilities of a decision for plaintiffs.

Calcium Light Went Wrong.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 8.—A panic was narrowly avoided at a performance of "Rosedale" in the Lyceum theater last night; by following the gypsy dell scene the calcium light apparatus situated in the balcony became disarranged during the absence of the man attending it and blazed up through one of the tubes. The theater was crowded, and people rose to their feet and prepared for hasty exit as the apparatus seemed about to explode. The excitement was intensified by several unsuccessful attempts to extinguish the blaze, until a man in the audience who understood the apparatus hastened to it and turned off the flame.

Students Didn't Hurt Him.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., March 8.—One of the Boston papers contained a special from Jamestown, N. Y., stating that Vernon Vandeusen of Mayville, N. Y., was dying from the effects of a hazing scrape, perpetrated by Williams college students. Those who are conversant with the affair ridicule the idea of his sickness resulting from the hazing affair. The sophomores did enter the room and politely, but firmly, requested him to dance, sing and lecture for them, and as they were about to leave they thought best to give him a cold bath, so they placed him in a bowl of water. Vandeusen took the affair in good part and nothing more was thought of the matter.

Opposed to Civil Service Reform.

BALTIMORE, March 8.—A dispatch from Annapolis says a civil service bill similar in its provisions to the Massachusetts law was introduced in the legislature by a senator from this city and came up on its passage yesterday. Efforts to save it were made by offering an amendment limiting its provisions to Baltimore city, but both amendment and bill were defeated by decisive majorities.

Silk Weavers Demand an Increase.

PATERSON, N. J., March 8.—All the broad silk weavers in the Pelgram & Meyer mills went on strike yesterday. They have a demand for an increase of wages ranging from 50 to 60 per cent. Both broad silk and ribbon weavers are out. This undoubtedly means a shut-down of the entire works.

No One Injured.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 8.—The Spencer block in Main Street square collapsed yesterday, but no loss of life resulted. The upper floors were completely wrecked. The accident was due to the weakness of the walls, and the strain caused by wires and cables on the roof.

Officers of the A. O. U. W.

ROCHESTER, March 8.—The grand lodge of A. O. U. W. elected the officers as follows: Grand master workman, F. A. Gleason; grand foreman, J. S. Armstrong; grand overseer, F. T. Burnham; grand recorder, M. J. Horton; grand receiver, John Hedge.

Zella Nicolaus' Ambition.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Mr. Bial is authority for the statement that Mrs. Zella Nicolaus wished him to hire her to perform a sketch written by Mr. Calhoun, an actor. She was told by Mr. Bial that it was impossible for him to make her an offer.

Suspicions of Murder.

KINGSTON, N. Y., March 8.—There is excitement in Saugerties over the death there of John E. Yager, a resident of that town. It was thought he had committed suicide, but recent discoveries point to murder.

Led a Double Life.

ATLANTA, March 8.—Samuel Cheek was found in the woods yesterday afternoon. Cheek had shot himself through the breast. He had been leading a double life, and had two wives here in the city.

Trio Must Hang.

DENVER, March 8.—The supreme court has denied the appeals for new trials of Thomas Jordan, William Nesbit and Santiago Torres, who were convicted of murder and sentenced to death.

THE REINCARNATION THEORY.

A Beautiful Explanation That Was Painful In Its Final Application.

Landlord Allan is always looking for a good thing and always recognizes it when he sees it. This he found in a Washington paper, and the local application makes it the more interesting:

If there is a good story born in Washington, it is a two to one shot that its cradle will lie in the back parlor of John Chamberlin's. Dr. Edward Bedloe came over from Philadelphia one night and sat therein entertaining a choice group of friends with tales of the far east. In the edge of the group sat a man from Pennsylvania, who had come over from Pottsville on some government contracting business. He was all ears and eagerness. His name was Strauss. Finally the restraint became too intense, and he broke loose.

"Toctor," said he, "what is dot new relichun I heers off about China? My wife has got it ferry bad, und I don't understand it."

"Tell me the name," said Bedloe. "Is it Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Shintoism, Taoism, Confucianism or what?"

"Oh, it is no isms, but der name is like a tramp's migrashun of der soul, ain'd it?"

"Oh, you doubtless mean transmigration of the soul."

"Yah, dot's it. You dell me about dot."

"Certainly. Transmigration of the soul is a very pretty poetic doctrine of metempsychosis which our friends of the Theosophical society have borrowed from the far east"——

"Here, here, toctor! Tell me vot dot means, so I can understand what you vos talking aboud."

"All right, I will tell you in plain language. Take yourself, for instance. You live to the allotted age of threescore years and ten, and then you pass away. Your soul goes into the body of a bird—a canary, we'll say—and from your gilded cage you fill a lady's boudoir with the melody, living a life of luxury and fed from the dainty fingers of beauty"——

"Oh, dot is peautiful, peautiful! I like dot!"

"And then you die again, and your soul goes into a lovely flower in a garden, and you fill all the air with fragrance and delight the eye with your exquisite color and delicacy of petals"—

"Ah, dot is fine! I like dot relichun."

"As I was saying when you interrupted me, you live the life of a flower, until one day a donkey gets into the garden, and attracted by your loveliness he eats you, and your soul passes into the donkey"——

"Yah, yah."

"When some former acquaintance comes along, strokes your long ears and says: 'Why, Strauss, is it you? How little you have changed!' "—Pottsville (Pa.) Republican.

Know When They Are Hungry.

Pigeons must have the credit of possessing some intelligence. A curious and very interesting sight may be seen each day, Sundays excepted, at one of the windows of the office of Henry W. Williams, in the Rialto building, opposite the postoffice. For the past few years some 30 or 40 pigeons have been there regularly fed at 11 o'clock. A bushel of cracked grain is purchased at a time for the purpose. The birds gather on the west side of the postoffice and watch for the window to open. They know perfectly well when that hour arrives. If there should chance to be any delay in opening the window, they will often fly over to the other windows of the same office and tap on the glass to remind the clerks who may be sitting there that it is time for their breakfast. The minute the window opens they land on and about the sill and push and crowd and stand on each other's backs and sometimes fight, so eager are they to pick up the grain which is spread all about the outside. They soon become quite tame and readily eat out of the hand.—Boston Transcript.

Pumice Stone.

Pumice stone is a porous feldspathic scoria from volcanoes. The pores are linear and so fine as often to be barely visible except by means of a magnifying glass. Its specific gravity is 2.2 to 2.4—water being the unit—but by reason of its spongy texture pieces are often buoyant enough to float on water. It consists chiefly of silica, with sometimes 17 per cent of lumina, 6 per cent of soda and 4 per cent of potash. It is of grayish shades of color, passing into yellow and brown. The chief source from which it is obtained for commercial purposes is Campo Bianco, one of the Lipari islands, where it forms a hill nearly 1,000 feet high. In the arts pumice is largely employed, mostly in a pulverized state, as a polishing material for ivory, wood, glass, marbles, etc. It is also used in lump for grinding and smoothing metallic surfaces, leather, etc., and in the preparation of parchments, etc. Quantities of the pulverized pumice are used in making fancy soaps.—Brooklyn Eagle.

West Virginia.

West Virginia, with less than 800,000 inhabitants, has but three cities and is essentially a rural and half settled region. In spite of her enormous wealth in timber and mines also, many of her counties number only a handful of people. No West Virginia county has 50,000 inhabitants, and only 10 have more than 20,000, while 19 have less than 10,000 and two less than 5,000. In many of the mountainous counties the conditions of life are simple to the last degree, and the people are far removed from the great currents of national life in spirit as well as in distance and time.—New York Sun.

So He Ought.

Barber—Ain't I? Why not?

OPINIONS ARE VARIED

Republicans Express Dissatisfaction With the New Tariff.

DEMOCRATS WILL SUPPORT IT.

Outline of Principal Changes In the Wilson Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The proceedings of the senate committee of finance called to receive the tariff bill as amended by the Democratic majority of that committee were mainly informal. Copies of the bill were handed to all the members, and the Republicans who had not had a previous opportunity to see it glanced through it curiously.

There was some discussion of the time for consideration of the bill by the full committee, the Republican members saying they would desire a reasonable period, and the Democratic members expressed themselves as willing to grant that without cavil. Saturday next, at 10:30 a m., was set for the next meeting, when the Republicans, having had an opportunity to examine the details of the bill, will probably be able to say what time they will require. It is considered probable that they will ask for an entire week, after the next meeting day and possibly more.

The Democratic members of the committee do not express themselves at this time as disposed to press for action which may be considered speedy. They say that whatever delay may occur hereafter will be chargeable to the Republicans, and they must assume the responsibility.

Outcome Doubtful.

The senators who have given the committee so much trouble in their demands for increased rates of duty have not as yet indicated whether they are satisfied with the committee's action on the controverted points. While the sugar, coal and iron ore interests have not obtained all they would like, they will acquiesce and support the bill. The New York and New Jersey senators, who have been most persistent in their demands, decline to state whether they are satisfied or what attitude they will take when the bill comes up for consideration in the senate.

The Republican members of the finance committee intend to assail the bill in all of its provisions. Senator Voorhees said that the committee had made all the concessions to the conservatives that could consistently be granted, and he expected to get the co-operation and united support of every Democrat in the senate in behalf of the bill.

Estimates on Revenue.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the tariff sub-committee, said, when asked for a statement giving an estimate of the probable amount of income to be derived from the bill, and for an explanation of other features, that an official statement, based upon estimates made by the treasury department, would be given out within a day or two. He was of the opinion that it would be shown that the bill would produce revenue of about $470,000,000 or $480,000,000, without taking into account the increased amount which would be the result of the reductions in tariff rates made.

This would be in excess of the requirements of the government, which he said are about $448,000,000, not including the sum necessary for the sinking fund or made necessary by the recent bond issue. From this amount can be subtracted about $15,000,000, now paid on account of the sugar bounty, which would, if these estimates are correct, give a surplus of from $37,000,000 to $47,000,000 under the operations of the proposed law.

As Viewed by Lodge and Reed.

Senators Allison and Aldrich, Republican members of the finance committee, said that they had had no opportunity to examine the bill so as to make any comment upon it. The Republicans, as a rule, decline to express any opinions for the same reason.

Mr. Lodge, when asked to say how the tariff bill would affect the New England industries, replied: "The free raw material feature which the Democrats have so made much of in New England has been knocked out. The bill has been patched up where it was necessary to do so to catch votes. The bill to my mind could not be worse."

The Populist senators are also reticent, saying they have been more interested in the silver debate than in the tariff bill.

Ex-Speaker Reed said: "The bill is much worse than it was when it left the house, and it is much more important for the interest of the country that it should be beaten. The poor little plea on which Mr. Wilson thought to justify his action has disappeared. Free raw materials for New England have vanished."

The Chief Features

upon which public interest centered were the provisions in regard to the tariff on sugar, iron ore, lead, wool and its manufactures, cotton manufactures and the internal revenue taxes on whisky and tobacco.

Sugar has been placed on the dutiable list at from 1 cent to 1 2-5 cents per pound, according to polariscope test.

Iron ore, including manganiferous iron ore, also the dross or residuum from burnt pyrites, 40 cents per ton.

Coal is taken from the free list and made dutiable also at 40 cents per ton and coke at 15 cents.

Lead ore, which in the Wilson bill was 15 per cent ad valorem; lead ore and lead dross, 3-4 of a cent per pound; provided that silver ore and all other ores containing lead shall pay a duty of 3-4 of a cent per pound on the lead contained therein, according to sample and assay at the port of entry.

The whisky tax is raised to $1.10 per gallon. The bonded period is extended five years, that is, from three to eight years.

Cigars $5 a thousand, cigarets in paper $1 a thousand; cigarets in tobacco 50 cents a thousand.

Lumber remains on the free list.

Barley and barley pearled, patent or hulled, is raised from 25 to 30 per cent ad valorem, and barley malt from 35 to 40 per cent.

The income tax provision of 2 per cent remains in the bill, but the tax on non-residents is stricken out.

SHIP ALMOST RUINED.

Disastrous Results of an Attempt to Thaw Out Frozen Dynamite.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 9.—The steamer Walrus, one of the seal fishing fleet, together with a dozen of steamers, is lying at Pool's island, Green's pond, half a day's run north of here, waiting for Saturday next, when the sealing season opens. Intense cold froze up the anchorage, and the crews attempted to blast their way through the ice with dynamite. Edward Breet, George Toms and James Hurley were in the Walrus' galley warming the dynamite to make it ready for use, when it exploded, killing Breet, injuring Toms so that he died, and wounding Hurley so that his recovery is doubtful.

The ship is half ruined, her deck forward is a gaping cavity, planks, beams, stanchions and knees being smashed to atoms; bulwarks are destroyed, the foremast and booms shattered, engine room bulkheads and engines severely damaged and nearly ruined. Fragments of the decks were hurled far over the surrounding ice, whereon were working the crews of the other steamers.

The Walrus' crew, except the three mentioned, were absent. She carried 200 men at the seal fishery, and had the explosion taken place while the crew were aboard it would have meant wholesale slaughter, as the men are crowded together into an exceedingly small space. Breet's body was torn to pieces and the limbs thrown in all directions. Toms was nearly disembowelled, and Hurley had a broken arm and serious internal injuries.

WORK OF ANARCHISTS

Another Bomb Outrage In One of Rome's Thoroughfares.

EIGHT PERSONS WERE WOUNDED.

Machine Was Probably Intended For Deputies.

ROME, March 9.—A terrible explosion, said to be the work of anarchists, occurred here at 8 o'clock last evening on the Piazza di Monte Citorio, near which stands the chamber of deputies.

A sitting of the chamber had just been concluded, and it is believed that the bomb or infernal machine was exploded almost in front of the building.

The explosion shattered all the windows in the chamber of deputies as well as shivering all the windows of the houses in the neighborhood.

It is believed that the purpose of the perpetrator was to have the bomb explode at the hour the debate in the chamber was expected to end and deputies and ministers would be trooping out.

Premier Crispi had begged the indulgence of the chamber to postpone his reply to questions under discussion, on the ground that his voice had failed him, owing to a cold. The chamber thus adjourned earlier than was expected.

Though the sitting of the chamber was over, a few of the deputies were still in the lobby when the explosion happened. So great were the crowds which were attracted to the spot after the explosion that a strong force of military, in addition to the police, was called upon to disperse the people, who were pressing down all the streets leading to the square.

The police arrested four men, and among those taken in custody was a wounded man who is believed to be the person who exploded the bomb.

The pavement around the spot where the bomb exploded is torn up and spattered with blood.

Eight Were Wounded.

Eight persons were wounded by the explosion, including one woman. Six of the wounded are in the hospital. Three of them are in a serious condition, and one of them is reported to be dying. A man named Polidori, who was slightly wounded, was placed under arrest. The police believe him to be the man who threw the explosive. The public prosecutor has opened an inquiry into the outrage.

President Biancheri, who was in the chamber of deputies at the time of the explosion, sent a doctor to attend the wounded.

The Tribuna suggests that the explosion was intended as a warning to the deputies, in view of the impending discussion on the demand for the prosecution of the socialist deputy, De Felice, on a charge of inciting the revolution in Sicily.

City In a Turmoil.

The greatest excitement continues throughout the city, and everywhere the latest bomb outrage is being discussed. An immense throng hovers in the vicinity of the square. It is believed that the explosive was contained in a tin box which had been concealed in a tall hat worn by the man who threw it.

Among those injured by the explosion were two soldiers. One of them is badly hurt, and it has been necessary to amputate one of his legs. The wounded man, whom the police suspect of having been the author of the outrage, says that an unknown man handed him a small box as he was crossing the piazza. He declares that he is innocent of the crime.

The people in the square fled in great panic when the explosion occurred. The pavement near the spot where the bomb struck is littered with broken glass. In the houses in the vicinity much crockery and glassware were shattered.

A Parnell Manifesto.

LONDON, March 9.—The Parnellites gave out last evening a manifesto addressed to the Irish people. It asserts that there is a scheme to abandon home rule and says: "We can have no confidence in the Earl of Rosebery's cabinet. The time has come for prompt action. The Irish people will not tolerate a policy of national subserviency to English party interests. Let them organize the forces of their race to support the struggle for national government.

Bold Insurgents.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 9.—As the tug Isabel, flying the British flag, was steaming here yesterday in the outer harbor, she was fired upon by the insurgent steamer Victoria, the shot passing through the Isabel's flag. The Isabel stopped immediately and the Victoria took off one of the crew of the Isabel, pressing him into the insurgent service, and ordering the tug away. The British authorities have taken no action as yet.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 9.—The government has issued a permit providing that no restrictions be placed upon the importation of foreign fruits, plants, vegetables, etc., coming to the international expositions, with the exception of American vines and potatoes.

The Paris Damaged by Fire.

LONDON, March 9.—There was a fire yesterday afternoon on the American line steamer Paris, which is lying in the repairing dock at Birkenhead. A great deal of damage was done to the saloon and cabin fittings before the flames were quenched

Editorial Comment.

BROCKTON CANNOT discount Quincy much as to number of births. The report of the city clerk of Brockton shows a total of 786 in 1893 against 727 in this city. Quincy's gain over 1892 was 115 while Brockton's gain was but 67. Quincy's increase of births over deaths in 1893 was 352, while the increase of Brockton was but 310. Quincy will soon have a larger population than Brockton if this continues.

Runaway in Square.

There was a lively runaway in the Square Thursday afternoon. Mr. Munroe of Norfolk Downs was driving by Hearn's drug store when a wheel of his buggy got caught in the car tracks and capsized throwing Mr. Munroe out. The horse then ran into the depot yard and was headed for the railroad track, but was turned away by some of the men standing near by. The now thoughtly frightened animal began to run in a circle in front of Gallagher's express office and finally brought up on a stone post where he was captured. The result of the runaway was a smashed wheel and a broken top.

Rev. W. Sherman Thompson closed his series of sermons on "The Family" last Sunday evening. The course has proven popular and interesting, and been well attended throughout.

Sunday evening next Rev. Mr. Thompson will commence a second series on "Rocks that Ruin." The subject of the first sermon is "Pipes, Plugs and Profanity." The young men are especially urged to be present, and all will be cordially welcomed.

Quarrymen Strike.

Quarrymen in the Rollstone granite quarries near Fitchburg, struck for more pay on Tuesday, claiming $1.75 per foot for cutting work for which they get only 75 cents.

The local granite cutters have formed a union independent of the larger and better known Granite Cutters' Union.

The Divine Power.

A Washington correspondent says Congressman Morse of Massachusetts has made quite a stir throughout the country with his proposed amendment to the constitution acknowledging the divine power in our prosperity. The clergy of the land have taken up the matter with enthusiasm and are urging congress to adopt the amendment. The judiciary committee is besieged with letters and telegrams from clergymen and the reverend gentlemen come on in flocks to Washington to be present at the hearings before the committee and make speeches and pleas in favor of the amendment.

Denison Follows Fort Payne.

It is bad news for Quincy capital that the Denison Cotton Mill, erected at a cost of $500,000, has been disposed of at a public sale for $30,000 to satisfy a judgment for debt. The purchaser was J. D. M. Ford, ex-mayor of Kansas City. The mill is the largest in the South west and built during the great boom of 1889 and has never been operated.

Following Up Clews.

HAVERHILL, Mass., March 9.—There are several new clews in the Georgetown mystery, and some of them may lead to its unravelling soon. Dr. Fernald has a photograph of a missing Chelsea man, and the doctor has a description which is in some respects similar to that of the dead man. The murdered man was about the size of the missing Chelsea man, was bald on the top of his head, and had a grayish beard on the chin. He also had a design in India ink on the arm, which, if it should prove to be an American patriotic emblem, would go far toward establishing his identification.

Crespo's Power.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Steamship Venezuela from La Guayra brought news of the election for president on March 1. It was said that General Crespo was elected by a large majority, but there was considerable dissatisfaction at the way in which the general conducted things. He is so powerful that a revolt against his methods would be crushed instantly.

Getting Too Thick.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Keeper Durkin, under whose charge Convict McKane was placed in the tailor shop in Sing Sing prison, was transferred yesterday to another department of the prison. It is said that the growing intimacy between the convict and his keeper was the prime cause of the latter's transfer.

Water Was Low.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 9. — The boiler of a locomotive on the Lehigh Valley railroad exploded at Tannery, killing three men. All were new hands and were taking the places of Brotherhood men in the late strike. The cause of the explosion was low water in the boiler.

Good Times Coming.

PITTSBURG, March 9.—The Monongahela Iron company has resumed work in all departments. This makes the 14th mill which has started in full lately. Better prices are being obtained for orders and the tonnage has very largely increased.

HOSE THREE LOT.

The Doble Lot Better and Cheaper Than the Donnelly Lot.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

It seems rather strange that the Councilmen from the fourth ward in looking about for a site for the new Hose house should not give the Doble lot on the corner of Copeland and Cross street some consideration. This is one of the best sites in the ward and contains something like 16,000 feet. It has a frontage of about 150 feet on Copeland street and about 100 on Cross street. There is now on the lot a cellar, the stones of which could be utilized in the new building, and as the back end of the lot is considerable lower than the front it would afford an excellent opportunity for a lockup and there would also be room enough in the basement for a Ward room which is a thing sadly needed in this ward. Parties who claim to know, say that this lot can be purchased by the city for $3,500 which is remarkably cheap considering the location.

The attention of the citizens has been called to this lot before, but no notice seems to have been taken of it by the councilmen for reasons best known to themselves. It is certainly a much cheaper lot than the Donnelly lot which is a very dear piece of property for the city to buy. The price asked for the Donnelly lot, namely $5,000, is an outrageous price for the city to pay for a lot of land for a Hose house, especially when it has been understood by parties in a position to know that it is considerable more than was asked for the lot a few weeks ago. Evidently someone has an idea that there is a dollar in it for them if the Council votes to purchase it.

It would not be a bad idea for the Committee on Fire Department and Public Building to take a ride in the electric cars to West Quincy, and take a look at the Doble lot before they make their report, also to inquire who are the parties most interested in having the new Hose house located near the West Quincy depot. DR. EVERETT'S VOTE.

It Was Against the Bland Bill but Allowed its Passage.

The comment of the Boston Advertiser on the family quarrel of the Herald and Dr. Everett is of interest. The Advertiser says:

"The gloomy family controversy between the congressman from the seventh district and his former admirer and apologist, the Boston Herald, still continues. Dr. Everett has informed the Herald, in a spirit of pained surprise at any reproof from such a direction, that he did not vote outright for the Bland bill, even if his vote did serve to pass the measure through the house; while the Herald, in a struggle to remain firm in its sound money principles without dealing too harshly with one of its chosen personal idols, has summoned courage enough to intimate that Dr. Everett is a "backslider" and is a man of "pliant metal" compared with such sturdy Democrats as G. F. Williams and J. F. Andrew. Coming from such a source the arraignment is about as severe as any that the Herald has made against an avowed tariff reform Democrat of this section, and it is little wonder that Dr. Everett feels that he has been misused in the house of his friends.

"Dr. Everett in his own behalf pleads that at the outset he refused to filibuster; that later when Democratic pressure was brought to bear upon himself and a colleague he joined the ranks of filibusters; and that as the house showed some extreme and painful irritation, he hastily changed his tactics and with some other Democrats voted, thus making up the quorum necessary to secure a passage for the Bland bill. At the same time, however, he insists that he was opposed to filibustering and disapproved of the Bland bill.

"In reply, the Herald, in a spirit more of grieved surprise than of bitter criticism, asks why Dr. Everett, if he thought filibustering so objectionable, engaged in such a risky practice; and further criticises the vote by which the Massachusetts Democrats assisted Mr. Bland to get a quorum.'

TODAY'S COURT.

Asahel F. Nott of Cohasset was arraigned for assault on Laura D. Nott, and was fined $15.

—A patriot in every good cause tells us this story: Last summer a wealthy lady living on Blue hill, Milton, invited a class from one of the public schools of Boston to be her guests for a day. After they had gamboled on the green to their hearts content, lunch was served, and before the pupils had left for their homes the hostess asked their teacher to have her young friends sing "The Star Spangled Banner." Much to the lady's surprise and the great embarrassment of the teacher, not a mother's son of those pupils could recall a single line of that patriotic air. Everyone of them however could sing "Annie Rooney."—Hyde Park Gazette.

—Niagara's ice mountain is seventy-five feet high and the ice bridge is about twenty-five feet thick, but the price of ice will probably be about as high as usual next summer.

MILTON.

The Baptist church holds four special meetings next week. Mr. McElvaine, assistant pastor of Claredon Street church, being in attendance.

Mr. Whittemore, who fell and broke his leg last fall, is about again with the aid of crutches.

The house of Mrs. Akerly on Bryant avenue has been sold to Timothy Curran of West Quincy.

Miss May Margaret Webster, accompanied by other Milton musicians, gave an excellent musicale in Associates hall, Milton, Tuesday evening.

Some of the politicians who have been blowing their ram's horns expecting the walls to fall down even as the walls of Jerico of old, were somewhat surprised at the polls when they found the walls were just 247 feet higher than their tower.

An amusing experience to two of East Milton's citizens occurred on town meeting day. Mr. James Crawford, carpenter and builder, went up early to cast his vote so that the country might be saved from the cholera through the election of a new board of health. In the afternoon he again sallied forth accompanied, by Mr. Geo. Van Horne, travelling agent for the Wollaston machinery factory. When they came opposite the Milton Academy, Crawford desired Van Horne to turn in as that was the Town Hall, Van Horne, who is not very familiar with the lay of land in upper Milton, somewhat questioned if the building were the right place, but Crawford with great emphasis declared: "That he guessed he knew the place, after having cast his vote like a good adopted patriot in the morning." Therefore, they approached the portals of the seat of learning like a coy maiden going to meet her lover, but like the foolish virgins they came too late and the porter refused to open. They turned away and continued on their journey. Mr. Van. Horne is still wondering what induced Crawford to desire to attend college, whether it were the head of some New England houri at the window, or if he desired to know of the peculiar traits of character attributed to the deity Bacchus.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Columbia Theatre.

Monday, March 12, will be the beginning of the second week of Edward Harrigan's stay at the Columbia, and on that occasion he will present one of the most popular of his metropolitan successes, "Reilly and the 400." This play has been remarkably successful wherever seen, and in New York had a run of over four hundred consecutive performances. It was seen in this city two years ago, when it made hosts of friends who will, without doubt, be glad to welcome it back again. All the original catchy music has been retained, and one special feature of the present production will be the assumption of the character of Maggie Murphy by dainty Emma Pollock, and her charming rendition of "Maggie Murphy's home,"—a song which was originally composed for and sung by her in the home theatre. The usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given.

Boston Theatre.

It is officially announced that Hoyt's great satire on the militia, "A Milk White Flag," will close its run at the Boston theatre on Saturday, March 26. This sudden announcement will make those people who have not already seen Hoyt's latest and most elaborate farce-comedy anxious to enjoy its satire and humor. The 50th performance is to occur March 19, and on this occasion a souvenir of novel and useful design will be given away. "A Milk White Flag" will not be given in New England owing to the elaborate scale on which it is produced.

How to Avoid Hard Times.

In the course of an address on "Cause and Cure of the Hard times," before the Boston Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening, James L. Gordon said:

There is an old proverb to the effect that the unexpected always happens. Hard times may be avoided by wisely preparing for just such an emergency as "hard times." We are always hoping that something will "turn up," and when the "something" which we hoped would turn up turns down, then we find ourselves in trouble. If we were wise enough to look out for a sudden and dangerous "turn down," if it ever occurred, we would ride over it in safety. Every man who lives carelessly from hand to mouth, who spends every cent which he makes because he can spend it, and because it is capable of being spent, and who has no financial reserve force for an emergency, does his level best to invite and precipitate a financial panic.

Parish Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Memorial church parish was held Wednesday evening, and these officers elected:

President,—W. F. Cummings.
Secretary,—Charles F. Merrick.
Treasurer,—Charles R. Safford.
Trustees,—Charles L. Coe, John Carver, Theodore Parker.

Told by the Fireside.

There are fads in bonnets and dresses and wraps,
And fads so funny and strange,
And though it may seem unlikely perhaps,
'Tis a fact, there's a fad in a range.

On the crinoline dress there are plenty of jokes,
And the fad is a subject of jest,
But the range that will tickle both young and old folks,
Is the Glenwood—it leads all the rest.

The fire kindles up with quickness and ease,
Cooks your food through and through, in a manner to please,
Save your heat, save your coal, save your patience and rest,
By using "The Glenwood," acknowledged the best.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

A Correspondent Who Is Willing to Give Credit to Henry H. Faxon.

Editors of the Daily Ledger;

While there have been quite a number of people out of employment in Quincy during the past months, I believe that in comparison with most cities there have been fewer cases of destitution. Through no fault of their own, unless it was through voting with the wrong party, the heads of many families have been obliged to remain idle, but either they have a little property or their characters are so good that the grocer and the provision dealer has been willing to advance the actual necessites of life.

No one can pass through South or West Quincy without being impressed with the number of thrifty looking homes to be seen on every side. Is it at all likely that we would find these attractive homes, if, for the past twelve years the saloon had been permitted to carry on its nefarious business in our midst? Instead we would find neglected homes, broken windows, barefoot children, and the family receiving assistance from the city or the associated charities. A drinking man never saves money enough out of his daily wages to buy a home, which is a reserve fund to back up his credit in hard times.

The credit of having so few cases, comparatively, of actual destitution in the city this year certainly cannot be given to those who during the past twelve or fifteen years have worked and voted for license but to those who have by their vote, their influence and their money arrayed themselves against the business which corrupts our politics and ruins our homes. No doubt there are cases of poverty which cannot be traced directly to drink, but one thing is certain, if a majority of our citizens had not voted during all these years for no-license and had not been backed by Mr. Faxon's money and continual agitation on the subject, we would be no better off than many other cities where there has been so much suffering.

"Honor to whom honor is due." There are scores of men today who will refute the statement of Mr. Faxon that rum is the cause of all poverty, who themselves would no doubt be objects of charity but for Mr. Faxon's work, whereas they now have homes of their own and possibly an account in the Savings bank. It is well to think of "what might have been." OBSERVER.

Incorrectly Reported.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

In your issue of March 5, your published statement of my views regarding the article on "Unemployed" is entirely incorrect. When interviewed on the subject, I stated that I did not think intemperance was the cause of all the poverty, but that liquor would be used as long as it was manufactured. Also in regard to certain citizens locating elsewhere, my views were that men giving employment to the many were more benefit to the city than men whose taxes were greater and employed but few.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Among the Martyrs.

Enroll him among the martyrs whose patient feet have trod,
Over stormy paths and weary, the road that leads to God!

Strength in his soul was not wanting, though strength of frame was small;
With not a fear or murmur he answered the upward call.

The thirst for worldly honors made no laggards of his feet,
Through clouds that in the future hung the call had sounded sweet.

So weary was he that he lay his burden gladly down,
And went to gain his promised rest, his mansion and his crown.

A warrior in life's struggle and a hero in the field,
Whose heart was full of mercy, and whose voice could comfort yield.

His feet will never tread again the weary path they trod;
Enroll him among the martyrs now gone to be with God!

PITTSBURG, March 9.—Thirty-one Democrats were arrested last night for illegal voting in ward 1 at the recent municipal election. Warrants are out for a large number of others.

Competition For Nurses.

The London hospital is offering two money prizes, a first one of $75 and a second of $25, for the best plan of a nurses' home, the competition to include "lady superintendents, matrons and nurses in the British empire, the United States and the countries of Europe."

The idea was suggested in the course of the discussion on nurses' homes at the international congress in Chicago, when Dr. Billings, the president, pointed out that the time had arrived for women to demonstrate the latent power claimed in them in a practical and definite form, and no longer to leave it to man to plan and erect homes for nurses and training school buildings.—London Queen.

JOUGHLIN SET FREE.

Jurymen Say the Ex-Detective Is Not Guilty of Murder.

A PATHETIC SCENE IN COURT.

An Interesting Review of the Now Famous Case.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The happiest man on earth at 4:35 o'clock yesterday afternoon was Dan Coughlin. When the clerk read out the words: "We, the jury, find the defendant, Dan Coughlin, not guilty," a warm flush went over his face, which before had been of a deadly white.

He half rose in his chair, and was the next instant pushed back by Attorney David, the law partner of Mr. Donahoe, who has stoutly defended him throughout the long trial. Then it was a push that almost swept the happy man off his feet. Newspaper men, old-time friends of the prisoner before his troubles, came upon him in a body and nearly wrung his hand off.

"It's all right, boys; all right," gasped Coughlin. "It's all right, boys; I won't forget you. You treated me all right."

Then the prisoner worked his way up to the jury box and shook hands with as many of the men as he could reach, but the crowd was too much for him, and, yelling and cheering to show its delight, pushed him away from the box. He gave up the effort to greet the men who have given him freedom, and, in company with the bailiffs, started to leave the room, passing behind Judge Tuthill's chair.

Just as he was directly behind the judge, a cry of "Make way there; open up a passage; make way," was heard, and two stalwart bailiffs pushed through the crowd, and close behind them, her hat awry, her veil half up, and gasping with sobs that choked her, came Mrs. Coughlin.

An Affecting Scene.

The latter was striding to liberty as though he wore seven league boots. "Dan, come back here; see your wife," was called out, and Coughlin retraced his steps. Just at the foot of the little flight of stairs leading up to the judge's rostrum he met his wife. The woman gave an incoherent cry, her arms went up, fastened themselves around her husband's neck, and then she gave way utterly. She only said: "Dan! Oh, Dan!" but nowhere, not even in Dan Coughlin's heart was there such joy as in the bosom of the little woman who clasped tight against her husband's heart.

Coughlin bent his big blonde head until his mustache swept her cheek, and then the two rocked to and fro until the woman was able to stifle her emotion, and then she was led away by Coughlin's father, who was happy enough to dance a jig, but gave his entire attention to his hat, which he kept putting on and taking off with marvellous rapidity.

Attorney Daniel Donahoe, who had with ex-Judge Wing defended the prisoner, was the recipient of a shower of congratulations from friends and fellow attorneys. "It is just as I expected," he said. "The verdict could not have been otherwise. I will acknowledge that it was an agreeable surprise to me, however, to get a verdict so soon. I would not have been surprised if the jurors had remained out 18 or 20 hours."

History of the Case.

The Coughlin trial has been one of the most noteworthy in the criminal annals of the country. Like the former Cronin trial, it has been replete with sensations and of remarkable duration. Daniel Coughlin, an ex-city detective, was charged with complicity in the murder of Dr. P. H. Cronin, a prominent Irish physician. Cronin was well known in one faction of the Clan-na-Gael, and it was to members of an opposing faction that his murder was charged.

At the former trial, Coughlin, Martin Burke and Patrick O'Sullivan were convicted of the murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. The two latter died in prison and the present defendant secured a new trial.

Dr. Cronin disappeared on the evening of May 4, 1889. After a protracted search his body, mutilated and decomposed, was found in a catch basin in the northern part of the city. In the same section of the city stands the little Carlson cottage, where the theory of the prosecution placed the murder.

In the present trial, after five weeks' work, the jury was impanelled on Dec. 5 last. After the jury was completed several sensations were sprung in the shape of charges against jurymen, and three men who had been accepted were excused from service.

About Mrs. Foy.

One of the most important and sensational witnesses for the prosecution was Mrs. Andrew Foy, wife of a bricklayer. Mrs. Foy told of being present at numerous conferences between the defendant and her husband, and claimed to have heard numerous conversations between them and other men, which pointed to a conspiracy to murder Dr. Cronin, but the defense introduced testimony to show that Mrs. Foy had written to a former attorney for the defense, threatening to tell a damaging story unless liberally rewarded. Her sanity also was called in question.

Her story was that Martin Burke, now dead, and the missing Cooney, did the actual killing, while Iceman O'Sullivan stood in the yard and a policeman guarded the door. Coughlin, she said, arrived at the Carlson cottage shortly after the deed was done.

Bardeen's Testimony.

Frank Bardeen, an electrical engineer, said that about 2 o'clock on the morning of May 5 he heard a wagon passing the Edgewater plant. He turned on an electric searchlight and in the glare he saw a wagon in which was a large chest or trunk. Behind the wagon walked two men, he claimed, one of whom he identified as Coughlin. It was shown that no train left at the hour he left Edgewater the morning after he saw the wagon, and that no moon was visible on the night in question, although he swore positively that he first saw the wagon and men by moonlight.

Much medical testimony was introduced by the defense to prove that Dr. Cronin's death might have resulted from disease, but its principal effort was directed toward establishing an alibi. Three witnesses swore to having seen Coughlin during the evening when he was supposed to have been engaged in the killing, and their testimony was unshaken.

PETTY ANNOYANCES

On the Part of Portuguese Caused the Troubles on the Zambesi.

PORT NATAL, March 9.—The collision between the Portuguese and the British on the Zambesi river was due to an attempt made by the Mozambique company to obtain pecuniary benefit from the African Transcontinental Telegram company, a British concern. Failing in this attempt, the Mozambique company commenced a series of petty annoyances, including the boycotting of the supply of fuel and provisions intended for the construction party and for the British gunboats, notably boycotting the British gunboat Herald in another part of the Zambesi.

The collision at Tete began with the firing of two shots from the Portuguese fort as a warning. The boats loaded with Portuguese then crossed the river and tore up the telegraph poles of the construction party. Shots were exchanged, but no loss of life is reported. The commander of the British gunboat Mosquito then intimated that he would open fire if there was any further damage done to the telegraph company's property, and re-enforcements were sent for by both sides. Later, firing is said to have taken place between the gunboat and the fort, and further details are anxiously awaited.

FILLS THE BILL.

The Cramps More Than Satisfied With the Indiana's Performance.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—The battleship Indiana returned to her dock at Cramps' shipyard after the quickest and most successful trial trip of any vessel ever built by the Cramps.

Much depended upon this trial. The Indiana is the first of Uncle Sam's new battleships to be completed. She is of a type entirely different from anything now owned by the United States government, and is practically an experiment.

The Cramps decided that the trial was so successful that she will not take the customary long run at sea, and this is why the ship got back to her dock at least 24 hours earlier than was expected.

The battleships Indiana, Massachusetts and Oregon were designed in 1890 by Lewis T. Nixon, then one of the youngest of Uncle Sam's force of naval constructors, the order being for a battleship similar to the English fleet.

Dull Day In the House.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Proceedings in the house yesterday were dull. A bill by the joint commission to investigate the expenditures in the executive departments to change the methods of auditing the accounts of the customs division of the treasury department and abolishing the offices of commissioner and assistant commissioner of customs was passed after some debate, and the remainder of the day was devoted to a discussion of the District of Columbia appropriation bill. This bill was the signal for the regular annual assault upon the system on the vogue here of having the general government pay half the expenses of the district.

Shocking Double Tragedy.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., March 9.—The body of Philip Petrie was found on the Wabash railroad with the head missing. The coroner went to the Petrie home to summon Mrs. Petrie to testify at the inquest. The dead body of Mrs. Petrie was found on the bed in a decomposed state. Petrie had left a note saying his wife had been unfaithful. After killing his wife Petrie had committed suicide.

Charged With Jury Bribing.

LIMA, O., March 9.—In connection with the prosecution of ex-Cashier Langan of the defunct Lima National bank, President Farrat, ex-Sheriff Hoagland and Expert Accountant Eugene Hall were arrested for attempting to bribe the jury in the Langan case. It is intimated that the developments are but the start of more astonishing ones.

A Horrible Fate.

RUTLAND, Vt., March 9.—At the burning of a barn at West Rutland Patrick Cooney was burned to death. He rushed in to save some animals. He was seen lying just inside the door moving his head, and his moans heard, but the heat was too intense to reach him. The body was badly burned, scarcely anything but bones being left.

Stories Pronounced Untrue.

OTTAWA, March 9.—There is no truth in a story telegraphed that John Thompson had resigned the premiership, and that Mr. Bowell was to replace him. Another story that Lord Aberdeen was going to England to take the Irish secretaryship in succession to Hon. John Morley is denied.

WATERVILLE, Me., March 9.—Benjamin Bunker, proprietor and editor of the Kennebec Democrat, died yesterday, aged 56. He formerly edited The Pine Tree State and Fairfield Journal. He was city marshal for five years and assessor two years.

BOSTON, March 9.—Gus Pearson, 28 years of age, is under arrest here as a fugitive from justice, charged with forgery of a check drawn on the Des Moines Savings bank. He was held for officers from that place.

Abandoned at Sea.

LONDON, March 9.—A dispatch from Montevideo states that the bark Edward Percy (Br.) has been abandoned. The crew were landed at Montevideo, and the vessel has since been towed to that port.

Double Drowning Accident.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., March 9.—Edward Cooley and Horace Hurlburt, 14 years old, broke through the ice on the pond in Washington, and were drowned. Their bodies were recovered.

Waiting For Proofs of Claims.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Receiver Grant says that there is no truth in the rumor that he is about to submit a report of the affairs of the St. Nicholas bank as proof of claims are not all in.

A Decrease This Time.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The cash balance in the treasury at the close of business yesterday was $138,848,740 and the net gold $107,405,618, a decrease since Wednesday of $41,183.

HAMBURG, March 9.—Steamer Whitby (Br.), from Galveston, reports heavy gales with high seas during the passage. Decks were swept and some movables carried away.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 9.—Bryn J. Holt of New York has been appointed local inspector of hulls of steam vessels for the district of Burlington.

SPIRIT COMMUNICATION.

Mr. Stead Is a Firm Believer and Explains What He Means by It.

W. T. Stead, the English editor who has been creating a series of sensations in Chicago, speaking there of the unwritten messages he has received from distant people by the telepathic process, said: "I have had many of them since I have been in Chicago. I place so much reliance on some of them if I should receive a communication in this way from some of my friends I should act on it with the same certainty that I would if I received the same message by post.

"If their request was for a £5 note, I should send it without hesitation if the circumstances were such that I would have sent it if the communication had been in the ordinary way. If I were the editor of a daily paper, I could receive a great many of my telegrams in this way without the expense of telegraph tolls. The only reason that I could not receive all of them in this way is that the communication between all mediums is not equally perfect or trustworthy, and those on whom I could rely would not always be in the place where the events of interest were occurring.

"Now, why is it that so much of what purports to be spirit communication is rot and inanity? Well, for one thing, the greater part of what is spoken and written by persons still in life is rot and inanity, senseless chatter. And the mere fact that a mind has been disembodied does not endow it with wisdom.

"Man's body is merely an animated, two legged telephone, through which, by the organs of speech, the eyes, the gestures and motions of the body, the mind communicates at short distances with other minds. When the body dies, the telephone is rung off."—Washington. Post.

THE REWARD OF VIRTUE.

The Appreciation Shown to a Man Who Saved the Lives of a Woman and Babe.

A workingman earning very small wages and having a wife and family to keep, when engaged one day 20 miles from his home, saw a woman with a baby in her arms throw herself into the river. He waded across a muddy dike, dived in after her and rescued the pair with some difficulty. Up to the present these have been the rewards of his heroism: First, he had to walk three miles before he found any one who would let him come in and go to bed while his clothes were dried. Secondly, he was compelled to attend at Rochester police court next day, when he says he was ordered about by the police, treated as only one degree removed from a criminal and dismissed without payment to walk eight miles to Gravesend, where he was temporarily stopping. Thirdly, he is detained at Gravesend while the would be suicide is under remand. Finally, he is reduced to destitution, and his family at home are in the same position by the loss of time and employment.

Whether he will eventually be fined or imprisoned or merely allowed to betake himself with his family to the workhouse remains to be seen. Possibly this is all done with the view of discouraging those who would interfere with the suicidal intentions of their neighbors. On no other ground can it be justified.—London Truth.

THORNTON AND HIS BUCKETS.

The Former Is One Hundred and the Latter Are Seventy-five Years Old.

Obed Thornton of Arcade, N. Y., has got his two sap buckets ready for use in the maple sugar making season of 1894, says a correspondent. There would be nothing particularly noticeable in that fact, because scores of other people in sugar regions are getting their sap buckets ready in the same way, but these two buckets of Obed Thornton were made by him in 1819, and he has used them every season since. More than that—he was 25 years old when he made the buckets and three weeks ago celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of his birth.

Mr. Thornton came to Wyoming county from New Hampshire in 1818. He drove an ox team all the way. He settled on the farm where he has lived ever since. He has been back to his old New Hampshire home three times and made the journey each time on foot. In 1844 one of his teeth began to ache. Some one told him that if he applied tobacco smoke to the tooth it would stop the aching. He began smoking a pipe. The tooth quit aching. He has smoked almost constantly ever since and has the same tooth yet. Mr. Thornton has never had to use glasses, and his hearing is as good as it ever was. He is as lively as a man of 50.

The Paris Bomb Wagon.

The activity of the anarchists in Paris is attracting much attention to the new institution which causes people to flee in all directions whenever it appears on the street, as it does now, several times daily. It is the official bomb chariot. It consists of a light frame, including a hooded iron seat, which protects the driver. The body of the vehicle is hung with delicate sets of springs. The appliance for holding the bombs is muffed india rubber. An old ambling horse draws it always at a slow pace. The coachman is an artilleryman, whose salary was raised this week. The suspected bombs are taken to a spot near the fortifications.—Paris Letter.

This Governess Is a Perfect Gem.

The following advertisement appears, it need not be said, in a religious newspaper. If seven of the rising generation can have "all virtue" imparted to them, together with the four spirits specified, at the inclusive price of £20 for the lot, it may be regarded, I think, as good business:

"Nurse speaking with perfect elegance and purity of language, capable of informing children to all virtue and of molding them in the spirit of simplicity, meekness, goodness and piety; seven children; wages, £20."—Exchange.

FIGHT ON INCOME TAX

Will Be Bitter When the Senate Discusses the Tariff.

FATE OF THE BILL UNCERTAIN.

May Possibly Be Forced Over to the Next Session.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Undoubtedly there will be a determined effort when the tariff bill reaches the senate to have the income tax feature eliminated, and it looks as if the Democratic senators who are not satisfied with the bill would make this portion of it their chief point of attack.

Senator Hill will lead off in the assault upon the income tax and he probably will be supported by Senators Smith, Brice, Murphy and a few other Democratic senators, as well as by a majority of the Republican senators. The opponents of the tax claim that the bill will provide sufficient revenue to meet the requirements of the government without the additional amount which the levy on income would give, and that because of this fact there is no longer any excuse for it.

The majority, if not all the Democratic members of the finance committee, will hold out stubbornly for the tax. One of them has said that he believes it to be the most popular feature of the bill, and while they would expect to lose some Democratic votes on an amendment to strike out this portion of the bill, they would get the votes of all three of the Populist senators and of about 10 of the Republican senators.

Hard to Get Opinions.

There was less disposition among senators and especially among members of the finance committee to discuss the tariff situation than at any time within the past month.

Senators Allison, Sherman and Aldrich, Republican members of the committee, expressed no opinions when they received the bill, but there is every reason to believe that they will adhere to their determination, expressed previously, to ask a full explanation from the Democratic members of the changes made in the tariff system by the pending measure. They have heretofore expressed the opinion that if this request should be granted it would be impossible to report the bill for three weeks after its receipt.

The Democratic members, who by reason of their superior numbers have this matter largely in their own hands, have not indicated just what concessions they would make as to time. Senator Voorhees has not indicated what time he considered ample, nor Mr. Jones how far the committee would be willing to allow the Republicans to assume responsibility for delay.

Some of the Republican senators express the opinion that if the bill cannot be recommitted, it may be possible to delay its passage until next fall, and possibly force it over until the next session of congress.

Coupled with this statement is an assertion that some of the Democratic senators would not be unwilling to have it suffer this fate, but the Democratic senators who are counted upon to aid in this work are not expressing opinions upon the question.

Much Depends Upon Hill.

Much interest is felt in Senator Hill's forthcoming speech. He said that he could not yet say when he would deliver it, and repeated that he would not outline his position until then. While opening the numerous telegrams this morning, he remarked casually: "Occasionally you find a man who does not find the bill perfect."

Men whose business interests are affected by the bill and who did not receive the consideration for which they had asked at the hands of the Democratic members of the finance committee are still asking for hearings. There are representatives of the glass, lumber and wool interests here. The glass men were especially urgent in requesting yesterday that the committee should still grant an opportunity to present their grievances. Senator Voorhees told them this would be impossible.

It is considered probable that the Republican members may present the representations of some of these men to the committee.

A Horrible Tragedy.

NASHVILLE, March 10.—George A. Smith, a farmer about 30 years of age, living near Celma, went home drunk and beat his infant child to death, following this with a brutal pounding of his wife, whose throat he afterward cut. He then went to the house of his sister-in-law, who was sick, and pulled her out of bed and began to beat her. She escaped and alarmed the neighbors. Smith fled. He will be lynched if caught.

Jury Has It In Hand.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., March 10.—After a fierce legal battle the superior court jury retired late yesterday afternoon in the case of Herbette against the Pittsfield National bank for recovery of $1100 in the case of Cashier Francis and will bring in a sealed verdict Monday. The total amount involved in this test suit, if the depositor wins a verdict, is fully $50,000.

Masons Are Barred.

BALTIMORE, March 10.—Cardinal Gibbons expects a decision from Rome removing the ban of the church from the orders of Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias under certain conditions. It is not probable, however, that Catholics will ever be permitted to join the Masonic order.

The resolve providing for the introduction of electric power and lights at the Massachusetts Agricultural college was reported favorably.

A petition was received from the unemployed, suggesting certain relief measures. The petition states that the work of the relief committee of Boston has been a failure because of lack of funds, because no workingmen were on the committee and other causes, and calls for state farms, a state factory to make garments for inmates of state institutions, and the adoption of "a plan for improvement of public roads on a large scale so that all of the unemployed may be usefully absorbed this spring and summer." Referred to the joint special committee on the unemployed.

A FLAG OF HER OWN

Canada's Commercial Position Makes a Change Necessary.

AN EMBARRASSMENT TO ENGLAND

Which Could Be Overcome by Declaring Independence.

MONTREAL, March 10.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor Royal of the northwest territory, recently viceroy of Queen Victoria and an ultra-loyal servant of the Dominion government, has issued a brochure urging the separation of Canada from the British empire.

He says the Canadian consitution shows signs of insufficiency; her equipment grows worse and worse for the definite attainment of tranquility within her borders, and her equilibrium is menaced at several points of the social organism.

Mr. Royal devotes a chapter to showing that Canada has the right to seek independence, if she wants to. England has offered her freedom at times, and Canada by the enlarged measures of self-government has taken the power to leave when it suits her. Mr. Royal declares that Canadian people have the right to seek the evolution of their own destiny. The people have the potentiality of a great nation, being possessed of a thoroughly consolidated territory.

Now Is the Time.

Mr. Royal shows that Canada's critical commercial position makes a change necessary. Her great commercial relations are with the United States. England only comes second. Protection is necessary for our manufactures, yet we need material for them which can only be obtained by the exercise of independent powers to make treaties.

Imperial federation which would separate us commercially from the United States would mean suicide. Free trade would be no better. Mr. Royal claims that the fruit of emancipation is ripe and must be plucked now to benefit by it. Canada must take the first step toward separation, as she is only an embarrassment to the mother country. True, she would lose the protection of the British flag, but the United States has no interest in the conquest of Canada vi et armis.

The pamphlet deals further at length with the northwest and Manitoba school legislation in condemnatory language.

Mr. Royal is one of the best French Canadian writers in Canada, and much importance is attached to his argument in favor of separation from Great Britain.

DISCOURAGED.

Insurgents Are Believed to Be Contemplating Surrender.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 10.—There are reasons to believe that Admiral da Gama considers the chances of success on the part of the insurgents almost hopeless and that he is seeking an opportunity to surrender to the foreign commanders.

This is thought to be due to the failure of De Mello to re-enforce him from the south and to the fear that he may be overwhelmed at any time by the arrival of the government fleet. This fleet is now engaged in mysterious movements between this harbor and Cape Frio. In the daytime the vessels of the squadron are to be seen in the vicinity of Cape Frio, while at night they hover near the entrance to Rio harbor.

The German admiral has demanded of the insurgent commander the payment of an indemnity for the seizure of the lighter which was flying the German flag, and also for firing upon a German steam launch. The lighter at the time it was seized was lying alonside the German steamer Catania. Admiral da Gama has acceded to the demands of the German admiral.

A correspondent sends word that dispatches have been received confirming the reports of a battle near Sarandia. The rebels were routed with great loss. More than 400 were killed.

On Reciprocal Lines.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 10.—In opening the legislature yesterday the governor promised a tariff revision measure. The executive has prepared schedules which make liberal reductions on American flour, pork and other products, so that we might again renew the negotiations for the free admission of Newfoundland fish into American markets in return for free bait.

Bomb Under a Bed.

PARIS, March 10.—An infernal machine exploded last evening under the bed of a workman who had an apartment in a house in the Colombe quarter. The workman and his landlady were arrested. The prisoners made conflicting explanations as to the presence of the bomb under the bed.

Taffy For Russia.

HONG KONG, March 10.—It is reported that Russia and China have come to a secret understanding regarding the Pamirs. Count Casin, Russian minister here, has received the highest decoration lying in the power of the empire of Japan, namely, the Shuang Lung or double dragon.

Mexican Statesman Dead.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 10.—News has been received of the death, at San Luis Potosi, of Pedro Diaz Guiteirrez, a member of the national senate from that state and a brother of the governor of San Luis Potosi.

A Third of What Was Asked For.

BERLIN, March 10.—In the reichstag the government asked that money be appropriated for new ships. After much discussion money for one cruiser out of the three asked for was voted.

—Rev. Louis A. Banks says that out of $100 given in charity, without investigation, only about $1 ever does any real lasting good. Give, but do it through organized channels.

Editorial Comment.

THE NEW Board of Health has made one reform which is in the line of justice and will be appreciated by all owners of business blocks and dwellings. The expense of cleaning out vaults and cesspools, since the general use of the water supply had reached large figures, particularly in neighborhoods where the underground drainage was poor. The new prices for this work are quite a reduction in rates and more in reason. When will the city have a sewer system, is still an important question.

THE NEW BEDFORD Standard is making rapid strides to success and gives Southeastern Massachusetts an excellent daily newspaper. A recent issue announced that it would soon occupy a new block being built expressly for the paper. It is spacious and magnificent, and we read with interest of the excellent interior arrangement for all the departments.

We have in our midst several veterans, but none are smarter or more active than Mr. James M. Beckford, who on Friday rounded the eighty-fourth mile stone in his journey through life. In his mind he is clear and can relate many events of earlier days, his steps, although not so nimble as in days of yore is still quick and most every day finds him on his daily rounds among the stores of the city. We wish our friend health in the remaining journey through life.

Subscription Party.

A very pretty subscription party was given at Faxon hall, last evening by Miss Hattie B. Pierce, which was participated in by about 40 couples. The hall was very prettily decorated with evergreen, and in one corner beneath a piano lamp were the matrons, Mrs. Charles F. Pettengill and Mrs. Henry Hardwick.

Loud's orchestra furnished music and the floor was under the direction of Mr. Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., assisted by Mr. Harry L. Whiton, Mr. Peter B. Mead, Mr. Charles W. Redding and Mr. W. I. Chubbuck.

The ladies were all attired in light evening costumes, and the gentlemen in the conventional black and the scene when the dancing was at its height was a charming one.

BRILLIANT PARTY.

Given in Music Hall by the Atlantic Social Club—Those Present.

Last evening Music hall, Atlantic, was the scene of a large and most brilliant dancing party. It was one of the series given by the Atlantic Social club and certainly was one of the most successful.

The favorable weather enabled the friends of this wide awake organization to come from the nearby towns in large numbers and by 9 o'clock the floor was completely filled with merry dancers. The ladies looked charming. The gentlemen were for the most part in evening dress and it is seldom that a more social and jolly party is seen together in this vicinity. Excellent refreshments were served by Thomas the caterer. By general request one more of these parties will be given which will close the season in Atlantic. Among those present were the following:

City of Paris.

Mr. Louis W. Arnold of Braintree who is at present making his home in Paris, writes that he is delighted with the city, yet most of the famous buildings of Paris are of course old, and however rich in in design and execution they may be, they have a weather stained and faded appearance which is somewhat disappointing. "Of the old buildings I think that the Church of Notre Dame interested me most. In the first place the immensity of the structure with its two massive towers and grotesquely adorned steeple strikes one, but above all else it gives one the feeling of being taken backwards several centuries. On the arched portals and in fact on the entire facade the surface is one mass of sculpture, rude but picturesque. From the top of the tower especially, the same kind of work is striking; all kinds of fabulous animals are grouped about according to the fancy of some twelfth century architect. One feature peculiar to all buildings of this date is the conductors for taking off the water from the roofs.

Stone gutters run around the eaves and from them arms of stone extend out carved to represent some fabulous animal from whose mouth the water flows. Several of these dispose of the water from the tops of the towers of Notre Dame. Notre Dame has a very eventful history."

A Stupid Joke.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

On Monday, March 5, there was published in your widely read paper an item, under the heading of "A Quincy man in trouble," to the effect that one Patrick Donahoe of Millstreet, County Cork, Ireland, has been sentenced to imprisonment for life for the killing of a policeman. As the above named is a nephew of mine who recently left my home to visit friends in Ireland, I naturally felt much interested in the matter, and upon investigation find that the report is without foundation, but is the outcome of a stupid joke. The report purposely started in the hearing of a malicious person who repeated it to a reporter in the Quincy Police Station. The publication has given rise to considerable annoyance to my family and to the numerous friends of the maligned party. Knowing well the LEDGER'S love for fair play. I write with all confidence to request you to publish this letter, so that those who have seen the report will know there is no truth in it.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Write for instructions and advice.

Told by the Fireside.

There are fads in bonnets and dresses and wraps,
And fads so funny and strange,
And though it may seem unlikely perhaps,
'Tis a fact, there's a fad in a range.

On the crinoline dress there are plenty of jokes.
And the fad is a subject of jest,
But the range that will tickle both young and old folks,
Is the Glenwood—it leads all the rest.

The fire kindles up with quickness and ease,
Cooks your food through and through, in a manner to please,
Save your heat, save your coal, save your patience and rest,
By using "The Glenwood," acknowledged the best.

Henry L. Kincaide & Co., agents for Quincy.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Theophilus King will speak on "Business Corner-stones" Thursday evening, the 15th, at 7.45. All young men invited.

At the New England Secretaries Conference held in Waterbury last month an invitation was presented from the directors of the Quincy association to hold the next conference with the local association. The invitation was favorably received and referred to the executive committee with the recommendation that it be accepted. The conference will meet in February 1895.

The ladies have made several contributions to the parlor during the past month. All that is needed now is a couple of easy chairs.

At the monthly meeting of the board of directors, it was voted to establish a limited membership for boys from twelve to sixteen years of age. The fee will be one dollar per year and will include all the privileges of the three dollar membership except the gymnasium and baths.

The rally for workingmen last Sunday afternoon, drew together quite a number of workingmen and others from various parts of the city. The rally will be continued next Sunday and will be addressed by Mr. Geo. E. Thomas of Wollaston, and Mr. Alphonso Delano of Mellen, Bray & Co. The subject will be "Building."

The annual gymasium exhibition will be given Wednesday evening, the 28th in Hancock hall. The young men and boys are working hard, with the determination to make it the most successful ever given in the city.

The association in Newburyport is having a remarkable interest in its spiritual work. It is reported that nearly three hundred men have expressed a determination to lead Christian lives. The churches are taxed to the untmost in caring for the young converts. Lawrence is having a similar experience though on a smaller scale. The special interest has been created by the presence of the Trinity Praying band, of Somerville.

BRAINTREE.

The Selectmen met Tuesday and organized with Ansel O. Clark as chairman and John V. Scollard secretary.

The time of the Sunday evening meetings in the chapel of the First Congregational church has been changed from seven to half past seven.

Miss Elizabeth M. Thompson is making a long visit with her sister, Mrs. Wales in Randolph, and her presence is missed among her hosts of friends in town.

The ladies of the Universalist society will hold their second "Parlor Social" in the Town Hall next Wednesday evening. The entertainment will be free to all.

The ladies of the Braintree Baptist church propose to hold their annual entertainment on May 2 and 3 and extend an invitation to all our citizens to assist them in the line of contributions. The proceeds are to be used for the furnishings of the new church.

The King's Daughters, an organization connected with the South Congregational church, gave a lovely entertainment in the Town Hall last night. The programme consisted of singing, select readings by Fred Butler and Jennie Brown Hollis.

But the most amusing parts were tennis and Quaker drills.

The following took part in these:

Tennis drill,—Ethel Brooks, Helen Foss, Mamie Foss, Josie Wright, Annie Crosby, Lottie Stiles, Bessie Leonard, Blanche Porter, Lulu Carver, Jessie Benham, Mabel E. Mellen, Mabel F. Mellen, May Stoddard, Mabel Boyer.

Quaker drill,—Wendall Waite, Charles Cummings, Dallas Willis, Frank Littlefield, Scott Hazeltine, Thurlow Torrey, Louis Howland, Blanche Porter, Kitty Cummings, Edith Littiefield, Gertrude Allen, Helen Stetson, Helen Waite, Grace Hinkley.

Miss Mary L. French, leader.
Miss Annie Dyer, pianist.

How to Avoid Hard Times.

In the course of an address on "Cause and Cure of the Hard times," before the Boston Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening, James L. Gordon said:

There is an old proverb to the effect that the unexpected always happens. Hard times may be avoided by wisely preparing for just such an emergency as "hard times." We are always hoping that something will "turn up," and when the "something" which we hoped would turn up turns down, then we find ourselves in trouble. If we were wise enough to look out for a sudden and dangerous "turn down," if it ever occurred, we would ride over it in safety. Every man who lives carelessly from hand to mouth, who spends every cent which he makes because he can spend it, and because it is capable of being spent, and who has no financial reserve force for an emergency, does his level best to invite and precipitate a financial panic.

TODAY'S COURT.

Edward Fogg of Quincy was fined $5 for drunkenness.

Edward Fogg, for disturbing the peace at Quincy, was fined $10.

John Simons of Quincy for disturbing the peace was fined $10.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

All that's Yellow is not Cottolene

There's hardly a housekeeper in the country but has heard of Cottolene the new vegetable shortening. It is a strictly natural product; composed only of clarified cotton seed oil, thickened for convenience in use, with refined beef suet—pure and sweet. So composed,

COTTOLENE

Was bound to win, and to drive out lard from the kitchens of the world. When housekeepers wish to get rid of the unpleasant features and results of lard, they should get Cottolene, taking care that they are not given cheap counterfeits with imitative names, spuriously compounded to sell in the place of Cottolene.

It's easy to avoid disappointment and insure satisfaction. Insist on having Cottolene.

He writes familiarly about
The fairy fete, the radiant rout,
And ladies' luncheons, blue or pink,
Color his ever flowing ink.
You'd think no function of the swim
Could be successful without him,
Although perhaps his glowing lines
Were writ in the cellar where he dines.

The houses of the millionaires
He knows from roof to cellar stairs.
To read his screeds 'twould seem that he Dropped often in familiarly
To lunch or dine; yet, sooth to say,
He's only crossed the area way
To interview the butler or
A kitchen maid behind the door.

The clubs to him are open books.
He knows their most familiar nooks
And all the great celebrities
Who haunt these palaces of ease.
On etiquette and what to wear
He can advise a millionaire,
The while he clothes himself complete
In secondhands from a back street.

As necromancers of the east
Can conjure (so I've heard at least)
Within a drop of ink strange sights
And wondrous visions of delights,
So in his pot of ink he sees
The golden world of luxuries,
And for the time may e'en forget
His hall room rent's not paid for yet.

Women and Cruelty to Animals.

The woman's branch of the Pennsylvania Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals celebrated its silver anniversary recently. One of the many notable achievements during the 25 years' work is the improvement in the transportation of cattle, both by rail and water, the more humane treatment being almost entirely due to the women's society. One of the speakers at the anniversary was Miss Agnes Repplier, the clever essayist. "How do we know that the animals were made for our use?" she questioned. "We can eat sheep, and say that he was made for man's use. The lion eats man. Shouldn't we say that he made us for the lion's use?"—Philadelphia Call.

LACK OF CONFIDENCE

Though There Are Visible Signs of Improvement In Business.

THE WOOL MARKET ENCOURAGED.

A Decided Decrease In Failures of Importance.

NEW YORK, March 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says today: Evidences of present improvement in business multiply, but confidence in future improvement does not seem to increase. The most distinct gain is in iron and steel manufactures.

Shipments of boots and shoes from the east are 14.8 per cent smaller than a year ago for the same week, and purchases are still mainly of medium or low priced goods.

In textile manufactures and dry goods there are increased activity and replenishment of stocks, as are natural at this season. But the demand thus far falls much short of expectations, and its character indicates great economy in consumption. A reduction in Wamsutta sheetings and in Garner's fancy prints to 4 1-4 cents indicates the judgment of leading concerns that make this require more stimulation than usual. In woolens also, manufacturers are increasing production, mainly in a tentative way, or on orders which are little more than sufficient to test the market.

But the sales of wool at three chief markets for the week have been 5,150,300 pounds, against 3,598,750 pounds for the same week last year, and in the past five weeks the decrease has been only 12 per cent, which is a marked improvement, in part due to the fact that the mills having any orders are buying at once what wool they expect to need for months to come.

Wheat advanced 1-2 cent.

Sales of cotton were larger, at first with some decline, which was afterward recovered.

Encouraging.

The volume of domestic trade shown by clearings decreases for the week 17.4 per cent outside New York, and 34.9 per cent here, compared with last year. In foreign trade, changes are also for the better, exports having been large, and for four weeks 14 per cent larger than last year, while the decrease in imports for February was 37 per cent. Thus customs revenue does not improve, and for the week has been 51 per cent less than last year, the decrease in internal revenue being 16 per cent.

Money is weak, with further decrease in the demand for commercial loans.

Failures are growing less important, and somewhat fewer also. For the week ending March 1 the liabilities thus far reported were only $2,937,832, and for four weeks of February $14,886,091, of which $6,732,615 were of manufacturing and $27,697,127 of trading concerns.

The number of failures during the past week has been 248 in the United States against 193 last year, and 60 in Canada against 32 last year. Scarcely a single one is of importance, and it is gratifying that the consequences of the great reverse last year have been so far overcome.

Scandal In High Life.

SALEM, Mass., March 10.—Albert Crampsey, a young fish dealer of this city, has brought a suit for $20,000 against Judge Henry Mather, a prominent lawyer of Boston, who has seen 50 years of life, and who is a married man, for alienating the affections of his pretty young wife, who is but 26 years of age. All the parties concerned are well known in this city and in Beverly.

A Mother's Carelessness.

LYNN, Mass., March 10.—The 2 months-old babe of Ellen Moore, colored, was taken sick and the mother gave it an overdose of paregoric. Shortly after the babe was taken with spasms, and died within 20 minutes. Dr. Chase says that the death was on account of the carelessness of the mother in giving such a large dose of the medicine to the child.

German Opera In Boston.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Damrosch's orchestra and chorus, Mme. Materna, Schott, Fischer and other singers, will give two stage performances of German opera in Boston on April 11 and 12—one of "Die Walkure" and one of "Gotterdammerung." The performances are projected for the benefit of the Home for the Incurables in Boston.

One Flung a Knife.

BOSTON, March 10.—Peter Anadino, 14 years old, and Stazzer Frenche, 16 years old, got into a quarrel near the Farmers' market, in which Anadino had the best of it. Frenche drew his knife and flung it at his opponent, who turned to run, when the knife entered his back and penetrated his left lung. He is in a critical condition.

Two Celebrations In One.

BOSTON, March 10.—The 13th annual reunion of the New England chapters of Beta Theta Pi was held here last evening. It was also the 50th anniversary of the foundation of the fraternity in New England. TOOK HIS OWN LIFE.

George Russell of Salem Was Discouraged by Mental Troubles.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 10.—George J. Russell yesterday furnished a tragic sequel to the shooting affray in which he figured on Tuesday last by cutting his throat with a razor. Russell had been separated from his wife, to whom he was married some six years since. About a year ago the trouble began. Russell drank, and it is claimed that he charged his wife with being untrue to him. They had one daughter, 5 years old, and it was over this child that the trouble which led to the tragedy of yesterday occurred.

Mrs. Russell lived in South Manchester, while Russell lived at 142 Central street in the city proper. Mrs. Russell had a boarder, and it is said the dead man was jealous of him. At any rate, he wanted to get his daughter away from her mother. On Tuesday night Russell appeared at her home, she claims, and endeavored to break in, whereupon she fired at him, but didn't hit him. Russell denied the story, but it obtained publicity, and he was discharged by the People's Gas Light company, in whose employ he served, and this, with the notoriety he had attained, seems to have completely unnerved him.

A gentleman occupying an adjoining apartment to Russell's heard groans of agony emanating from his room yesterday, and his door was broken down, when a most horrible sight was revealed.

Russell had first attempted to cut his throat with an ordinary jackknife, but had only succeeded in severing several of the small veins. With the blood streaming from a score of wounds, he had staggered about the room in the search for his razor with which to complete the job. Russell's wife was to have applied for a divorce today.

IN CONGRESS.

District of Columbia Affairs and Seigniorage Bill Are Considered.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—After clearing the calendar of a number of bills of minor interest, the senate took up the seigniorage bill. After an agreement between Mr. Allison for the minority and Mr. Harris for the majority, that a vote should be taken on the motion to reconsider at 2 o'clock Wednesday, and on the final passage of the bill at the same hour on Thursday, Mr. Vilas addressed the senate in opposition to the bill. His speech was of a fragmentary description, owing to numerous interruptions.

The house devoted the entire day to the consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill. The only feature of interest was the wholesale charges of corruption made by Mr. Kilgore against the press of this city and the warm defense of the press by Mr. Blair. Two amendments, one to wholly eliminate the government as a taxpaying factor in the expenses of the District, and the other to reduce the share borne by the general government from one-half to one-third, were defeated.

An Unusual Procedure.

CHICAGO, March 10.—The famous litigation between William Sturgis, the Chicago promoter, and John V. Farwell and his associates in the Texas capital and other schemes will be settled by referring every point to Judge Tuley for arbitration, and from his decision there will be no appeal. The case involves 3,000,000 acres of land and 150,000 head of cattle.

A Reminder of Tweedism.

NEW YORK, March 10. — Corporation Counsel Clark was served with a notice yesterday to appear in the supreme court to pay the claim of S. B. Densmore & Co., who were newspaper publishers, for $70,962.94, and interest for 20 years. The claim dates back to the days of Tweed, when favored newspapers were paid fabulous sums for advertising.

Took a Dose of Aconite.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 10. — Mrs. Charles Luck attempted to commit suicide by drinking half an ounce of aconite last evening. This is her second attempt to kill herself, and jealousy of her sister, who lives with her husband and herself, prompted the action in both cases. The woman will recover.

Kickapoos Holding Out.

GUTHRIE, O. T., March 10.—Special Inspector of Indian Affairs Smith has just returned from a visit to Kickapoo county, where he had an interview with a number of Indians regarding allotment of their lands. He states that of the 325 Indians at his council about 232 are opposed to allotment.

OIL CITY, March 10.—A freight train, bound for Olean, composed of tank cars loaded with oil and a few miscellaneous cars, ran into a landslide at Walnut Bend. Fourteen cars were piled up. All the crew escaped except Fireman Martin, who was burned to death when the wreck caught fire.

Old Enough to Have a Governess.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Miss Jennie Lander of Mansfield, O., has been installed at the White House as governess of little Ruth Cleveland. She is 25 years old.

DESERVING OF PITY.

Penniless Family of Seven Turned Out Into the Street.

BOSTON, March 10.—Constable Chapman yesterday evicted the Goletz family, consisting of father, mother, and five children under 12 years of age, from their tenement, 29 Mayo street, and their furniture was set out in the street. The building is owned by Orin Sherman. Mr. Goletz was dragged down the stairs by one man pulling him by the head and two others dragging at his arms, and in the unequal struggle his face was cut and bled profusely.

Mrs. Goletz was dangerously ill, and had been ordered by a physician to the hospital, prior to the advent of the evicting party. The constable and his assistants were going to take Mrs. Goletz out into the street, but the other tenants interfered and placed her on a lounge on the landing, where she remained a number of hours in excruciating agony.

The father is a tailor, and worked industriously at his trade until there was nothing to do, and he has been given a day or two each week by the city relief committee. The small amount thus earned went to supply the little ones with food, and he ran behind in his rent.

AS IT PASSED THE HOUSE.

The Wilson Bill Suits the New England Tariff Reform League.

BOSTON, March 10.—The New England Tariff Reform league held its regular monthly meeting last evening. The meeting passed resolutions approving the Wilson bill, as it passed the house of representatives, as an honest and fairly disinterested effort to deal with the problem presented, but that the amendments made by the senate finance committee seem to be for the most part thoroughly bad and indicate that too great concessions have been made to the selfish demands of individual senators, and that the league hopes that the dominant party in congress will realize the gravity of the crisis that is threatening the tariff reform movement and the life of the party which stands pledged to that reform, and will purge the bill of its objectionable features. The speeches were on the lines of the resolutions.

THE ROSS MURDER

Alleged to Have Been Due to Mixing Politics With Religion.

TROY, N. Y., March 10.—It is alleged here that the fracas resulting in the death of Robert Ross was the outcome of an A. P. A. feud between himself and "Bat" Shea, who is a Catholic, and Boland, who is excommunicated from the Catholic church, and who only lately became a Republican and a member of the A. P. A. It is said that in the caucus a few weeks ago the dead man, Ross, had violent words with other members of his party over endorsing Whelan, who is also a Catholic, and that in a fracas that occurred he was hurt.

Shea, who was interviewed at the jail, says: "Whoever fired that shot that killed Mr. Ross fired it from behind him, and probably at me, for I was facing him when he fell. I felt a pain in my knee, and dropped my revolver from my hand."

Not a Bad Idea.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—A bill introduced in the house sets aside $1,000,000 as a loan for 20 years, the interest of which is to be applied to the support of a college for the education of the daughters of those who served in the armies and navies of the United States and the late so-called Confederate states. The loan is to be returned to the treasury, less the interest. The college is to be located in Whatcom county, Wash.

Silver Men Encouraged.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Senator Allison thinks that the appointment of a commission in Germany to investigate the silver question is the most encouraging sign the silver men have seen for years across the Atlantic. He thinks there is particular significance in the appointment of such a commission just at this time.

A Sister to Give Testimony.

PUEBLO, Colo., March 10.—Sister Cecilia of the Sisters' hospital of this city has gone to Washington to give testimony in the Pollard-Breckinridge case. The Republican League's Call For a Convention In June.

PARTY'S PRINCIPLES OUTLINED.

Believers Asked to Aid In Overthrowing Democrats.

CHICAGO, March 12.—The official call for the annual convention of the National Republican league was issued from the national headquarters in this city today. The convention will be held at Denver June 26, and will conclude its deliberations about July 4 to allow the delegates to join in a monster celebration of the nation's birthday.

The ratio of representation will be six delegates at large from each state and territory and four from each congressional district and one from each college Republican club in the United States. The following are ex-officio delegates:

The president, secretary and treasurer of the National league; one vice president and one executive member of the national organization from each state and the president and secretary of each state league, making four ex-officio delegates from each state. This gives each state practically 10 delegates at large, in addition to the four from each congressional district. The total representation will exceed 2000 delegates. The call reads in part as follows:

The Call.

"Dazzled by the glittering promises of Democracy, and led astray by sophistry and hypocrisies, the voters of the country in 1892 decided upon a change of national administration. Democratic control and sectional rule are again complete in the national government, and starvation for labor and ruin for capital prevail as a result of the policies and influences that dominate the Democratic party.

"The hallucinations of 1892 are over. Facts have upset theories, and the people, weary of this 'Tariff-tinkering, bond-issuing, debt-increasing, treasury-depleting, business-paralyzing, wage-reducing, queen-restoring and un-American administration,' now turn instinctively to the party that saved the nation in its hour of peril and demonstrated its masterly ability in giving the United States 30 years of prosperity unparalleled in the history of nations.

"Again it becomes the mission and duty of the grand old party to meet a national emergency with the highest patriotism. The party deplores the necessity, but rises to the occasion. The struggle for liberty, progress, fair wages and all that America promises did not end with the defeat of 1892. The fight must and will go on. To this end the national committee of the league cordially invites all patriotic citizens:

To Those of Republican Faith.

"Who believe that the humane, industrial and progressive American Republican party is best for the protection for 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness' for the American people.

"Who believe in honest elections as the bulwark of our institutions, and the right of every voter to cast one vote and have it fairly counted.

"Who believe in the dignity of free labor and the faithful maintenance of the difference between American and European wages.

"Who believe in the established policy of protection to American industries and to American workingmen, and in the Republican policy of reciprocity.

"Who believe in the fullest protection of all property and all forms of invested interests, and yet who are opposed to corporation rule in the government of either nation or state.

"Who gratefully remember the Union soldier in his hour of need as well as in the day of his sacrifice and need.

"Who believe in sound money and the use of both gold and silver as standard money, and that the 'purchasing and debt paying power of the dollar, whether of silver, gold or paper, shall be at all times equal,' as pledged in the national Republican platform at Minneapolis.

"Who believe in practical civil service reform, such as will separate the spoils side from politics and yet preserve to the people the control of all public offices and all public affairs.

"Who believe in liberal and broad-minded policies and in the assertion of American ideas in all American affairs, and all who are in sympathy with the policies and aspirations of the Republican party are cordially invited to join the league clubs, and through such clubs and state legislatures participate in the election of delegates to the National league convention at Denver.

"The league chooses to open the new contest with this convention held on the slopes of the Rocky mountains, and invites the Republicans of the United States to assemble in this great undeveloped resourceful western country and renew their fealty to the party for the preservation of past achievements, and organize for greater victories in the future in response to the public demand for Republican restoration, national prosperity and an administration distinctly American in policy."

MacVeagh Talks to Humbert.

ROME, March 12.—Hon. Wayne MacVeagh, United States ambassador to Italy, was given an audience yesterday afternoon by King Humbert. After a private conversation with the king, Mr. MacVeagh introduced the members of the embassy who accompanied him. Every ceremony due the high rank of the American ambassador was presented to him.

TOLD BY A SEAMAN.

An Account of the Recent Trouble on the Mosquito Coast.

SAVANNAH, March 12.—The report of the landing of the British at Bluefields, in the Mosquito reservation, was confirmed by the arrival of the steamer Elliot, Captain A. Brown. The Elliot left Bluefields March 4. She arrived there Feb. 27, just one day too late to witness the arrival of the Nicaraguans.

Captain Brown says the Nicaraguans entered Bluefields Feb. 25 and 26. He did not know their exact numerical strength, but there was an armed force of four or five hundred of them at Bluefields when he arrived. They simply entered under arms and without any resistance on the part of the natives; they hoisted the Nicaraguan flag over the custom house and over the other public buildings. The flags remained up during the time the Elliott was in port. There was no fighting.

The Mosquitoes were considerably terrified by the presence of so large an armed force, as they were practically without protection in the city. Captain Brown says the name of the British warship there is not the Cleopatra, but the Tomas.

The Mosquitoes, he states, fearing they might be attacked by the Nicaraguans, appealed to the Tomas for protection. On March 1 the Tomas sent three boatloads of men ashore. They were armed with carbines and cutlasses and carried with them two gatling guns and three field pieces. There was some understanding between the Mosquito chief and the officer in charge of the Tomas, the chief asking that the men be landed for the safety and protection of the people.

There was no fight of any kind between March 1, the day the men landed, and March 4, the day the Elliot sailed. Captain Brown says there was little excitement among the people.

The Mosquitoes were frightened when the Nicaraguans first entered, but after the landing of the British troops all excitement subsided, and the people seemed willing to rest easy and let things go on as they were until the trouble between the Indians and the Nicaraguans is settled.

TALKED TO UNEMPLOYED.

Mrs. Lease Says Workmen Place Too Much Faith In Dudes.

BOSTON, March 12.—In Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease, the 15,000 people who attended the meeting of the unemployed on the Common, yesterday, had a speaker after their own hearts. Scarcely had she uttered a dozen sentences before she was applauded without stint. Every telling hit she made was received with warm approval, and when she left the improvised platform she was cheered to the echo.

In her speech she scored her hearers severely, and said they had brought all their troubles on themselves by voting year after year for the dudes in top hats and kid gloves, who had no interests in their welfare, and that when they came to know the value of the ballot and used it to send men of their own kind to the legislature, then the working people would not be snubbed, but their appeals would receive immediate attention.

She advocated woman suffrage, but thanked God that women had not voted for the past 25 years, because if they had the men would turn round and say that the present condition of affairs was owing to those confounded women interfering in politics. She said that the men generally were in favor of bloodshed when things came to a grave crisis, but denounced such methods and told them that if they would only stay at home and mind the babies the women would soon find a road out of this terrible business depression.

A number of other speakers followed, chief among whom was Morrison I. Swift, who wanted Governor Greenhalge to come out in a circular and state that there was no riot at the state house on Feb. 21. This was received with general approval by the crowd.

Killed by "Regulators."

FRANKFORT, Ind., March 12.—John Rodgers, a resident of Mulberry township, was killed by a number of the members of the Mulberry Detective association. This is an organization of farmers of this county recently formed with the purpose of preventing horse stealing and other modes of thieving. Thieves had entered the house of Warren Thompson and made away with a quantity of meat, flour and other provisions. Rodgers was suspected.

A Vicious Negress.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 12.—Grace Walter, a white woman, was induced to enter the house of Sarah Chester, colored. Sarah hit Grace over the head with a stove plate, fracturing the skull and knocking her right eye out. The injured woman was then robbed, after which she was locked up in the house, where she was found 23 hours later in a dying condition. The Chester woman is in jail.

Was Beloved by Typos.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Memorial services in honor of the memory of George W. Childs were held in the Fifth Avenue theater, yesterday afternoon. The services were held under the auspices of the Typographical union, and were of very impressive character.

Fire Consumed $175,000 Worth.

CLARE, Mich., March 12.—The entire stock and plant of the Lansing Lumber company at Dodge were burned. The loss is about $175,000. The fire started by the upsetting of a torch. The main mill was one of the most perfect in the world.

Sheboygan Swept by a Gale.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., March 12.—A wind storm of great severity swept over this city, doing a large amount of damage to property. The gale reached a velocity of 75 miles an hour. The wind was accompanied at intervals with rain or snow.

Big Rubber Plants Shut Down.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 12.—The New Brunswick rubber factory and the Meyer Rubber company's plant at Milltown have closed for an indefinite period. About 1200 men are out of employment as the result of the dullness in trade.

Blessed by Satolli.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 12.—A set of 14 paintings, copied by Aristides Dies of Rome from "The Stations of the Cross," by Overback, in the vatican chapel, were blessed by Mgr. Satolli in St. Peter's church here yesterday.

A DEED OF ROBBERS.

Robert H. Peck of Hartford Was Waylaid and Murdered.

BODY THROWN INTO A DITCH.

Two Young Fellows Suspected of the Crime.

HARTFORD, March 12.—The dead body of Robert H. Peck, aged 24, was found yesterday morning in the ditch of a cross-road in West Hartford with a bullet hole near the left eye. Peck lived with his sister, Mrs. Frank Barber, in West Hartford. He went out from the city on the last car at 10:45 Saturday night and had traversed a half mile after leaving the car in West Hartford when he was murdered. Two rough-looking strangers who were seen to follow him are suspected of being the murderers.

Pistol shots were heard, but being of frequent occurrence caused no suspicion. Peck's pockets were found turned inside out and his vest ripped open. As it is known that he had $50, robbery is the assigned motive.

Tried to Conceal the Crime.

The body had been dragged across the road and thrown into the ditch, a distance of 18 feet. Peck had been employed as driver by Habenstein, a caterer, but for two weeks has been laid off and lived with his sister.

The suspected men boarded the car in the city and passed three men after leaving it. It is said that one of them was seen with Peck Saturday, but the sheriffs have no definite clew to work upon. Deputy sheriffs, policemen and hundreds of citizens have been scouring the country. Two policemen met two men answering the description of the suspects. Both men are about 20 years old and evidently amateur criminals.

To Stamp Out Tuberculosis.

NEW YORK, March 12.—An informal meeting of stock breeders was held here to take steps to call a national convention of stock raisers to investigate the existence of tuberculosis among cattle in this state and to call the bureau of animal industry at Washington to close quarantine all cattle in this state pending such investigation. The state board of health, it was claimed, has been killing a large number of cattle suffering from this disease in an effort to suppress it, but owing to the lack of legislative appropriation has been obliged to relax its efforts in that direction.

All Hands Took Part.

NORWALK, Conn., March 12.—A small riot broke out in Kling's Gem theater at East Norwalk Saturday evening. Many windows were broken by flying missiles and several people were hurt, five or six being rendered unconscious. After the stage performance there was a dance in which both actors and auditors participated. During the dance a free fight broke out. Many of the men and women bit and kicked each other and pulled each other's hair. A petition is to be presented to the selectmen asking them to close the place.

A Grand Sight.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Steamer Cartallian Prince, from West India ports, passed close to three large waterspouts, one of which presented a well-defined and beautiful appearance, reaching from the sky to the water. It looked like two large funnels, one inverted under the other. The waterspout finally burst about a quarter of a mile astern of the vessel and churned the sea into foam for a considerable distance.

Wellman Leaves Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Walter Wellman, who has organized an expedition at his own expense to solve the polar problem, left this city today for New York, from which city he and his companions sail on Wednesday for Europe. Mr. Wellman bade most of his newspaper friends adieu at a special meeting of the Press club called to express the esteem and good will of the club for the enterprise.

Would Be of Great Value.

DETROIT, March 12.—D. F. Henry, the civil engineer, in a lengthy communication to the Engineering Record, claims that the scheme for constructing a canal from Lake St. Clair to Lake Erie, so as to avoid the winding of the Detroit river and dangers of the Limekiln crossing, is perfectly feasible. He states that a canal 70 miles long 20 feet deep will cost less than $4,000,000.

A Ghastly Discovery.

LITTLE ROCK, March 12.—About half way between this city and Marche the dead body of a young mulatto woman was found suspended to the limb of a tree. On her bosom was a placard bearing the inscription, "If anybody cuts this body down they will share the same fate." It is supposed the woman was lynched, but when, by whom, and for what reason, is unknown.

Little One May Die.

WALTHAM, Mass., March 12.—A smallpox case has been discovered which has startled the city. It is the case of a child which has been ill for two days. Now the little one lies at the point of death, and its recovery is despaired of. This is the first case Waltham has known since the epidemic of 20 years ago.

Nothing Left but the Hull.

SAVANNAH, March 12.—The British steamer Elliot from Bluefields passed the wreck of the United States corvette Kearsarge on Roncador reef last Tuesday morning. The captain of the Eliot says there is nothing left of her but the hull. It shows no signs of going to pieces.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

SHIP BUILDING.

Prospects That It Will Again Become an Industry at Quincy Point.

One of the best situated ship yards in the state is that at Quincy Point which was first occupied by Mr. Thomas of Rockland, Me., in 1854. He carried on the business for twenty-four years, during which time he built nineteen fin large ships, making an aggregate of thirty-five thousand tons, the last vessel being in 1877. Of late years however little or no work has been done at the old yard, Messrs. McIntyre & Kirk have, however, recently occupied the yard and the indications are that the ship building industry is to be revived as the firm has erected a large building and has already commenced active work, although their plant is not fully completed as yet. When complete employment will be given to forty or fifty men.

The firm have the contract to do the work on the cup defender Pilgrim, which will be altered into a private steam yacht for the present owner, work on which will be commenced this week so that she will be ready for the water when the season opens. They also have a 21 foot knockabout boat already for planking. This boat is being built by Mr. McIntyre's patent composite construction which does away with many of the objections of composite construction, as well as giving great strength and lightness. Besides the above the firm have orders for five more knockabouts for Boston parties, the keels for some of which will be laid this week, also a 40 foot overall fin keel racer for New York parties. The revival of boat building at Quincy Point will give a new impetus to that section of the city which has natural resources for this branch of business unsurpassed, as it is nearly surrounded by water and affords excellent opportunities for hauling up and launching boats of almost any size.

FIDDLE FADDLE.

A Poem Read at a Recent Meeting of Elliot Club.

"Fad" is but a verbal foundling: 'tis a term unscientific:
A burr that on our language has contrived somehow to hang,
But it seems to serve its purpose in a manner most prolific,
And it entered Harvard College in a special course of slang.

Although "fad" the word, is recent, "fad" the fact is of the ages:
—Eve's fatal fad in Eden doesn't every Adam know?—
And, in fancy, for a moment we'll review historic pages,
And revert from present fashions to the fads of long ago.

Looking back on Time's horizon to old Egypt's hour of glory,
And examining the records on museum mummy-lids,
We shall find imperial Thothmes, as per his "memento-mori;"
A remarkable promoter of the fad for pyramids.

And the Pharaoh of the bondage, whom the Red Sea mud encloses,
When his royal heart was hardened had a fad for playing tricks;
But he found himself mistaken when he tried to muzzle Moses,
And he couldn't persuade the Hebrews to adopt his fad for bricks.

Now, across the water wending in some cup-defending galley,
We may gain familiar footing in the country of the Greek:
For there's not a grammar school-boy in the most secluded alley
Who of Athens and of Sparta cannot confidently speak.

Well he knows, this grammar school-boy, as of course do we, his betters,
How all Hellas was a hot-bed for the forcing of the fad;
In that glorious academy of Honor, Art and Letters
Set a fancy once in motion and a run it always had.

There, forever in the foreground, was the fad for statue-making,
And every public library was gay with forms of grace;
But so sadly near to Nature was each marble undertaking
That no Boston Common Councilman such shameful things could face.

And oh, immortal heroes, what a fad was yours for fighting,
With freedom for your war cry and with glory for your crown!
When "upon your shields or with them" all the bards your deeds reciting,
You were coming from the conflict with the great gods looking down.

Now from Greece to Rome is as easy as from Boston to Manhattan,
Though it took a longer transit in that anti-railroad day;
And we find the mighty people that the bossy Cæsars sat on
Put the Grecian fads in Latin with but very slight delay.

They too had fads for statues, and for columns, and for arches,
And about this time the circus was decidedly the rage;
But they couldn't have beaten Barnum in their races and their marches,
And their clowns weren't half so funny in that semi-savage age.

They'd a fine old fad for dining, for they knew the art of eating,
And their Tiber tarts and Roman punches were mortgages on fame.
Then the gladiator's combats drew a whole world to their meeting,
Though we know they never equalled a good Yale and Harvard game.

Still another fad that flourished was the one for persecution,
And it lasted with the Romans to a rather recent date:
They'd a pretty taste in riot and excelled in revolution,
But they just enjoyed a heretic in some pyrotechnic way.

There were fads in Gaul and Britain (France and England antedating)
And the Briton's best was Druids, until Cæsar on them treads,
While in Gaul we may be certain was a fad for British—hating
And Hibernia had started on her fad for hitting heads.

But America the mighty still her beauty sleep was taking,
As she lay along her forests waiting drousily for dawn,
Like the dream-enchanted maiden who could never win to waking
Till her prince the charm had broken and his kiss had brought the morn.

The prince was great Columbus, with his fad new worlds for finding,
And the sleeping beauty started as he kissed her virgin soil;
Now she stands, a stately matron, round her regal body binding
The garments she has woven in her centuries of toil.

So we meet once more the present and the fad is still our story,
There's a fad for being merry, and, in Lent for being sad:
It is fads that run this planet, and perhaps we'll find in Glory
That even New Jerusalem has some celestial fad.

Meetings Tonight.

Clan McGregor, O. S. C.
Granite lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U.

—There was a day light burglary at Holbrook Sunday, the residence of Edward Meeley, near Edmund White's factory, being ransacked during the afternoon. The thief, who was seen about the premises, carried off watches, jewelry and about $15 in money.

TUGS SENT OUT

To Search For Steamer Briscoe, Wrecked Off Cape Race.

ST. JOHN'S N. F., March 12.—A lifeboat belonging to the disabled and overdue steamer Briscoe, containing First Mate Mackey and four men, in an exhausted condition, reached here yesterday afternoon.

They reported the Briscoe lying about 60 miles south-southwest of Cape Race. They left her at midday, Friday, but after pulling four hours it was discovered that the compass had gone wrong. The compass' defect was not discovered until the Briscoe was again sighted. The boat was again launched Saturday, and from 11 o'clock that day until their arrival at the signal station yesterday the men had not had a morsel of food to eat.

They also suffered considerably during the night from cold and were slightly frostbitten. First Mate Mackey made the following statement concerning the Briscoe's voyage:

"We left Hamburg Dec. 8, but were forced to put back to Queenstown for repairs. We left there Jan. 31 and encountered terrific weather. The bridge was gone and the deckhouse, etc., destroyed Nothing was left standing but the two lower masts and the funnel. Then the starboard bow was stove in by the ice, but the compartments were still tight. She was full of water forward, however.

"Our supply of coal ran out 19 days after we left Queenstown. The steamer Ulunda took the Briscoe in tow March 2, but left her the following morning, after towing her 120 miles. Then a repetition of our former experience set in. A new danger now confronted us. The supply of food ran out and the crew were nearly reduced to starvation.

"There were no provisions on board, save a little bread, a small quantity of flour and some peas. A small fire was kept in the galley to prevent the men from perishing from cold. The other fires were let go out for lack of fuel."

The tug Ingraham left here to search for the Briscoe as soon as the above news was received. The coast steamer Virginia Lake also sailed from Trepassey and will endeavor to find the disabled steamer. One of these two will probably get her very soon. The Briscoe carries a cargo of manure salt. She should have arrived at New York on Feb. 17.

THURSTON'S VIEWS.

Concerning Reports of Impending Trouble In the Sandwich Islands.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Minister Thurston, when seen concerning the reported startling situation on the Hawaiian islands, said that he had not received advices from his government concerning the present state of affairs and had gained information of them only from the newspapers. He was inclined to think the reports exaggerated, although it had been known for some time that the ex-queen was seeking recruits in British Columbia.

Mr. Thurston believes, however, that the provisional government has the administration of the government so well in hand that it has nothing to fear from the queen's followers. The report that many now employed by the government would be in the queen's forces at a signal from her, Mr. Thurston does not credit.

Newspaper Wet Down.

LEWISTON, Me., March 12.—Hines' block, in which The Sun is located, was damaged by fire yesterday and flooded with water. The Sun is in a cement pit, which was filled with water, and all of the type, other material and the editorial rooms were wet. The paper, however, came out today as usual.

Football Denounced.

ABILENE, Kan., March 12.—Football received a hard scoring at the hands of the Kansas Methodist conference. It was declared a brutal game, and the conference voted unanimously not to lend its aid to colleges that allowed football teams to practice flying and mass plays.

Bagged Sixty-Seven Prisoners.

NEW HAVEN, March 12.—The police last night executed a successful raid upon two Chinese gambling dens, and were rewarded with a catch of 67 prisoners.

Suffering From Pneumonia.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 12.—Judge Artemas Libbey of the supreme court is dangerously sick at his home in this city. He has pneumonia.

THE GOSPEL IN HAWAII.

An Interesting and Instructive Sermon at Congregational Church.

Rev. E. G. Porter of Dorchester occupied the pulpit of the Evangelical Congegational church on Sunday morning. Although his sermon was about twice as long as Rev. Mr. Norton generally gives his people it was very instructive and interesting, and all felt they were much better posted on the Hawaiian situation for having heard it. It was a historical sketch of the discovery, civilization, downfall and present situation. He believed the queen should never be restored.

REV. LUTHER FREEMAN.

The Former Pastor of Wollaston Stirring Up the Town of Milford.

A Milford dispatch to the Globe says: "A meeting was held in the Methodist church, Sunday evening, at which Rev. Luther Freeman, taking "Milford" for his subject, gave the history of the recent liquor prosecutions and the trials resulting therefrom.

He vigorously applied the lash to those whom he believed had committed perjury and to others for preventing the enforcement of the law here.

Local officers, the selectmen and the local court were sharply criticised in connection with non enforcement of the liquor law.

The entire audience sympathized with the speaker. An immense sensation was created when a letter was read signed by a friend of one arrested liquor dealer.

It offered Mr. Freeman $25 if he would "let up," and it confessed the offence. The same dealer at his trial denied selling and was acquitted. A law and order movement will undoubtedly result, as excitment is very great over Rev. Mr. Freeman's plain speaking tonight.

March Magazines.

There are some very striking Indian pictures in an article on Northern rivers by Ninetta Eames in the Overland Monthly for March. No magazine in the world has had such an interesting gallery of Indian pictures as this; and the remarkable portrait of Chief Col-choo-loo-loo in the Shasta forest is a worthy addition to it.

The article, however, is mainly a travel sketch, the Indians being merely an incident, and most of the pictures are illustrations of the beautiful river scenery around Mount Shasta,—the Sacramento, the Fall, the Pit, the McCloud,—their canons, rapids, cascades and occasional reaches.

Primary Education for March is exceedingly instructive. It will be not only indispensable to primary teachers, but valuable to young children, and parents "Primary plant work" is most timely at this season of the year, and is profusely illustrated, but there are many other interesting departments.

No More Crowds.

A new order of things went into effect at the District Court room this morning. Heretofore no restriction has been placed on the number of persons admitted and the result has been that not only were the audience seats all occupied, but the space set apart for officers and witnesses has also been filled up so that many times persons who had business with the court were obliged to stand. This morning however Officer Furnald was on duty at the door and after the audience seats had filled up no one was allowed to enter unless they had business with the court.

OLD FRIENDS THE BEST.

Grandpa looked at his fine, new chair
On the twenty-sixth of December,
Saying: "Santa Claus is so good to me!
He never fails to remember.
But my own armchair is the one for me,"
And he settled himself in it nicely.
"I hope he won't mind if I cling to it,
For it fits my back precisely."

Papa came home that very night—
He had plowed his way through the snow—
And the Christmas twinkle had left his eye,
And his step was tired and slow.
Warming for him his slippers lay,
The lovely, embroidered in gold ones
That hung on the Christmas tree last night,
But he slipped his feet in the old ones.

And when dear little Marjory's bedtime came
On the parlor rug they found her,
The long, dark lashes adroop on her cheeks
And her Christmas toys around her.
Neglected Angelique's waxen nose
The fire had melted completely,
But her precious rag doll, Hannah Jane,
On her breast was resting sweetly.

A COLONEL'S PERIL.

"One day," said Mr. Myvart, "a card was brought in to me bearing the name of General Woodhall. He followed it, and I found myself in the presence of a white whiskered old fire eater, who at once attacked me as though I were an enemy's position.

"'Know my friend Hardyment? Colonel of the Haramzadi Horse—most distinguished officer.'

"I confessed that I had not the honor.

"'He's in trouble. They accuse him of theft. It has been put about that he stole a handsome decoration, a star set in brilliants, at the levee yesterday. By George, it's monstrous! Don't you think so?'

"'I should like to know the facts,' I suggested mildly.

"The long and the short of it was that Colonel Hardyment, in the full uniform of his corps, had been the day previous to make his bow to royalty on his return after a long exile in the east.

"He had entered the palace and was mixed up with the throng of dignitaries—pillars of the state, foreign diplomatists, officers of both services.

"There he made the most of his time, and with all the dexterity of an old and practiced thief had collared everything valuable that came within his reach.

"He was not caught in the act. But wherever he went havoc and depredation followed in his track.

"'And what might the colonel say himself? Of course he has heard about it from some kind friend.'

"'Not a word. The fact is—Hardyment—is not to be found.'

"'That of itself looks'— I did not dare finish the sentence.

"'I'll shoot the man who accuses him! Everybody's wrong, or else some one has personated him.'

"'But that would have been very difficult. First of all, the possession of his uniform, the knowledge how to put it on, and it would have been so easy to recognize him, to detect an impostor. Such a man as Colonel Hardyment would be well known.'

"'Not in this country. He has not been home for years, and there were very few Indian officers at the levees.'

"'Were you?'

"'Of course not. Do you suppose that this would have happened if I had been there?'

"I shook my head gravely. The whole thing looked fishy in its most favorable light—kleptomania at least.

"'You must not overrate my powers. Let us go at once to Colonel Hardyment's quarters. Where does he live, or, rather, where did he live?'

"It was a modest residence—only one room, in a house all chambers, in the neighborhood of Pall Mall. The porter, who knew the general, accompanied us up stairs and let us into his room with his pass key.

"The room was all in disorder, clothing lying about, uniform just as it had been taken off thrown onto the bed, which I observed had not been slept in.

"'When did you see the colonel last? I asked the porter. 'To speak to, I mean.'

"'The day before yesterday, sir.'

"'He has no servant of his own?'

"'Not now,' interposed the general. 'He had a man—engaged him directly he came home—but turned him off a week or two ago. That was why he came to live here, where he could get attendance and be valeted.'

"I now made a more searching examination of the room. It had evidently been ransacked, rummaged, rifled from end to end. Everything valuable had disappeared; there was not a trace of a trinket; the jewel tray of the dressing case was empty; the tops (presumably silver) of the bottles had been removed and some of the best of the clothes.

"I saw no reason to exonerate the colonel until I caught sight of a bunch of keys on the floor, and stooping to pick them up found also an unmistakable picklock or burglar's skeleton key.

"It was the first suspicion of foul play. Colonel Hardyment, under the circumstances, would scarcely have left his keys behind him. He might certainly have forgotten them, but even that would not account for the skeleton key.

"'Tell me more about the colonel's late servant, will you, General Woodhall: Where did he get him?'

"'Through an agency, I believe. Raskelf was his name—a smart, soldierlike chap—about Hardyment's own size, had rather a look of him, indeed'——

"But even as I spoke there was a sound of hurried footsteps on the stairs, and some one broke suddenly into the room—a wild, disheveled figure—dirty, unshorn, in ragged clothes—who threw himself all of a heap in an armchair.

"It was Colonel Hardyment himself. Concern, surprise, indignation, were the feelings expressed on both sides, and I confess I shared them and was deeply affected when I heard the colonel's story, which, after a good dose of brandy, he was strong enough to tell.

"He had returned to his chambers late one night from his club when he found a message waiting for him. An old soldier friend of his, who had just come home and was staying at the Royal hotel, Blackfriars, had been taken suddenly dangerously ill. Would Colonel Hardyment come at once in the cab sent?

"He jumped in, was driven off rapidly along the embankment, the long line of lights on which were the last things he distinctly remembered. Somewhere there he lost consciousness—a vague recollection of the odor of chloroform clung to him—and only came to himself long afterward, as it seemed, and then he was awakened by a sharp sense of discomfort and pain.

"He found that he was bound hand and foot to the bench on which he lay. Then the pale dawn broke and gave a dim light into the den in which he was imprisoned. It was a back scullery of probably a long empty and deserted house.

"He made frantic, fruitless efforts to free himself and shouted at intervals till he was voiceless and faint from exhaustion. At last in one of his wildest struggles the bench to which he was fastened toppled over, and he came heavily to the ground.

"He must have lain senseless for hours. When he regained consciousness, he heard voices. Two men were in the kitchen too busily engaged to take any notice of him.

"'Where'll ye stow it?'

"'Here in the chimley, high up above the damper. It'll lie there safe until tomorrow; then we'll fetch in Ikey to trade.'

"'And this cove?' said the first speaker, giving Hardyment a savage kick.

"'Let him rot. Leave him where he is. Maybe tomorrow we'll do for him. It'll be safest, eh?'

"Then the two ruffians—one of whom the colonel recognized as his discharged servant, Raskelf—departed without another thought of their captive.

"There was no hope for him. Present torture prolonged past endurance perhaps, then a violent death. He rolled to and fro, now above and now under the bench, continually injuring himself and yelling often with the pain of some sudden collision or blow.

"Then he struck against something. The fingers of his right hand touched it, and with the exaggerated sense of touch due to his position he realized that it was a matchbox!

"Although his wrist was bound, his fingers were free, and at last, after endless attempts, he opened the box, and then ensued a long struggle before he could strike a match. But he succeeded, finally succeeded also in applying the light to one of his bonds.

"A second and a third match were necessary, but at last the cord caught fire and was burned—oh, so slowly!—smoldering, smoldering, all the night through. The dawn had broken before his right hand was free.

"To escape from the house was an easy matter. But it took three hours to drag himself to Pall Mall from Seacole street, Stratford, and he was well nigh done when he reached his home.

"In less than an hour a watch was set upon the house in which the colonel had been imprisoned. The two scoundrels who had been first his captors, then his jailers, and one at least of them his personator, were taken red handed as they returned in search of their "swag."—English Exchange.

Beginnings of the Income Tax.

In 1377 a "tax unheard of before" was imposed by parliament, which took the form of a poll tax, graduated chiefly according to rank, though partly according to property. Dukes had to pay £6 13s. 4d.; earls, £4; barons, £2; knights, £1; squires, 6s. 8d., or, if they had no land, 3s. 4d. Beggars were exempt. Yet the whole amount collected was under £25,000. The poll tax having failed, the country reverted to the previous system of granting fifteenths and tenths.

The first indication of an income tax occurs in 1435, when an act was passed imposing a tax on every person "seized of manors, lands, tenements, rents, annuities, offices or any other possessions."

But, although we have here the idea of income tax, yet this mode of raising a revenue is generally considered to have been introduced by Pitt in 1799. The rate was 10 per cent, and it produced about £6,000,000. After the peace of Amiens, Addington repealed it on the ground that it ought to be exclusively reserved for times of war, but reimposed it, for the same reason, when the war broke out again in the following year. It was very unpopular and was repealed in 1806, as soon as possible after the close of the great war.

The tax was reimposed by Peel in 1842 for four years, his object being "to relieve trade and commerce from the trammels by which they were bound" by repealing other taxes in his opinion more injurious. We were, however, over and over again promised that it should be only temporary, and it is still only imposed from year to year.—Sir John Lubbock in North American Review.

Wild Plunge of Horse and Man.

Mr. Richard Sutherland of Anderson county had an experience Sunday afternoon that he will not soon forget. He was approaching the bridge at Bond's mill, in that county, when the horse which he was riding took fright and leaped over an embankment 30 feet high into the river. As the horse went over he turned a complete somersault, throwing the rider headlong into the river. The wonder is that both man and horse were not instantly killed. Mr. Sutherland received some severe bruises, especially about the lower limbs, but his injuries are not of a serious nature. The horse came out without a scratch.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

TWENTY YEARS

OF ONE WOMAN'S LIFE

Spent With and For the Benefit of the Women of the World.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS]

One woman's work has told for good in thousands of homes throughout the world. What a record of helpfulness!

What happiness and comfort that work has brought to thousands of despairing women; what pains banished and how smooth the way was made for weary sufferers, no pen or tongue can ever tell.

Lydia E. Pinkham gave the best of her life to the women of the world, that through her the suffering of her sex might be relieved.

Her Vegetable Compound saves women from all diseases of the womb and kidneys. It has stood for twenty years against all cavil, and won the first place in the hearts of women.

Look at the picture of this New York woman, once confined to her bed by chronic female weakness, now able to follow her husband in the Adirondacks on long gunning tramps. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made this change in her life.

Just hear this one talk. It does one's heart good.

"Female sufferers, hear me!

"I was discouraged, broken-hearted. I was so ill with female trouble I could not walk or stand, and had to be assisted to my feet when arising from a chair. My head whirled, and my back ached; but worst of all was that awful crowding-down feeling in my abdomen.

"A friend of mine told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; her faith won mine, and now I am well. Oh! how can I return thanks to Mrs. Pinkham?

"Every woman troubled with uterus or womb troubles can be cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it cured me, and will them." — Mrs. KERHAUGH, Juniata St., Nicetown, Pa. Every druggist has it.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiencies, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in sectring foreign patents.

If You Love Me.

If you love me, tell me not.
Let me read it in your thought;
Let me feel it in the way
That you say me yea and nay.

Let me see it in your eye
When you greet or pass me by;
Let me hear it in the tone
Meant for me, and me alone.

If you love me, there will be Something only I shall see.
Meet or miss me, stay or go,
If you love me, I shall know.

Something in your tone will tell,
"Dear, I love you; love you well;"
Something in your eyes will shine
Fairer when they look in mine.

In your mien some touch of grace,
Some swift smile upon your face
While you speak not, will betray
What your lips could scarcely say.

In your speech some silver word,
Tuning into sweet accord
All your bluntness, will reveal,
Unaware, the love you feel.

If you love me, then, I pray,
Tell me not, but day by day
Let love silent on me rise,
Like the sun in summer skies.

BOUTELLE'S BATTLE.

He Has Much More to Say About Our Navy at Hawaii.

EXPLANATION OF MR. HERBERT

Picked to Pieces by the Congressman From Maine.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Representative Boutelle of Maine last night expressed his opinion on the reply of Secretary Herbert to Mr. Boutelle's resolution asking by what authority Mr. Blount was placed in charge of the naval forces at Honolulu. Mr. Boutelle said:

"The secretary's letter illustrates afresh the confusion of ideas as to the limitation of official power that has permeated the present administration. In asserting the president's constitutional prerogative as commander-in-chief of the army and navy he appears to lose sight of the fact that such authority can be exercised only in accordance with law, and that the discretionary power vested in the commander-in-chief can no more be delegated to an authorized person than can the power of the president to approve bills or to veto legislation.

"The irrelevancy of the few alleged precedents is also as obvious as the evidently laborious ransacking of the records to find them. It is amusing," said Mr. Boutelle, "to note that this administration is driven to find the only semblance of precedent for its action in some orders issued during the famous San Domingo episode by that secretary of the navy who has been the subject of Democratic denunciation.

"Secretary Herbert invokes for his support the letter of Secretary Robeson in 1869 to Captain Balch of U. S. S. Albany, directing him to receive on board the three envoys sent by the president to San Domingo, informing him that General Babcock would have certain orders from the president, and with an evident looseness of phraseology instructed the captain to 'conform to all his wishes and orders, and to convey him to such points as he desires to visit.'

Beyond a Civilian's Power.

"While the wording of the letter was liable to a broader construction, the whole context and circumstances show that the intent was to cause the movements of the ship as a conveyance to be determined by the wishes of the commissioners, and there was no suggestion of placing the armed forces of the navy under the orders of a civilian for any military purposes, as in the Blount case.

"Secretary Herbert's careful omission of the summary of the concluding portion of Secretary Robeson's second letter is very significant. In that letter to Lieutenant Commander Bunce of the Nantasket the secretary commends him for having promptly complied with the instructions of General Babcock, but called attention to the fact that the ranking officer, Captain Balch, had declined to give his official sanction or endorsement upon the instructions of General Babcock. This shows that Captain Balch understood the law, and the fact that he was the rear admiral to whom Secretary Hunt sent orders in December, 1881, to simply furnish a vessel for the conveyance of the Trescott-Blaine mission to such points in Chili and Peru as they desired to visit is a guarantee that he recognized no military command or significance in these instructions.

"And that is all that Secretary Herbert has been able to find in a hundred years of naval administration to put forward to justify the usurpation of placing the absolute command of an admiral and fleet in the hands of a civilian, with power to land troops or embark them to evacuate Honolulu or open fire upon it, and who did assume arbitrary military control of the navy and peremptorily order its flag 'hauled down.'

A Rap at Blount.

"That Mr. Blount understood the difference between the mere privileges of conveyance and official courtesy involved in the cases now cited by Secretary Herbert and the authority bestowed upon him was plainly shown by his statement to the senate committee in reply to questions in regard to the extent of his control over the landing or withdrawal of the armed forces, when he said: 'My impression was that if I had issued an order, and I took that, not from the instructions, but from the letter of the secretary of the navy, the admiral would obey.'

"The secretary's letter entirely fails to justify an act that he must know was in flagrant violation of the law in open contempt of the explicit terms of the navy regulations and destructive of the fundamental principles upon which the maintenance of good order and military discipline must depend.

"As a lawyer he knows that even if isolated cases could be found of unwarranted assumption of power by secretaries called into office from civil life, their action would furnish no excuse for future violations of the law, and it seems that any one who had held any commission in military service must understand the absolute necessity for restricted military and naval command within the limitations of organized responsibility."

Secretary Herbert's reply, which brought out the statement from Mr. Boutelle, was to the effect that he had obeyed the president's orders; that his action was necessary to prevent a conflict of authority, and that it was the duty of the navy department to aid other branches of the government. He then cited a number of precedents to sustain his position.

Stabbed His Nephew.

BOSTON, March 12.—Langdon W. Moore, the reformed bank burglar, who has published a book of his life, is again in trouble. He got into a wrangle with his nephew John W. Henry and stabbed him over the left ear with a jackknife. He made his escape and the police are on the lookout for him.

Quick Work of Flames.

NEWMARKET, N. H., March. 12.—Fire was discovered in a barn in the rear of Frank Durgan's drug store here and within 20 minutes five buildings were burning fiercely. Three stores and five dwellings were completely destroyed. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

From Baptist to Congregational.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 12.—Rev. Dr. Moxom of Boston, a Baptist divine, has accepted a call to the South Congregational church of this city, and his pastorate begins April 1. His salary will be $5000 a year.

CONGRESSIONAL FORECAST.

Seigniorage and Appropriation Bills Have the Right of Wa

WASHINGTON, March 12.—In accordance with the agreement entered into Friday, the senate will devote the major portion of this week to the consideration of the Bland seigniorage bill, which is to be finally disposed of by vote by 2 o'clock Thursday, if Senator Allison's motion to reconsider should fail of adoption, as it most likely will.

The agreement for the consideration of the seigniorage bill does not preclude the routine work of the senate, which is confined to the time before 2 o'clock in the day, and it is probable that many of the bills on the calendar upon which no division of sentiment is probable will be taken up and passed during this time, and also, after the seigniorage bill is disposed of, on Thursday and the remaining days of the week, if the senate should not adjourn over. There are no announced speeches on the seigniorage bill. It is probable that there will be very little talk on the part of the friends of the bill, as they feel confident to be able to effect its passage.

Appropriation bills will continue to have the right of way in the house this week. The sundry civil bill, which will be the unfinished business when the house meets today, carries $32,306,382—$9,409,928 less than that of last year. It will probably require four days to dispose of this bill; the two items that will provoke the most opposition being the appropriations for the geological and the coast and geodetic survey.

After the sundry civil bill is disposed of, the military or consular and diplomatic appropriation bill will consume the balance of the week. The members of the elections committee are very anxious to interrupt the consideration of the appropriation bills with the contested elections cases.

But the managers believe that the Republicans will demand a quorum of Democrats to unseat a Republican, and as many members are out of the city, this might block progress in the house for a week. It is deemed best therefore to push the appropriation bills, upon which there is no political division brought, as rapidly as possible and allow the struggle over partisan matters to trail along afterward.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

Main Points of the Document Submitted to Parliament Today.

LONDON, March 12.—The queen's speech, which was much briefer than usual, was read to parliament today.

The queen congratulates the members upon the continuance of Great Britain's friendly relations to the powers. She mentions the satisfactory conclusion of the Behring sea arbitration as especially gratifying. She refers to the Anglo-Russian negotiations concerning frontier in Central Asia and the Anglo-Chinese negotiations regarding the borders of Burmah. She expresses her regret for the encounter between the French and British forces near Warina, northwest Africa. The encounter is mentioned as a "lamentable accident."

The speech proposes in domestic politics the expected program, with two or three additions. The measures recommended are the abolition of plural voting, the extension of Scotch local government, the organization of boards of conciliation to settle labor troubles, the amendment of the factory acts, the disestablishment of the church in Wales, the relief of evicted tenants in Ireland and registration reform.

A Question of Veracity.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Attorney Kowalsky denies that he ever told the police that M. B. Curtis had confessed to him that he had murdered Policeman Grant. Chief Crowley and Detective Lees assert that Kowalsky did tell them of Curtis' confession. As Curtis has been acquitted of the crime, nothing further could be done to him, any way.

Watching the Anarchists.

LONDON, March 12.—The police made a raid upon the Foreigners' club in Grafton street yesterday. Thirty-eight men were arrested. All but five were subsequently discharged from custody. The reason for the raid is believed to have been the fact that many of the members are anarchists.

The Driver Skipped.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—At the midwinter fair grounds a stage coach with 20 people on board overturned while going around a corner at a rapid rate. Fourteen persons were injured, of whom seven were seriously hurt. The driver escaped unharmed, but has vanished.

Fifty Thousand Were In Line.

VIENNA, March 12.—Fifty thousand socialists yesterday marched to the central cemetery, where wreaths were placed upon the obelisk erected to the memory of the rioters who were killed during the disturbances in March, 1848. The proceedings were oreerly.

Diabolical Treatment.

CHICAGO, March 12.—Albert Barkowsky, 18 years old, and George Dunn were arrested yesterday for inflicting wounds upon Thomas T. Davis, a porter in a barber shop, with a redhot poker, out of pure maliciousness. Davis will probably be crippled for life.

Dissatisfied With Sovereign.

CINCINNATI, March 12.—A rumor prevails that in Quebec, Montreal and parts of Canada 10,000 Knights of Labor will secede from the order because of dissension with Grand Master Sovereign and start an independent branch of the Knights of Labor.

Gold In Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, March 12.—A few days ago the discovery of a large lode of abestos was reported from Bellevue. Word comes from that town that prospectors while examining the deposit found gold-bearing quartz which indicates an extensive gold deposit.

Sovereign Spreading His Views.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 12.—J. R. Sovereign, master workman of the Knights of Labor, delivered an address in this city yesterday to about 500 laboring men. He discoursed on the needs of the times and the oppression of workingmen.

German Steamer Sunk.

AMSTERDAM, March 12.—The German steamer Lining, bound from Dantzic to this port, was sunk in collision with the steamer Lincoln. Three of the crew of the Lining went down with her.

Dan Takes a Vacation.

CHICAGO, March 12.—Dan Coughlan has started for his father's home in Hancock, Mich. He was accompanied by his father, wife and two children.

THE OLD HARPOONER.

A Bit of the Poetry That Has Gone Out of Whaling Life.

The gallant seaman who in all the books stands in the prow of a whaling boat waving a harpoon over his head, with the line snaking out into the air behind him, is only to be found now in Paternoster row. The Greenland seas have not known him for more than a hundred years, since first the obvious proposition was advanced that one could shoot both harder and more accurately than one could throw. The swivel gun, like a huge horse pistol, with its great oakum wad and 28 drams of powder, is a more reliable but a far less picturesque object.

But to aim with such a gun is an art in itself, as will be seen when one considers that the rope is fastened to the neck of a harpoon, and that as the missile flies the downward drag of this rope must seriously deflect it. So difficult is it to make sure of one's aim, that it is the etiquette of the trade to pull the boat right onto the creature, the prow shooting up its soft, gently sloping side and the harpooner firing straight down into its broad back, into which not only the four foot harpoon but 10 feet of the rope behind it will disappear. Then, should the whale cast its tail in the air after the time honored fashion of the pictures, that boat would be in evil case, but fortunately when frightened or hurt it does no such thing, but curls its tail up underneath it, like a cowed dog, and sinks like a stone. Then the bows splash back into the water, the harpooner hugs his own soul, the crew light their pipes and keep their legs apart, while the line runs merrily down the middle of the boat and over the bows. There are two miles of it there, and a second boat will lie alongside to splice on if the first should run short, the end being always kept loose for that purpose. And now occurs the one serious danger of whaling. The line has usually been coiled when it was wet, and as it runs out it is very liable to come in loops, which whiz down the boat between the men's legs. A man lassoed in one of these nooses is gone and fifty fathoms deep before the harpooner has time to say, "Where's Jock?" Or if it be the boat itself which is caught then down it goes like a cork on a trout line, and the man who can swim with a whaler's high boots on is a swimmer indeed. Many a whale has had a Parthian revenge in this fashion. Some years ago a man was whisked over with a bight of rope round his thigh. "George, man, Alec's gone!" shrieked the boat steerer, heaving up his ax to cut the line. But the harpooner caught his wrist. "Na, na, mun," he cried, "the oil money'll be a good thing for the widdie." And so it was arranged while Alec shot on upon his terrible journey.—A. Conan Doyle in McClure's Magazine.

Cleanliness In One Home.

Alexander Selkirk resides in Detroit, and, strange to say, his wife's maiden name is Robinson. She is, take her a' in a', the very pink o' perfection. When he comes hame at e'en, he is obligated to take off his boots in the passage. She hands him his slippers. When he puts them on, he jumps frae ae mat to another till he reaches his chair. When he sits doon to supper, she ties a bib round his neck and twa or three napkins on his knees. If a morsel o' beef or bread should happen to fa' on the floor, she directs his attention to it and informs him that a guilty conscience needs nae accuser. Her stove shines as bright as her coal black eye, and her tinware sparkles on the wall like diamonds in the darkness.

When he is sitting on a chair, she will not permit his back to touch the back of it. He sits bolt upright. In a private conversation he said: "Sir, my wife bangs a'; she is the trigest wife I ever saw. In her pernickety ways I sometimes think that she is just rather to the rather. Yet wi' a' her faults I wad be as mad as a March hare if onybody was ignorant enough to apply to her the auld saying that a' clean glove sometimes covers a dirty hand."—Detroit News-Tribune.

Measuring Hardness.

For determining the hardness or friability of certain substances M. Rosiwal has described to the Vienna academy a new method devised by him which is characterized by entire simplicity. The measurements consist in comparing the losses of weight sustained by the bodies under investigation by scratching them with a given weight of polishing material mounted on a metallic or glass base until the substance loses its efficiency, the polishing appliances comprising dolomitic sand, emery and pure corundum. The diamond is assigned its place in the scale of hardness by comparing its effectiveness as a polishing agent with that of corundum, proving 140 times as hard as the latter, and to these succeed topaz, 194; quartz, 175; adularia, 59.2; apatite, 8.0; flourspar, 6.4; calcite, 5.6; rock salt, 2.0, and talc, 0.04.—New York Sun.

That Boy Again.

"It makes me tired," said Mr. Figg, "to see the style the Henderbys put on when every one knows that they are as poor as—as poor as"——

"Plaster," interrupted Tommy.

"Yes, as poor as plaster, poor as plaster—porous plaster. If you don't send that impudent kid to bed in five minutes, I'll lick him till he can't see."

Then Mr. Figg put his hat on well down over his eyes, and not heeding his wife's advice to wear his overshoes went down town.—Indianapolis Journal.

Forced to Confess.

A curious point in Swedish criminal law is that confession is necessary before a capital sentence can be carried out. If, however, the culprit persists in protesting his innocence in the face of overpowering evidence, the prison discipline is made extremely strict and severe until the desired confession is obtained.—Popular Magazine.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

A Sensational Episode In the Breckinridge-Pollard Case.

ONE LAWYER PUNCHES ANOTHER.

A Dozen Others Get Mixed Up In the Scrimmage.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—A pugilistic assault by Congressman Breckinridge's law partner, John Shelby, of Lexington, Ky., upon the junior counsel for Miss Pollard, W. G. Johnson of Washington, closed the day's proceedings yesterday of the breach of promise trial.

Mr. Johnson had referred in a general way to the course taken by the defendant's attorneys in regard to certain affidavits as chicanery, and Mr. Shelby endeavored to make reply, but as the usual hour for adjournment had passed, Judge Bradley had deferred the question until today.

There is a narrow hallway connecting the courtroom with the main corridor, through which the officers pass, from a door beside the judge's bench. Judge Bradley walked out first and was followed by the lawyers for both sides. As Mr. Johnson left the room, Mr. Shelby darted after him and accosted him in the hallway. Mr. Johnson is broad-shouldered, black-mustached, cool and handsome. Mr. Shelby is short and excitable. Said Mr. Shelby, facing his taller opponent: "You have insulted me, sir; I must have satisfaction, sir." "Well, sir," responded Mr. Johnson, interrogatively and calmly, expecting that Mr. Shelby would denominate the sort of satisfaction he expected.

Shelby's "Satisfaction."

Thereupon Mr. Shelby's right fist shot outward and upward, grazing Mr. Johnson's left cheek and drawing a slight blush. As he threw up his arm in the defensive, the dignified form of his professional partner, Mr. Carlisle, was interposed between them. Quickly several other men became participants in the fray. Colonel Breckinridge and his son, Desha, piled themselves upon Carlisle.

There was a moment of general melee engaged in by no less than a dozen, most of them intended peacemakers, when Deputy Marshal Leonard thrust the belligerent Kentuckian back and put a damper upon hostilities. Everybody emerged from the heat of the controversy uninjured, although Mr. Johnson's cheek was slightly reddened and the immaculate silk hat of Judge Jere Wilson had been sadly ruffled.

"I call upon you, gentlemen, to witness that I was assaulted," said Mr. Johnson, somewhat excitedly. This was assented by the bystanders, and Judge Bradley strode upon the scene, demanding to know the cause of the trouble. Mr. Johnson, Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Wilson laid the case before him, stating that the Kentucky lawyer had made an unprovoked assault upon Mr. Johnson.

Judge Bradley was very indignant. "We cannot have this here, gentlemen," he said sternly. "You must understand that we cannot have such outbreaks. I will ascertain who are responsible for this, and see to it that they are properly punished."

Judge Means What He Says.

That the judge will fulfill his promise to see that the responsible parties are punished, no one who knows him entertains any doubt. He is noted for the strict order which he enforces in the courtroom. Yesterday he informed one spectator in the room that the court was not the house of commons, and it was not customary to wear hats there. Again he rapped three times very sharply upon the desk when Colonel Breckinridge and his attorneys were conferring in over loud tones.

The pugilistic encounter was not the only sensational incident of the day, for Miss Pollard was carried sobbing from the courtroom and fell in a faint outside the door when testimony concerning the birth of her child in 1888 was given. Two faithful friends of her own sex attended her, and she was driven in a cab to the house of refuge, where she makes her home.

The gossip of the city is about evenly divided between the courthouse affairs and the identity of the bevy of fashionably dressed young ladies who were summarily excluded from the courtroom by Judge Bradley.

Assault May Result In Death.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., March 13.—William H. Lee and Jerry Wilson, both colored, revived an old quarrel yesterday and went into a back yard to fight it out. Lee struck at Wilson with a carving knife. Wilson retaliated by striking Lee a blow with a board. Lee then dealt Wilson two blows on the head with his knife. Lee is now in jail awaiting the result of Wilson's injuries, which may prove fatal.

Foul Play Theory Given Up.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 13.—The disappearance of E. D. Taylor seems to resolve itself into a premeditated action on the part of Taylor, with the intention of giving the impression that he had been murdered. A reason for Taylor's disappearance is found in the fact that he has recently had some trouble about his financial matters. The police have given up the theory of foul play.

The Dracut Strike.

LOWELL, Mass., March 13.—The strike of 350 operatives at the Merrimack woolen mills, Dracut, may be of short duration, judging from the present feeling. The strikers are not organized, for the community is almost like a family. Few have resources to fight out a strike.

MARSHAL GOT CLUBBED.

Exciting Scenes Attend the Municipal Election at Biddeford.

BIDDEFORD, Me., March 13.—This city went Republican by 200 majority. Republicans carried every ward and elected nearly the whole ticket. Biddeford has been Democratic since 1883. Marshal Harmon and several officers had a pitched battle with Democrats; clubs were freely used by both sides. Harmon was struck over the head and badly wounded by a club in the hands of one of the officers. Constables Dolliff and Breton were arrested, charged with assault on an officer.

BANGOR, Me., March 13.—Bangor elected no mayor yesterday. A heavy vote was cast, but it was a very quiet day throughout the city. Neither candidate has a majority, and a new election will be called. The Republicans elect five out of seven aldermen and 12 out of 21 councilmen. The prospects are fair for long and tedious disputes, and legal entanglements arising out of the marking and counting of the ballots in nearly every ward, and the end may not come for many months. The project of building a bridge across the mouth of Kenduskeag stream was voted down by an overwhelming majority. The municipal debt is already great.

BREWER, Me., March 13.—Mayor Tefft (Rep.) is elected for the third term by a large majority. The Democrats lost their only representative in the board of aldermen which they held for two years. Alderman Dougherty (Dem.) was defeated by Gilmore (Rep.) by 20 majority.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 13.—The Republicans carried Augusta, being an overturn from last year. Charles A. Milliken (Rep.) was elected mayor by a majority of 340, and the Republicans carry six of the seven wards. The Democrats cast 914 votes; Republicans 1254.

Held on Suspicion.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 13.—Last Thursday a man applied for lodging at the tramps' home, and during the next two days became a raving maniac as the result of a fever. He said that he was Edward E. Burke, and that he had come to this section, together with Arthur St. Mary and Frank Mace, two crooks. It is thought that the gang was the same that assaulted Station Agent Vail at Thompsonville, Conn., and Vail was summoned here and identified the clothes of Burke. St. Mary and Mace were placed under arrest.

Brought About by Rum.

CLEVELAND, March 13.—John Cummings and James McNamara, with a number of companions, entered Kennedy's saloon and ordered drinks. Kennedy refused to let them have liquor because they were drunk and disorderly. The party then started to demolish the bar and fixtures. Kennedy drew a revolver and fired three shots. The first shot pierced the head of Cummings, while the other two struck McNamara, one bullet passing through his lung. Kennedy is in jail.

Deserving of Pity.

PROVIDENCE, March 13.—James W. Simmons, who dropped dead last Saturday, was buried in the Potters' field yesterday afternoon. His wife has gone crazy with grief. She would not believe that her husband was dead and refused to allow any one to touch the body. The health officers yesterday afternoon found the body covered with bedclothes. There was a hot fire in the stove and the woman was trying to restore her husband to consciousness.

Makes It Bad For Henry.

PARIS, March 13.—Ernest Bordes died in a city hospital last evening. The physicians say that his death was due directly to injuries received by the bomb in the cafe of the Hotel Terminus on the evening of Feb. 12. The charge of murder is likely to be established against Anarchist Henry without great difficulty.

Murder and Attempted Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—Jacob Studkt, a carpenter, shot and killed another carpenter, Charles Wensch, and then turned his weapon upon himself, inflicting a wound which will prove fatal. Studkt was employed by Wensch, but had been discharged for some neglect of duty. This led to the tragedy.

Slow Work.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The senate committee on finance took up the tariff bill yesterday as amended by the Democratic members, beginning at the chemical schedule. The committee did not make much progress with the bill, only about 10 items being passed. All of them were left unchanged.

Not a Candidate For Office.

WACO, Tex., March 13. — Walter S. Baker, chairman of the state Democratic committee, is in receipt of a letter from Richard Coke, United States senator from this state, saying that under no conditions will he again be a candidate for office.

Oil Works Destroyed.

CENTERVILLE, N. J., March 13.—Fire broke out in the Dewater Oil company's building and John Boyle was fatally burned and a Swede named Andrews was badly burned. The building was completely gutted. Loss about $80,000.

The Gaylord Mine Disaster.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 13.—Three of the entombed bodies in the Gaylord mine have been recovered. They were crushed beyond all recognition. There is no question but that the miners all perished when the fall occurred.

Deeply In Debt.

ST. JOHN, N. B., March 13.—The Union Baptist Educational society, the leading Baptist educational institution in the maritime Provinces, has made an assignment. It owes $18,000, and there is also a mortgage on it of $10,000. The financial crash is due to many persons who put their names on the stock list and not paying up. Its not unlikely that the beautiful seminary building will be sold.

A Bullet In His Head.

WATERBURY, Conn., March 13.—Michael J. Corcoran, a saloonkeeper, shot himself in the head and died soon after. Corcoran had been joking, he claimed, when he fired the fatal shot.

McCarthy Still at the Helm.

LONDON, March 13.—Justin McCarthy has been re-elected chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party.

NO BACKWARD STEP.

Gladstone's Policy Will Be Closely Followed by Rosebery.

THE LORDS HAVE DEGENERATED.

The New Premier Clearly Defines His Position.

LONDON, March 13.—A meeting of the Liberal leaders was held at the foreign office yesterday. Lord Rosebery said they missed the sublime figure which had not only enriched the ministerial bench, but the house of commons also. It had been thought that he (Rosebery) ought to make a complete declaration of his policy.

There was no need of such a declaration, he said, seeing that there would be no change of measures, but only of men. The cabinet had no intention of receding from the policy they pursued at the last session. The honor of England abroad was safe in their hands. The Welsh church question would receive the earliest settlement, though he could not say whether it would receive the first place. It would certainly be pressed to a definite and successful issue.

Regarding the group of Irish questions the party was bound by every tie of honor to continue Mr. Gladstone's policy. It would be an affectation to deny that his (Rosebery's) speech in the house of lords had raised doubts as to his position on the questions, but his critics must have read the speech in a very cursory way, if they imagined that he designed to depart from a full acceptance of the Liberal policy. If there were any doubts on that point they ought to be set at rest by Mr. Morley's decision

To Remain In the Irish Office.

With Mr. Gladstone's declarations concerning the house of lords the queen's present advisers entirely agreed. He had himself studied the question, and perhaps had used in the house of lords even stronger language than Mr. Gladstone had made use of. What the lords had to understand was that with them the task of revision was delicate, and that rejection was dangerous.

With the democratic suffrage the country now enjoyed a chamber constituted like the house of lords was an anomaly. The upper house, he said, had degenerated into an organization guided by one man. The government would lose sight of no measures that might force upon the attention of the country this anomaly and the grave perils to which the existing constitution of the house of lords exposed the nation.

Referring to the circumstances leading to his acceptance of the premiership Lord Rosebery said it was the greatest inconvenience, his being in the house of lords, but it was no fault of his. He did not think it ought to be regarded as a stigma. He asked the party

To Judge Him by His Deeds.

When the party was tired of him they could dismiss him, but while he occupied his position no Liberal would be more steadfast to carry out a thorough Liberal policy.

Mr. Harcourt said he was gratified to hear this exposition of their leader's policy. Still the party felt as the British fleet felt over the loss of Nelson, but the same spirit remained among them as animated Nelson's crew. Though they had suffered a great loss they would do their duty.

Though the prime minister was a lord himself, the Liberals in the house of commons could be relied upon as a compact party in support of his policy abroad, peace at home and progressive reforms. It was utterly untrue, he said, that he desired to drop home rule, and it was also untrue that he had abandoned the cause of temperance. He had dropped nothing, but accepted and supported the whole Newcastle program unreservedly.

The members of the cabinet then dispersed and joined their parliamentary colleagues to hear the queen's speech.

T. P. O'Connor assured a correspondent last evening that the anti-Parnellites would not issue a manifesto, thus implying that they were satisfied with Lord Rosebery's program.

A Tame Affair.

The opening of the new session of parliament was a very tame affair as far as any manifestation of public interest was concerned, and, indeed, the lords and commoners seemed to share the indifference in a large degree. Very few peers were in attendance, and when the house of commons was summoned to hear the reading of the speech from the throne, only about 50 members walked to the house of lords in response.

Far From Being Dead.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Many wild rumors about the cruise of the yacht Natalie in Haytian waters, and her commander, Captain Salinas, were emphatically denied by Captain Salinas himself yesterday. He arrived here on the steamship Alps. Captain Salinas laughed at the story of himself and his crew having been shot by officers of President Hippolyte. He denied, in very positive language, all the stories published about him in the New York papers.

Progressive Pittsfield.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., March 13.—Pittsfield has joined the Hudson River Baseball league, in which Albany, Poughkeepsie, Saratoga, Glens Falls, Amsterdam and Kingston comprise the circuit. Wahconah park has been hired, and the local club will be salaried at $1000.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Editorial Comment.

REPRESENTATIVE COOK has made an amendment to his bill for a "greater Boston," giving to all cities and towns in the metropolitan district the right of local option on the liquor question. This removes one of the great objections to the scheme, yet cities like Somerville and Cambridge hesitate. Most of those who spoke at the Legislative hearing of Monday were inclined to favor the annexation project, but many will agree with Sylvester Baxter that a metropolitan union rather than direct annexation would receive more favor. Such public improvements as parks, water and sewers might with advantage to all be controlled by metropolitan boards, but Boston is too large now to be well governed in many departments. It is said that the feeling for annexation is prompted by the unequal manner in which the tax levy is distributed, yet the speaker who raised this point complains because more money is raised in the business section or heart of Boston than is expended there. But the suburban cities don't want any of the help of Boston proper to pay taxes; they do fear if annexed that the amount raised in an annexed city will not be spent there, but that Boston proper will profit.

WEYMOUTH.

Officer Conant frustrated an attempt to fire the Odd Fellow opera house at South Weymouth early Sunday morning. He surprised a suspicious person but did not succeed in capturing him. Investigation discovered a bag of shavings saturated with kerosene near the building.

The adjourned town meeting was held Monday afternoon, and another will be held next Monday. The selectmen were instructed to pay all able-bodied men $2 per day for nine hours' work in the highway department. The employment of a superintendent of streets was left to the selectmen. The selectmen were instructed to enforce the liquor laws and laws against gambling, also to investigate the charges made against the liquor committee of 1893. An appropriation of $5000 was made for a stone crusher.

The late Dr. Forsyth was a resident of Weymouth from 1861 to 1888, during which time he practiced medicine. He was for several years chairman of the school committee, for a few years superintendent of the Sunday School of the Union church, and afterwards a deacon of the Old North. He was instrumental in organizing the Norfolk South Medical Society, was at one time a director of the Weymouth and Braintree Institution for Savings, and was a Mason, Odd Fellow, Knight of Pythias, and a member of the Royal Arcanum. He leaves a widow and two sons.

BRAINTREE.

The muddle over the election of assessors, two boards have been balloted for, has been settled by a vote asking both boards to resign. A special election will then be necessary.

About the only other business of the town meeting was the school appropriations which were discussed at length. The appropriation made ($23,000) includes an increase of salary for teachers and superintendent, the latter from $1200 to $1400. An adjournment was made to next Monday evening.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Leave to Withdraw Reported on Petitions Relating to Liquor License.

BOSTON, March 13.—In the senate the committee on liquor law reported leave to withdraw on several petitions relative to the disposition of moneys received from licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, one of which proposed that the money be transferred to the treasurer of the commonwealth.

Mr. Harvey moved that the senate nonconcur with the house in the adoption of the order authorizing an investigation of the hospital for dipsomaniacs and inebriates at Foxboro. The committee on public charitable institutions recently inspected the hospital, and would submit a report at an early date. The discussion on the question was lengthy, and the order was finally laid on the table by a vote of 14 to 6.

The bill abolishing Fast day came down to the house from the senate with the amendment providing that the law requiring saloons to close on Fast day and other holidays will apply to April 19.

Mr. Hayes asked to have the bill laid on the table. Mr. Roberts thought it hardly fair to pass an amendment which would deprive a large number of people from celebrating the day in the spirit in which it is instituted; the saloon closing law does not apply to July 4, Feb. 22 or Labor day. The motion to postpone was lost.

After a considerable discussion Mr. Hayes moved to amend the bill by adding July 4 and Feb. 22 to the holidays when saloons shall be closed.

Mr. Mellen raised the point that the amendment was not germane to the matter before the house, and the chair ruled the point well taken.

The house finally concurred in the amendments.

Leave to withdraw was reported on the petition for legislation for the suppression of indecency in public performances This was a bill aimed to prohibit skirt dancing and immodest dressing on the stage.

The liquor law committee reported leave to withdraw on a bill to amend chapter 220 of the acts of 1882 by striking out the words "on the same street." The statute provides that no license for the sale of intoxicating liquor shall be granted in any building or place on the same street within 400 feet of any building occupied in whole or in part by a public school.

The election laws committee reported against a bill changing the time for close of registration in towns. Also against a bill providing for the purchase of revolving, adjustable registers of voters for each polling place.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

The First Church Regret to Lose the Distinguished Townsman.

The following resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the First Congregational Society Monday evening:

WHEREAS, — Hon. Charles Francis Adams, the senior member upon the roll of our parish, a native of this city, long identified with the interests of the municipality, and of this society, has recently removed from Quincy on account of its growth from a rural to an urban community;

Resolved,—That we, as members of this parish, and as citizens of Quincy, at this time desire to place upon record our high appreciation of the distinguished ability and sterling integrity of our fellow-townsman in affairs of transportation, finance, education and belle lettres, which has raised him by his own efforts to a most commanding position in the community at large.

Resolved,—That we extend to Mr. Adams our heartfelt thanks for the service which he has unselfishly rendered the public upon the Board of Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library for twenty-three years past, upon the Quincy Park Commission since its inception, and in the still wider field of usefulness so nobly developed by him as chairman of the Metropolitan Park Commission, as well as in the domain of New England history, which he has so conscientiously explored.

Resolved,—That we shall always bear in grateful remembrance the generous impulses which gave to the City the beautiful Merry Mount Park, and which enabled this society to construct its beautiful chapel of a material in keeping with its environment and its historical associations.

Resolved,—That we shall always remember with gratitude and kindly charity so often quietly extended to the deserving, and the aid so generously extended to the young men of our community at critical times in their struggle for position in life.

Resolved,—That while we deeply regret the severance of the ties which have so long bound Mr. Adams to our community, we profer to him, and to his family, our best wishes for future happiness in their new place of residence.

Resolved,—That an engrossed copy of these resolutions duly attested and signed by the assessors in behalf of the society, be forwarded to Mr. Adams, and that the same be spread at large upon the records of the parish.

PROTECTED BY HIS DOGS.

How a Famous Moonshiner So Long Evaded Capture by Revenue Officers.

The most noted mountaineer in West Virginia and perhaps in Kentucky and North Carolina, Jim Day, has at last been captured. The government officers have been trying to arrest Day for over 15 years, but failed on every occasion. Day, who is a tall, muscular, shrewd looking fellow, has been running illicit stills for over 15 years. During this time he had sometimes as many as a dozen stills running at one time.

The stills were located in the depths of the primitive forests or in caves in the mountain sides a long distance from roadways and trails. The stills are always located near some prominent height or at a point from which a guard or spy, constantly on the alert, could overlook all approaches and advise his companions of the vicinity of suspicious looking strangers. Time and again revenue officers have attempted to waylay and ambush Day. They found roads and trails over which it was known he would be forced to travel, and they then placed squads in ambush, but although Day had been seen or traced along the road he always slipped through their fingers without a scratch.

At last the secret of his success in evading the officers became known. Day had a number of thoroughbred dogs which he had trained to scent out revenue officers or strangers and to notify him of their presence long before they could come in sight. When traveling over the routes or trails leading to and from any of his stills, two of Day's dogs always trotted along in front several hundred yards, taking opposite sides of the road. Two would fall back in the rear, and one would advance like a scout on each side.

In case of an ambuscade the dogs in front would scent the presence of the deputy marshals before they got within a hundred yards of them. They would return quickly to their master and inform him by their actions of the presence of the enemy. Day would then take to the woods to the right or left, with a dog in advance, and pass around an ambuscade without being seen. In case pursuers should come up behind, Day's dogs, which had been trailing along, would quickly hear or scent them and then would hurry forward to their master, who, knowing by their actions how close the enemy was, could easily evade them.—St. Louis Republic.

HE SAVED HIS HAT.

But In Doing So He Came Near Sliding Off the Niagara Ice Mountain.

Two well known traveling passenger agents had an exciting time here the other day. John E. Burke of the Louisville and Nashville and William Kelly, Jr., of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul were in the city on business. In company with Local Passenger Agent B. B. Dennison of the New York Central they visited the ice bridge. The party climbed the ice mountain, and while on the brink Burke's hat was blown off and began to roll down the ice on the side of the mountain toward the American falls.

Burke, without thinking of his danger, dropped down on his stomach to lean over and secure the hat. He began to slip down the side of the ice mountain toward the whirling water and certain death. He shouted, "Help me!"

And Kelly, leaning over, caught his foot. The ice was slippery, and Kelly lost his footing, and he, too, began to slip.

Dennison, who is a big, powerful man, grabbed Kelly's legs, and thus the three men formed a loop over the top of the mountain. Burke shouted, "For God's sake, boys, don't let go!" Dennison managed to get Kelly over to his side of the mountain, and then they pulled Burke up. He brought his hat with him.—Niagara Falls Cor. New York World.

Professor Horsley's Discovery.

Not only the medical world, but the laity also, have been highly interested by the evidence adduced by Professor Horsley in a lecture the other day, proving that prehistoric man in the stone age frequently performed the dangerous and delicate operation of trepanning. He had found 60 skulls in collections of these relics on which the operation had undoubtedly been performed. In one case it had been done by drilling a series of small holes probably with a bone implement and then breaking small partitions and so releasing a piece of bone. Another operation seems to have been performed with a flint saw. A third method was scraping. This discovery is the most important proof yet discovered of the high intelligence of the unrecorded races.—London News.

Voice Restored by Sudden Grief.

The shock of her husband's sudden death a few nights ago caused Mrs. George S. Roberts to regain her voice, which she lost from bronchial trouble over nine years ago. Mr. Roberts died of heart disease after an illness of but a few moments. The wife cried aloud in her sorrow, and to her surprise and that of her daughter her voice sounded clear and strong. Since her attack she had not spoken above a whisper. The voice she suddenly regained seems destined to remain, for she is now conversing freely and clearly with her friends. —Baltimore American.

Carnegie's English Residence.

Buckhurst park, Earl Delawarr's place in Sussex, which Andrew Carnegie has taken for the season, is a charming spot near the south coast, only an hour by rail from London. The house, although modern, has many associations of antiquity. It stands in the midst of beautifully timbered grounds, and the vast park is stocked with red deer. Mr. Carnegie will probably find the estate a pleasant change from his usual retreat in the far north of Scotland. He may prolong his stay if he finds the new quarters to his taste.—London Standard.

A NEW DISEASE.

People who are wearing away because they cannot digest their food.

They eat heartily but their food does them no good.

If you speak to your acquaintances you will too often find someone who says to you: "my food does me no good. I have a good, even a voracious appetite. I eat plenty and enjoy what I eat, but I'm as thin as a rail. My stomach pains me after meals. I get no flesh or strength from what I eat."

This is not exactly a new disease. It is new because doctors are beginning to give it attention. They are recognizing that at the door of this disease may be laid the blame for most of the dangerous sicknesses which decimate the human race.

Consumption, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Scrofula; all these and many other diseases could be prevented or cured if a food could be found that would "do good."

Doctors have recognized that in Paskola they have such a food. Made according to scientific principles, of the purest starch foods (the strengthening, fattening foods) pre-digested, it is perhaps the only food which will "do good" to the most delicate stomach and to the sickest dyspeptic.

Paskola is not a medicine. It is an aid to medicine. It often does away with the need for medicine.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" ystem. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

On the Other Side.

We go our ways in life too much alone;
We hold ourselves too far from all our kind;
Too often we are dead to sigh and moan;
Too often to the weak and helpless blind;
Too often where distress and want abide
We turn and pass upon the other side.

The other side is trodden smooth, and worn
By footsteps passing idly all the day.
Where lie the bruised ones that faint and mourn
Is seldom more than an untrodden way.
Our selfish hearts are for our feet the guide—
They lead us by upon the other side.

It should be ours the oil and wine to pour
Into the bleeding wounds of stricken ones;
To take the smitten and the sick and sore,
And bear them where a stream of blessing runs.
Instead we look about—the way is wide,
And so we pass upon the other side.

Oh, friends, and brothers, gliding down the years,
Humanity is calling each and all
In tender accents, born of grief and tears!
I pray you, listen to the thrilling call.
You cannot, in your cold and selfish pride,
Pass guiltlessly by on the other side.

He Overdid It.

Birdie McGinnis—I am so glad I met you, Mr. Dudely. I want to tell you that our engagement is off, and from now on I can only be a sister to you.

Dudely Canesucker—Why, what's the matter?

Birdie—The gracefulness with which you proposed last night convinces me that you must have had a great deal of practice, and I cannot intrust my happiness to a man who is so frivolous.—Texas Siftings.

Won the Mary Smith Prize.

The Mary Smith prize, which annually gives $100 to the painter of the best picture in oil or water painted by a resident woman artist of Philadelphia, was this year awarded to Maria L. Kirk, who for a number of years has been a student at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, for a portrait. The prize was instituted in 1878 by Mary Smith, the daughter of Russell Smith, the scene painter. The prize was won by Miss Cecilia Beaux twice in succession and four times in all, which is the limit of eligibility.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Lecturing on Law.

Mrs. Martha Strickland, an attorney of Detroit, is lecturing on parliamentary law to parlor classes of women in Chicago. Three already engage her attention and are being instructed in the proper conduct of public meetings, the different classes of motions, how to think on one's feet and the various features of self control and culture necessary to the correct and expeditious transaction of business in public bodies. In this field woman, to whom it is very new, has yet much to learn, or rather perhaps to practice.—Chicago News.

Dressing the Hair.

The hair is being dressed very simply just now, even on full dress occasions, and ornaments are important. It is better taste to make it appear as if the decoration, whatever it is, were really essential to the special mode of coiffure. Spanish combs with heavy silver mounts are really useful as well as ornamental, and the new gem set daggerlike ornaments serve the purpose of hairpins, being at the same time much more ornamental.—New York Post.

DA GAMA BACKS DOWN

Is Now Aboard a Portuguese Vessel In Rio Harbor.

MAKES AN OFFER TO SURRENDER

If He and His Followers Are Granted Protection.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Advices received at the state department late yesterday afternoon from Minister Thompson at Rio de Janeiro indicate that the Brazilian rebellion is about ended. The dispatches from Minister Thompson contains the information that Admiral da Gama had gone aboard the Portuguese war vessel Mindello, now in the harbor at Rio, and has sent to President Peixoto, by the Portuguese officer, an offer of surrender, on condition of full protection for himself and his followers.

ADMIRAL SALDANHA DA GAMA.

Two dispatches were received by the state department. They were in cipher, and when translated read as follows:

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 12, 1894.
Gresham, Washington:

Da Gama today, through the senior Portuguese naval commander, offered to surrender to the President of Brazil providing he and his followers were guaranteed protection against punishment. THOMPSON.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 12, 1894.
Gresham, Washington:

Da Gama has gone aboard a Portuguese man-of-war for asylum. THOMPSON.

Secretary Gresham believes that this marks the end of the Brazilian war.

Diplomats Surprised.

There is considerable surprise expressed here by those interested in the affairs at Rio, that the offer of surrender should have been made through the Portuguese commander, who up to this time has not shown any particular disposition to take a hand in the conflict.

It is not thought, however, that the action of the Portuguese in receiving Da Gama is necessarily an act of sympathy with the insurgents. The Portuguese are said to recognize a principle of international law, now observed, by which right of asylum, as it is called, is granted temporarily by a neutral power to a defeated belligerent.

This right of asylum is not recognized of late years by most nations, except in cases of half civilized peoples, and moreover the Brazilian insurgents have never been recognized by any body as belligerents. There is, therefore, some speculation as to the exact meaning of the action of the Portuguese commander.

Minister Mendonca admitted that he had received news of the surrender, but was unwilling to give any information concerning the exact terms of Da Gama's offer of surrender or discuss the probable action of the Brazilian government. He said, however, that he had no doubt that final settlement had been made by the time he was speaking or would certainly be made today.

Possibly as good a comment as can be made consists of the following summary, furnished by Senor Mendonca of the forces engaged in the naval maneuvers in the harbor at Rio:

How They Line Up.

The rebel forces consist of the gunboat Liberdade, Da Gama's flagship; cruiser Da Mendare, gunboat Trajano, transport of war Purus, armed merchantmen Jupiter, Martel, Piereis da Cunha and Adolphe de Barros and four torpedo boats, two of which are in good condition and the other two half disabled. The force of men on the rebel ships and in rebel fortresses aggregate about 700. Outside the harbor, "whereabouts unknown," the rebel warships Aquidaban and Republica are cruising about.

The array of government ships, lying on the south side of the entrance to the bay under the batteries off Fort St. John, is somewhat more formidable. The forces consist of the dynamite cruiser Nictheroy, iron clad Bahaira, cruiser Tiradenties, torpedo boats Aurora, Pirating, Javelin, Fysen, armed torpedo boat Moxoto, five torpedo boats recently purchased in Germany. Cruising outside are the cruiser America and Parhaniba. The loyal force of men aggregated about 25,000.

Notice of the intention of the Brazilian fleet to begin an active attack on the insurgent fleet had been given Sunday noon to neutral forces in the harbor. This notice was given 48 hours before the firing was to begin. According to this arrangement firing could not begin until Tuesday noon. Da Gama's offer of surrender was made therefore fully 24 hours before an attack was to be expected. The offer of surrender, in fact, followed the first actual show of determined force on the part of the Brazilian government.

Da Gama Was Scared.

The circumstances which led to Admiral da Gama's offer were no doubt the preparations for a decisive fight which had been made by President Peixoto.

After dispatching his message, containing the terms on which he was willing to surrender, Admiral da Gama sought safety. He requested an asylum on board the Portuguese man-of-war Mindello, which is in the harbor. The Portuguese commander received him, and the rebel admiral is now on board that vessel.

After getting on board her he modified his terms somewhat and asked that himself and his officers be permitted to leave the country, and that the lives of the privates be spared.

Nothing has been heard of Admiral Mello with the Aquidaban an Republica since he successfully ran past the forts. It is thought he is now in the south, probably off Santa Catharina or Paranagua.

IN CONGRESS.

But Little Business of Importance In Either Branch.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The day in the house was devoted entirely to the consideration of a bill relating to the extension of the time for allowing a street railroad here to change its system of motive power. According to an act passed several years ago, the street railroads of the District were required to change their motive systems from horse power to either cable, storage battery, or underground electric. All but the Metropolitan road complied with the provisions of the law. That road claimed the cable was too expensive and tried storage battery system, but this proved a failure.

It was boldly charged that the General Electric and Westinghouse companies have retained all the prominent electric engineers in the country and would not spare money to prevent a practical demonstration of the feasibility of the underground electric now in operation at Buda Pesth, and for a short distance on the outskirts of this city. To prevent this Mr. Walker proposed to restrict the motive system to be used by the Metropolitan road to underground electric. No conclusion was reached.

The seigniorage bill was laid before the senate and Mr. Vilas took up his argument against it at the point where he left off on Friday. He was followed by Mr. Allison, who spoke in the same strain, and by Mr. Wolcott, who opposed the motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed its third reading, not so much, he declared, because he was opposed to amendments to it, as because he wanted it to serve as a lesson to those who had wanted to use it merely as a catspaw to keep the tariff bill out of the senate.

During the morning hour Mr. Peffer's motion looking for an investigation into the charges published in the press that senators were dealing in stocks on information gained in their official position was laid on the table by a yea and nay vote, after Senator Gorman and others had declared their opposition to noticing the charges alleged against senators.

Police Want Moore.

BOSTON, March 13.—Langdon W. Moore, who stabbed John H. Foster Sunday morning, is wanted by the police fully as much now as he ever was in his palmy days of criminal experience. Yesterday all the inspectors were requested to keep a lookout for the old man and bring him in. Thus far nobody has been able to find him, but the veteran ex-crook is in Boston, according to the statement of his typewriter, Miss James of Hyde Park. Foster's condition is much improved, for yesterday Dr. Calderwood applied new bandages and Foster made a visit to police headquarters upon request of Chief Inspector Coulter.

Fiendish Act of Colored Boys.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 13.—Two colored boys, Conrad Coke and John Ellis, seized Charles Tinney, a white boy, aged 8 years, and, tying him to a stake, piled brush wood around him and set fire to it. The agonizing cries of the lad attracted the attention of a colored man, who rescued him, but not before he had been probably fatally burned. Even if young Tinney's life is saved it will be necessary to amputate both his arms. Coke and Ellis were arrested. Pure deviltry is the only motive assigned for the fiendish act.

A Hero of Libby Prison.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—One of the historic figures of the war was placed on the retired list of the army yesterday by operation of law on account of age. The officer is Major Thomas E. Rose, Eighteenth infantry, stationed at Fort Clark, Tex. Major Rose enlisted in the volunteer service as a private April 25, 1861. He gained special distinction by leading the movement for the escape of Union prisoners in Libby prison by means of a tunnel. He reached his present grade of major April 2, 1892.

Socialists Won the Argument.

PARIS, March 13.—The municipal council had a stormy session yesterday afternoon. M. Fournier, socialist, denounced the wholesale arrests of anarchists. There was a violent exchange of words between the socialist members and the members of the right. The council passed a resolution protesting against arbitrary arrests and searches encroaching upon the liberty of the people.

Uneasiness at New Bedford.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 12.—Agent Kent of the Wamsutta mills, when interviewed regarding the contemplated action of the Weavers' union in calling out all employes, said the mill officials will make no concessions, as the corporation is fully prepared for such an emergency. Uneasiness and excitement prevail in mill circles.

A Substantial Growth.

UTICA, N. Y., March 13.—The Commercial Travelers' Mutual Accident association of America was in session here yesterday. The report shows the present membership to be 12,966, a gain of 849. During the year four death and 688 indemnity claims were paid, amounting to nearly $74,000.

Bank Officials Arrested.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., March 13.—A. J. Tuck, Charles Menke and John Chapman, officers of the defunct Hutchinson National bank, were arrested on an indictment charging false entries and alterations in the books of their bank, which is now in charge of a receiver. They gave bonds.

Officers In the Dark.

HARTFORD, March 13.—Governor Morris has offered, in behalf of the state, a reward of $2000 for the capture of the murderers of Robert H. Peck in West Hartford Sunday night, and that town offers $200 reward. The authorities have no clews to work upon.

Depends on the Grand Jury.

TORONTO, March 13.—The trial of MacWherrell and Walker, murderers of the Williams couple, begins tomorrow at Brampton if the grand jury returns a true bill. The case has aroused considerable interest.

Killed at a Card Party.

OTTAWA, March 13.—Francis Bernard, 25 years of age, was stabbed to death by Joseph LaFleur at Clarence Creek. A card party was in progress when the row occurred. LaFleur has been arrested.

The New Bonds.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The amount of original coupon bonds issued to date of the 1894 loan is $29,975,550; of registered bonds $19,184,850; totals $49,160,400.

Earliest In Ten Years.

TORONTO, March 13.—The bay is clear of ice. It is the earliest opening in 10 years.

ASTRONOMY IN ARIZONA.

A Station Established Through the Efforts of Harvard College Observatory.

An expedition to establish an astronomical observation station in Arizona left Harvard college observatory March 1, Percival Lowell having furnished the means therefor. The head of the work is William H. Pickering, brother of Professor Edward C. Pickering of Harvard. He has been for years engaged in similar work in Europe and has recently returned from the Arequipa expedition. It has long been desired to have a station in the dry air of Arizona, but funds have been lacking, and Mr. Lowell's gift is most grateful. He is well known as a traveler in the far east, a writer on Korea, Japan and the philosophies and religions of those regions, but he is also an enthusiast in astronomy, has written several books on the science and is himself one of the Arizona party.

The founding of the station will not change the work at Arequipa, which is to be almost wholly used for photographic work, while that in Arizona will be visual. But much of the investigation of the problems of the skies which has been carried on at the Harvard observatory will be transferred to the new station. Professor Pickering says that everything is tending to drive observatories away from cities. The vapors, the smoke and now the powerful electric currents used for lights and street cars—all are injurious to the objects of the astronomer. The special reason for hurrying the expedition is the apposition of Mars next summer, when that planet will be near the earth and farther north than when it was observed two years ago at Arequipa.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

BIG SNOW IN MAINE.

The Old Resident Remembers a Fall That Beat This Winter's Big One.

There was a full bench of crossroads philosophers gathered in the store and postoffice at the Corners the other evening. The "pestiferous snow" was the first subject to which they gave attention. Solomon Growles, who had just come in from a day's chase of a fox, with snowshoes and gun, declared with more solemnity than usual to him:

"Snow's more'n 40 foot deep over on the back side of Smith's hill. I can swear to that, fer I've measured it."

"That's purty deep for hereabouts," put in old Elijah Scammon in his softest tones, "but it can't hold a candle to what I saw in 1843 up north of Brassua lake. That winter our tote road for more'n a quarter of a mile ran through a notch 'tween two purty good hills that come up close together. Mebbe the sides of that notch was about 200 feet higher 'n the road. Well, on the 23d day of February there came a storm that lasted three days. Yer never saw it snow so in yer life, an the wind blew jest orful. When it was over, we dug out of camp an went ter break out the tote road, an I'm blamed 't the snow wasn't so deep down whar the notch was that we couldn't find the place or them hills at all. It was all smooth snow, level all over 'em, an when we came out in the spring they hadn't come in sight yet. That was 'bout the deepest snow I ever saw."

"Yaas, I shouldn't wonder 'f 'twas," said Solomon meekly, while the laugh went round.—Lewiston Journal.

SENATOR AND MRS. PEFFER.

They Are Always Together, and the Good Lady Is Her Husband's Counselor.

The relations between Senator Peffer and his wife are quite touching. They are always together, and wherever Mr. Peffer is Mrs. Peffer can usually be found near by. They walk together in the morning from their boarding house to the capitol, and when he has nothing else to do they work in his committee room, she acting as his private secretary. When he has engagements elsewhere, she remains there, answering his letters and sending out his documents. When the senate is called to order, she goes into the gallery and remains until adjournment, when she walks home with him. When lunchtime comes, they go down to the restaurant together and eat baked apples and cream.

When he has to visit the pension office or the postoffice department or other offices in the city, she is always with him and usually waits outside of the door until he comes. He is tall and ungainly, with high cheek bones, and dark goggles, and long whiskers, and an ulster on which the nap in places has been worn off. She is a bright looking little woman, nimble and observing, but plainly dressed in a bonnet and garments which she evidently made herself. Mrs. Peffer is a woman of considerable intellectual force. She understands political affairs quite as thoroughly as her husband and is a safe counselor.—Washington Letter.

Astor Finds It Expensive.

Mr. Astor is finding it fully as expensive to indulge in the luxury of publishing a good newspaper as to maintain the finest steam yacht. The financial result of his first year's experience as proprietor of The Pall Mall Gazette, Budget and Magazine was recently put before him. A friend of Mr. Astor said that the balance on the wrong side of the account amounted to about $200,000. When he had examined the balance sheet a few minutes, it is said that Mr. Astor remarked, "If the balance against us next year exceeds $50,000, I shall think there is bad management somewhere."

Shakespeare Foretold It.

The congregation of rites met at the Vatican recently and unanimously pronounced in favor of the introduction of the cause of the beatification of Joan of Arc. The decision was immediately approved by the pope. Shakespeare's prediction as to the French is therefore in the way of being fulfilled:

No longer on St. Denis will we cry,
But Joan la Pucelle shall be France's saint.

LONG JOURNEY BEGUN

The First Stage of the Wellman Party's Dash For the Pole.

PLANS CAREFULLY LAID OUT.

New Methods For Solving the Great Mystery.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Walter Wellman, the well-known journalist, sailed on the steamer Britannic today en route for Spitzbergen, from which point his expedition will make a summer dash for the north pole. Mr. Wellman was accompanied by three other Americans—Professor Owen B. French, late of the United States coast and geodetic survey and an experienced and capable scientist; Dr. Thomas B. Mohun, a successful Washington physician, and Charles C. Dodge, the artist and photographer of the expedition. The enterprise is under the leadership of Mr. Wellman, and the three men named are his lieutenants.

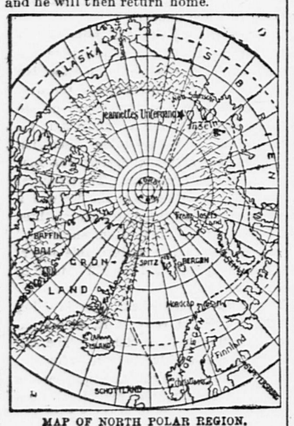

WALTER WELLMAN.

Ten hardy young Norwegians, ambitious and experienced in arctic exploration, will join the party in Norway, and the expedition will sail from Tromsoe, Norway, for the islands of Spitzbergen about May 1. At Dane's island, which is very near the 18th parallel—that point of latitude so far north that many explorers have never reached and few have ever passed it—headquarters will be established, and then the party will steam to the edge of the great ice pack about a degree farther north. After a landing is effected the steamer will return to Dane's island, and about May 10 or 15 the dash for the pole will begin.

Aluminium Plays an Important Part.

That marvelous new metal, aluminium, has been utilized in the construction of sledges, boats and other apparatus, and thus equipped with far lighter paraphernalia than any previous explorer Mr. Wellman expects to be able to push on north at the rate of from 12 to 20 miles a day. As he will have only about 600 miles to travel before the pole is reached, he expects to either reach that goal or a point very near it in 50 days. He will then return to the edge of the pack in 50 days more, his steamer will pick him up, and he will then return home.

MAP OF NORTH POLAR REGION.

Mr. Wellman has carefully studied the great problem before him and expects to profit by the knowledge gained by previous explorers who have traversed the pack and to avoid their mistakes. His early start is for the purpose of getting far north before the pack begins its drift toward the south. Away back in 1827 Sir Edward Parry pushed on northward over the pack at the rate of from 16 to 20 miles a day, but his heavy equipage compelled him to break his loads into parts and pass from five to seven times over the same road.

Time-Saving Devices.

Other explorers, handicapped with old time sledges and boats, have been compelled to progress in the same slow manner, but Mr. Wellman believes that with his light aluminium outfit retracing his steps will be unnecessary, and that every mile traveled will take him a mile farther toward the pole. At the start the drift of the ice pack will not be against him, and when he returns later in the season it will assist him in his homeward journey.

Mr. Wellman carries with him his aluminium boats and sledges—the first ever built in America—and tests have demonstrated that they are by far the lightest and at the same time the very strongest boats and sledges of their size that the world has ever seen. The entire equipment of the party of 14 will be about 5500 pounds, and as 40 hardy draft dogs will assist in carrying it, the average weight per man and dog will be about 100 pounds.

A Newspaper Expedition.

One novel feature of Mr. Wellman's scheme of exploration is that it is strictly a newspaper expedition, and if Mr. Wellman's plans are carried out the world will be apprised of his progress toward the pole, a thing that has never before been done in the case of any previous polar expedition. Members of his party will be sent back from time to time to the edge of the ice pack with letters describing the progress of the expedition and the discoveries made by the explorers. At the edge of the ice pack the dispatches will be taken on board Mr. Wellman's steamer, which will return to Norway whence the world will receive the news.

Whether Mr. Wellman's dash for the pole will be successful or not remains to be seen, but if his novel plan is even partly carried out he will succeed in reaching a degree of latitude farther north than that reached by any previous explorer. With Wellman, Peary, Nansen and possibly Jackson in quest of the pole this year, it seems highly probable that 1894 will mark the solution of the frozen north's fascinating mystery.

CHARGED BY POLICE.

Striking Silk Dyers Cause Exciting Scenes In Paterson.

PATERSON, N. J., March 14.—The striking silk dyers created a big excitement here yesterday. About 700 of them gathered in front of Weidmann's mill and attempted to force their way into the works. They were prevented from entering by a squad of police.

The strikers then marched to the works of Simon & Auger, broke down the doors and forced the workmen out of the establishment. They threw their unfinished silk on the floor, turned on the steam in the tubs, and burned a large quantity of the material.

The strikers then proceeded to the dye house of Richard J. Berdan on Water street and ordered operatives to cease work.

Over 2000 striking ribbon weavers and silk dyers drove out the dyers in Charles Vermorel's works, using heavy dye sticks on the heads of the workmen. The crowd then went to Sheehan's dyeing shops and forced the men from the tubs, not even allowing them to doff their wooden shoes.

The strikers next visited the mill of Dexter, Lambert & Co., and acted in a similar manner. One of the strikers told Mayor Braun that if the employers did not come to terms in a few days they would introduce dynamite into the struggle.

Shortly before 5 o'clock last evening over 5000 persons of all sexes and ages surrounded the Banford Bros.' silk mill, to intimidate the weavers and warpers who refused to join the strikers.

At 5.30 o'clock Chief of Police Grant and Captain Bimson led a squad of 42 men up the hill. Near the main door of the factory the squad was divided, one-half remaining on the avenue, while the other, led by the captain, charged a crowd of nearly a thousand men on a field on the east side of the mill, striking right and left, and sparing no one.

The crowd fell back against a picket fence, which gave way with the pressure. The police pursued the fleeing mass of human beings down the hill and through vacant lots.

After the officers left Cliff street, a crowd of silk workers marched up Cliff street, singing the Marseillaise, but were soon routed by another detachment of police, and many of them were knocked down in the mud by the officers. Nearly all the operatives were escorted to their homes by policemen.

Mayor Braun issued a proclamation calling upon the strikers to preserve order.

A TIGER'S FEROCITY.

Two Men So Seriously Injured That They Will Probably Die.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 14.—Two keepers, named Werner and McKay, employed in Barnum's winter quarters here, were terribly mangled by a ferocious Bengal tiger and will probably die as a result of their injuries. They went into the cage carrying a sheep which had just been killed and was to be given the tiger for his noonday meal. The huge beast with apparent ease crushed the heavy iron bars separating one part of the cage from the other, and in an instant, before the other employes of the place could interfere, had so badly lacerated McKay's legs and torn Werner's head and shoulders that physicians think both men will die.

Republicans Won.

DOVER, N. H., March 14.—Farmington elected the full Republican town ticket, the first time in 19 years. Durham's officers are all Republican. Madbury elected two Republican selectmen and one Democrat. Rollinsford elected the full Republican ticket.

FRANKLIN, N. H., March 14.—The Republicans gained a great victory here by voting to accept the city charter voted by the last legislature and which at a special town meeting last fall was rejected by the Democrats.

LACONIA, N. H., March 14. — Mayor Charles A. Busiel (Rep.) was re elected by 589 majority. The Republicans carried every ward, electing 14 councilmen and every official.

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., March 14.—The city election resulted in Colonel Christopher H. Wells (Rep.) being elected mayor by a majority of 261. He carried four wards out of five.

McCarthyites Have Assurances.

LONDON, March 14.—A meeting of McCarthyite members of the house of commons was held last evening. A deputation was sent to interview Mr. Harcourt, and they had satisfactory assurances as to the government's intentions toward Ireland. What the nature of these assurances was, however, cannot be learned.

Cable News.

LABOUCHERE'S BOMB.

Amendment to Abolish the House of Lords Is Carried.

WAS SUPPORTED BY RADICALS.

Unlooked-For Result Creates Much Consternation.

LONDON, March 14.—Henry Labouchere in the house of commons proposed as an amendment to the address in reply to the queen's speech the abolition of the house of lords.

After some discussion and considerable excitement, the amendment was put to a vote and was passed, 147 to 145, in spite of the opposition of the government. When the figures were announced, they caused an outburst of prolonged cheering which was renewed when the deputy speaker read the address in reply to the queen's speech with Mr. Labouchere's amendment attached to it.

The division on the amendment occurred earlier than was expected, and many of the Conservatives were absent at dinner. The majority was composed of 73 McCarthyites and Parnellites, the remainder being Radicals.

When the division paper was handed to Mr. Labouchere a tremendous cheer broke from the Irish and Radical benches and the members standing below the gangway. Mr. Tanner was excitedly cheering and waving his handkerchief, while the government tellers looked pale, and especially Chief Whip Ellis. All the ministers looked downcast, while Mr. Balfour smiled ironically.

A Jump In the Dark.

The division on Mr. Labouchere's amendment partook of the nature of a surprise, not only to the government, but to many of the Radicals who had voted in favor of the amendment. Several of the latter avowed last evening that their object in supporting the amendment was merely to give a good division against the house of lords.

They declare that they had no idea that there was any prospect of the amendment being carried. It was, in fact, a jump in the dark and a bringing up at a place at which they did not expect to arrive.

The action that will be taken by the government in view of the defeat inflicted upon it by its whilom supporters is a matter of conjecture. The prospect of the resignation of the cabinet was a general topic in the lobbies of the house of commons last evening. It is expected that the cabinet will meet at once to discuss the matter.

What Next?

The vote of 147 to 145 would indicate that a third of the members failed to vote. What the outcome of this victory will be cannot be prophesied. Sensationalists talk of the cabinet resigning and a general turnover of English politics, while the more conservative classes maintain that the amendment being passed at a time when the government forces were absent it will amount to nothing more than a nine days' wonder.

It is, however, generally conceded that the Rosebery administration has been ushered in in a manner not to be desired or applauded.

Editorially, the morning papers concede this fact, even though they belittle the episode of yesterday.

Newspaper Comment.

In an editorial, commenting on the vote on Mr. Labouchere's amendment, The Standard says: Lord Rosebery may be assured that if he submits to an affront of this sort at the very opening of his career, he must expect them at every turn thereafter.

The Times in an editorial says: The situation is developing with startling rapidity. Lord Rosebery's government has received a blow which shatters its foundations and leaves it entirely denuded of even such prestige as can be derived from the incongruous alliance that kept Mr. Gladstone in power. The Radical and Irish revolt renders an early dissolution inevitable.

Concerning Honorable Discharges.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The house committee on invalid pensions yesterday favorably reported on the bill of Representative Martin, doing away with the requirement of honorable discharge as preliminary to a pension. In many cases death has occurred during a furlough or outside of military duties. In such case no honorable discharge is in existence and the widow is cut off from securing a pension. The bill makes the death of a soldier equivalent to an honorable discharge, except when the death occurs during desertion.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

WAR ON SQUEELERS.

The Quincy Grocers' Association Visit Squire's Works.

THE PERSONNEL OF THE PARTY.

A Special Car Across Boston; Guides at Factory; Incidents of Trip.

It was a jolly party of Quincy's business men that left on the 12.39 train Tuesday noon, and to look at them dressed in their smooth clothes one would not imagine that the party was on a killing expedition, yet they were for their destination was the big pork factory of J. P. Squires & Co. at Cambridge, and they were to witness the slaughter of the innocent squeelers.

There was one or two of the party, however, who were a little timid but they put on a brave front and determined to "Root hog or die."

The party was made up of the following:

Lester M. Pratt,
John Curtis, 2d,
Osborne Rogers,
John W. Nash,
D. H. Fitzgerald,
George H. Wilson,
S. F. Newcomb,
Arthur H. Doble,
Joseph Johnson,
T. J. Lamb,
John Callahan,
George Prout,
Frank Brewer,
Oscar Olson,
Owen J. Jones,
Fritz Swanson,
John Jacobson,
Herbert F. Doble,
C. H. Backus,
T. L. Pearce,
D. Edmond,
F. H. Humphrey, president of the Old Colony Grocers' Union.
C. W. Rice, Weymouth,
Fred N. Bates, Weymouth,
A. W. Stetson,
J. W. Denning,
Fred F. Green,
S. F. Willard,
Geo. T. Magee, DAILY LEDGER,
Arthur Mitchie,
C. A. Richardson,
A. L. Baker,
C. W. Willis, Editor New England Grocer.
Eugene H. Sprague,
Frank Merrill,
J. H. Pierce.

When the party arrived in Boston a special car was taken and in half an hour they entered the office of the factory, which occupies a space of 9 1-2 acres.

After registering, guides conducted the party over the vast establishment, and it was well that a guide was furnished for some one might have been lost.

An elevator was taken to the top floor and the first place looked at was the killing department and there was no necessity to inform one when that was reached for the constant squeeling of the pigs furnished the necessary information.

From here we followed his "pigship" through all the various stages. Saw him cut up and saw him made into sausages, bologna, pressed ham, pork to roast, salt pork, lard, lard oil and last but not least, into fertilizer, for nothing is wasted here. The blood and scraps are used to make fertilizers. We also saw the several products packed into pails, boxes and barrels ready for shipment.

As we passed through the several departments our guide explained everything that was worth knowing.

The firm manufactures nearly everything they use, having a corps of engineers, architects, tin smiths, coopers, box-makers, etc.

They even make their own teams and on the premises have a carriage manufactory, with accompanying harness, paint and blacksmith shops.

Most of the pigs or hogs come from the west, and some idea of the amount of business done can be had when it is known that about 900 men are employed and 300 pigs go to their last rooting ground every hour of the day.

The works are divided into thirty departments and each has its head and every item of expense is recorded.

The works are always open, and visitors are allowed to inspect them at all times, the firm furnishing a guide who leaves the office on a tour of inspection every hour.

While the men in the cutting department handled wicked looking knives and cleavers they had pleasant faces and went about their work with machine like regularity.

The tour of the several buildings occupied about two hours and all were well pleased with their visit.

Soon the special car came in sight and we were on our way home. But "thereby hangs a tale" and not a pig tail either.

Just as the car was about to start, it was discovered that three of the party were missing. No one knew where they were, although someone was unkind enough to say that the killer had stuck the wrong pig and the Adams building would loose its grocer. That was an error, however, for they came on a later train.

On the way home there were one or two amusing incidents. One young man said it was courting night and he was due at East Milton. He was afraid he would not catch the branch train, so he took a herdic across the city, but for all that he missed the train. He will not be so particular after he is married.

As we came through Chinatown, one of the Mongolians boarded the car. The conductor told him it was a private car, but he could not be made to understand, as he was not up in his English.

After trying in vain to make him understand the car was stopped and he was put off, and as we once more started on our way he was heard to call the conductor a name, which showed he could talk some English.

The trip on the whole was a pleasant one, and well repaid the party for the time spent, and if when you enter any of the stores you hear the proprietors telling pig stories do not be surprised as they can tell some large ones.

AT HIS OLD TRICKS.

Dressmaker Hayden Leaves Newton as Quietly as He Did Quincy.

The Journal today has the following of local interest:

"About five months ago Elmer C. Hayden, a good looking man, made his appearance in Newton. He engaged a suite of Charles B. Lancaster in one of the principal business blocks upon Centre street. A few days later there appeared a modest placard which bore beneath his name the word "Modes."

"His apartments were fitted up in perfect taste, but in spite of the fact that he engaged two young women dressmakers of Newton at a large salary, his orders for dresses did not come.

"He was patient, and it is said that after a while he succeeded in securing many fashionable people as customers.

"He at first lived at a boarding house, but it is said that for some reason he was permitted to depart with a large board bill unpaid. From there he went to the only hotel in town. There he remained four weeks with a similar result. These outlets being closed, Mr. Hayden was obliged to arrange a sleeping apartment in his dressmaking establishment.

"It is said by the druggist where he traded that he rarely bought a cigar, but purchased quantities of powders and medicine.

"Mr. C. B. Lancaster stated to a Journal reporter last night that he was looking for Hayden, as he owes him considerable money.

"One of the young women employed by him would also like very much to see him as he owes them both in the neighborhood of $40. She said: Mr. Hayden left Newton a week ago last Monday without saying a word. I believe he has gone for all time as there have been many of his creditors here looking after him. He, as I understand the case, owes considerable money and that is the probable cause of his leaving."

FILIBUSTERING.

The Quincy Young Men's Congress Does Not Reach Hawaiian Resolve.

Little was accomplished for the public good at the fortnightly meeting of the Quincy Young Men's Congress, Tuesday evening, because of the numerous dilatory motions of the obstructionists to prevent the consideration of the Hawaiian resolve. It afforded, however, a profitable parlimentary drill for the members.

The only new business introduced was a State bill providing for biennial elections of Governor and Council.

There were majority and minority reports on the resolution condemning the President's policy relative to the Hawaiian Islands. Placed in the orders of the day.

The committee reported ought not to pass on the State bill to make Jan. 1 a legal holiday. Considerable discussion followed. The argument against was that it came too near Christmas. The strongest argument in favor was that the day was a legal holiday in all the states except three —Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. The unfavorable report was finally rejected, and the bill ordered to a second reading.

There was a public hearing on bridging the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. at Warren avenue, followed by a debate. The bill was finally recommitted to be redrafted.

It was nearly ten o'clock when the orders of the day were reached and after an unsuccessful attempt to limit the debate, the Congress adjourned.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

More Questions Disposed of by the Committee on Liquor Law.

BOSTON, March 14.—The senate received a remonstrance from Brigadier Generals Peach and Bridges against any change in the militia laws which would allow independent companies to parade and bear firearms.

MARY A. TUPPER
IN A WOMAN'S PRISON.
Restored to Her Husband at Wilton, Me., After Months of Suffering.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women's prisons are not always built of iron bars and solid masonry. It is easy to shut women up from the beautiful, joyous world without these means.

Mrs. Mary A. Tupper has been released at Wilton, Me., from the custody of extreme female weakness and nervousness which kept her a prisoner in bed, unable to walk.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound went to the root of her trouble, and gave her the liberty of health, so that after taking two bottles she was able to go out of doors and surprise her husband and friends by her rapid improvement.

She says: "Women should beware of dizziness, sudden faintness, backache, extreme lassitude and depression. They are danger signals of female weakness, or some derangement of the uterus or womb. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and be thankful for your life as I am. It only costs a dollar to try it, and the result is worth millions. Ask some druggist about it."

WARD 4 HOSE LOTS.

Councilman Shackley Gives Good Reasons in Opposition

TO THE SO-CALLED DOBLE LOT.

The Willard School Lot is Also Unsuitable Because of Lowness.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Your correspondent "J" thinks it strange that councilmen from Ward Four should not have considered the Doble lot. In answer, I would say that the Doble lot has been considered, and will give reasons why it is not desirable as a site for a firemachine.

In the first place it is bounded by two streets each 33 feet wide, which is not sufficient to allow a carriage with long ladders to get out and turn either way without trespassing on the opposite side of the street or breaking the rear ends off the ladders.

2d—There is only nine feet of land on the grade of the street, which is kept in place by the so-called cellar, which is simply a retaining wall beyond which the land drops to an average of ten feet below the street, part of the low land being wet meadow.

3d—Nine feet from the line of the street is the track of the Street Railway where the electric cars pass and repass many times each day.

4th—Opposite the lot is the grocery, the market and the cash variety stores of E. H. Doble & Co., in front of which stand not only the teams of the firm, but the teams of many peddlers who sell, and customers who buy goods of the firm.

5th,—The price named by "J," $3,500, is more than will be the net cost of what I consider a much better lot, all things considered.

The lot might be available were it not for the lack of room in front. If the building were to be set farther back it would be necessary to fill the front just so much to a height of nine or ten feet.

As to the insinuation that some one expects to get "a dollar" out of the other lot, it is only necessary to say "to that which no gentleman should say, no gentleman need reply," but when a man makes such insinuations and neglects to put his name to them, he puts me in mind of people who skulk in dark and throw stones through other people's windows.

As to the school house lot, in addition to the objection of the School Board which ought to have great weight, there is the impossibility of having a basement, which is needed for the heating apparatus and when the council will appropriate funds for two or three cells for the use of the police when they make arrests late at night, and to commit the prisoner to the lockup are obliged to leave the ward unguarded for an hour or two and, perhaps, return bringing help and make other arrests the same night. Such a case has occurred. The cells could not be had in a basement on this lot without raising the grade to such a height as to make it too hard to back the apparatus into the building. The floor of the Willard school is full seven feet above the grade of Copeland street, and the bottom of the school cellar is so near the water that large puddles of water are frequently seen there in wet times.

Supper and Entertainment of the Woman's Relief Corps.

Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps, No. 103, gave a supper and entertainment at G. A. R. hall, Tuesday evening. There were two hundred present who enjoyed the baked beans and Indian puddings. After the supper the following entertainment was rendered which is deserving of great praise and was loudly applauded:

Piano solo, Miss Allie Litchfield.

Soprano and alto duett, Miss Susie M. Hersey and Miss Mary Gardner.

Mandolin duett, Frank Bassick and Frank Souther.

Recitation, Miss Alice Webb.

Banjo solo and song, Sumner Pierce.

Banjo duett, Frank Bassick and Munroe Perry.

The supper, which was the first of a number to be given was a financial success. The next in order is an old folks dance at G. A. R. hall, March 27th. The only thing that happened to mar the pleasure of the evening, was the turning of the tea grounds into the pickles by "Foxy."

—The old fashioned stock for gentlemen's neck wear is said to be coming in vogue again. The conventional stock of earlier days was usually of black satin about three inches wide with a front bow and contained a light steel spring. It was easily adjusted and contributed not a little to the dignity of the gentlemen of the old school.

MORPHINE'S NEW ANTIDOTE.

Dr. Moor Tells How He Made the Discovery and of His Experiments.

Dr. William Moor, whose discovery of permanganate of potassium as an antidote for morphine poisoning has made him famous, has written a paper upon the subject which has been published in a well known medical periodical. In this he treats the subject almost altogether, as might be expected, in a technical manner. He tells, however, of the investigations that led to his discovery in the following words:

"After some trials I found that the best way of administering it was to have it made up in pills with cacao butter and talcum of kaolin, and to direct the patient to drink very slowly a glassful of water just one minute after taking the pill, for the latter begins to disintegrate in one minute at the temperature of the body. By using this method I successfully combated the extremely disagreeable odor in a case of cancer of the stomach.

"About that time I treated a well known actor suffering from acute pleurisy. This gentleman was addicted to morphine, and as I had taken much interest in him I earnestly sought the best plan to break his habit. The idea occurred to me that perhaps permanganate of potash might decompose morphine, the latter being an organic substance, and that by making use of a certain method I could eventually break his habit without restricting him from taking his morphine. My patient, however, started on a professional tour just when I began to put my idea to a test. This circumstance did not prevent me from continuing my researches as to the effect of permanganate of potassium on morphine, and today I am permitted to offer to the profession what I consider to be the antidote 'par excellence' for morphine."

Then considering in detail the peculiar effects of the antidote when differently administered Dr. Moor continues:

"Having gained the knowledge of these facts, it is not surprising that I could swallow with impunity toxic doses of sulphate of morphine followed in a few moments by a corresponding amount of the chemical body which I was justified to consider the antidote par excellence for morphine. Thus on one occasion four hours after a full dinner, at a time when the stomach must have contained a great amount of soluble peptones and other organic matter, I took two grains of the sulphate of morphine in about half of an ounce of water, followed in one minute by three grains of its antidote—for safety's sake one grain more than necessary—dissolved in four ounces of water. In another instance three hours after a light supper I took in the presence of several colleagues belonging to the staff of the West Side German clinic of this city three grains of the sulphate of morphine, followed in about 30 seconds by four grains of permanganate of potassium, both in aqueous solution. I was perfectly confident that the antidote possessed such a wonderful infinity for the morphine that it would select it instantaneously from among the contents of the stomach.

"In case of poisoning by any of the salts of morphia 10 to 15 grains of the antidote dissolved in six or eight ounces of water should be administered at once and repeated at intervals of 30 minutes three or four times, or even more often. Permanganate of potassium as well as the salts of manganese are comparatively harmless, even if given in large quantities."

Dr. Moor continues: "In cases of poisoning by the alkaloid itself or by tincture of opium (laudanum), also by opium, it is advisable to acidulate the antidotal solution with diluted sulphuric acid, or in the absence of this with some white vinegar—not red vinegar—by which the insoluble morphia will be at once converted into the soluble sulphate of acetate. I have strong reason to believe that the administration of permanganate will be of beneficial effect even after absorption of the morphine has taken place."

Ages of Stone and of Bronze.

The transition from the stone age to the bronze age can be read in the disclosures of the lake dwellers of Switzerland. This wonderful people lived through the stone age and for long ages continued on until they lapped over into the bronze age. Some of their settlements disclose only stone implements, while others of a later date show the bronze chisel, the bronze winged hatchet, the bronze knife, the hexagonal hammer, the tanged knife of ornamental design, the socket knife and the bronze sickle. They show also the bronze fishhook, barbed and in exact similitude of our present device. The ornamental hatpin as now used, together with other articles of utility and ornamentation, is plentiful. The stone mold for casting the copper or bronze hatchet is of exceedingly ancient date, but probably the use of sand was far more common, and hence we have less traces of that method.—Hardware.

The Height of Obliviousness.

Yesterday I met a worthy gentleman whom years ago I used to see in the Paris salons. A few rapid words of greeting were exchanged between us.

"Madame is quite well, I hope?"

"Quite well, thanks."

Here my old acquaintance suddenly bethought himself and added:

"Beg pardon, no—nothing of the kind. I forgot for the moment that I lost her six months back."—Etoile.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" ystem. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

The Chord of Love.

It sings in all. The magic strain,
Unbidden, comes to me again.
As if an artist's subtle skill
Had touched the lute, my pulses thrill
With heartfelt joy—I do not feign.
It calls through all the hill and plain;
It murmurs in the falling rain;
Its music e'en the flowers distill—
It breathes in all.

Its harmonies through nature reign
In symphonies that will not wane;
It lisps in ripples of the rill;
It sings when all things else are still,
This rapturous chord of love's refrain—
It lives in all.

Inconsequent?

The Boston Herald lately predicted that if women were allowed to vote the "introduction of so versatile and inconsequent an element into politics" would make trouble and "lead to greater displays of demagogism and cant than we now have." Mrs. Ellen B. Dietrick writes to The Herald: "If the time has come when American men are really justified in speaking of American women as 'a versatile and inconsequent element' in our mutual affairs, then all I can say is, God help the American people! If the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters have no steadfastness and little reason, they are poisoning the republic none the less surely because their wishes and opinions are not legally counted."

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

New Hampshire	111	161	121
Vermont	101	213	60
Massachusetts	69	36	21
Totals	2,445	5,931	37,428

Prices for western beef cattle, live weight: Choice 4½@4¾c pr lb; second quality, 4@4½c; third quality, 3½@3¾c; poorest grade of coarse oxen, cows, bulls, stags, Texans, etc. 2½@3c.

Prices for northern and eastern beef cattle, dressed weight: Choice, 5¼@6¼c pr lb; first quality, 5@5¼c; second quality, 4½@4¾c.

Hides, tallow, etc.—Hides, 4½@5c pr lb; tallow, 3@3¼c; calfskins, 70c each; lambskins 50c each; sheared skins, 25c each; branded hides, 3c pr lb.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—There is no demand for dressed beef on the Boston market. Drovers deem it advisable to wait until the demand is better rather than to bring their stock in now and sacrifice it. Values were quoted about the same as last week.

Sheep and lambs—The Boston market is overrun with this kind of meat, and trade cannot be expected to be any better as long as the heavy receipt of western stock is put upon the market. So light was the supply that a fair quotation could not be made.

Milch cows and springers—There was a fair supply of this stock, but there was no demand. Prices ruled ranged from $30@50 pr head.

LONG WAR IS ENDED.

The Government Vessels Fire Parting Shots at Insurgents.

ENEMY'S GUNS REMAINED SILENT.

The Surrender of the Rebels Was Unconditional.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 14. — At 12 o'clock yesterday the bar fortress opened fire upon Fort Villegaignon. In a short time the government forces at Fort Armacao and Fort Gragoata joined in the bombardment. The fire was not returned by the insurgents. The bombardment was continued until 3 o'clock, when it ceased.

Castello, San Bento, Saude, Curvello and all the city batteries then opened a furious fight upon Fort Villegaignon and the insurgent warship Tamandare. The fire was also directed upon the insurgent works at Cobras island and at other places. The forces at Enchadas lowered the hospital flag and hoisted the insurgent ensign.

The garrison at Governor's island also took part in the attack on Fort Villegaignon, which was badly hammered by the government guns. The works on Cobras island took fire, but the flames were soon extinguished.

The firing of the batteries lasted for an hour. No great damage was done. The insurgents did not fire a shot, husbanding their ammunition.

Entering the Harbor.

At 4 o'clock the government fleet appeared off the harbor, the torpedo boat Aurora leading. The other vessels in the fleet were the Nictheroy, America, Itaipu, Bahia, Tiradentes and Parayhaba and two steamers and five torpedo boats. Immediately upon the appearance of the squadron the rebels hauled down the white ensign from one of the ships which was lying near Enchadas and hoisted a signal which was answered from ashore.

A launch containing an officer then went from one insurgent ship to another and each vessel lowered the white flag. Two torpedo boats from the government fleet outside then enterred the bay. One of them went to Fort Villegaignon and it was shortly followed by the launch from the rebel ship.

A few minutes later the white ensign came down from the fort, and at 5:45 o'clock the government vessels came up the bay, being a welcome sight to the anxious people on shore.

The war is practically over and the cause of the insurgents is a lost one. There is much rejoicing in this city at the culmination of the struggle which has continued so many months, with no object seemingly but to hamper business and destroy property.

Unconditional Surrender.

The rebel forces have surrendered unconditionally, almost without firing a shot. The officers of the insurgent fleet have taken refuge on board French and Portuguese warships. One French vessel has put to sea with many of the rebel officers on board. It is said that Admiral da Gama is on board the British warship Sirius.

When the fact became known that Da Gama had offered to capitulate, the government fleet entered the harbor quietly. As the vessels made their way up the bay. they were saluted by the various government batteries. The greatest excitement prevails in the city. The streets are crowded and everywhere can be heard the cry of "Viva Peixoto."

Rio Is Happy.

For the last two days the streets have been packed with people, and all the available trucks and handcarts have been busy carrying household goods and personal effects out of the city. The tram cars have been jammed until yesterday afternoon, when it was learned that the struggle was over. This was most joyful news to the people, who fully expected that a battle was at hand.

There has been much suffering in the city. All business houses have been closed, and it has been very difficult to get good food. The whole available police force has been on duty constantly, but there has been little disturbance. Almost the whole population is gathered in the center of the city. Probably 100,000 persons have left the city.

Railroad transportation to the suburbs is free. The government is feeding the poor. Great crowds collected on the hills with the expectation of witnessing a battle between the two forces.

The insurgent warship Aquidaban is not in this harbor. Admiral de Mello was false to the emperor and to President Fonseca and President Peixoto, he now proves false to Admiral da Gama. Where he and his vessel are is not known.

Ingalls Talks Politics.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 14.—Ex Senator Ingalls is in town. He said that he was going to take an active part in the Kansas campaign this fall. He said: "The Republicans expect to carry the house in Kansas this year, which will enable them to elect a United States senator. The people's eyes are open as to the hypocrisy which has brought about the present condition in Kansas."

France Asks For Damages.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Dr. Peabody, acting director general of the exhibition, has returned to Secretary of State Gresham the formal demand of the French government for $70,000 on behalf of the French exhibitors whose goods were damaged by the fire in the Manufacturers' building. Dr. Peabody concedes the justice of the claim.

To Be Further Considered.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 14.—A general meeting of the Weavers' union was held here last night at the city hall to consider the Waumsutta mills troubles. After four hours' talk it was decided to call a shop meeting of the operatives this week, when the question of the threatened strike will be further debated.

Nuns and the Public Schools.

PITTSBURG, March 14.—At the meeting of the central board of education a resolution was adopted by a vote of 29 to 2 refusing to pay any teacher appearing in the public schools in the garb of any religious order.

Fifth In Three Days.

WALTHAM, Mass., March 14.—The fifth fire of incendiary origin within three days was discovered here last night in an unoccupied dwelling owned by Arthur F. Smith. It was totally destroyed.

IN CONGRESS.

House Spends a Day In Considering Appropriation of Money.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The house began the consideration of the bill making appropriations for the sundry civil expenses of the government and fair progress was made. Only three amendments of any importance were adopted; one appropriating $43,500 for lighting Hay Lake channel; another of $64,000 for the public building at Buffalo and another of $90,000 for repairing the postoffice at New York. The latter was fought by the appropriation committee. The only other amendment of importance was one made by Mr. Morse (Mass.) to cut off the appropriation for the interstate commerce commission.

The Morse amendment precipitated a rather bitter attack from Mr. Wise (Va.) who had read an anonymous letter charging Mr. Morse with opposing the law from purely selfish reasons in the interest of the stove polish concern of which he is the proprietor. When the sense of the house was tested upon the Morse proposition, it was overwhelmingly defeated, but Mr. Hayes (N. Y.) made the point of no quorum against it.

Just before the adjournment, Mr. Cummings' resolution, calling upon Secretary Herbert for information regarding the alleged violation of the armor plate contracts by Carnegie, Phipps & Co., was passed.

The proceedings in the senate were of an exceedingly uninteresting character. The seigniorage bill was taken up and Senators Stewart and Lindsay spoke in favor of and Mr. Dolph spoke in opposition to it. The two new senators, Mr. McLaurin of Mississippi and Mr. Blanchard of Louisiana, received their committee appointments. The day closed with a lively bout between Senators Dolph and Harris over the question of printing extracts from books and newspapers in the Record.

NEEDS CONFIRMATION.

American Naval Commander Alleged to Have Been Squelched by a Jap.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 14.—Passengers of the steamer Arawa, which has just arrived here, give an interesting story of recent events in Honolulu. They assert that a subject of Japan was recently arrested in that city for a trivial offense and placed in jail. He escaped from jail and swam out to a Japanese warship.

The authorities appealed to the American admiral, asking that he demand the surrender of the Japanese. The commander of the Japanese warship refused to give the man up, and threatened that if the American admiral boarded his ship he would give him half an hour to leave, or if he refused, the American flagship would be blown out of the water. According to the story of the passengers the escaped prisoner was released.

BRITISH IN POSSESSION.

Martial Law Raised For the Benefit of the Mosquitos.

NEW YORK, March 14.—A special from New Orleans says: The steamer Gussie reached here from Bluefields, bringing news that the marines from the British cruiser Tamar were in possession of the town, and that the British admiral had raised the martial law declared by the Nicaraguans after they occupied the place, and suspended the Mosquito government. The British cruiser took 325 of the Nicaraguan troops to Greytown and put them ashore, and ordered whatever remained to leave the place. They did so, going up the river to Rama. The British are now in power.

Moore Gives Himself Up.

BOSTON, March 14.—Langdon W. Moore, the noted ex-bank robber, who on Sunday last stabbed a young man named Foster, and who has been in hiding since, presented himself at police headquarters last evening and surrendered himself. He was unable to obtain bail.

A Vicious Old Fellow.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 14.—Joseph Moreau, a Frenchman, while intoxicated, threw his wife out of doors, and subsequently locked her in the cellar of the house, where she remained all night. She is reported as in a dying condition. The couple are 60 years old.

Ex-President Killed Ex-Cashier.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 14.—R. M. Page, ex-president of the Merchants' National bank, shot and instantly killed T. B. Smith, formerly cashier of the same bank. Page was placed in jail. There has been hard feeling between Page and Smith for some time.

For Cultivating Arid Plains.

Another Dividend Passed.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—The directors of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company decided that "it is inexpedient at this time to declare a dividend." The last dividend, due in October, was also passed.

Knott Not a Candidate.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 14.—Ex-Governor Knott was in this city yesterday and said that he was not a candidate for congress in opposition to Breckinridge, Owens and Settle.

STARVING CAB HORSES.

Owing to the Hard Times They Have Had to Go Without Working Rations.

No enthusiastic mass meetings or charity balls or dry goods sales have been held for the thousands of unemployed, crippled and half starved horses throughout the city. But their sufferings have been none the less severe because there is no powerful relief association to aid them. They cannot beg or steal, sleep in the city hall or eat soup at a free kitchen, and when they drop down in their tracks from hunger and cold the agent for the rendering company comes and hauls them away at the expense of the taxpayers. Last month the number so disposed of reached into the thousands. It was more than 25 per cent larger than at any corresponding period during the last decade.

Hard times came on, and the hundreds of expressmen, cabmen, peddlers and junk dealers were among the first to suffer. Their wages were curtailed, and they found it difficult to find enough food for their wives and children, to say nothing of paying rent and feeding their horses. If they sold out their "stands" on the corners where they had been stationed for years, every visible means of support would vanish, and their families would be compelled to depend on charity. Consequently they made their horses share the hunger of their children and are earning what they can.

Last week a cabman was hailed by a gentleman from the corner of Wabash avenue and Van Buren street. He wanted to be driven in a hurry to an address on North Clark street. The cabman cracked his whip, and the cab went rattling along the pavement. Just as they reached the incline leading to the Dearborn avenue bridge the vehicle suddenly stopped, and a moment later the horse fell. It could not be induced to rise and died where it had fallen. The cabman explained, with tears in his eyes:

"I couldn't make enough money to feed him and my children both, and he had to get along on hay, and very little of that. This morning I found him shivering in the shed, and I suppose cold and hunger have killed him."

It is but one instance among the many. —Chicago Record.

ELECTRICITY'S NEW TRIUMPH.

A Practical Experience In Telegraphing and Telephoning Without Wires.

Genuine progress is being made toward the next great electrical triumph —telegraphing and telephoning without wires. The latest results of English experiments were described in a lecture before the Society of Arts on Thursday by W. H. Preece. A copper wire a half mile long was hung on poles on the coast near Cardiff, the earth completing the circuit. Six hundred yards away another wire 600 yards long and parallel with the original line was buried in the sand at the low water mark. More than three miles off on Flat Holme island another wire, also 600 yards and parallel, was laid down. An alternating current, controlled by a Morse key, was sent through the first wire. The signals were reproduced in the wire on the island and read by a pair of telephones. Messages were easily sent. Similar experiments at 5½ miles were partly successful. The human voice was easily transmitted by the same means 1¼ miles.

Preece's critics contend that the results were due to conduction through the earth. He maintains that the results were due to electromagnetic induction of the rapidly alternating current in the primary circuit, throwing the surrounding ether into oscillations, and the energy was radiated in electric waves. These waves, he says, spread out like waves of light, and if they fall on conductors properly placed and sympathetically prepared are reconverted into an alternate current in the secondary circuit. Enthusiasts on the subject argue that we are fast getting on the track of the secret which, when secured, will enable us to communicate with other planets.—New York Sun's London Letter.

The Cost of Electricity.

The past 15 years have not witnessed expected progress in the cheapening of electricity. The reason is that invention has not as yet enabled more than a small percentage of the energy of coal to be turned to electricity.

A limit seems to have been fixed as to its cost when produced by coal, and any extensive introduction of it as a motive power in the near future seems to depend upon the utilization of water power. There is a wide field for its production by this means. There are hundreds of waterfalls now running to waste over the country that can and probably will be utilized in the production of electricity if the Niagara falls tunnel is a financial and commercial success.—Philadelphia Press.

Polish Persecutions.

Great indignation is felt among the sculptors and art dealers of Warsaw over a recent rescript of the police of that city. The guardians of the peace, in obedience to orders from St. Petersburg, visited all the stores and studios and destroyed all the busts of the Polish heroes, Thaddeus Kosciusko and Josef Powniatowski, which they could find. All sculptors in the city were obliged to send a written communication to the city officials promising not to make busts or statues of the two men in the future. This is one way Russia has adopted of trying to suppress the Polish national spirit. It is not probable, however, that it will accomplish its purpose.—Warsaw Letter.

Uncle Sam's Postoffice.

The American postoffice was put in operation in 1710. Last year there were 4,471 miles of mail routes and 67,119 postoffices. The revenues of the department were $70,930,475. There were carried 3,800,000,000 letters. The world's annual mail comprises 8,000,000,000 letters and 5,000,000,000 papers.—Boston Traveller.

FOOD WAS POISONED.

Many Guests at a Jewish Wedding Suffered Great Agony.

CHICKENS AND PICKLED TONGUE

Led to an Active Demand For Physicians' Services.

BOSTON, March 15.—If Harry Feinberg of Worcester, and Miss Ida M. Margelies, daughter of Rabbi Margelies of this city, had not been married in Minot hall, and pickled tongue and cold chicken had not been served at the wedding feast, many persons who were present at the wedding might not have been in need of the services of a physician yesterday. The wedding was attended by a large number of Jewish people, and the festivities continued until late into the night, when the supper was served.

Over 90 chickens were killed by Rabbi Margolies, who is positive that the chickens were fresh, and is certain that the fault was in the cooking, which was done by a local baker. So great was the crowd of guests at the wedding that a second sitting down to the supper table had to be given, and it is thought that most of the victims were those who sat down at that sitting, as the food was taken from the bottoms and sides of the boilers.

The Trouble Begins.

There was no intimation that anything had gone wrong during the time the festivities were in progress, but after a majority of the people had gone to their homes in the North and West ends, the poison began its work. Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning Dr. Kronberger, who keeps a drug store in Salem street, was called out to attend a woman and 9-year-old child at 99 Salem street, who were writhing in agony and in an apparently dangerous condition. Both were in spasms and were exhibiting all the symptoms of poisoning, and antidotes were quickly administered. This was the commencement, for up to 4:30 a. m. over 40 patients had come to the drug store to be treated.

The same program was being enacted in the several Jewish sections of the city, every Jewish physician having from five to 40 patients each, but up to the time of writing no fatalities have been reported. The Hebrew sections of the community are all excited over the event, and in a great number of cases it is the accepted opinion that the poisoning had been caused by using copper vessels, which had not been properly cleansed before using, while a few others hint that enemies of the rabbi had placed an emetic in the food for spite, because the rabbi was not of their way of thinking in matters pertaining to church work.

The doctors, however, are of the opinion that this latter view of the situation is wrong, and that the affair was caused by the copper in the boilers.

Worcester Visitors Suffered.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 15. — The Worcester delegation of Jews who attended the wedding at Boston got home last night. Thirteen of them ate of the poisoned meat and were sick, but none suffered badly save Joseph Baermann, rabbi and janitor of the Green street synagogue. His condition is quite critical. Harry Feinberg, the groom, returned with his bride and the Worcester guests. He is a pedler, living at 32 Pond street. He and his bride sat at the first table and were not poisoned.

Governor Morris Explains.

HARTFORD, March 15.—The proclamation of Governor Morris for the observance of Good Friday this year has caused much comment because of a sentence which has been inserted, which reads: "O Jesu Hominum Salvator, with thy gracious light illumine the minds of thy children, who, groping in darkness, are unable to see the truth when it is presented to them." Governor Morris' explanation of the new language in the proclamation is that the present ages are not observing the anniversary properly.

A Peculiar Freak.

PROVIDENCE, March 15.—The police are greatly mystified by what is probably the work of a crank. During the past week scores of heavy silver door plates have been unscrewed from fashionable residences and carried away. The police were amazed when 19 of the missing plates were found wrapped up in a newspaper and lying on the front steps of station 3 last evening. The plates were uninjured.

On a Long Journey by Land.

DENVER, March 15.—E. J. Johnston of Philadelphia will soon begin a trip of 15,000 miles on horseback in the interest of a newspaper syndicate. He will go through Mexico, and through the different states of South America.

Brainard Won't Go.

WASHINGTON, March 15. — Lieutenant Brainard has abandoned the idea of going with the wrecking party on the Orion to float the Kearsarge off Roncador reef, and his place will be taken by Lieutenant C. T. Forse.

Swelling Our Population.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The steamer Majestic from Liverpool brought 528 steerage passengers. This is the largest number brought to this port since the cholera scare.

Cleveland Democrat Wins.

CHARLESTON, March 15.—Returns from the congressional election clearly indicate the election of J. F. Izlar, Cleveland Democrat, over S. W. Stokes, coalition Democrat.

FOUND GUILTY.

Sutherland, One of Boss McKane's Friends, Must Go to Prison.

BROOKLYN, March 15.—After remaining out one hour and 18 minutes the Sutherland jury came into court last evening and announced that they had agreed upon a verdict. They found the defendant guilty as charged in the indictment. The penalty is one year in jail and $500, or both.

JUDGE SUTHERLAND.

Lawyer Backus was the only one of the counsel for the defense in the court at the time. It was learned when the verdict was announced that Sutherland had left the court and gone to New York with Colonel James. Mr. Backus notified the court that the defendant was under bail, and he would produce him whenever the court was ready to pronounce sentence. Judge Brown said that would be on Friday.

Kenneth F. Sutherland, a police justice of Gravesend, was accused of oppression, causing the arrest of John McNamara, Royal M. Steckles and Frank B. Cottrell, copyists sent to the town hall just prior to the elections by William J. Gaynor.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

The Government Should Be Cautious About Rendering Assistance.

BALTIMORE, March 15. — The Manufacturers' Record this week publishes letters from 18 governors replying to the question whether national aid should be given to secure the construction of the Nicaragua canal. Considerable divergence of opinion is shown, but the majority believe that the importance of the canal and the necessity of its being controlled by Americans justify national assistance, provided this can be given in such a way as not to enrich individuals at the expense of the country.

On this point, Governor Waite of Colorado says: "This government furnished the money to build and equip the Pacific railways. Congress was bribed to exchange our first mortgage liens for a second lien. The thieves who accomplished this sleight-of-hand all became millionaires. The country is swindled. It is proposed to play the same old game with the Nicaragua canal. Not any in mine, if you please."

Released and Rearrested.

BOSTON, March 15.—Walter Thatcher, the teller of the Brookline National bank who acknowledged the embezzlement of $3200 of the institution's funds, was arraigned in the Brookline police court yesterday. On request of the president of the bank the case was nol prossed. Immediately after the court had discharged the defendant he was put under arrest and brought to this city, where he will be held for trial in the United States circuit court.

Operatives Win.

PROVIDENCE, March 15.—The Lymansville strike has been declared off and the weavers will return to their work at once. Superintendent Sack has abandoned the attempt to force the adoption of the two-loom basis of work, and the rate of wages will be adjusted to agree with that paid at the Olneyville mills. It is a victory for the operatives.

On Robbers' Trail.

GUTHRIE, O. T., March 15.—The war department has ordered out Lieutenant Walker of Fort Supply with 20 cavalrymen to chase the men who robbed the Woodward depot safe of the $10,000 of government money. Amos Chapin is also out with a posse of Indian scouts.

Mayor Won't Yield.

BROOKLYN, March 15.—Mayor Schieren expressed himself as fully determined to refuse to allow the Irish flag to be raised on the city hall on St. Patrick's day, notwithstanding the resolution passed by the board of aldermen. Without his approval the resolution is inoperative.

Town Meeting Day.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 15.—Town meetings were held in about 230 towns of this state yesterday. Everything passed off smoothly so far as heard from. As only moderators and other town officers were chosen, no political significance can be ascribed to the elections.

Santa Fe Comes Down.

LAWRENCE, Kan., March 15.—All the Santa Fe taxes for 1893 due in Douglass county were paid yesterday, with the added penalty, under protest. This would indicate that the Santa Fe will not fight the tax payments any longer.

Devoid of Sensation.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The fifth day of the Pollard-Breckinridge trial was devoted by the plaintiff's attorneys to elaborating the main points already marked out by them in their case. There were no sensational incidents.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Schooner Dick Williams was run into by tug Three Brothers, carrying away foremast, bowsprit, flying jibboom, figurehead and lost port anchor.

WARSHIPS DESERTED

When Peixoto's Men Were Plugging at Them at Rio.

GREAT RELIEF AT WASHINGTON.

Long Struggle Has Proved Costly to the Government.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 15.—The insurgent forces, it now appears, deserted Fort Villegaignon and the ships on Monday night, leaving the flags flying, and took refuge on the islands of Enchadas and Parqueta. There was not a soul on board the rebel ships during the bombardment.

Several insurgent officers on Monday took refuge on merchant vessels.

Admiral da Gama left the harbor on board the French vessel Magon. The Magon returned here yesterday. It is not known whether the admiral is still on board.

The insurgents offered to surrender on Monday, but the government refused to promise that amnesty would be granted. Some 60 rebel privates gave themselves up. All the insurgent officers, with the exception of the surgeons, have fled.

By order of President Peixoto 500 rebel prisoners have been liberated from the jails. The rejoicing among the people that the war has proved a fizzle is general.

Salutes were fired at constant intervals yesterday. The streets are crowded and every one keeping a holiday.

Admiral de Mello has been seen in the streets of Montevideo. He has deserted his followers, as Admiral da Gama deserted his officers and men on the harbor fleet.

The insurgent sailors here will be pardoned. The officers will be courtmartialed.

By Way of Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 15. — Secretary Herbert received last evening the following cablegram from Admiral Benham regarding the surrender of the Brazilian insurgents:

RIO, March 14.

Yesterday at 3 p. m. city opened fire on insurgent force and vessels and was not returned. Insurgent forts, position and vessels have been abandoned. Insurgent admiral and followers have taken refuge on board the Portuguese man-of-war. Now the revolution is confined to the southern states.

BENHAM.

Minister Mendonca said that in the absence of official instructions he could give no expression of opinion on the future course which his government would pursue toward the surrendered revolutionists. He looked upon the surrender, however, as an emphatic termination of hostilities.

Welcome News.

The news of the surrender from Rio de Janeiro was very welcome to Secretary Gresham, and to Secretary Herbert particularly.

To the first it serves as a relief from the ever present apprehension lest something should occur that might involve the United States government in some ugly dispute with one of the combatants, or perhaps with some of the foreign powers that have so jealously watched the course so firmly and consistently pursued by this government.

To Secretary Herbert the surrender means the ability to relieve most of the American sailors, who have endured much hardship and exposure to yellow fever, from further service at Rio, and to utilize the ships now there for duty in other places, where they are much needed.

It also means a considerable saving to the navy department, for the maintenance of the large fleet at Rio has been very expensive. Stores and supplies there are always dear, and their cost has been enhanced by the war. Coal alone is a considerable item in the bill, the price at Rio being $11.50 a ton, and the consumption of the new vessels is very large.

American Interests Are Safe.

Minister Thompson and Admiral Benham have both acquitted themselves of their delicate and responsible duties to the perfect satisfaction of the president and their superior officers, Secretary Gresham saying that there was nothing for the United States to do now at Rio; we had acted with perfect fairness throughout, and there was no occasion now for interference, so long as American interests were safe.

Whether or not the French and British and Portuguese naval commanders have laid themselves liable to a charge of violation of neutrality in receiving the fugitive rebel officers aboard their ships is a matter in which the United States feels no concern, practically as we are blameless on that score. The naval officers here are well pleased that Da Gama should have escaped, believing that he is a man of sterling qualities and brave to a fault.

Mello's Meanness.

It is surmised that he will be landed at Montevideo or some other neutral port, and it is believed that he will have nothing more to do with the rebellion in Brazil. It is suspected by naval officers that Da Gama has been made a scapegoat by Mello, for it is now believed that when the latter sailed away from Rio with the Aquidaban and Republica he realized that the rebel cause at that place was absolutely hopeless. He depended upon his ability to run past the forts with two ships, but it was manifestly impossible for the other half disabled and unprotected insurgent ships to run this gauntlet.

It became a question of losing everything or escaping himself. He escaped, leaving Da Gama to share the lost fortunes of his men. Nobody knows what Mello will do now. He may join the insurgents at Desterro, or he may go to Uruguay or Argentine and surrender his ships. If he scuttles the vessels he is liable to punishment for barratry.

Editorial Comment.

THE COMMITTEE on Finance is to give a hearing on the location of the fire station in West Quincy. It is primarily, we understand, to obtain the views of West Quincy citizens, yet as the LEDGER has stated before, it matters little to West Quincy in what part of the ward it is located. The South and Centre should have fully as much interest, for neither of these wards have fire apparatus located therein. The Centre needs better protection, and if a hose wagon with permanent horse and man at Brewer's corner, would give West Quincy as good protection as at present, the location should be selected in justice to South Quincy and the Centre.

Chief Engineer Ripley in his last annual report recommends "the purchase of two more steamers, and that they be located as follows: One at Wollaston near Norfolk Downs and one at West Quincy." In support of the recommendation he says:

"The need of enlarging the department will in my opinion be made apparent to all our citizens soon, more especially to those that are the largest owners of property. The large number of buildings now in process of construction and those to be erected will certainly demand protection. Some may think that I am too apprehensive, but I have seen the department put to a severe test during the past five years, when had another fire occurred at a critical moment the city would have been at the mercy of the flames. Another thing must be remembered and that is that the apparatus is substautially the same as it was in 1882, twelve years ago. The fire risk is about double what it was then and I do not believe anybody thought that there was a surplus of apparatus at that time. With one steam fire engine, and that a third class, and twelve years old at that, it does not appear to your Chief Engineer that there is sufficient fire protection in the way of steam fire engines."

A steamer at Brewer's Corner would give all parts of West Quincy excellent protection. It would at the same time give the South and Centre the additional protection needed. The buildings of the Centre with their merchandise are probably worth one-half the total of the city. In addition to this they are closer together and there is more danger of a conflagration. We are extremely fortunate to have escaped so many years. Our fire apparatus is not sufficient for a city of a population of upwards of 20,000.

THE DEDHAM No-License league has declined Mr. Henry H. Faxon's gift of $25 to assist in enforcing the liquor laws. Yet we read in a morning paper:

DEDHAM, Mar. 14. For a third time within a year alcoholism has caused death here. A well-known resident died from that cause at East Dedham yesterday. Out of consideration for his family, who stand high in the community, his name is omitted.

THE LETTER "Q" is one not much used generally, and the proportion to other letters in a font is small. It would not be surprising if the Journal had found it necessary to order an extra supply to report the doings of Josiah Quincy.

THE BASIS of representation to the next Republican State convention will be the same as in 1893. At this early date it looks as if Governor Greenhalge would have no opposition in Republican ranks.

IT IS a good time to build, as money can be borrowed at low rates and building materials are cheaper than a year ago.

New Church of Stone.

The Roxbury Universalist society has voted to build a stone church to cost $75,000 on Buena Vista avenue. The style of architecture has not been decided upon, but the five or six architects who are preparing preliminary sketches have been instructed, incidentally, to make designs for a structure in keeping with the situation and to conform to the tastes of the society. The committee has entered upon its duties with considerable enthusiasm, and will see to it that no work is left undone that will tend to hasten the completion of the church.

PROBABLY INCENDIARY.

A Lively Blaze Discovered in Early Evening in Thickly Settled Neighborhood.

Shortly before 8 o'clock Wednesday evening one of the men employed in Hall's stable discovered a lively little blaze in progress in the rear of Tirrell & Sons' carriage manufactory and an alarm was sounded from box 23 at 7.48.

Meanwhile the jumper kept at Hall's stable had been got out and a line of hose run to the fire, which proved to be in a lot of excelsior and rubbish which had been thrown out there. Fortunately it was several feet from any building.

Before the water could be turned on to the line of hose that had been laid the Central station apparatus arrived and as they wanted to put a gate on to the hydrant some little time was lost in getting water onto the fire, as one side of the gate refused to close and had to be taken off.

This delay led many to believe that the hydrant was out of order but it was not for it worked all right.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. It was either spontaneous combustion or by an incendiary and it is thought the latter was the cause.

PAY DAY.

Another Month However Before the Amount is Very Large.

Today is pay day among the granite firms but as there were but few at work in February there will not be many to pay. However as many of the firms commenced putting on men the latter part of February and the first of March the prospects are that the pay day in April will be something like old times.

There is no doubt but what business in the granite industry has taken a turn for the better.

Many of the firms say that they have a number of orders and are receiving more but are hampered by the lack of stock which it was impossible to quarry during the cold weather.

That business is picking up in this the principal industry of our city will be good news to the store keepers whose business has naturally been dull, owing to the enforced idleness of a large number of men employed in granite works.

THE STEAMBOAT LINE.

Landing and Pier Staked Out at Sagamore Hill for Quincy Steamboats.

The Transcript says the Quincy, Boston & Nantasket Steamboat Company has staked out the location for a landing and pier at Sagamore Hill, and will begin the work of construction immediately. The company is rushing the work on its new boat at Wellington's Fore River engine works, Weymouth, and intends to have the new line in operation June 1. The company proposes to run its boats between Quincy Point, Manet Beach, Nantasket Beach, and probably Downer Landing. The boat line will run in connection with the Quincy & Boston electric railway, and will be managed by the veteran steamboat man Wesley A. Gove.

The Dedham No-License League declines Henry H. Faxon's gift of $25.—Transcript.

Mr. Faxon when asked about the above this morning said that all he knew about it was what he saw in the papers. He had received no notice of it and was rather inclined to doubt the truth of the story. If it was true, he was glad to hear that there was one temperance committee who had money enough. He had told the Dedham committee if they succeeded in carrying the town for no-license that he would give them $25, and as they had done so he kept his word and sent them a check.

MUSIC AND READINGS.

A Pleasing Entertainment in the Universalist Vestry Last Evening.

The entertainment in the vestry of the Universalist church on Wednesday evening was enjoyed by the audience. Miss Belle Fletcher sang acceptably a solo, and with Miss Lizzie Burrill gave a duett which received a hearty encore.

The readings were by Misses Elizabeth Randall and Bessie E. Parker from the Emerson School of Oratory, Boston, and they gave perfect satisfaction. The two young ladies are wholly unlike in their manner and their method of reading, yet, each excelled in her way, and because of these differences in style, the entertainment was the more pleasing. They good naturedly responded to the repeated calls for selections, and there seemed to be no limit to their means of entertaining an audience.

Feltis—Tanner.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening by Rev. Edward Norton, at the home of the bride at Holbrook, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the couple, the contracting parties being Miss May A. Tanner of Holbrook and Mr. Horace A. Feltis, a young business man of Quincy. The bride wore a white silk trimmed with lace with orange blossoms in her hair. The little maid of honor, Miss Belcher, wore a white embroidered dress with blue sash and orange blossoms. After congratulating the happy couple, a wedding supper was partaken of, followed by singing by Mrs. Elmer Webster, a sister of the bride.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

The Liquor Traffic Receives Attention. Reports of Committees.

BOSTON, March 15.—One of the most important measures that is occupying public attention is one for the establishment of a state commission on license for the purpose of taking the liquor question out of politics.

The committee having charge of this matter gave a public hearing and met to discuss and vote as to whether or not a favorable report should be presented to the legislature. The vote stood five to five, with Mr. Buck absent. It was decided to adjourn until all the members of the committee should be present. In the meantime the Massachusetts Progress club, an organization having branches in 20 cities and towns in the commonwealth, are circulating petitions favoring the commission, and it is expected that fully 150,000 names will be subscribed before the committee meets again.

Women were granted extraordinary privileges by the house. They have now only to capture the senate and then secure the governor's signature to be privileged to vote for mayor, aldermen, councilmen and school committee, and on the question of license at the next municipal elections in the cities of the commonwealth.

The senate judiciary committee reported ought not to pass on the bill requiring the state and cities of over 50,000 population to pay laborers $2 a day for nine hours' work. It was further stipulated that only citizens be employed upon state or municipal work.

Leave to withdraw was reported on the petition of the mayor of Waltham for legislation creating a board of five cemetery commissioners to have charge of the public cemeteries of that city.

An adverse report was made on the bill to increase the salaries of the Boston board of aldermen from $1500 to $4000 annually.

Ought not to pass was reported on the bill establishing the standing as a recognized political party of any party which has or shall for 10 consecutive years cast 1000 or more votes for its candidate for governor; also that any political party which shall increase as rapidly as to poll at least 5 per cent of the total vote for governor before the expiration of 10 years shall be recognized in the same manner.

Adverse reports were made to the house by committees on the following petitions and bills: Petition for legislation requiring conditional sales of personal property to be recorded and protecting the rights of vendee in such sales; petition for an extension of the duties of medical examiners; petition for repeal of existing laws in regard to proceedings before grand juries; petition of the Newburyport Veteran Artillery association to be exempt from jury duty; petition for legislation giving the supreme judicial court authority to determine the ownership of $200,000 worth of bonds in the hands of the state treasurer, deposited by the Cape Cod Ship Canal company and claimed by Quincy A. Shaw; petition that women may be appointed special commissioners; petition that justices and special justices may take acknowledgments of deeds and solemnize marriages; petition to prevent the exhibition of prizefights; bill prohibiting circulation of petitions relating to labor legislation in factories and workshops; bill to compel sleeping car companies to close the upper berth when not sold; bill providing that the tax on the property and franchise of street railway companies shall be received directly by the cities and towns where the railways are operated; bill imposing a tax on legacies and successions.

THE WONDERS OF ATOMS.

Even the Smallest Speck Visible Contains Millions of Particles.

There are but few persons outside of the ranks of the biological students that have any idea of what is meant by the expression "an atom of matter." When the microscope is applied to the examination of living tissue, whether that tissue be of animal or vegetable life, it is soon observed that all living things are made up of minute bodies called "organisms." Experts in the various branches of biological research will also tell you that no essential difference can be distinguished between those cells which go to make up the sum total of animal life and those which give the vegetable its existence. These life cells, although wonders within themselves, are made up of minute particles called "atoms," which are so small that they must ever remain invisible to the human eye. Some critical reader will say, "If this last remark be true, how can it be proved that such infinitesimal particles as your so called 'atoms' exist?" To this query the reply would be that it is only when an untold number of these atoms unite themselves so as to form a single body, like the grains in a popcorn ball, that they become at all visible and then only by the best appliances that optical science has been able to furnish.

This being the case, it is not an exaggeration to say that every little piece of matter which we are able to see is built up of millions upon millions of these atoms which are so small that no mind can comprehend their minuteness, even when taken in aggregations of thousands. There are, of course, many different kinds of atoms, such as atoms of carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, etc., each of which is believed to have its own particular size and weight. Then, too, they probably differ in shape as well as size. According to the specialists in this line, they combine together by mutual attraction, which is in some cases called cohesion and in others chemical affinity, according as the atoms are of the different elements. This being the case it is easy to understand why myriads of these atoms of all sizes and shapes, fitted snugly one against the other, combine together in varying degrees of intensity to build up structures possessing all the various degrees of stability and solidity. Some of the most wonderful theories ever advanced on the atomic theory are by Sir William Thomson, the English scientist. In one of these articles he proves by three different trains of arguments that an atom cannot be greater than the one one hundred and fifty millionth of an inch nor less than one-five billionth of an inch. —St. Louis Republic.

A Climbing Bullock.

At the great slaughter houses in the Parisian suburb of La Villette there is a granary from which the beasts awaiting execution are fed. The way to it is up a substantial ladder staircase. One of the bullocks, having escaped from the pens, climbed up this staircase before he could be stopped. When his escape was first discovered, he was seen on the stairs, slowly and laboriously making his way upward. As soon as he reached the granary two or three attendants followed him and endeavored to get him down, but all their efforts were unavailing. There was nothing to be done, therefore, but to leave the beast there to eat his fill and then see whether he would be clever enough to return by the way he went. Possibly some thought of exhibiting him in public may have crossed the minds of his guardians, but if so they were doomed to disappointment. The stupid animal, instead of trusting to the staircase, got out of a window on the opposite side of the building and put one foot on a little thin ladder standing against it. There was a crash, the ladder broke in half and the too adventurous bullock fell, breaking all his legs, so that he had to be killed on the spot.—Paris Letter.

Oscar Wilde's Memory.

Oscar Wilde has enough Irish blood in his veins to occasionally make a bull. In London an American, who had met Wilde previously, rushed up to him and grasped his hand. Oscar drew back a little.

"Why, don't you remember me?" exclaimed the American, rather taken aback.

"Well, to tell you the truth," remarked Oscar placidly, "I remember your name perfectly, but for the life of me I can't recollect your face."—Exchange.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" ystem. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Austria's Princesses.

It is a customary thing among the Austrian princesses to pass two or three years as abbess in a certain religious community of Prague, and it is equally a custom for abbesses to leave the sacred edifice in order to get married. How such engagements are brought about seems to require a little explanation when it is remembered that the princess abbess really leads a very secluded life. However that may be, the young Coburg prince, August, who is 26 years old and an officer in the Austrian navy, has wooed and been accepted as her suitor by the Abbess Archduchess Caroline, a daughter of the late Archduke Carl Salvator.—Vienna Letter.

Blaze de Bury contributed many articles on French and European affairs to Blackwood and The Revue des Deux Mondes, of which latter journal her husband was the critic. She was of Scotch parentage, her maiden name being Marie Pauline Rose Stuart. —Paris Journal.

PERTINENT QUERIES

As to Doings of Union Pacific's Present and Past Directors.

ALLEGED VIOLATION OF TRUST.

Proposition to Begin a Suit to Collect Over $40,000,000.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—One of the most important propositions yet submitted to congress was presented to the house, when it assembled today, by Representative Boatner of Louisiana, a leading member of the committee on judiciary.

The proposition, as Representative Boatner has drafted, recites with explicit detail numerous defaults of the Union Pacific railroad and contiguous lines to meet the debt due the United States. It charges the present directors of the road, and those in past boards of directors, with a violation of their trust, an improper absorption of outside lines and the voting of dividends contrary to law and against the interests of the United States.

In conclusion directs, in the form of a joint resolution, that the president shall appoint special counsel to institute suit against the present and past directors, their heirs and legal representatives, to collect $35,000,000 and interest due the United States. With interest the amount of litigation would exceed $40,000,000. It would be the largest lawsuit ever instituted in this country, if not the largest in any country.

Recommends $100,000 for Counsel.

By the terms of the resolution, the department of justice would be relieved from further action in the Union Pacific cases, and the suit would be prosecuted by special counsel as a special case. The joint resolution places $100,000 at the disposal of the president for the employment of counsel. It is provided that the counsel shall not be in any way connected in present or past service with the Union Pacific road or with any of the directors.

Will Fight It Out.

PITTSBURG, March 15.—Notwithstanding the central board of education declared against persons teaching in public schools in the garb of a religious order, and the application for an injunction restraining the Riverside school board from employing such persons, the directors will retain the five nuns now teaching in that school until the question is finally settled by the courts.

Withdraws His Suit.

NEW HAVEN, March 15. — The suit for divorce which Arthur B. Lincoln, a New York sketch artist of wide reputation, brought in this city against his wife, has been withdrawn. The reason he gives is that he believes his wife wants to marry again, and he does not choose to help her so far along as to stand the expense of making her free to do so.

A Fight With Nihilists.

LONDON, March 15.—Advices from St. Petersburg, which lack confirmation, say that a squad of gendarmes discovered the members of a nihilist student society in the act of manufacturing infernal machines. A desperate fight occurred. Two gendarmes and three of the nihilists were killed, and the others were bound and taken to the citadel.

Salvage of $50,000 Claimed.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 15.—The owners of steamer Virginia Lake, which towed steamer Briscoe to port, have issued a writ of attachment against the Briscoe, claiming salvage of $50,000, arguing that the intention to abandon the Briscoe was tantamount to an actual surrender.

A Contract Labor Puzzle.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—A letter has been received at the immigration bureau from the inspector at Buffalo, asking for a ruling as to whether two Canadian baseball players engaged to play in this country come within the probibitions of the alien contract labor law.

Taken Back.

LONDON, March 15.—The vote of the house of commons against the house of lords was withdrawn yesterday, and a substitute, which was much shorter, was accepted without a division. Rumors are widely circulating to the effect that Rosebery will resign.

People's Progressive Party.

PITTSBURG, March 15.—The conference of the new national party adjourned after adopting the name of the "People's Progressive party." It was decided to call for a national convention in 1896 to nominate presidential candidates.

Must Be Very Sick.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Letters and telegrams have been received by members of Representative Wilson's family, indicating his condition and the purpose of returning north and referring to the gloomy spells of the sick man.

The Henrietta Jackson Case.

Wiltshaw Pleads Guilty.

Fourteen Days Overdue.

BROOKLYN, March 15.—The Wildon line steamship Apollo has not been seen or heard of since she left this port for Antwerp on Feb. 11. She is now 14 days overdue.

Ten Yet to Be Recovered.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 15. — The searchers in the Gaylord mine this morning unearthed the body of another victim. There are still at least 10 in the mine.

IN CONGRESS.

Test Vote Shows That the Seigniorage Bill Will Probably Pass.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Chairman Sayers of the appropriation committee is making wonderful progress with the sundry civil bill. Forty pages of the bill were disposed of yesterday, making in all 83 in two days, and only leaving 16 pages more, exclusive of two paragraphs, those relating to the coast and geodetic surveys and the Missouri river commission, which were passed over temporarily. No amendments of importance were adopted. The appropriation for the geological survey, which usually encounters bitter opposition, passed unchallenged.

The test vote which was to be taken on the seigniorage bill, the vote on Mr. Allison's motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed to the third reading, attracted a large attendance. The senate took up the consideration of the bill and Mr. Teller and Mr. George spoke in favor of its passage, the former criticising severely some statements made by Senator Sherman in his recent speech against the bill.

Before Mr. George had concluded his remarks the hour of 2 o'clock had arrived, and Mr. Harris insisted upon the vote being then taken on Mr. Allison's motion, with the result that it was defeated by 28 to 45. It is expected that the bill will pass by about the same vote at 2 o'clock today.

Mr. Manderson moved then to commit the bill to the finance committee, and this motion was also defeated, by a vote of 27 to 44.

The other portion of the agreement—that all further debate should be under the five-minute rule—was abrogated, and Mr. George concluded his speech in favor of the bill. He was followed by Mr. Carey, who opposed the bill.

A GRAVE CRISIS.

Parnellites Appeal to Friends For Consultation and Guidance.

LONDON, March 15. — The following manifesto, signed by John E. Redmond, Timothy Harrington and Joseph E. Kennedy, has been issued:

"Fellow countrymen: The solemn words of warning which we recently addressed to you have been justified more speedily than we anticipated. The premier's first official declaration proves the correctness of our judgment in cautioning you to place no blind confidence in him or his cabinet.

"The position of our country is rendered still more perilous by the slavish silence of the majority of the Irish representatives, and their action in parliament today in first voting closure of our criticism of the government policy, and then giving their votes directly in support of the Irish administration and its policy of eviction, house burning, prosecutions and jury packing.

"No crisis so grave has arisen in the history of Ireland since the death of our late chief. We feel it to be our first duty to appeal to you for consultation and guidance. With this in view, we shall summon a national convention to be held in Dublin, on April 3, to organize without delay. We draw no narrow distinction which would exclude men who recognize the national danger and are willing to share in an endeavor to avert it."

How Bay State Banks Stand.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Reports from national banks under the recent call have been received as follows: State of Massachusetts (exclusive of Boston), 213 banks; loans and discounts, $101,568,688; lawful money reserve in bank, $6,417,828, of which $2,967,464 was gold; individual deposits, $71,923,721; average reserve held, 29.86 per cent.

Philadelphia's Big Fire.

PHILADELPHIA, March 15.—The extensive warehouse of Haney & White, dealers in hardware supplies, sash and door blinds, in this city, was entirely destroyed by fire last night. The loss is estimated at about $100,000. The lumber yard of B. F. Taylor & Co. was damaged $5000. A stable was partially destroyed.

New Jersey Republicans Agree.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The counsel for the Republican senate at Trenton announced to the supreme court that they would agree to the propositions submitted by the court for the presentation of the case so that it could be properly considered, but they reserved the right to appeal from the court's jurisdiction.

Neal Dow's Birthday.

BOSTON, March 15.—The Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance union proposes to celebrate the 90th anniversary of the birth of General Neal Dow by a series of interesting meetings in King's chapel. Many prominent temperance advocates from all over the state will participate in the proceedings.

On the Quiet.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The senate committee on finance failed again to reach an agreement as to when the tariff bill should be reported to the senate. Objection was made to the publication of the proceedings of the committee and a resolution pledging the members to secrecy was adopted.

Arbitration Failed.

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 15.—The state board of arbitration has failed to effect a compromise in the Arlington mills difficulty. Agent Redford says the mill will not pay any higher wages at present. The entire mill has shut down, leaving over 3500 employes idle.

Sadly Afflicted.

Session Will Be Long.

OTTAWA, March 15.—Parliament opened today. The general impression is that the session will be long and arduous.

A TRUE FISH STORY.

It Is a Connecticut Product and Relates to a Lost Bracelet and an Eel.

Savilian Beebe of this place made a big haul with his eel spear a few days ago. Last July among the people who sojourned at Essex was a wealthy Cincinnati family. A young lady member of this family went out boat riding one evening, and during the trip she lost a valuable bracelet from her arm.

The bracelet was in the form of a gold chain that fastened with a hook. The young lady was very much distressed over the loss of the ornament, and she offered a reward of $20 for its recovery. Fishermen searched the river bottom for it in vain.

A few days ago Beebe, who usually makes about two eeling trips to the Connecticut river during the winter, hitched up his horse and drove down. The ice was rather thin on the old eeling ground, and Beebe was obliged to go about a mile up the river to Brockway's bend. Here the ice was soft, and Beebe began work. He worked all day like a beaver and succeeded in getting but one very small eel.

The next morning he decided to have fried eel for breakfast anyhow. He took the eel down from the nail on the side of the house, where he had hung it the night before. It was frozen as stiff as a marline spike, but he took it out into the woodshed, and in less than a minute he had its hide off.

He then ran his knife into the eel's throat and shoved it toward its tail. When about half way down, the point of the knife struck something that refused to be cut in two. He slashed into the eel's middle. To his astonishment, a long metal chain, as bright as if new, lay lengthwise of the stomach.

He showed the chain to his wife. Mrs. Beebe took the thing and examined it. On the heel of the clasp the name of the young woman who lost the bracelet last summer was engraved. The circumstances of the lost bracelet were known to the people of Salem, and after breakfast Savilian hitched up his horse and headed for Essex, where he delivered the bracelet to the people with whom the Cincinnati family boarded and received the $20 reward.—Salem (Conn.) Special.

PEACEABLE SNAKE INDIANS.

Young Chief Delivers an Eloquent Address Replete With Love For the Whites.

A delegation of Snake Indians visited the red men of the Umatilla reservation recently. When they started for home, Young Chief delivered the following eloquent farewell address to his visitors:

"We part tonight. Not as before, for once hate was between us. Now there is love. Once war; now peace. Once we swung the tomahawk and aimed the deadly rifle at each other's hearts. Now the pipe of peace we smoke to show that the past is passed and buried. In other ways it is different. There was a time when some of us lay in ambush against the whites. But we have all put aside the implements of war and cultivate the arts of peace. Our fathers swore eternal vengeance on the palefaces. This was because of the tradition handed us by them of an invasion of trappers and traders who valued not the Indian's life. They went to the sea and found their friends at Astoria by the great water and left some to mourn their Indian dead. But we live side by side with him now, and from the rising to the setting sun we know no foe for whom we would put on the warpaint and ride forth to return with scalps hanging at our belts. Our ponies no more carry us to bloody attack. We own the great father at Washington as our great chief. Him we obey. The past is forgotten. Major Jim, go to your people and say Young Chief sends them peace and good will."—Portland Oregonian.

MEDALS FOR BRAVERY.

King Oscar Sends Rewards to Two Gallant American Seamen.

F. K. Borden of 520 South Front street, formerly chief officer of the bark S. G. Bowart, was presented last week through the Swedish and Norwegian consul with the King Oscar medal of the second class for his gallantry in saving the crew of the Norwegian bark Anunda of Christiania, Captain W. J. Larsen. Seaman Patrick Mulvaney, who volunteered to row Mr. Borden off to the waterlogged wreck, received a medal of the third class from King Oscar.

The Bowart fell in with the Anunda off the coast in February, 1893. The latter was in a sinking condition, and although a heavy sea was running and it was hazardous to launch a boat even Mr. Borden volunteered to try to rescue the crew. Seaman Mulvaney offered to go with him, and the two managed to get alongside the derelict and took off Captain Larsen, his officers and crew. The shipwrecked men had given up all hopes when the Bowart hove in sight, and even then thought the sea too heavy for a rescue. The medals are of silver, with the head of King Oscar on one side, on the other the name with the motto "For humanity" in Norwegian.—Philadelphia Times.

Royal Flapdoodle.

The United States representative for the first time took his place in the highest rank this week at the royal social functions. Mr. Bayard stood last but one in the small group of embassadors that flanked the Prince of Wales at the queen's levee. The prince on formal occasions like this is no less strict than the queen herself in all matters of etiquette. He prescribes even the smallest details of dress. Americans who wear ordinary evening dress at levees were notified recently to wear white studs and plain white gloves instead of with black braid. His royal highness is quick to detect the slightest irregularity. He noticed some fault in the uniform of a British army officer presented on Monday and embarrassed the man beyond measure by remarking in a low tone when greeting him, "Nothing like that," indicating his meaning by a slight gesture.—Cor. New York Sun.

—The Russian thistle is becoming very troublesome in North Dakota, and a bill has been introduced in Congress appropriating $1,000,000 for its extermination. If Congress should pass this bill, why should they not appropriate a hundred thousand or so to exterminate the gypsy moth? Massachusetts has undertaken to do this work single handed, but the whole country is interested alike in completing it.

—It seems likely that wood pulp made from American spruce trees is likely to become one of the staple products of export from this country to Europe. Portland, Me., is the principal port for the shipment of this pulp, and several cargoes of it have recently been sent across the water.

MILITARY IN AUTHORITY.

Two Gatling Guns Are Trained Upon the City Hall at Denver.

POLICE ARE IN THE BUILDING

Re-Enforced by Hundreds of the Toughest Citizens.

Officials Removed by Governor Waite Refuse to Get Out—Danger of Carnage Becomes So Great That the National Guard Is Called Out and Takes Possession of the City—The Causes Leading Up to the Deplorable State of Affairs.

DENVER, March 16.—The National Guard of Colorado is under arms; the troops from Fort Logan have been called out, and although martial law has not been officially proclaimed there is no other authority in Denver but the strong arm of the military.

The situation has been brought about by the determination of Governor Waite to oust the two members of the fire and police board—Jackson Orr and D. J. Martin—whom he removed for protecting gambling houses, and placed in office their successors, S. D. Barnes and Dennis Mullins.

Orr and Martin, having obtained from the district court an injunction restraining Governor Waite from forcibly removing them, were determined to resist to the utmost. They accordingly kept the entire police force at the city hall yesterday under orders to resist if the soldiers attacked it.

In addition, several hundred of the toughest citizens, many of whom have records as mankillers, were sworn in as deputies by Sheriff Bushnell and placed in the city hall as a re-enforcement for the police department. Each deputy was armed with two six-shooters and instructed to use them in case of necessity. The police were armed with shotguns, in addition to their clubs and revolvers.

Arrival of the Military.

The First regiment and the Chaffee Light artillery arrived at the city hall at 3 o'clock, and General Brooks, commanding officer, delivered to Police Lieutenant Clay, in command outside of the city hall, a message to the effect that if the police commissioners did not vacate within half an hour the offices would be taken by force. Orr and Martin refused to surrender.

Before the half hour expired prominent citizens entered into negotiations with both parties of the controversy, with a view to reaching a settlement by arbitration, and while the negotiations were in progress a truce was declared. The streets around the city hall were packed with an angry mob, numbering many thousands.

On the government's representation that the state militia would probably be inadequate to cope with the mob that had full possession of the city, General McCook called out the United States infantry from Fort Logan to act in conjunction with the state and local authorities in clearing the streets and preserving the peace. The United States troops arrived about 8:30 p. m.

Gatling Guns Brought Out.

Adjutant General Tarsney, an old Indian fighter, has placed the militia in front of the city hall in Fourteenth street, with two gatling guns, covering the two big Napoleons, loaded with grape and solid shot, trained on the city hall, and four companies of militia in front and around them to stand the crowd off.

The excitement is intense, and is increased by the re-enforcement of the local state troops, numbering 220 men, by the Boulder and Fort Collins companies of the First regiment and the Second regiment companies from Colorado Springs and Pueblo.

Since 2 o'clock yesterday morning the city has been entirely without protection from the criminal classes. The causes leading up to this state of affairs are as follows:

How It Begun.

Governor Waite has been changing the personnel of the city fire and police board from time to time, ostensibly for cause, but it is claimed for political purposes purely. This mode of procedure began last June, when George H. Phelps was removed for illegal neglect of duty in failing to prosecute gamblers.

The appointment of S. W. Trimble in his stead was tested on an appeal to the supreme court, which decided that all appointments by the governor are made with power of suspension or removal at any time for cause, to be stated in writing, but not for political reasons. In the face of this decision, Judge Graham of the district court enjoined the recently appointed members of the fire and police board from taking their seats, although they had been sworn in.

This action the governor regarded as an infringement upon his prerogatives, and he accordingly ignored the injunction. He expresses a willingness to leave the whole controversy to the supreme court to decide, but the removed commissioners, who wish to delay a final decision as long as possible, refuse to consent to such an arrangement.

Governor Is Worried.

Governor Waite refused to make any statement, further than that he had withdrawn his troops for the night. What his next step will be he would not say. His pale face told more than words of the strain through which he had passed. He has received a dozen or more letters threatening his life, and there is considerable public feeling against him.

Governor Waite has issued the following proclamation: All companies of the National Guard of Colorado are hereby notified to be in readiness at the inspection armory to respond to call to come to Denver, which will be issued on Friday of this week.

TROUBLE IS BREWING.

The Tripartite Arrangement Is Distasteful to Samoans.

APIA, Samoa, Feb. 28.—A new crisis seems approaching in Samoan affairs. A few weeks ago, it was thought here that trouble among the natives was at an end. Chief Justice Ide had persuaded the leaders of the would-be rebels of Anna to submit themselves and their alleged causes of complaint against the government for his decision. This they did and the leaders were duly punished.

No sooner was the trouble with the Anna natives apparently arranged, however, than those at the east and most populous part of Upolu a Tua declared the intention of resisting the "white men's government." The chief justice and president have been occupied the last four weeks in unsuccessful endeavors to arrange this latter difficulty.

It is thought that the natives will adopt a course of passive resistance to the government by refusing to pay taxes or otherwise conform to its decrees, trusting that the government will not be powerful enough to enforce its orders. That the present rebels are in earnest seems clear from the fact that they have occupied and are fortifying Lua Tuanun, which is almost impregnable, and which Tamases' followers held for a long time against all attacks.

The present situation is a critical one. With an empty treasury and the greater part of the natives thoroughly disgusted with the system of tri-partite control and the method of administering it, there seems but little hope for the immediate future of Samoa. English and German warships are reported to be on their way to Samoa.

HOPE FOR ANNEXATION

Still Maintained by the Provisional Government of Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—The steamer Mariposa, from Honolulu, brought the following:

HONOLULU, March 8.—A rumor was afloat Sunday night that martial law was to be declared on Monday, but as yet nothing has come of it. It is known that some fears were felt by the government that if news of a nature unfavorable to the ex-queen's case should arrive the Royalists would make a last desperate attempt to restore Liliuokalani. For this reason the plan of declaring martial law was proposed, and the government was ready to take steps to prevent trouble. A prominent government official admitted as much, and also that it was at the last moment that the idea was abandoned.

News of the United States senate committee was received with great demonstrations of joy by the Annexationist party. They claim that it is a precursor of annexation and the more sanguine proclaim that this will be attained during the Cleveland administration. The news seems to affect Royalists more seriously than any that has been received. The Bulletin, the ex-queen's organ, is bitterly severe upon the action. News condemnatory of Stevens' action was confidently expected, and the report was a great disappointment.

NO DAMAGE DONE.

Strikers Explode a Bomb For an Unpopular Foreman's Benefit.

PATERSON, N. J., March 16.—The Paterson strikers had recourse to dynamite. The people of the city were awakened last night by the explosion of a bomb in front of the residence of John Bates, foreman in the vamping department of Bamford Bros.' mills.

The men in Bamford Bros. are on strike. It was at this mill the trouble first occurred, and its employes have figured prominently in the subsequent agitations. Bates, the foreman, is very unpopular with the men, and has received frequent warnings since the strike commenced.

The bomb was a small one, presumably, as no damage was done, and Bates himself regards it merely in the nature of a warning, than an attempt upon his life. It had been placed in the middle of the street and did no more damage than to cause the buildings in the neighborhood to tremble. The police have no clew to the perpetrator.

Practically Completed.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The consideration of the sundry civil bill is completed, except those portions passed over during the reading of the bill. Only three subjects now remain, the appropriations for the Missouri river, for the United States courts and the proposed change in the method of auditing the accounts of national soldiers' homes.

A Bad Chinaman.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Ching Ming See, treasurer of the company of Chinese merchants in Chicago that owned and operated the Chinese theater building on the World's fair grounds, is locked up here, charged with embezzling nearly $60,000 of the company's funds. The alleged embezzler was brought back from China.

Troy's Tragedy.

TROY, N. Y., March 16.—The second day of the Ross inquest elicited more testimony as to the result of the autopsy on the body of Robert Ross. A brother of the murdered man told how his brother was struck in the face by Bat Shea, who later drew a revolver and fired at his brother, who fell to the ground.

Gullible Down Easters.

PORTLAND, Me., March 16.—A young man from Nova Scotia was buncoed out of $75 here yesterday. He let a stranger have $75, holding as security a worthless check for $300. As the Boston boat left that city for Portland Wednesday night two Cape Elizabeth fellows were buncoed out of over $100.

A Suspicious Death.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 16.—The suspicion of the authorities has been aroused over the death of Mrs. D. H. Miller, the wife of a Baptist minister. She was the preacher's third wife. The funeral of Mrs. Miller has been delayed by order of the coroner, who is investigating.

AMERICA AND HAWAII

Senator Lodge Thinks That They Should Be Joined.

HE REVIEWS THE TARIFF BILL

And Claims That Democrats Want to Punish Hawaiians.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—In an interview Senator Lodge says: "It seems to me very extraordinary that so little attention has been paid by the newspapers to the Hawaiian clauses in the senate edition of the Wilson bill. By those clauses the reciprocity treaty is abrogated. This puts a duty back on sugar and rice, the principal products of Hawaii, which have been built up by free admission to our market of these great industries, of much benefit, both to us and the islands. By abrogating the treaty we destroy those industries.

"Without any encouragement by treaty from us, the people of Hawaii have also developed a large industry and profitable trade in raising bananas and pineapples, which have both always hitherto been on the free list. The senate amendments put a heavy duty on bananas and pineapples, thus breaking down, so far as is possible, these other two industries.

Pearl River Harbor.

"But this is not all. When we extended the Hawaiian treaty the clauses which gave us the Pearl river harbor for naval and military purposes were added. At the time of this extension of the treaty Mr. Carter, the Hawaiian minister, made the point to Mr. Bayard in a note, if I am not mistaken, that the Pearl river clauses were coterminous with the rest of the treaty. To this Mr. Bayard assented, and an extended treaty with these new clauses was ratified with that understanding.

"Therefore the senate amendment abrogating the treaty not only abrogates the reciprocity with the islands, but destroys the Pearl river clauses, and also the clauses that provide that during the continuance of the treaty no grants of any harbor shall be made to any other power, nor any reciprocity agreement entered into with any country but the United States.

"The purpose of the Hawaiian amendment to the Wilson bill is apparently to punish the people of the Hawaiian Islands for having desired to become a part of the United States. That is, the senate tariff proposes, so far as possible, to ruin the material prosperity of these islands, which ought to be, and will one day become, part of the United States.

Where England Comes In.

"There is a still worse side to this plan of revenge upon the people of Hawaii. The abrogation of the treaty will not merely deprive us of valuable privileges, but will force the islands into the arms of England. Quite recently the Canadian minister of commerce, on his way home from a cable convention in Australia, stopped at Honolulu. He then told the Hawaiian government that if we abrogated our reciprocity treaty with them, Canada would be glad to renew it.

"The Canadian market is, of course, far from being so valuable as ours, and the people of Hawaii have no desire to connect themselves with Canada. But if we strike down their prosperity by abrogating our treaty for mere self-preservation, they will do the next best thing and come to an agreement with Canada.

"Canada, of course, means England, and thus by means of the extraordinary amendments to the Wilson bill we are throwing away the islands and driving them into the arms of England. This is something which I don't believe the American people would tolerate and which might lead to serious complications."

Irving Day.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 16.—Henry Irving addressed the Harvard students yesterday afternoon. He confined his remarks to "Individualism," urging every young man to develop his own powers rather than copy famous models. Last night at the Tremont theater, Boston, was Harvard night. The whole house was occupied by Harvard undergraduates and their friends. Everybody wore crimson roses or ribbons in their buttonholes. After the performance Mr. Irving was presented with a gold medal as a souvenir of the regard felt for him among the Harvard students.

Gossips Select a Bride.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Those people who persist in marrying off the young people of the Gould family are at work again. This time it is Howard Gould whom the gossips have selected as the one to enter the wedded state. Miss Odette Tyler, a well-known actress of the Frohman forces, is the reputed bride-to-be. Howard will be remembered in connection with a check which one Zella Nicolaus recently had considerable to say about.

An Unmerciful Wretch.

PROVIDENCE, March 16.—The police are looking for John Prior, charged with brutally beating his 4-months-old child. Prior came home intoxicated. When the baby girl cried he choked her until the blood ran from her mouth, and beat the infant until its body was one mass of bruises, and both eyes were blackened. The infant at last sank into insensibility, and cannot recover. Prior is thought to be in Boston.

New York Wants Its Money Back.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Comptroller Fitch of New York city is arranging for the introduction of a bill reimbursing New York for the $1,000,000 it spent at the breaking out of the war, to hurry troops here for the protection of the Capitol. Mr. Fitch says that New York asks for no more than has been already accorded other cities under similar circumstances.

Girls Born Outside of Quincy Cannot Attend the Woodward Institute.

The section referred to reads as follows: "Whenever the income from the foregoing bequests shall be sufficient in the opinion of the managers of said fund, or at least within twenty-five years after my decease, they shall establish and continue for the town of Quincy forever a female institute, for the education of females, from the age of ten to twenty years, who are native born,—born, I wish to be understood, in the town of Quincy, and none other than these, to be allowed to attend this institute, which I wish to be as perfect and well constructed as any other in the state."

An instructor in mathematics will be appointed in a few days.

The day on which the public will be invited to inspect the building will shortly be announced.

HOSE LOT WARD 4.

A Public Hearing Given at City Hall Last Night

BY THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Arguments For and Against Each of the Sites Suggested.

The Committee on Finance gave a hearing Thursday evening, at City Hall, on the location of the new Hose house in Ward Four.

Councilman Shackley was the first speaker and he favored the Donnelly lot. He had figured that there was about 15,000 square feet of land. At 30 cents per foot and $500 for the building would make the cost $5,000.

The city if it widened Hall place would have to take enough to come to $1,000, and the building could be sold for $500 which would bring the price down to $3500.

The lot was the best location as several streets met there and the other lots mentioned were all too low.

John D. Sullivan favored the school house lot. He was a citizen and taxpayer and did not believe in paying $5000 for a lot when the city owned land. Besides the $5000 we lose the taxes on it. The boys at the Willard school did not go into the triangle to play.

Mr. Shackley asked if land was filled would the boys not go there. He had some glass to set which the boys had broken playing ball.

Mr. Sullivan, replying, said of the glass that was broken, the one on the north west side was by a ball but that on the east side, by a stone.

Ex-Councilman Donahoe was opposed to the school lot. He had yet to find anyone who found fault with the Donelly lot except as regards economy. A hose house would obstruct what beauty there was to the building. If a slight improvement was made on the east side it was the place for the children to play.

Ex-Councilman Fallon thought with the new parks there was plenty of place for the boys to play ball. You can find wet places on the top of Wollaston hill. He had taken a level of the school lot from the drain on Miller street which ran through the school yard and found the bottom of the drain was 6 feet below the lot and by running the drain through that part the lot could be made dry. It was the most central location and at the junction of several streets. Copeland street near the Donnelly lot was narrow and it was almost impossible for two teams to pass. He had heard the lot could have been bought recently for $3500. Twenty cents a foot was a fair price for the land.

Mr. Shackley said Mr. Gill had informed him that the lot was never offered for $3,500.

John Cashman favored the Donnelly lot. It was on high ground and better fitted for it. If you have the Willard lot you will have to set your building up 6 or 8 feet and you can not back into it.

Councilman Lamb said the drain was filled up as there was not fall enough to it.

Mr. Fallon replied that the culverts were open and that dirt and sticks went into the pipe which stopped it up.

Ex-Chief Engineer

Ripley was invited to give his opinion and said if he had not thought the Willard lot a good one he should not have recommended it. He did not see why so much filling was necessary. The ground was 4 feet higher than Miller street and the cellar could be raised 4 feet more. It was not entirely necessary to have the heating apparatus in the cellar. If located on the Donnelly lot, there were but three boxes on the northwest the apparatus respond to and ten going the other way, as that piece of apparatus responds to nearly all the boxes in Ward Three, or did when he was in charge and if anything the apparatus should be located nearer Common street. If at the Donnelly lot there would be more danger to the school children, taking it at its worst time when the school was let out, for if that box was toward the centre the apparatus would meet the children going toward the depot and also overtake those going the other way, while if located on the Willard lot it would only pass through one part of them. In Boston in some places there was a school house near the engine houses and no child was ever injured.

Councilman Shackley thought it hard to move the apparatus out of the district when it had been there for 50 years and said they had better move it down to the centre.

This concluded the hearing, and as the matter looks now it is hard telling where the new house will be located.

☞ We are down on high prices because we know high prices ruin our business. Customers who want furniture hate them worse than they hate the measles and won't come where they are. The proper way therefor is to trade with C. W. Guy, who sells furniture cheaper than dirt.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Hints of "Log Rolling" In Connection With the Woman Suffrage Bill.

BOSTON, March 16.—It is not reassuring to those who believe that the sea of politics will become purified by extending the elective franchise to women that the passage of the municipal suffrage bill in the house should be due, as alleged, to log-rolling processes.

It is asserted that votes were given to the measure by representatives who in return expect to receive assistance in securing normal schools in their districts.

Inasmuch as nearly every part of the state is seeking one of these institutions, it follows that this should be a very fruitful field for trade making. There will be one attempt to defeat this bill on the engrossing stage, but there is not much reason to believe it will succeed. In the senate, however, the result may be different.

The Fast day bill has been engrossed, but another attempt is making to defeat it on the enactment stage by Mr. Hayes, who raises these points of order:

1. The bill is unconstitutional because it is in conflict with article 2 of the bill of rights of the constitution of Massachusetts, prohibiting the legislature from interfering with the religious observances of the citizens of the commonwealth.

2. It is further unconstitutional because it seeks to abridge the governor's prerogative by depriving him of the power to create a Fast day.

3. The bill is out of order because there is no day set apart by legislation as a day of fasting, and hence the legislature cannot abolish any such day.

Mr. Hayes desired to have his points referred to the committee on constitutional amendments in order to secure an opinion from the supreme court. The speaker repeated that it was not in his province to rule upon constitutional points. Then Mr. Hayes moved to strike out the enacting clause. Lost, 56 to 138. The bill was then passed to be enacted. Mr. Hayes gave notice of a motion to reconsider.

The committee on the state house had a very long meeting. There are two reports current as to what was done at the meeting. One is that the committee stood 7 to 4 in favor of tearing down the state house and the other is that the vote was 6 to 5. There will be another meeting.

The committee on liquor law has ruled 6 to 5 against striking out the license limitation clause in the liquor law and making the minimum fee for first class.

Death of Ricardo Trumbull.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Mail advices from Chili report the death in Talcahuano of Ricardo L. Trumbull. He was 34 years old and was considered one of the brightest politicians in Chili. Mr. Trumbull was an active spirit in the party which established a provisional government in Iquique. He was sent to this country in 1891 for the purpose of purchasing arms and ammunition, and fitted out with arms and ammunition the Itata, which the United States seized for breach of our neutrality laws.

Leigh Will Support Her.

LONDON, March 16.—In the case of Sir Henry B. Meredyth, in which the latter charged his wife with committing adultery with a rich American, Richard C. Leigh, Chief Justice June granted a decree nisi with costs. The petitioner first claimed 10,000 pounds damages, with the object of securing proper provision for his wife, but having learned that Leigh had made proper provision for the support of Mrs. Meredyth, Sir Henry withdrew his claim for damages.

The Breckinridge-Pollard Scandal.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—In the Pollard-Breckinridge trial yesterday the most significant point in the testimony was that Miss Pollard had been a schoolgirl in short dresses when her intimacy with the congressman began. It seemed that Miss Pollard's most intimate friends had never suspected the double life she was leading, and that she had passed as an intelligent and high-minded girl.

Terribly Burned.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 16.—The torpedo station launch Wave blew out one of her port boiler tubes, and the escaping steam scalded three men. J. J. McCool was the least burned of the three. Maurice Harney and a man named Robinson were badly burned on the body, legs and arms, the skin hanging from their hands and arms like dried rags.

Snap For High Officials.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—A general order issued by the secretary of the navy consolidates the naval training station, naval war college and torpedo school on Coaster's island and the naval torpedo station on Government island, Newport harbor. The consolidation will eventually become a choice assignment for officers of high rank.

A Slight Increase.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 16.—The strike of freight handlers of the Norwich line has been adjusted satisfactorily. The new arrangement practically makes an increase of 15 cents a night in wages.

A NEW DISEASE.

People who are wearing away because they cannot digest their food.

They eat heartily but their food does them no good.

If you speak to your acquaintances you will too often find someone who says to you: "my food does me no good. I have a good, even a voracious appetite. I eat plenty and enjoy what I eat, but I'm as thin as a rail. My stomach pains me after meals. I get no flesh or strength from what I eat."

This is not exactly a new disease. It is new because doctors are beginning to give it attention. They are recognizing that at the door of this disease may be laid the blame for most of the dangerous sicknesses which decimate the human race.

Consumption, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Scrofula; all these and many other diseases could be prevented or cured if a food could be found that would "do good."

Doctors have recognized that in Paskola they have such a food. Made according to scientific principles, of the purest starch foods (the strengthening, fattening foods) pre-digested, it is perhaps the only food which will "do good" to the most delicate stomach and to the sickest dyspeptic.

Paskola is not a medicine. It is an aid to medicine. It often does away with the need for medicine.

The New Safety Trolley.

A safety trolley is now on exhibition in New York city, by which it is claimed further danger from falling trolley wires will be obviated, and much of the wear and tear to which the wires are at present subjected will also be done away with. The invention consists of a number of brackets, one of which is fastened on the supports of the main trolley wire. The brackets are fastened together by a clamp. When a wire falls or even sags, the clamp opens and the current stops. At the same time the system can be operated so that there will be no blockades. The road is only affected between the two supports where the break occurs. The cars can be run up to the break, shifted across the intervening space of about one hundred feet, and continue trips. This can all be done while workmen are repairing the break. At no time will there be any danger from the fallen wire. When the wire drops the current is immediately cut off. No matter how powerful the current, the result is always the same. Besides this, the speed of the trolley car is regulated. It can be stopped instantaneously and prevent collisions and other mishaps. Four of the brackets are placed together in grade crossings, two on each line desired to be crossed. By this means the rival companies may secure independent currents.

THE DAILY LEDGER.

THE TRAINED SEALS.

CAPTAIN WESTON TELLS ABOUT HIS THREE PERFORMERS.

How He and a Famous German Fisherman Captured Bobby, Bibby and Tommy. Some of Their Tricks—They Live Upon Salt Water Fish.

Of all the different animals that go to make up the animal kingdom a fish is perhaps the strangest that should be chosen for training, yet the acts done by the three seals under Captain Weston's guidance show that even a fish can do wonderful things. Those now performing every day are the oldest seals in captivity. Seals are extremely delicate, and they rarely live away from their native sea and rocks for more than a year, and yet these seals, Bobby, Bibby and Tommy, have been performing regularly for six years. Their longevity is undoubtedly due to the fact that they receive great care.

The exact spot of the birthplace of these seals is not known, but when they were youngsters they were found on one of the islands off Coxshaven in Germany. The German government does all it can to protect its fisheries, and as seals are a constant menace to fish the government pays a reward of 5 marks for the capture of each seal. There is a famous seal fisherman in Germany named Worthman, and when Captain Weston, who had been on many sealing and whaling expeditions in the North sea, determined that he would give up the life of a sailor and become a landlubber it occurred to him that the training of seals would be novel and profitable. He went to Worthman, and together they captured the three sleek little fellows. There are many islands outside of Coxshaven, and one of the smallest was chosen. In describing the capture Captain Weston said:

We stretched the net on one side of one of the smaller islands and then went to the others and shot off pistols and made a noise, driving many seals into the water and against the net. We had to work very quickly, because the seals dived down and became entangled in the net, and a seal will drown if kept five minutes under water. When we finally pulled them up, we found that we had about 20 seals, but when they found themselves altogether they became enraged and fought among themselves, biting, scratching and tearing, even killing one another, until there were only three left, and these three are the same three I have today.

One has only a faint idea of the amount of patience which it requires to teach a fish, for such a seal really is. It looks easy to see one of my seals play the banjo or a harp, but it took me three months of hard work every day to teach them to do this even in an imperfect manner, and the only reason that I can give is that they have been at it long enough to learn.

I have never before known a seal to live in captivity over one year, and yet I have had mine many times that. I am often surprised at their intelligence. Especially is this true of Bobby, the clown. I believe that that fish understands humor, because he does things at times which actually make me laugh, to say nothing about the audience. He is the best seal I ever had, the best I ever will have, and I think that he has an affection for me, and that he knows almost everything that I say to him.

Yes, the care of seals is a great one. I keep them in a tank, and above the water is a shelf for them to lie on when they feel so inclined. This water is changed three times a day, and 20 pounds of salt are put into the water at each change, for a seal cannot live in fresh water, you know. They are as plump and fat today as they were lying on their native rocks in the North sea, and they know a great deal more about the world than they otherwise would have known. It may surprise some people, but it is nevertheless a fact, that these three seals eat 500 pounds of fish a week. They will only eat seafish, such as herring or flounder, and I attribute their long life to the fact that I am very careful with their food. The fish are washed and cleaned and the heads cut off just as carefully and just as cleanly as though going on a hotel table. The seal does not chew a fish, but swallows it whole, and it would surprise you to see how a great mass of fish will disappear when three seals get at it. All the accomplishments of these seals are not shown. They have been taught water tricks. I can throw a 10 cent piece into a tank of water, and, small as the piece is and flat as it lies on the bottom, at a word of command any one of my seals will dive for it and get it. This I do not show in public, because the tank is an unwieldy thing to keep about.

Have they ever bitten me? Yes, several times, and the seal's bite is a nasty one. The last time was when I placed the tambourine in front of Bibby. Without warning he grabbed me by the arm, and I certainly thought he would take a big piece out of it before I could make him let go, and I was obliged to strike him very severely before I could get him to let loose. My seals to me are great pets, and I think as much of them as I would of a child, for their great, big, intelligent eyes look up into mine with an expression which tells me if they only knew how they would certainly talk to me.—New York Tribune.

Aluminium Instruments.

A physician who got rid of some of his steel instruments and bought others made of aluminium says that he is sorry that he changed. The aluminium probes, sounds, tongue depressers and that sort of thing do not oxidize, to be sure, but he finds that they are deficient in elasticity and stay bent after pressure. He declares, however, that he likes to feel as if he had a hold on something when he uses an instrument, and aluminium is so light that it makes him feel as if he could put no trust in it.—Exchange.

A NOVEL RACING MATCH.

Tobogganing Down a Run on Rocking Horses to Decide a Wager.

There is no knowing what an Englishman will not do to decide a bet. Men have jumped across dining tables, mounted upon untractable steeds—yea, and even kissed their own mothers-in-law—in order to settle a wager. In fine, it ought to be an established maxim among us by this time that, given a certain number of impossibilities and an equal number of young Englishmen, those impossibilities will not long remain such, provided they be made the subjects of bets.

One of those incidents which go a long way toward justifying the reputation which as a nation of madmen we have earned among foreigners occurred at St. Moritz when, "in order to settle a bet," Lord William Manners and the Hon. H. Gibson agreed to go down the village "run" mounted on rocking horses in place of ordinary toboggans. A feature of the race was that both competitors were "attired in full hunting kit," and as elaborate preparations had been made for the contest and rumor of the affair had been industriously noised abroad the crowd which had assembled to witness it was both large and distinguished.

The start was fixed for 12 o'clock, and shortly before that hour the shouts of the spectators announced that the horses were off. Unlike the custom in toboggan races, both started at the same time. In the first course Lord William Manners led as far as a certain angle of the "run" called Casper's Corners, from the fact that a hotel of that name is situated close by, but "taking it rather high Mr. Gibson passed cleverly on the inside, which he maintained to the finish," Lord William being summarily dismissed from his fractious steed's back some distance to the bad from the winning post.

In the second course Lord William Manners again had the advantage as far as Casper's Corners, where Mr. Gibson again tried to pass him on the inside, but being jockeyed by his opponent his horse swung round and proceeded down the run tail foremost, but leading. The merriment of the spectators at this stage of the proceedings may be more easily imagined than described, nor did it abate in the least when Mr. Gibson, dismounting, seized it unceremoniously by the nose and turned it into the way it should go.

Meanwhile Lord William Manners had suffered disappointment a second time, for in attempting to "take"—to use a true hunting term—a particularly awkward part of the "run" called Belvedere Corner his horse refused to respond to its rider's exertions to get it successfully over the obstacle, and horse and jockey came down to the ground in one tumultuous somersault together.

Lord William's discomfiture proved to be Mr. Gibson's opportunity. The time and ground that the former had lost by his involuntary flight through the air were never recovered. Mr. Gibson, with the position of his horse reversed and his legs thrust scientifically in front of him, rode easily and triumphantly forward and eventually reached the winning post some seconds in advance of his opponent.—Alpine Post.

His "Love" Text.

The story is related of a bishop who came to one of our state prisons and was told: "No need of you here, sir. We have eight preachers safely locked up who are brought out each Sabbath to minister to their fellow prisoners." If this appear a doubtful tale, it can be varied with the following about a young lady Sunday school teacher who has a class of rather bright boys averaging between 7 and 9 years.

Recently she requested each pupil to come on the following Sunday with some passage of Scripture bearing upon love. The lads heeded the request and in turn recited their verses bearing upon that popular subject, such as "Love your enemies," "Little children, love one another," etc. The teacher said to the boy whose turn came last, 'Well, Robbie, what is your verse?" Raising himself up he responded: "Song of Solomon, second chapter, fifth verse, 'Stay me with flagons, comfort me with apples, for I am sick of love.'"—Exchange.

Color and Warmth.

The color of materials has some influence on the warmth of the clothing. Black and blue absorb heat freely from without, but white and light shades of yellow, etc., are far less absorbent. This difference can be demonstrated by experiment. The same material, when dyed with different colors, will absorb different amounts of heat. In hot countries white coverings are universally worn, and sailors and others wear white clothing in hot weather.

With regard, however, to heat given off from the body the color of the materials used as clothing makes little if any difference. Red flannel is popularly supposed to be warm, though it is no better in this respect than similar materials of equal substance, but white or gray in color. Dark clothing is best for cold weather, because it more freely absorbs any heat that is obtainable.—Fortnightly Review.

Must Pass In Hard Tack.

In examining men desirous of joining the royal marines recruiting officers are directed to pay special attention to the condition of the teeth of a candidate. Seven defective teeth, or even less if they impair the biting or grinding capacity, will render a candidate ineligible, and the examining medical officer is directed to take into special consideration the probability of the teeth lasting.—London Court Journal.

Overdone.

A correspondent writes to a medical review to claim that most of man's diseases are due to the clothing he wears. There may be something in that. The ballet girls never die.—Chicago Dispatch.

ATLANTIC'S NEW CHURCH.

Contract Awarded for the New Methodist Church in Ward Six.

The contract for building the new Methodist church at Atlantic has been awarded to Mr. Geo. A. Brown and the work upon the same will begin at once. It is expected to have the corner stone laid about the first of April, when a full description of the church will be furnished. The bids for the building of the church, exclusive of the pews, etc., were as follows:

Whittaker & Gerish,	$6,600
F. S. Boynden,	6,100
Mr. Bolen,	5,980
W. J. Hatch,	5,750
Bowler & Alger,	5,350
Thos. Kingston,	4,840
Geo. A. Brown,	8,766

As it was estimated that the cost of the building would be in the neighborhood of five thousand dollars, the unexpected low bid of Mr. Brown was a surprise, but Mr. Brown is a prominent builder and real estate owner in Atlantic, who has had experience in building churches, and declares he is safe at those figures. He also offers good and satisfactory bonds that the church will be completed as agreement calls for.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

A COMMON QUESTION.

WHERE MAY WOMEN GO FOR HELP?

How Many American Women Have Asked This Question of Themselves.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

You may call it dangerous modesty if you will. It is in woman's heart, and is part of woman's nature.

She shrinks from telling her physical troubles to men.

During the past 20 years thousands of women throughout the world have written in womanly confidence to Lydia E. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and laid bare the life of misery they endured.

They wrote freely, knowing that their letters went direct to the hands of a woman who not alone understood their sufferings but whose heart was full of sympathy with them. The experience of thousands has proved how carefully their letters were studied, and how true and sure came the answer and helpfulness.

You may be suffering daily when you need not. You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only a woman can give.

A young lady from Boston writes to a friend, saying:—"They said I was consumptive, sent me away, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, no tennis. Just think of it!

One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Lydia E. Pinkham. In it I found out what ailed me, so I wrote to her; got a lovely reply. She told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health now."

The same assistance is waiting for you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved more female suffering than any other medicine in the world.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

What Was His Creed?

His charity was like the snow—
Soft, white and silent in its fall—
Not like the noisy winds that blow
From shivering trees the leaves—a pall
For flower and weed
Drooping below.
"What was his creed?"
The poor may know.

He had faith in loaves of bread
For hungry people, young and old;
Hope he inspired; kind words he said
To those he sheltered from the cold.
For we should feed
As well as pray.
"What was his creed?"
I cannot say.

In words he did not put his trust;
His faith in words he never writ;
He loved to share his cup and crust
With all mankind who needed it.
In time of need
A friend was he.
"What was his creed?"
He told not me.

He put his trust in heaven, and he Worked well with hand and head,
And work he gave to charity
Sweetened his sleep and daily bread.
Let us take heed,
For life is brief.
"What was his creed?
What his relief?"

An Original Idea.

"Goats is human," said Mrs. Terence Duffy to her friend, Mrs. Bridget Gorman, last Tuesday. "An I'll tell yez phwhat makes me think so. Do yez moind that wee bit of a shkatin pond I had forninst me door doorin the late cold shnap? Phwell, imagine my surproise upon openin me front door wan mor-r-nin an seein wan o' me goats makin a pair o' skates iv his hor-r-ns an bein pushed along as aisy as yez plaise by MacQuiggan's baste from a post the way. Oh, the sinse av it!"—Life.

Oratory.

"The most eloquent speakers are not the most powerful," s Hon. John Fithian of Illinois. "There are men who could hold an audience spellbound with a speech about a cockroach and at the close of it the people would not know whether the cockroach was an animal, a bird or a piece of machinery. I saw an illustration of this one time in a political meeting. One of the most eloquent speakers in the country is Emerson Etheridge, and I heard him deliver a speech that swayed the hearers like music at the hands of a master. There was nothing that he could not do with the crowd while they were under his control. His opponent had a voice like a big bass viol, halted and stammered, but confined himself to homely language and rather coarse ridicule. I watched the vote in that precinct, and the measure advocated by the eloquent speaker scarcely received a vote, while the other man had carried everything before him as if by storm."

Wanted to Resign.

LONDON, March 16.—The Daily News says: At Wednesday's council a section of the ministers wanted to resign. After a great deal of persuasion they were induced to remain, on the understanding that the government would either resign or dissolve it if it should suffer another defeat.

HARTFORD, March 16.—The Fox will case, involving the division of $200,000 left by Frederick K. Fox of Boston, was ended last evening by the discharge of the jury, which disagreed. The will left nearly all the estate to charitable institutions.

THIRTEEN TO SPARE.

The Bland Seigniorage Bill Is Passed by the Senate.

IT MAY NEVER BECOME A LAW.

The President's Approval Not Likely to Be Given.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The last day of the debate on the Bland seigniorage bill attracted a large crowd to the senate and the galleries were well filled. The first part of the day was taken up by the speeches of Senators Carey, Palmer, Dubois, Mitchell of Oregon and Pettigrew.

At 2 o'clock Senator Harris asked that the bill be put upon its final passage in accordance with the agreement arrived at several days ago. The yeas and nays being demanded, the bill was passed by a vote of 44 to 31.

The passage of the bill was greeted by applause from the galleries, which drew forth a reprimand from the presiding officer (Mr. Vilas).

The senate then took up and passed with minor amendments the joint resolution providing for the adjustment of certain claims of the United States against the state of Tennessee and counter claims of the state of Tennessee against the United States.

Strong Opposition.

The president and Secretary Carlisle were in hopes that the Democratic senators who profess to be friendly to the administration would allow the seigniorage bill to be committed to the finance committee in order that it might be amended.

The bill, in the judgment of Secretary Carlisle, is badly constructed and in some respects meaningless. The first section, the secretary says, requires him to coin the bullion in the treasury. It does not say what kind of coin. He could, under its provisions, coin the whole amount in the treasury in 10 or 25 cent pieces. The friends of the measure, however, he says, are determined to pass it, let the consequences be what they may.

What course the president will pursue when the bill reaches him the secretary is not at liberty to say. The inference is very clear, from what has leaked out here and there, that the president will never sign the bill. He may, as in the case of a similar piece of legislation, during his former administration, allow it to become law.

The approval of legislation of this character at this time would, in the judgment of many leading financiers, be very injurious to the credit of the government. If the president should finally determine to interpose a veto it would be mainly on this ground.

MORE FIGHTING

Reported In Southern Districts of Brazil---Cowardly Action of Da Gama.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 16.—Vessels have left for the south with re-enforcements of troops. Fighting is reported there, and it is thought that it may last for months.

The government vessel Itaipu yesterday captured the rebel tug Santa Lumia. The vessels were in the open sea when the capture was made.

All sorts of rumors are in circulation. One of them is that the Aquidaban, one of the vessels seized by Admiral de Mello when he sought to set up a government on his own account, has been found abandoned in a southern waters.

Mr. Anderson, the local agent of the Royal Mail Steamship company, refused Admiral da Gama passage to Europe on any ship of his line. Admiral da Gama, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the day when his fleet surrendered, boarded the French cruiser Magon with a few of his principal officers, abandoning his men. Others of his officers sought refuge on the British and Portuguese warships in the harbor.

The Americans who helped man the government warships were paid off yesterday. They will leave the city on the first ship sailing from this port for New York.

Government Is Satisfied.

FREDERICTON, N. B., March 16.—The legislature of New Brunswick opened yesterday. In the governor's speech these words were used: "Notwithstanding the discouraging condition of the lumber business, and uncertainties respecting the future policy of the United States as to free admission of lumber, the most sanguine expectations of my government have been more than realized."

Democrat May Get It.

PORTLAND, Me., March 16.—It is rumored that Governor Cleaves will appoint some Democrat to succeed the late Judge Libby on the supreme bench, as he was a Democrat. If a Republican be appointed, it will probably be Judge Henry Peabody.

England's Navy.

LONDON, March 16.—The statement of naval estimates for 1894-95 shows that the personnel of the navy will be increased by 6700 men. Seven new first-class warships, six cruisers and two sloops of war will be commenced at once.

Three Thousand Surrendered.

BUENOS AYRES, March 16. — Advices from Sao Paulo are to the effect that the insurgents under General Saraiva have captured the fortress at Itavarea. The garrison, numbering 3000 men, has surrendered.

Fifty More Must Go.

NEW HAVEN, March 16.—The Consolidated road will discharge about 50 trainmen on Saturday. This will make about 150 employes who have been discharged to cut down the running expenses of the road.

Strike Is Off.

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 16.—It was impossible for the Arlington mills to start all its departments today, but work will be resumed in all departments on Monday. The strike is settled.

Charged With Forgery.

PORTLAND, Me., March 16.—A man named Jack Meyers was arrested here last night for passing a forged order. It is thought he has beaten a large jewelry house out of several hundred dollars.

Wealthy but Unhappy.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—Joseph Wilkins, a wealthy feed dealer of this city, was found dead in bed in his home, suffocated by gas. He had suicided. Poor business was probably the cause.

BROWN RENOMINATED.

Other Business Transacted by Republicans of Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, March 16.—The Republican state convention was called to order by Hunter C. White, chairman of the state central committee, who presented Charles W. Lippitt as temporary chairman. Eugene F. Warner, secretary of the state central committee, was made temporary secretary. The call of the roll of the delegates showed the presence of a large body of representative Republicans of the state.

When the roll was made up, the temporary organization was made permanent and Chairman Lippitt made a lengthy speech upon the principles of the Republican party as compared with those of the Democratic.

The convention then proceeded to the nomination of state officers. Professor Williams renominated D. Russell Brown for governor in a lengthy speech eulogizing him and the position he had maintained in the controversy which had existed during the past year and denouncing the Democrats for their stand in the matter. He was made the unanimous nominee of the convention.

George P. Carpenter nominated for lieutenant governor Edwin R. Allen of Hopkinton, and he was made the nominee. Charles A. Wilson nominated for secretary of state Charles P. Bennett of Providence, and there was no opposition. Governor Brown at this point appeared and made a speech of acceptance of the nomination.

For attorney general, Ellery H. Wilson nominated Edward C. Dubois of East Providence, and W. W. Blodgett named Willard B. Tanner of Pawtucket. Both men were seconded and endorsed by several in brief speeches. The vote resulted in the nomination of Mr. Dubois by a large majority, the vote standing 177 to 39.

Samuel Clark of Lincoln was then nominated by B. M. Bosworth, without opposition, for general treasurer.

A committee was appointed to prepare a platform, and while it was at work ex-Speaker Barrett of the Massachusetts house of representatives addressed the convention at length.

BOMB IN A CHURCH.

Man Who Intended It For Others Became a Victim Himself.

PARIS, March 16.—By the explosion of a bomb in the Church of the Madeleine, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, one man was killed and several injured. The single death resulting from the bomb-throwing was that of the man who threw it.

The Madeleine, or Magdalene, has a large congregation, and is especially well attended during the devotion of the Lenten season. It is generally believed that it was the intention of the miscreant to throw the bomb into the midst of the worshippers who were gathered.

Many persons were prostrated by the shock of the detonation, followed by the crashihg of the glass in the windows, and shrieks of women and the horrified shouts of men attracted an immense crowd of people from a distance aronnd.

A newspaper seller named Pauvel, who has been living with an anarchist, and who has of late haunted Passage Ribet, is one of the men suspected of complicity in the outrage. He was arrested at the office of a chemist, where he was having a wound on his leg dressed. He explained that he received the injury while climbing over the rail to escape from the Church of the Madeleine after the explosion occurred. The other prisoner is a valet named Roquet.

The police searched the lodgings of Pauvel's mother, and seized a large amount of correspondence and anarchistic documents.

The Church of the Madeleine, the scene of the explosion, began to be built in 1764. In 1806 Napoleon decreed its completion for a Temple of Glory. Louis XVIII proposed converting it into an expiatory chapel to Louis XVI and XVII and Marie Antoinnette. It was completed in 1842 at a cost of nearly $3,000,000.

The Supreme Judicial Circuits.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—One of the consequences following upon the completion of a full bench of supreme court judges will be reassignment of some of the judicial circuits. Justice White will probably have the Louisiana circuit. Justice Gray and the chief justice will probably retain their present circuits. It is as yet undecided who will take the New York circuit, which probably involves more labor and responsibility than any other.

A Boom In Business.

HARTFORD, March 16.—The woolen mill industry in the state is picking up rapidly and all the looms will be running in two weeks. Chase's mills at Elmville resumed work yesterday after it had been shut down for seven months. The mill employs a force of 700 hands, and most of these will be given work. The Hammond and Knowlton silk mills in Putnam began running yesterday on full time.

Faithful to Parnell.

LONDON, March 16.—Justin McCarthy presided last evening at a banquet in celebration of St. Patrick. He said Irishmen had lost their greatest man in Parnell. They relied with absolute fidelity on the democracy of the United Kingdom to stand by and help them.

Liberals and Prohibs Won.

HALIFAX, March 16.—The provincial elections throughout the province resulted favorable to the Liberals, winning 25 out of the 38 seats in the assembly. The question of the advisability of having the Dominion pass a prohibition act was carried by a sweeping majority.

Firebug Is Busy.

WALTHAM, Mass., March 16. — Waltham's regular daily fire, the seventh in as many days, and all incendiary, occurred yesterday afternoon. The stable of Dennis McCarthy was found ablaze and was saved after $150 damage was done.

Trio of Crooked Bank Clerks.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The grand jury found indictments against Alexander Elsberg, Carl Abrech and Alfred Samuel, clerks in the State bank, for forgeries, in making false entries to conceal larcenies aggregating over $100,000.

Raid on London Anarchists.

LONDON, March 16.—A posse of detectives made a raid last evening on the International Toilet club. A large amount of anarchistic literature, including a pamphlet entitled "Why Vaillant Threw the Bomb," was seized.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—George Work and D. S. Macalester shot a match at 200 live pigeons each, for a stake of $2500 a side. The score was: Macalester, 175; Work, 168.

HIS SILENT BRIDE.

She Vowed Never to Speak to Him Again, but Married Him Just the Same.

About 18 months ago Mrs. Cartell was Miss Fannie Brambley, a beautiful young lady of 18 years, and Jerry Cartell was her favored suitor. But, as is generally the case with young lovers, a quarrel arose between them, and in the heat of passion Miss Fannie angrily bade her lover leave her presence and vowed by high heaven she would never speak to him again. The disconsolate lover took his departure, but as he fairly worshiped the girl he ardently set about to effect a reconciliation. At last in answer to a pitiful, pleading letter Miss Fannie relented and penned to him a loving, forgiving message.

Overjoyed at the happy termination of affairs, he hurried to the home of Miss Fannie and was received warmly and affectionately, but without a word of welcome. Taking a tablet and pencil from a desk, she began a written coversation as though she could not speak a word. She is very devout, a member of the Methodist church, and was firmly impressed with the idea that if she should break her rash vow God would punish her by striking her dumb, when she could speak to no one.

The courtship proceeded with pencil and paper for several months, and then they were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony. During their married life of nearly a year Mrs. Cartell never spoke to her husband until some days ago.

Last Christmas Mr. Cartell made his wife a present of a handsome and costly pair of vases. The other morning the husband was bringing in an armful of wood and struck one of the vases and knocked it to the floor, where it broke into a hundred pieces.

"Oh, Jerry, look what you have done!" cried Mrs. Cartell.

She was horribly shocked at speaking to her husband and believed that she had been stricken dumb. To ascertain the correctness of her belief she spoke to him again and was overjoyed to discover that her organs of speech had not been in the least impaired.

In the happiness of again hearing his wife speak to him Jerry folded her in his arms, wept tears of joy and thanked God for the breaking of the vase. Mr. and Mrs. Cartell feel as if a cloud had been lifted from their home, and there is not a happier couple today in Dyer county.—Trimble (Tenn.) Correspondent.

WANTS A COMFORTABLE COFFIN.

The Father of Congressman Brookshire Is Having One Made to Order.

A Crawfordsville (Ind.) correspondent says: "There is a man living nine miles south of this city who, though in the best of health, has given his orders for his coffin. His name is Drake Brookshire. He is the father of Hon. E. V. Brookshire, the Democratic congressman from this, the Eighth, district. Mr. Brookshire weighs 280 pounds, has always lived upon a farm, enjoyed the best of health, having never been sick a day in his life, and is now 67 years of age. The other day he came to town and went to an undertaking establishment and informed the proprietor that he wanted to purchase a coffin. The proprietor, after asking who was dead, was greatly astonished on being told that it was for the live man standing before him.

"Mr. Brookshire, however, quieted him by saying that he did not intend to die until he had to, but that he wanted to die with the knowledge that there was a coffin already made for him in which he would have plenty of room. The undertaker did not seem to know just what to do, and Mr. Brookshire, seeing his embarrassment, laid down upon the floor and ordered his measurement taken. The coffin will be made of two inch oak, firmly bolted together, and will be 6 feet 6 inches long, 3 feet wide and 2½ feet deep. After the coffin is made Mr. Brookshire will try it and see if it fits him. He also says that he desires to be taken to the graveyard in his farm wagon, drawn by his team of favorite mules."

Chicago's Bottle Craze.

A curious fancy in bric-a-brac has furnished one man the foundation of a moderate fortune within the last year. He has a store on State street, near Fourteenth, and used to limit his transactions to the purchase and sale of old bottles. Druggists and barkeepers were his principal customers, but now one may see fashionable carriages at the door on almost any bright day, and he will tell you that the wealthy and people whose tastes run to odd ornaments are regular visitors there. They buy odd shaped bottles and jugs of all sorts and pay handsomely for such treasures as old Dutch wares in blue or the quaint decorated bottles in which various liquors and mixtures are imported. Glazed jugs of fine finish and drinking mugs such as the Germans showed at Jackson park last summer have become almost a craze and bring three or four times their former value.—Chicago Record.

Married In Haste.

While the town board meeting of West Indianapolis was in session a few nights ago Justice of the Peace Allen, who was present, was summoned to perform a marriage ceremony. The contracting parties were Mr. John Perry and Miss Mary McGreevy. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride on Bridge street. When Mr. Allen entered the house, he was informed that it was desired by both parties that the ceremony be a short one. Mr. Allen promptly tied the knot. Mr. Wynne, who had taken his watch from his pocket to note the time consumed in the ceremony, startled them all by announcing that the world's record had just been broken.

"You have taken only 2½ seconds in the ceremony."

Another gentleman present affirmed Mr. Wynne's statement.—Indianapolis Journal.

WAITE IS WEAKENING

Will Allow the Supreme Court to Settle His Political Row.

CITY OFFICES ARE AGAIN OPEN.

Interesting Question For the President to Decide.

DENVER, March 17.—Notwithstanding all the warlike preparations, the controversy between Governor Waite and the old police board will be settled peacefully and that by the supreme court. The governor considered a proposition submitted to him by Attorneys Steves, Hartzell, Rogers and Ward to ask the supreme court to decide who are the legal police commissioners. The court can compel the attorneys for the old board to appear and argue the question, and, under the circumstances, will undoubtedly consent to take up the case at once.

During the day the militia guard at Douglass place, where Governor Waite resides, was recalled to the armory, and for the first time since 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon the building was left unprotected. Shortly afterward the governor left for the executive chanber, but refused to discuss the situation further than to say that he would like a consultation with General McCook, U. S. A.

The conference lasted but a short time, and it is understood was exceedingly peppery, the governor being angry because General McCook refused to aid the governor in his purpose to seat the new commissioners, but confined himself to dispersing the crowd and maintaining the peace.

At the termination of the interview the governor sent General McCook a letter, which was taken by the public as an evidence that the governor was weakening and would accept any reasonable proposition to compromise that might be offered him.

General McCook did not answer Governor Waite's letter and will take no further action until he hears from Washington. General McCook declares that Governor Waite in his letter makes several erroneous statements, one of which is that he stated for what purpose he desired the government troops. General McCook says Governor Waite did not specify for what purpose they were wanted.

Judge Graham, who issued the injunction against Governor Waite and his new police board restraining them from interfering with the old members, and which caused all the disgraceful proceedings of the last few days, said: "I shall take no action on the application made to me for a writ of attachment for Governor Waite for contempt unless there is a new display of force at the city hall or somebody is hurt, or some other important change in the present status of things occurs. The situation does not call for action on my part."

Fire and Police Commissioners Orr and Martin, over whose office the fight is being made, were at their offices yesterday, but no efforts were made to do business. Judge Orr looked upon the governor's actions as a bluff, and having failed in its purpose did not anticipate any further demonstration of a hostile or threatening nature. Mr. Martin indicated that he was of the same opinion. All of the city offices were opened for business, but there was little going on.

Problem For the President.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The president has another grave question before him, involving the propriety of using United States troops in the dispute between Governor Waite and the Denver police authorities. The matter was brought to the attention of the president by Secretary Lamont, who had received a telegraphic report from General McCook, commanding the United States forces in Colorado.

The general reports that Governor Waite stated to him that he has called out the militia in Denver to enforce the laws of the state, and that he found an organized opposition composed of the city police and detectives forces and the sheriff's people. The governor says he can enforce the law, but not without great bloodshed, and therefore as governor of the state calls on General McCook to assist him in preserving order and preventing bloodshed.

General McCook, in his dispatch to Washington, adds that in pursuance of this demand he has ordered the United States troops from Fort Logan to go at once to Denver for the sole purpose of preserving the peace, under paragraph 585, army regulations. General McCook says he considers a crisis imminent, as this is insurrection and riot against the executive authority of the state of Colorado. The troops, he says, will be directed to act with great discretion, and he will see that the laws of the land are not violated.

General McCook's report created a stir in the war department, for the authorities there have always deprecated the use of the army in public disturbances where there are questions of doubtful legality at issue. General McCook has acted to the extent of bringing his troops to the scene of the difficulty. It is now for the president to say whether his action shall be approved.

If approved, the troops will at once be returned to Fort Logan, while if the action so far is approved General McCook will continue to preserve the peace as long as he finds it necessary. It is evident that under the statutes he has large discretion as to how far he may co-operate with Governor Waite.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Old Colony Lease Declared to Be Legal. A Matter Interesting to Bicyclists.

BOSTON, March 17.—A long opinion was received from the attorney general in reply to the request of the legislature in regard to the legality of the lease of the Old Colony to the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. He decides that the lease is legal.

The committee on cities has reported a bill to regulate the use of bicycles on public ways. The bill provides, in section 1, that whoever without a permit, provided for in the bill, rides a bicycle or tricycle at a rate of speed exceeding 10 miles an hour, or rides on a sidewalk, or rides a machine without a bell or gong, or fails to sound the bell or gong whenever necessary to give reasonable warning of his approach, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $20 for each offence, and shall be further liable for all damages occasioned to any person by such unlawful act. Section 2 defines the meaning of the word "sidewalk" as used in the bill, as intended to cover any sidewalk laid out as such by a city or town, and any walk in a village which is reserved by custom for the use of pedestrians or specially prepared for their use. It is not to include footpaths on portions of public ways lying outside of the thickly settled parts of cities and towns, which are worn only by travel and are not improved by such cities or towns or by abutters.

Section 3 provides for the issuing of special permits by town and city authorities, to persons to ride machines during a specified time, upon specified portions of the public ways at any rate of speed. City and town authorities are also allowed to permit the use of velocipedes by children on sidewalks. By section 4, proceedings for the enforcement of the penalties imposed by the act are to be instituted within 60 days from the time the offence is committed.

The committee on liquor law reported against the bill removing the liquor license limitation from the city of Fall River; against a bill providing that the number of liquor licences shall not exceed one to every 500 inhabitants in cities, and one to every 1000 inhabitants in towns; against a bill to restrict the number of liquor licenses in Boston to one for every 1000 inhabitants; against a bill abolishing the limitation of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors; against a bill removing the limitation on the number of licenses granted in cities, and fixing fees for licenses; the committee reported leave to withdraw on numerous petitions of mayors of cities for the removal of the restriction on the number of liquor licenses to be granted.

The committee on education, Senator Green and Mr. Tolman dissenting, reported a bill appropriating not exceeding $100,000 for a state normal school at North Adams, the town to pay $25,000 of the sum appropriated.

The committee on manufactures reported leave to withdraw on the petition that no arbitrary charge be made for the use of electric light meters; also on a petition for the appointment of inspectors of electric meters; also on the petition for lower rates for gas.

PEARL RIVER HARBOR

Is Under Absolute and Exclusive Dominion of Uncle Sam.

LODGE'S STATEMENTS CORRECTED

Our Country's Position Outlined by Mr. Edmunds.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Ex-Senator Edmunds of Vermont, who is the author of the amendment to the Hawaii reciprocity treaty by which the United States acquired Pearl river harbor as a coal station, gave an interview on the rights of the United States to that station. He said:

"I am sorry to see that Senator Lodge appears from newspaper reports to be under the impression that the grant of Pearl river harbor by the Hawaiian government to the United States was limited only to seven years, during which Hawaiian sugar, etc., were to be introduced into the United States duty free. And I am surprised at what is reported to be the contention of President Dole to the same effect.

"I regret that proceedings of the senate in considering and ratifying the last convention with Hawaii have not been made public, but without violating any duty of confidence, I can say that the convention was agreed upon between Frelinghuysen and Carter, the Hawaiian minister, on Dec. 6, 1884, and soon afterwards sent to the senate for consideration.

An Explanatory Clause.

"The senate did not advise the ratification until Jan. 20, 1887. Evidently there was difficulty in the senate in respect of allowing further introduction of free sugar, and that at last, for some reason which I am not at liberty to state the detail of, the senate agreed to ratify with one most important additional clause, which appears as article 2 of the convention as published in the statutes. That article is in these words:

His majesty, King of the Hawaiian Islands, grants to the government of the United States the exclusive rights to enter the harbor of Pearl river in the island of Oahu, and to establish and maintain there a coaling and repair station for the use of vessels of the United States, and to that end the United States may improve the entrance to said harbor and do all other things needful for the purpose aforesaid.

"It will be seen that it was a positive and unlimited grant in presenti from one political community having perpetual existence to another, and therefore necessarily both in its literal and general sense a perpetual right, which became then and forever the absolute and exclusive property of the United States.

Substantial Argument.

"It is certain, therefore, that the United States have and will continue to have until they choose to part with it (which I hope will never occur) the absolute and exclusive dominion of Pearl harbor for the purpose named in the article I have mentioned.

"Whether the United States will be guilty of a moral wrong in imposing duties on Hawaiian sugar, etc., before the expiration of the convention on the proper notice of 12 months after next November, is quite a different matter, and to which, of course, there can be only one answer.

"But that now and hereafter, whatever else may happen, the United States are the lawful masters of the key of the Pacific is a fact which all nations interested should perfectly understand, for Pearl river harbor in the possession of our government for the purposes named gives us the mastery."

"Does the remission of duties on sugars from other countries in any way invalidate the Hawaiian treaty?" was asked.

"No; it does not; at least Hawaii has no right to complain of anything, either in imposing or taking off duties on the products of other countries."

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Mr. Enloe's second amendment aimed at the coast and geodetic survey, providing for the investigation of that bureau and a determination of the advisability of its transfer to the navy and interior departments, was defeated in the house by a majority of 23 votes. The latter part of the day was devoted to a discussion of the appropriation for the Missouri river commission of $750,000. The senate was not in session.

Henry Miller, the wife of the Baptist minister, whose death aroused considerable suspicion, found nothing to indicate that the woman's death was hastened in any manner. Mob Was After Them.

THE MAYOR'S budget of appropriations, to be submitted to the City Council next Monday evening, is awaited with considerable interest. An economical administration with low taxes was the watchword during the municipal campaign, and Mayor Hodges told the citizens in his inaugural address that "we must banish utterly from all consideration anything that remotely approaches to a luxury."

The appropriations for current city expenses have been kept at about $160,000 for the past two years. The law limits the amount this year at $197,753.94 according to the Mayor's inaugural, but it will not do to increase the appropriations anywhere near this limit; in fact, if there is any increase over $160,000 there will be an increase in the tax rate, for the city must provide this year for a payment of $24,000 on the water debt, and probably an assessment of $5,000 or more for the Blue Hills reservation. An increased tax rate seems inevitable even if there is some reduction in the $160,000 for current expenses.

FIREMEN DROPPED.

None of the Members of Hose 4 in 1893 Now in the Company.

The official axe of the fire department has fallen at Quincy Point, and Capt. Burrell and all but one of the present company who were members under Chief Ripley have been removed. The letters of dismissal were received Friday.

When the fire department reorganized in February four or five of the old company were retained and Capt. Burrell, one of the number, was reelected foreman.

The only man of the old company left is Frank House, the others with the exception of Capt. Burrell received a letter reading as follows:

DEAR SIR: As you are not satisfied with the new men I have appointed in the company and you are making it disagreeable I will have to discharge you as being a member of the Q. F. D., to take effect at once. Yours respectfully,

P. J. WILLIAMS, Chief Eng. Q. F. D.

The letter of Capt. Burrell, it is said by those who saw it, holds him responsible for the articles taken from the engine house.

A member of the deposed company in conversation with a LEDGER representative this noon said the whole trouble is because the old and new men do not associate.

When the old company was in existence it took its own money and furnished the house, and while the members belonged to the department Chief Ripley allowed them to keep it in the hose house.

When their year was out they expected to be dropped and therefore moved the furniture to a room hired for that purpose.

The new company was organized and half of the old men were retained, but instead of passing their evenings at the hose house they spent their leisure time in the club house which their money had helped to purchase. This evidently did not please the new members who did not relish being left out in the cold, and the result has been that the discharge came, and as you will see by the letter the only reason is because they did not associate with the new men.

The city did not own one article which was removed, even the record book being purchased by the clerk out of his own pocket.

Capt. Burrell when seen, admitted having received a letter of dismissal but declined making it public at present.

An attempt was made to get an interview with Chief Williams this noon but he could not be reached.

BRAINTREE.

The monthly missionary meeting of the First church was held Sunday evening.

Many of our ball players have already begun their season's work. The Braintrees will lose their star catcher, Rudderham, who is going to Fall River.

Monday the Selectmen appointed George H. Randall and David C. Haseltine, police officers, without pay, for the ensuing year. The right men in the right place.

While there has been so much talk about the restoration of Greek to the High school, I quote a remark made by a former pupil of the High and the academy: "I don't know nothing about it."

We are glad to see that Representative John Kelley is abreast of the times, and voted in favor of the women's municipal franchise bill. Now let us have Mr. Kelley's "pretty maiden" speech.

The High school after a lapse of two seasons will again have a base ball team. The boys hope to arrange games with neighboring High schools, and are to challenge the Academies for the championship of the schools of Braintree. The hardest position to fill, will be that of catcher, but Mr. Cook, who is our old Bowdoin player, thinks that with a little work one can be developed. Macandrew will probably pitch and captain the team.

William C. Daniels has a penchant for curious things. He has in his possession a copy of the Bible printed a hundred and seventy years ago. As old as it is, when compared with a copy of the same, may be printed yesterday, it will be found there in not a difference in word or syllable between them. This Mr. Daniels thinks goes far to establish the Divinity and authenticity of the Bible. What think you? No account is taken of the new version of course.

The ladies of the Universalist society held their second Parlor social in the Town hall on Wednesday evening.

The entertainment consisted as follows:

Duet, piano,	Misses Bridgham and Penniman.
Recitation,	Ella Oliver.
Solo, harmonica,	Richard Dane.
Reading,	Miss Weeks.

Farce entitled "The Red Chignon."

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

Miss Precise,	Mrs. Cook.
Hetty Gray,	Izora Dustin.
Lizzie Bond,	Cora Lang.
Fannie Rice,	Albina Cain.
Hannah Jones,	Lilla Anderson.
Mrs. Lofty,	Mrs. Prescott.

There was a large audience and each number was well received.

The reading of Miss Weeks, one of our public school teachers, was delightful.

CORNER STONES.

Mr. Theophilus King Gave an Interesting Talk at Y. M. C. A. Rooms.

"Business corner stones" is a unique title, but the subject was handled in an intensely practical manner by Mr. Theophilus King at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms Thursday evening.

Mr. King first spoke of the uses of the corner stone. It must support many pressures, must remain fixed, and is out of sight. The stability of any building depends upon its foundation.

Mention was made of the "sky scraper" of the present day, which are made possible by firm foundations. The stone itself must be of sound material, without flaw or visible weakness. It must be the hardest quality of stone obtainable.

The composition of granite is quartz, feldspar and mica. Man must play a chief corner stone if he desires to be truly successful. He must lay a good foundation. The boy is laying his foundation in school and in his first work. His chief corner stone must be an "Ideal." If he has an ideal it will make his work easy, but he must be in earnest, take time, be faithful and never shirk.

There are four corner stones on which every young man must build who would make the most of life, and each of these corner stones contain three elements.

First,—Reliability, which consists of (1) having one's word as good as his bond, (2) a purpose clear and sure, (3) not freaky.

Second,—Honesty, which includes (1) not warping facts, (2) ready to work for results, (3) prompt at engagements.

Third,—Persistency which is shown (1) by studying difficulties, (2) removing them understandingly, (3) replacing them by knowledge.

Fourth,—Common sense, manifested (1) by patience in the study of man, (2) reflection about men, (3) application with men.

A young man who would succeed must be fixed in his principles, but not in method and way. He must be able to adjust himself to circumstances. This means progress and success. If his foundation is right he may adjust his business to his needs just as abuilding is remodeled if the foundation is sound. A man who has these four corner stones multiplies himself.

He is able to remove prejudices, has the power to adjust himself to circumstances, can take on and carry responsibilities. He become valuable to others, and this value they will pay for in cash, respect and power. It is like a healthy body, where action is a pleasure. These enables the life structure to grow to its limit. The corner stone eventually becomes the building, for it is cemented to the other parts, and all parts are in right relations to it.

There is but one business in life, one structure to build, one successful result to be desired, that is good character. True character can only be obtained by building on the Christian corner stone. "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Christ Jesus."

Such corner stones, laid on such a foundation and bound together will bring sure success. Mr. King gave many incidents and reminicences which made his talk unusually interesting and instructive.

Next Thursday evening the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Wollaston Baptist church will give an entertainment.

Parish Meeting.

The annual parish meeting of the First Congregational church, Braintree, was held in the chapel on Wednesday evening. The meeting was called to order with Mr. H. S. Thayer as moderator and Mr. E. A. Belcher as clerk.

The following board of officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Assessors,—Charles S. Bates, Henry S. Thayer and J. Marcus Arnold.

Collector,—Mrs. Julia F. Hayward.

Treasurer,—N. R. Proctor.

Clerk,—E. A. Belcher.

Music Committee,—E. W. Hobart, O. W. Allen and E. A. Belcher.

The annual report of the Assessors will be distributed Sunday morning, and, considering the year, is very satisfactory. The expenditures for the past year have amounted to $3,824.74. The debt is now very small and the ladies hope to clear this by the aid of the fair next week. The amount appropriated for the next year is $3,618.44.

Town water has been put in and the assessors hope to be able to paint the church and chapel sometime this summer.

Blue Hill Predictions.

Observer Clayton at the Blue Hill observatory made the following predictions Friday for the ensuing week:

The greatest probabilities of rain or snow during the week are on Tuesday or Wednesday, and on Friday night. The warmest days will probably be on Monday and Tuesday, and the coldest Wednesday to Thursday morning, with lowest temperature on Thursday morning.

The probabilities for the individual days are:

Saturday—Fair and colder.

Sunday and Monday—Fair and warmer.

Tuesday—Increasing cloudiness followed by rain or snow.

Wednesday—Rain or snow, followed by clearing; colder.

Thursday—Fair; colder during morning, followed by rising temperature.

Friday—Increasing cloudiness, followed by rain or snow; warmer.

—The salary of the town treasurer of Avon is but $50, yet he is required to give bonds for $15,000. Who can blame Mr. Keith for resigning!

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

A New Store in Adams Building—Pretty Styles at Mrs. Collins.

The new millinery store of G. M. Whitman in the Adams building opened today. The interior of the store is very prettily arranged, large Japanese fans occupying a prominent place. Mr. Whitman shows an unusually large line of trimmed hats and bonnets of the prevailing styles and at prices that cannot fail to suit. In his show cases are shown all of the latest novelties in flowers, ribbons and jets. He also has a large line of untrimmed hats and bonnets.

In his large show windows are displayed many novelties in hats which cannot fail to attract the feminine eye.

On the show case in a pretty vase is a clustre of fragrant Catherine merinet roses, presented by Boston friends of Mr. Whitman. These serve also to brighten the effect of the store.

The hats this season are very broad, and there is a variety of large and small hats. More color is displayed in the trimmings this year than usual, and many bonnets are being worn by young women.

One of the most striking novelties is a jet band with a broad velvet bow in the back and jet aigrelles in the front. An inspection of the store cannot fail to please.

Mr. Whitman has as assistants Miss Hatherway and Miss Bunker of Brockton who receive all callers.

Mrs. Collins' Opening.

Miss E. B. Collins, the milliner in Faxon's block, had her spring opening yesterday, and displays many New York styles in trimmed hats, as well as the latest novelties in ribbons, velvets, crepes, silks, flowers and jet ornaments.

Of trimmed hats, one of the most striking is a large hat of black lace with a band of pansy velvet, trimmed with pansies and light fancy helitrope ribbon, a fancy jet ornament forming the crown.

Another is a white Leghorn prettily draped in the back and trimmed with green oats with a bow of serpent green ribbon and a large loop of pansy velvet drawn through a rhine stone buckle, a large loop of pansy velvet coming towards the front with white lace.

In bonnets, the most striking is one with a wrought gold crown with a bandeau of heliotrope flowers, with large serpent green alsatian bows in the back, and gilt chiffon on the crown.

All Capped and Frocked Alike.

The superintendent of the Old Colony division, E. G. Allen, has issued a mandate obliging train hands to be clothed in an indigo-blue uniform on and after May 1st.

The first class, including station masters, station agents and passenger conductors, will have single breasted frock cutaway coats, with short roll, and gold-plated buttons; vest, single breasted without collar, and six gold-plated buttons; trousers cut in the prevailing style, with plain seames, two side and two hip pockets; caps, company's standard with proper badges.

Baggage masters will have single breasted sack coats for summer and double breasted coats for winter, with nickle-plated buttons, vests, single breasted without collar; trousers cut in the prevailing style with raised seams, side and hip pockets; caps, company's standard with proper badges.

Passenger brakemen will have a uniform exactly similar to that of baggage master, only the side pockets of the trousers will not be so deep and wide as those of the baggage masters, because their hands and pay are smaller.

It may be an omission but it is noticeable that the mandate of the superintendent does not make it obligatory, in the case of a policeman or any other, to wear an overcoat, even in winter time.

Elmer Hayden Talks.

Elmer Hayden, the dressmaker is in Whitman. To a Brockton Enterprise reporter he said on Friday:

"I take decided exceptions to some of the statements which have been made concerning myself and my business, and can only say that most of them are false in every particular. I paid my board bill and my room rent, and was treated by the landlady in as fine a manner as anyone could ask for. While I have had a hard winter in some lines of my business, another month would have cleared me of all my indebtedness and I should have had a good run of spring work. People there have busied themselves in my business till I was almost crazy. They would go to my best customers and tell them all sorts of yarns concerning my habits and my work, and if you could see the anonymous letters which have been sent to me you would be surprised. They were scandalous.

No Jealous Rival Found.

No jealous rival of Elmer C. Hayden, the man dressmaker of Newton who quietly left that city two weeks ago, and also incidentally left several creditors in the lurch, has been found.

The press dispatch that appeared in the papers of last evening from Whitman, in which the man dressmaker gave utterance that the publication of his abrupt leave-taking of Newton was the work "of a jealous rival," has produced a mild sensation of amusement at his expense, and has even caused his creditors to quietly smile.—Herald.

When the Whistles Blow.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The noisy tools are laid aside,
The wheels are standing still,
The day is done, and silence reigns
In quarry, shed and mill.
Let us pause and try to read
The thoughts our workmates show,
As they review their day's hard toil,
When the whistles blow.

Here's a young man in life's prime,
Free from worldly care,
Happier grows as nears the time
To meet some lady fair;
A cheerful smile illumes his face,
Flushed with healthy glow,
A happy heart beats in his breast,
When the whistles blow.

See his comrade, by his side,
And mark the contrast there;
No happy thought lights up his eye,
His face is lined with care,
His pensive looks tell of hard times,
And funds fast ebbing low;
Reluctantly he leaves his post,
When the whistles blow.

Now an aged, gray-haired man,
Before our view appears,
His manly form, once tall and straight,
Is bent with toil and years;
His willing hands are weak and tired,
His footsteps short and slow,
But weary limbs find needed rest,
When the whistles blow.

Some are cheerful, some are sad,
When the day is done;
Some vainly fret o'er misspent hours,
Too late when they are gone.
Let us employ as best we can,
The minutes as they go,
And have no cause for vain regret,
When the whistles blow.

RESERVATION POLICE.

Patrol Established at Blue Hills—Quincy Men Selected.

Commencing Sunday, regular police patrol will be established at the Blue Hill reservation. Peleg Bronsdon of Milton has been appointed Superintendent of Police and starts in with a force of seven or eight men, who were selected from the police of Milton and Quincy.

The Quincy officers who have been selected are Henry O. Dawson, John McAloon, James White and James O'Neil. The officers will be on duty every day. During the summer months the force will probably be increased to twenty-five men.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The monthly meeting of the Women's auxiliary will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be a Bible reading, followed by a business session.

Members whose fees are payable will confer a favor by paying this month, as it is desirable to report a paid-up membership at the quarterly meeting in April.

Tickets for the gymnasium exhibition on the 28th are now being sold by the members. Each member who sells five tickets will receive one extra, and the junior who sells the greatest number will be presented with one dollar.

Mr. Richard N. Fox of the McKay machine shops, Lawrence, will address the workingmen's rally Sunday afternoon at 3.30. Mr. Fox's talk last year will be remembered by many as one of the most helpful ever given in the association, coming as it did from a man who passed through remarkable experiences in life. His subject next Sunday will be "The Tentmaker."

The Opera of "Zephra."

The musical spectacle "Zephra" will be given at the Grand Opera House, Boston, for the week of March 19, under the auspices of the First Regiment, Patriarch Militant, I. O. O. F.

Fully 200 Odd Fellows and Daughters of Rebekah will take part in the chorus and other characters, and a special attraction will be an exhibition drill each evening by twenty-four chevaliers, under command of Capt. Estes.

The music of "Zephra" is of the kind usually denominated as "catchy" but there are several numbers of a higher order that will please the most severely classical.

It is a good time to build, as money can be borrowed at low rates and building materials are cheaper than a year ago.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

ASK THEM Why?

Ask the men who are making imitations of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening, why they give up lard and try to trade on the merits of COTTOLENE? Perhaps you can guess why.

ASK HIM Why?

Ask the grocer who attempts substitution, why he tries to sell an imitation when people call for that pure, palatable and popular vegetable shortening, COTTOLENE? Perhaps you can guess.

ASK YOURSELF Why?

Why should not YOU use COTTOLENE, instead of Lard for all cooking purposes? It has the highest possible endorsement; from Physicians as to healthfulness; from Cooking Experts as to superiority; from housekeepers as to economy. Use COTTOLENE and stick to it.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" ystem. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

In Heaven.

There's a new, sweet face in heaven, and it glows with wondrous light,
As the beauties of God's kingdom are opened to its sight.
There's a lisping voice in heaven that with childish rapture rings,
And I know the angels listen when in joyousness it sings.

There's a pair of tender blue eyes that are opened big and wide,
That yet are filled with memories of a home beyond the tide.
There's a pair of tiny, dimpled hands held out in tearful plea
Asking him who rules heaven and earth to comfort you and me.

There's a sound of musical footsteps echoing through the street,
There's a shout of happy multitude as they rush forth to meet
The newborn angel baby that to heaven has found its way,
That we have given back to God, with sad, aching hearts, today.

—Atlanta Constitution.

Semitones.

Ah, me, the subtle boundary between
What pleases and what pains! The difference
Between the word that thrills our every sense
With joy, and one which hurts, although it mean
No hurt! It is the things that are unseen,
Invisible—not things of violence—
For which the mightiest are without defense.
On kine most fair to see one may grow lean
With hunger. Many a snowy bread is doled
Which is far harder than the hardest stones.
'Tis but a narrow line divides the zones
Where suns are warm from those where suns are cold.
'Twixt harmonies divine as chords can hold
And torturing discords lie but semitones!

Not a Bit Dangerous.

Landlord (of the Traveler's Rest)—See that feller over there? Doorin the past year he has plugged no less than six men right on the street.

How to Buy Collars.

Note for bachelors: When you buy collars, you will save yourself much unspeakable anguish by asking for a tape and measuring the collars from buttonhole to buttonhole. They will frequently be found to vary half an inch or so from the size with which they are stamped, but that little half inch is one of the things that are making us prematurely bald.—Boston Herald.

Much is being said about the Glenwood Range at the present time. Well, to be frank, you can't say too much of it. It is the greatest range on the market; guaranteed by the sellers as no range has ever been guaranteed before. Henry L. Kincaide & Co., cut price agents.

A TURN IN THE TIDE.

Business Has Taken a Fresh Impetus All Along the Line.

SOUTHERN MILLS ARE BOOMING.

Indications of Early Spring Trade In the Provinces.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Bradstreet's today says: The unusual prolongation of mild spring-like weather during the early portion of March has greatly stimulated consumptive demand in almost all staple lines. Corroboration of this is found in almost unanimous reports of increased sales from six of the larger distributing points in the New England and middle states, where general trade has heretofore been reported barely steady.

More sales in general lines are reported from Boston, with special activity in lumber and building materials.

Providence manufacturers of cotton yarns report an improvement in the demand, and woolen mills in northern Rhode Island are starting up on heavyweight clothes.

Philadelphia merchants report an improving outlook for dealings with the west and south and gains in sales of shoes. Increased distribution of woolens has been at a sacrifice in price.

At Pittsburg, Chicago and other iron centers, competition has further reduced prices for shaped as well as raw iron and steel.

The most striking evidence of improvement south is from Augusta, where all mills are running on full time, and the demand for cotton goods has increased, although improved crop prospects in Texas, tributary to Dallas, together with increased immigration, have stimulated sales as compared with February, and prices of real estate.

The stimulated demand for wholesale dry goods results in an oversale of ginghams, and prices are 1-4 cent higher, although it has taken concessions on some cotton goods to move them.

The Cereal Crops.

If to the government report of 114,000,000 bushels of wheat in farmers' hand may be added 117,000,000 bushels of wheat out of farmers' hands, the resulting 231,000,000 bushels will supply food and seed for four months to come, a reserve on July 1, next, of 40,000,000 bushels, and, if required, 16,000,000 bushels a month for export, which is more than will be demanded.

Exports of wheat, flour, including both coasts of the United States and Canada this week, equal 3,258,000 bushels, against 2,851,000 bushels last week, 2,886,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 3,818,000 bushels in the week in 1892, and as compared with 2,733,600 bushels in the week in 1891.

Trade at Montreal is quiet and is expected to remain so until after navigation opens a few weeks hence. Jobbers report demand for groceries and shoes most active.

Halifax advices are that an early spring trade is indicated. At Toronto the business situation is featureless. The volume of bank clearings at Hamilton, Halifax, Montreal and Toronto is $17,649,000 this week, a fraction of 1 per cent less than in the week before and 11 per cent less than in the corresponding week a year ago.

Exports of produce are 40 per cent above and imports 38 per cent below last year's for the month thus far.

The Failures.

Failures for the first week of March were few, with liabilities thus far reported of only $2,025,338, of which $816,284 were of manufacturing and $1,161,270 of trading concerns. Owing to large deferred statements, received too late for use last week, the aggregate of liabilities for February has been raised to $17,895,670. The number of failures this week is 264 in the United States against 190 last year, and 55 in Canada against 30 last year.

The absence of important embarrassments is still most encouraging.

Alleged Violation of Charter.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 17.—A petition has been circulated asking the city council to order the removal of the tracks of the Newport Street Railway company in Bath road. The line carries summer excursionists to the beach. Claim is made that the company broke requirements of the charter in failing to run cars for 60 days. Summer residents are ready to fight the company, as property is much depreciated by the tracks.

Rules Too Strict.

HARTFORD, March 17.—Chaplain Atwood of the state prison has resigned on account of difficulties in discharging his duties in accordance with the strict rules of the institution, it is said. He took the position May 1, 1892, and gained some notoriety by burying a dead convict-veteran with part of the Grand Army service.

Trouble Expected.

COLORADO SPRINGS, March 17.—Sheriff Bowers is in charge of a posse at Cripple Creek to prevent interference by the strikers with the men who have gone to work in the mines. It is thought trouble will break out first on Bull Hill. The miners are well armed.

Failure of Prouty & Co.

Death of Sister Rosina.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Sister M. Rosina, mother superior of the order of Sisters of Charity of the United States, died at Westchester of paralysis.

OXFORD WINS.

Cambridge Boys Were Outrowed In the Great Boat Race.

LONDON, March 17.—The greatest event in the English aquatic world—the race between the Oxford and Cambridge boat clubs—took place today in the presence of a great crowd of people that lined both banks of the river Thames from Putney bridge to the "Ship" at Mortlake, the points at which the race begun and ended.

Oxford won the toss and chose the Surrey side of the river.

At 9:12 the pistol was fired for the start, and the both crews started well together. Eight minutes later the Cambridge crew was pulling 42 strokes to the minute and the Oxfords 40.

Off the soap works Oxford was in the lead. When the lead mills were reached Oxford had opened a gap of a length between themselves and the Cambridge crew.

At 9:25 Oxford still maintained the lead of a length and was gradually forging ahead. The crew pulled a magnificent and telling stroke, and it was evident that they were far superior to the Cambridge crew. Slowly but surely they forged ahead of their opponents, and when Hammersmith bridge was reached it was plainly evident that the Oxford crew would win.

The Oxford crew passed Throneycroft's four lengths in the lead, but here they eased off their stroke a little, and when the Devonshire meadows were reached they were only three lengths ahead.

Barnes' bridge was passed at 9:29, and when the Oxfords passed under it they were again four lengths in front.

The finish line at Mortlake was crossed by the Oxfords at 9:33. The unofficial time was 21 minutes. Cambridge did not gain on the Oxfords after Barnes' bridge was passed.

MELLO'S MOVEMENTS.

The Revolutionists Said to Be Organizing Land Forces.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 17.—President Peixoto insists on the surrender of Admiral da Gama and the other rebel officers who have taken refuge on board Portuguese vessels. The president declares that they will be tried by the ordinary tribunals.

The Portuguese admiral has refused to give up the officers who have sought refuge on board the Portuguese ships; but he has promised to refer the matter to the Portuguese government and to act in accordance with the instructions which he may receive from Lisbon.

The Portugnese steamer Ceida de Porto attempted to leave Rio de Janeiro with the insurgents on board; but she was stopped by Fort Santa Cruz, the officer in command of that post threatening to fire upon her if she did not put back.

Advices received from Rio Grande do Sul say that Admiral de Mello is actively engaged in organizing land forces. It is reported that De Mello has ordered the Aquidaban to attack some of the northern ports of Brazil. The rebel warship Republica is said to be repairing damages and recoaling at Parangua. The torpedo boats under the command of Admiral de Mello are said to have assembled at the entrance of Santos.

GREED FOR GOLD

Was the Primary Cause of the Slaughter of the Wilson Party.

CAPE TOWN, March 17.—It has been ascertained that King Lobengula sent three messengers to the patrol sent out by Major Forbes, on Dec. 3, with a present of 1000 pounds sterling and a verbal message asking the patrol to stop, as he, the king, would surrender.

The king's messengers assert that they handed the gold to two men belonging to the imperial police, who formed a part of the rear guard. Suspicion has fallen upon two troopers named Wilson and Daniels, who have been arrested.

Commissioner Jameson will endeavor to obtain further information from the natives in regard to this transaction as the men who stole the 1000 pounds in gold were morally guilty of the murders of the Wilson party and of King Lobengula.

Gathering Evidence Against Shea.

TROY, N. Y., March 17.—At the inquest in the election murder the brother of the murdered man testified: "I saw Shea shoot twice at my brother, the first shot was appareatly directed at the body, as Robert was a tall man. When my brother fell, Shea came up and lowered the revolver and fired into the head." Several witnesses testified to seeing Shea shoot Ross.

Sutherland Is Missing.

NEW YORK, March 17. — Kenneth F. Sutherland was called for sentence in the supreme court yesterday. Sutherland did not respond. The explanation given by his counsel was that Sutherland was drunk. The impression is general that he will not return and face a year in jail, $500 fine and trial on three other indictments.

Industrial Army's Threat.

LOS ANGELES, March 17.—The industrial army has received fresh accessions. Acting Commander Gould asked the city council for free transportation for the army over the Santa Fe. The answer will be a refusal, and then the leaders say they will seize the railroad and operate it themselves.

Cronin Found Guilty.

HARTFORD, March 17.—John Cronin was convicted of murder in the first degree in killing Albert J. Skinner of South Windsor, Oct. 6, 1893. The jury was out three hours. Cronin shot Skinner at his breakfast table. He will be sentenced next week.

The Strike a Failure.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., March 17.—Four of the ringleaders of the rioting strikers at the Mingo mines have been arrested and taken to Knoxville to answer in the federal court. The backbone of the strike seems to be broken at last.

King's Movements Not Secret.

BRUSSELS, March 17.—There is no truth in the story saying that King Leopold had secretly left his country residence. King Leopold arrived at Montreux yesterday.

Big Fire at Mobile.

MOBILE, March 17.—Fire broke out last night in Lienkauf & Strauss' wholesale dry goods and notions building, and spread rapidly to other buildings, causing a loss of $200,000, perhaps more.

A DESPERATE NEGRO

Makes a Savage Assault Upon Four Persons With a Gun.

MALDEN, Mass., March 17.—A brutal assault took place here last night, in which four persons had a narrow escape from being murdered, all concerned in the affair being colored.

People passing the house of Spencer Williams on Center street court, heard cries of "Murder" issuing from the house. Officer Bowker and a number of citizens entered the house and found a terrible scene.

Sidney Horner had a loaded gun in his hand and had committed an assault with this weapon upon John S. Thomas, aged 92, and Mrs. Annie Williams, Spencer Williams and little Gertie Williams, badly injuring them all.

Spencer Williams' left arm was broken and he was injured about the head and body; his wife, Annie Williams, was repeatedly beaten over the head and body, and was unconscious for several hours. Thomas, the old man, was also badly cut on the arm, and was otherwise injured, but will recover.

The gun was badly broken in the affair, but luckily was not discharged.

Sidney Horner, who committed the assault, is about 37 years old, and a very powerful negro. He claims that he was robbed of $68 while asleep.

BRECKINRIDGE'S MARRIAGE.

Dame Rumor Was Right Concerning a Secret Ceremony.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Two distinct sensations were furnished yesterday in the Pollard-Breckinridge breach of promise trial. The foremost was the appearance of the plaintiff on the stand as a witness on her own behalf, but the one of greatest interest to legal circles was the corroboration of the rumor which has been for several days afloat that Colonel Breckinridge was secretly married to Mrs. Louise Wing in New York last April, three months before the public ceremony in Cincinnati.

When Breckinridge was shown the dispatch from New York he refused to admit its truth or to contradict it. His counsel and law partner, Colonel Shelby, however, confirmed the report, as did Attorney Stoll. The latter said, when inquiry was made whether the defense would be based on this earlier marriage: "It would not be proper to forecast our case at this stage, but I will say that Colonel Breckinridge is to take the stand very soon, and it will all be made known. Until then neither Colonel Breckinridge nor his counsel would be wise to discuss the defense."

MAY AND DECEMBER.

Millionaire Timothy Porter Leads Miss Mabel Earle to the Altar.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., March 17.—The wedding of Timothy H. Porter, the eccentric millionaire of Stamford, Conn., to Miss Mabel Earle of Bridgeport, was solemnized here yesterday at the rectory of the Episcopal church. Porter has figured prominently in legal proceedings, which were instituted against him by his relatives in Connecticut. He is over 60 years of age, and was infatuated with the young girl whom he married yesterday, and who was employed in his house as a governess.

Recently the suit brought by his relatives were withdrawn and preparations were made immediately after by the old man and Miss Earle for their marriage. The bride is only 21 years of age, and she was accompanied here by her father. In the suit several well-known ladies in Stamford were brought into notoriety by the testimony of witnesses, who testified to their conduct with the old man. The couple intend to go to Bridgeport to reside.

A LECTURE FOR BOYS

Taken Part In by Students, to Anthony Comstock's Regret.

NEW HAVEN, March 17.—Anthony Comstock lectured here last night on the street to a big crowd of boys on the evils of drunkenness and dime novel reading. Several thousand boys gathered around Comstock and cheered and made such a noise that his remarks could not be heard. Some Yale students were attracted to the lecturer, and finally rushed at him and handled Comstock in a rough manner, putting their arms around his neck and rushing him out into the street, amid the cries of the mob of boys and others who were attracted by the excitement. There was no police interference.

Not So Bad as Reported.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 17.—The story to the effect that the crew of the schooner Blanche were 20 hours on an iceberg, which crushed the schooner near Port au Basque, proves to be a hoax. The schooner ran on rocks within 100 feet of the shore, in a snowstorm in the night, and when daylight came the ice had formed so thick that the crew easily walked ashore.

Priest and Judge In a Scrape.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 17.—Church and legal circles are excited over the arrest of three leading citizens of Coyenne. Rev. Father Violante, a civil judge and a member of the city council are charged with falsifying the matrimonial records of the civil registry.

CONTEST FOR SEATS

Will Occupy the Attention of Congressmen This Week.

BRIEF REVIEW OF FOUR CASES

Involving Fine Technicalities and Alleged Bulldozing.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—As soon as the sundry civil appropriation bill is disposed of, which will probably be tonight, the house will take up the four contested election cases which are pending, the O'Neill-Joy case case from the Eleventh Missouri district, the Williams-Settle case from the Fifth North Carolina, the English Hilborn case from the Third California, and the Whately-Cobb case from the Fifth Alabama.

The O'Neill-Joy and English-Hilborn cases, which were both decided against the sitting members (Reps.) by strict party votes in the committee on elections, are the most important and will require the major portion of the time. In both the cases the result of the election in November, 1892, was exceedingly close. There were two counts in the O'Neill-Joy election, the recount giving Joy (Rep.) 67 plurality. O'Neill being beaten on the face of the returns, has instituted the contest on the ground that the Missouri election law had not been complied with, it having been shown that some of the Joy ballots had not been numbered and initialed as required by that law.

The case before the committee hinged upon the determination of the question as to whether the Missouri election law in this particular should be regarded as mandatory or simply directory. The members of the committee wavered for some time, but finally decided by a strict party vote that the law was mandatory and that its technicalities had not been observed. This decision gave the seat to O'Neill (Dem.)

A Close Contest.

In the English-Hilborn case, English received 13,130 on the face of the returns, against Hilborn's 13,160. English's contest rested on the claim that in one precinct the returns had been manipulated beyond doubt, and his attorneys charged that while Hilborn was not responsible for it, he had been the beneficiary of that manipulation. At the close of the case, Hilborn's attorneys still claimed his election by one vote, but the Democrats of the committee decided in favor of English.

In the Williams-Settle case the contestant alleged that the sitting member had been elected by the bulldozing and intimidation of negro voters by the Republicans, but most of the Democrats refused to sustain his contention. Mr. Woodward (Dem., N. C.), however, dissented from the decision of his colleagues.

In the Whately Cobb case the committee unanimously decided against the contestant, who was a Populist, and his case can have no standing in the house whatever.

If the contested election cases are disposed of this week, which is hardly probable, as the Republicans will doubtless insist upon the pressure of a Democratic quorum to unseat their colleagues, the house will proceed with the consideration of either the military academy or consular and diplomatic appropriation bills.

Senate Forecast.

The present week will be devoted by the senate to routine business of no general interest. It is probable that the fortifications appropriation bill will be reported from the committee, and, if it should be, it will probably be taken up for discussion and put upon its passage. For the rest there will be an effort to dispose of the government printing site, the Russian thistle appropriation, the McGarrahan bill and a large number of special bills on the calendar.

Croker's Lips Are Sealed.

PASADENA, Cal., March 19.—Richard Croker, the Tammany chief of New York, is at the Hotel Raymond. He is absolutely dumb so far as pertains to political matters in his bailiwick. Mayor Gilroy is a guest at the Hotel Green, less than a mile distant. As yet there has been no communication between the two.

Death of Ex-Congressman Townsend.

WESTCHESTER, Pa., March 19.—Ex-Congressman Washington Townsend died here yesterday afternoon of paralysis of the brain, aged 82 years. He was the oldest member of the Chester county bar, having been admitted in 1844. He was a member of several of the philanthropic institutions of the town.

Denver's Fine Depot In Ashes.

DENVER, March 19.—The handsome Union depot, covering two blocks, was burned yesterday. The fire started in the attic of the west wing from electric light wires. Important papers and records were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $225,000.

In Honor of Neal Dow.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The 90th birthday anniversary of Neal Dow was celebrated under the auspices of the American Temperance union at Carnegie Music hall, yesterday afternoon. Many Prohibitionists of note made addresses.

Milan and Natalie.

BELGRADE, March 19.—An act of the Episcopal synod annulling the decree of divorce secured several years ago by the then King of Servia, Milan I, from Queen Natalie, was published yesterday.

His Horse Balked.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., March 19.—Ansel Taylor, 33 years of age, was driving across the railroad track, when his horse balked, and a freight engine struck the carriage. Taylor was killed.

A TEXAS CYCLONE

Wrecks a House and Kills Five Negroes. Many Others Injured.

LONG VIEW, Tex., March 19.—A cyclone swept over this place early yesterday morning, accompanied by hailstones of immense size. The greatest fury was six miles east of here, where it struck the home of John Cain, lately occupied by a large family of negroes. The house was in an ancient grove of oaks, 20 in number. Every one of them was uprooted and they were piled up in terrible confusion with dead fowls, dogs and cows and five dead and eight badly injured negroes.

Half a mile south, the house of Mr. Davis, a white man, was completely demolished, but with the exception of a few painful bruises, all escaped. John Kuffet's wagon near by was blown away and much of it has not been found yet. The granary of Nick Hardis, two miles east, was unroofed. The house of Sallie Jones, colored, was wrecked and her 4-year-old daughter Lorilla was perhaps fatally wounded by hailstones.

A passenger train passed just as the cyclone swept by, narrowly escaping it. All previous accounts of immense stones and wind dwindle to insignificance in comparison with this storm.

Many of the blocks of the ice are from 15 to 18 ounces in weight, and others were found after a warm rain and warm weather, larger than a goose egg. Fowls roosting in the trees were killed by the hundreds. Full particulars will doubtless swell the casualties.

DEATH'S SUDDEN CALL.

Wife of Ex-Secretary Noble Stricken Down by Heart Disease.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—Mrs. John W. Noble, wife of ex-President Harrison's secretary of the interior, died suddenly at her home in this city last night.

The end of life came to her while standing in her dining room chatting with friends and waiting for Mr. Noble, who had stepped from the room to call her carriage for a drive. She complained suddenly of dizziness, her maid caught her as she was falling, and before she could be taken to a couch she was dead. The cause of death was organic heart disease, regarding which she had been warned by eminent specialists, and of which disease both her parents died.

Mrs. Noble was Miss Elizabeth Halstead, and daughter of Rev. Dr. Halstead of Northampton, Mass. She was 56 years of age. She met General Noble while on a visit to Keokuk, Ia., where he was stationed as a soldier. They were married Feb. 6, 1864, and during the remaining days of the contest she was at the front with her husband seeing service around Chattanooga and Memphis.

After the war she came to St. Louis with General Noble, and here ever since she has lived except during her husband's term as secretary of the interior. She leaves no children.

TO AID DEMOCRACY.

Democrats of Twenty-One States Form a Political Organization.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A meeting of clubs from the various executive departments was held yesterday, for the purpose of forming an interstate Democratic association, to co-operate with national and state Democratic organizations toward the success of the party in coming campaigns. Twenty-one states were represented in the meeting. Constitutional and bylaws were adopted.

Resolutions were then adopted. The preamble calls attention to the approach of the congressional elections, to recent defections from the Democratic ranks, and the determination of the clubs in the departments to give such aid that will issue in Democratic triumphs. The resolutions are as follows:

Resolved, That we, Democrats from various states, deem it wise and expedient that we form ourselves into a deliberate organization, with a view to adding the Democrats in our districts in the election of congressmen, that the party may continue in control of congress.

We cordially endorse the administration of President Cleveland, as we believe the people of all parties are convinced that his official conduct has been marked by great courage and honesty; and we agree with him in his efforts to secure a genuine and permanent reform in every branch and every department of public service.

Dillon's Predictions.

GLASGOW, March 19.—John Dillon addressed a meeting at Coalbridge yesterday. The policy of the government in postponing the home rule was, according to Mr. Dillon, sound and logical. It was better that the English and Scotch measures should go to the house of lords and be rejected. This would hasten the storm which would sweep the house of lords away.

Swept by a Hurricane.

BUENOS AYRES, March 19.—A severe hurricane passed over this part of Argentina yesterday. Advices from the districts affected show that considerable damage was done to property. The wind blew with frightful fury and a very heavy sea was raised in the river, which is very wide here. Vessels lying at anchor off the port were more or less damaged.

La Bretagne Went Ashore.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The General Transatlantic line steamer La Bretagne ran ashore last night at a point 12 miles east of Fire island. The news of the accident caused much excitement. She was floated off at high tide.

Troops Camped at Cripple Creek.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., March 19.—Everything is quiet here, and it is now thought there is little likelihood of serious trouble. The troops of the National Guard are in camp at the foot of Second street on a large plat.

Denounced the A. P. A.

ROCHESTER, March 19.—Rev. Fred G. Love, a Baptist minister, preached a sermon last night exposing the A. P. A. He had a copy of the constitution, from which he quoted. He denounced them severely.

Triple Drowning Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Mrs. Mollie Martin, her daughter Ora, aged 6, and Miss Molly McCarthy, were drowned in the bay yesterday by the capsizing of a yacht.

Kossuth Is Improving.

TURIN, March 19.—The condition of Louis Kossuth, the aged Hungarian patriot, who has been critically ill for some time past, has improved.

RIO IS LEFT BEHIND.

Da Gama and His Officers Sail Away Under Portugal's Flag.

HAVE PROBABLY GONE SOUTH

Where They Can Easily Join Other Insurgents.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 19.—Judging from the course of events here, it is thought by impartial observers that the Portuguese government does not intend to honor the request made upon it for the surrender of Admiral da Gama. Admiral da Gama took refuge on the Portuguese corvette Mindello when the insurrection here collapsed.

President Peixoto demanded that the admiral and the officers who were with him be delivered into his hands. The Portuguese minister declined to order the commander of the Mindello to surrender the fugitives, and President Peixoto appealed, it is said, to the Portuguese government to instruct its minister to order the surrender of the insurgent officers.

Whether a reply has been received to this request or not cannot be definitely stated, but yesterday afternoon the Mindello and the Albuquerque, another Portuguese warship, having on board Admiral da Gama and 70 of his officers, put to sea.

It had been thought in some quarters that if the vessels attempted to leave the bay with the fugitives on board, trouble would ensue. There was not, however, the slightest opposition made to their departure, and, as a matter of fact, trouble arising from this source was never probable.

May Join Other Insurgents.

The destination of the warships is not known. It is conjectured that they will go south to Montevideo and land the insurgent officers there. If they are landed at Montevideo, they can easily, if they are so disposed, join the insurgents in the states of Sao Paulo and Rio Grande do Sul, who are still in armed opposition to the government. Anything said regarding their movements is, however, merely speculation.

The fact that Admiral da Gama and his officers have succeeded in getting out of the bay is a matter of great rejoicing among their friends in this city. There is no doubt in the minds of anybody that had the admiral been surrendered to the government, his trial by a drumhead court-martial would have quickly followed. There could only be one result of a trial of this kind, and that would have been sentence of death.

Yellow fever continues epidemic. The deaths from the disease average 20 a day.

The United States cruiser San Francisco, the flagship of Admiral Benham, has sailed hence. The usual salutes were exchanged as she left. It is said here that her destination is Bluefields, Nicaragua.

Italians Showed Fight.

NEW YORK, March 19.—In attempting to arrest some Italian boys shooting craps on the sidewalk in 113th street, the police met with resistance from the grown people of the vicinity and in the free fight that followed two Italians and two policemen were seriously wounded. Sixty arrests were made.

Charged With Murder.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Joseph L. Magee, managing clerk of William M. Mullen's law office, is charged with the murder of the stenographer, Miss Martha J. Fuller, Saturday night. He was held to await the action of the coroner's jury. The bullet entered the left temple and passed out through the right temple.

A Suicide's Farewell.

HARTFORD, March 19.—An unknown man was found dead in his lodgings at 114 State street, having apparently committed suicide. He left a letter "To Mrs. L. E., 65 Laurel street. My soul to God my heart to thee." The suicide had been an inmate of the town house during the winter months.

Well Insured.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 19.—The revised losses of Saturday's fire will foot up to about $100,000; the total insurance is $187,000. Preparations will at once be begun to rebuild. It is somewhat probable that Ferguson's block will contain a modern opera house when rebuilt.

A Failure.

OMAHA, March 19.—There is now some prospect that the Union Pacific wage conference will end in wind. There have come up new differences between the men and the receivers. One of the leaders said last evening that there would be no result reached outside of court.

Washington's New Daily.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Washington Times, a morning daily, appeared for the first time in this city yesterday, and made a very favorable impression. H. J. Brown, formerly of The Post, is business manager of The Times, and Marshal Cushing is the editor-in-chief.

A Surprised Crowd of "Sports."

BROCKTON, Mass., March 19.—Three officers while on the lookout for illegal liquor sellers ran across a crowd of sports engaged in a cockfight in a lot. The crowd was taken completely by surprise. The officers captured seven of the men, five teams and 18 cocks.

Anniversary of the Commune.

A Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Daniel Flowers and her little daughter Marion had a narrow escape from a serious accident Saturday afternoon. They had crossed over from Hearn's drug store to take an electric car when the carriage of Henry Hardwick, driven by his son, came down the depot yard. The horse for some reason jumped one side knocking Mrs. Flowers and her daughter down, the heels of the animal passing within a few inches of the child's head. Mrs. Flowers was struck on the side by the carriage and was quite severely bruised. They were helped into Hearn's drug store and afterward carried home in Mr. Hardwick's carriage. The little girl escaped without a scratch but Mrs. Flowers will be lame for some time.

BUSINESS BETTER.

Ledger Representatives Made a Tour on Saturday of

THE QUINCY GRANITE YARDS.

Most of the Firms Putting on More Men and the Prospects Brighter.

There is no doubt but what the granite business in this city is improving. For nearly a year there has been little or nothing doing in this line, but it has now taken a turn for the better and the prospects are good for the coming season.

To be sure the stone yards are not running at their full capacity, but many are putting on men, which means considerable, for if every firm put on five or six men there would be but few idle who look to this business for a livelihood.

Business of course is not as good as usual at this time of the year but most of the firms report that they are receiving some new orders while there are many who are daily calling at the retail yards looking about with a view of purchasing.

At South Quincy where a large part of the cutting is done, the yards all present an appearance of activity and while some of the firms say business is very dull, others say they cannot complain much and they feel encouraged at the turn business has taken this month.

McGrath Bros. report they have many people calling to look at monuments. They have put on two new men this week and it looks as if business would be good this spring.

Milne & Chalmers also put on four men last week. The firm said they could not complain and the prospect was good.

Swingle & Falconer said business was a little dull and orders were coming in rather slow for this time of the year. They have put on six more men this week.

McGilvary & Jones reported business quiet but they kept moving.

P. T. Fitzgerald put on three new men Monday and report quite a number of orders ahead.

Long & Saunders report having an extra large lot of orders on hand and that business was a little better.

At the Adams granite works Mr. McFarlane thought the prospect not very encouraging.

J. S. Pool reported business rather quiet but he had a few new orders on hand.

Cook & Watkins said they were getting their share of orders. They are building a small addition to their sheds and will put on three or four more men. This firm has a handsome statue of "Hope" nearly completed and orders for another; one goes to New York and the other to Pennsylvania.

Cragg & Hekter are building a small addition to their sheds.

William T. Spargo put on six men last week. Business was fairly good with him and he had as many orders as he wanted for the present.

Mr. Miller of Thomas & Miller was out; a look at the yards however showed that they had a good force of men at work and several handsome monuments in the process of manufacture.

John Mason has just completed a new engine house made necessary by new machinery just put in.

E. J. Qualey & Co. have built a new shed with a movable roof so that stone can be landed in position by the derrick. They have lots of work on hand and have recently put on three men.

Fred Barnicoat has recently built a new office and studio at his yard. Business was picking up and he had recently put on ten men. He has a most beautiful and costly statue of an "Angel of Memory" nearly completed which he will place on exhibition at his yard next Friday.

A call was made at a number of other yards in this vicinity but the proprietors were not found. A glance into their yards however saw indications of reviving business.

TODAY'S COURT.

Charles A. Litchfield of Cohasset was arraigned for drunkenness. His case was continued two weeks to give him an opportunity to earn $6 to pay his fine.

Robert Foy of West Quincy celebrated St. Patrick's, Saturday, by getting drunk. He was brought into court this morning and given 3 months in the House of Correction to sober off in.

John Brecken and George Chapman of Holbrook were fined $7 each for drunkenness.

Daniel Bressniham of Weymouth was arraigned for breaking and entering the house of Flora D. Easterbrook at Weymouth Jan. 13, and the larceny of clothing to the value of $63. He was held in $500 for the grand jury.

The Saturday Shoot.

The Wollaston Trap club held its regular shoot at the Third Hill grounds on Saturday afternoon. The score out of a possible 25 points was as follows:

J. C. Morse,	18
D. B. Lincoln,	15
C. W. Tucker,	11
A. G. Onley,	9
A. P. Gardner,	5

CHIEF WILLIAMS EXPLAINS.

Must Have Harmony to be Efficient—The Records Missing.

Chief Engineer Williams has his innings in the Hose 4 episode and in an interview with a representative of the Journal says:

"There are several reasons why the men were discharged. After I was appointed to my present position by Mayor Hodges I reorganized several of the companies, and among them was Hose 4. Capt. Burrell was retained as Captain of the company. Shortly after this I was taken sick, and when I was able to be around again I paid a visit to Hose 4's house.

"When I entered the building I was surprised to find all the furniture gone, including the company's records. The rules of the fire department hold me responsible for all city property used by the members of the fire department, and when the records were removed I should have been so notified by Capt. Burrell. The members claim to have bought the record book with their own money, but I have the City Solicitor's opinion that since the book was used by employes of the city and for the interests of the city, it is city property.

"The rules say, furthermore, that the records of any company shall be open at any time to the inspection of the Chief Engineer. The records were taken from the house, and though District Engineer Mahoney and myself have asked for them, they have not yet been returned. Then again the old members could not agree with the members I appointed, which made things disagreeable generally.

"The citizens of Quincy pay taxes to have sufficient fire protection, and if I am here but four months I shall endeavor to give them the best service possible, but in order to have efficient fire companies we must have harmony and good feeling among the men.

A RAILROAD WAR

Which Has Every Indication of Ending in Bloodshed.

WOODBINE, N. J., March 19.—This little village is in a foment of excitement. The trouble between the West Jersey and the South Jersey railroads over the latter's attempt to cross the tracks of the former has become critical, and it now seems as though the controversy will end in bloodshed.

Up to the present the West Jersey road has had the monopoly of the traffic to Cape May and points in that section of the state. The South Jersey road recently decided to make an extension through that section and to do this it was necessary to cross the tracks already laid.

The road is now completed, with the exception of a short distance through this village. The crossing is to be made here. Preparations to that end have been going on for some time, but the west road people have now expressed their determination to prevent the connecting of the two sections.

All the employes of the West Jersey road are now encamped near this place, and have been re-enforced by a large body of men whom the company have hired to protect their property, and the gathering is like that of an army ready for battle.

A few miles distant, the workmen of the rival roads are encamped, and about midway between the two forces is the force of 75 special officers, sworn in by Judge Wescott to preserve the peace.

TRAGEDY IN A CHURCH.

John Brady Kills His Wife and Then Takes His Own Life.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 19.—John Brady shot and killed Marie Brady, his wife, and then committed suicide, yesterday, in the Church of the Immaculate Conception in this city. Brady and his wife had been separated about two years. He was much dissipated.

Mrs. Brady went to mass yesterday, arriving after the services. She knelt down to pray near the altar. Brady entered and took a seat behind her. She appears to have been unaware of his presence. No others were in the church. Suddenly Brady drew a pistol, and placing the weapon at the back of his wife's head, drew the trigger. The woman was killed instantly. Then Brady pointed the pistol toward his own body, firing, the ball going through his right lung.

Meanwhile the noise of the shots had attracted back to the church many of the mass celebrants, and they rushed forward to overpower Brady. He brandished his pistol wildly and threatened to shoot any one who advanced. The crowd hesitated.

Then Brady placed the pistol to his head and blew out his brains. Brady was 45 years old and his wife was about the same age. They were once well to do. Since their domestic trouble Brady has been out of work much of the time. He was probably deranged.

HIS LITTLE JOKE.

How a Bad Subject Turned the Tables on an Insurance Agent.

Bob Keyworth of Houston is a tall man, upward of 6 feet high, but he looks as if he was not long for this world. He is hollow chested and so thin that he looks very much as if he had not had anything to eat since the war. When he passes along the streets, the undertakers come out and cast a long, lingering glance at him, and no wonder, for he has been inspiring them with hopes that have never been realized for the last 20 years. He has, moreover, a hacking cough that has the genuine graveyard ring to it.

Not long ago it occurred to him that it would be a good idea to have his life insured. He had previously experienced some astonishment that he had never suffered from the importunity of life insurance agents. To his surprise, he discovered that the companies were afraid to take any risks on his life; that he was a bad subject, as his death might occur at any time. Being of a somewhat humorous turn of mind, Bob made it a practice from that time on to worry life insurance agents on every possible occasion. Not long since he tackled one in the lobby of a Houston hotel. The agent represented an influential New York company. Introducing himself, Bob said:

"I just heard of your arrival and hurried over to see you. For some time past I have been wanting to get my life insured in some good company, and yours is first class."

The agent gazed at the living anatomy before him and was somewhat embarrassed. He hemmed and hawed a few times and said hesitatingly that he was only taking first class risks and that his visitor seemed to be rather feeble.

"Yes," said Bob, "I know I look consumptive, but I've looked this way all my life, and I ain't dead yet. My grandparents are living yet and are both upward of 90 years of age. The old man can thread a needle without crutches—I mean without glasses. I'm good for 100 myself."

The agent shook his head in a deprecatory sort of way.

"I never get drunk or commit suicide and have the digestive power of an anaconda," continued Bob persuasively.

"I don't care to insure your life," said the agent, with increasing firmness.

"That's what all these agents say when I talk to them, but I am offering you special inducements. It is a sacred duty you owe your company to insure my life, my dear sir. You may die before night, and then you will regret having refused my offer. If the company hears of it, they will dock your salary, and I shall make it my duty to let them know how you are neglecting their interests."

"Excuse me, but I have a business engagement," said the agent, trying to get away, but Bob reached out a skeleton hand and detained him, saying:

"I have been vaccinated several times, and it took each time. Besides I am a man of influence here, and if you succeed in insuring me there's no telling how many other prominent citizens of Houston you will capture."

"I'm too busy to listen to you."

"I don't wish to bore you," replied Bob, "so I will call again later in the day, when we will talk it over."

The suffering agent rushed out of the hotel, and Bob laughed until the tears rolled down his hollow cheeks.—Texas Siftings.

A certain "funny man," whose name is familiar to those who read the comic papers of the day, was making a deposit of some checks at his bank when the receiving teller remarked:

"Oh, well, Mr. B——, I suppose the hard times don't affect men of your profession? People must have poetry, I take it."

"Yes," said Mr. B—— cheerfully. "We poets thrive in hard times or easy times."

"I presume so," continued the teller. "It must be a pretty good business. I imagine that a poem of yours must be good for a hundred dollars anywhere you please to offer it."

"Ye-e-e-s," said Mr. B—— thoughtfully. "Oh, of course, of course," he added.

Two days later he went into the bank again and handed a deposit slip to the teller. It read thus:

Cash	$14 80
Checks	36 10
Four poems	400 00
Total	$450 90

But Mr. B——'s bankbook showed a deposit of only $50.90.—Philadelphia Times.

YOUNG WINDEBANK.

They shot young Windebank just here,
By Merton, where the sun
Strikes on the wall. 'Twas in a year
Of blood the deed was done.

At morning from the meadows dim
He watched them dig his grave,
Was this in truth the end for him,
The well beloved and brave?

He marched with soldier scarf and sword,
Set free to die that day
And free to speak once more the word
That marshaled men obey.

But silent on the silent band
That faced him, stern as death
He looked, and on the summer land
And on the grave beneath.

Then, with a sudden smile and proud,
He waved his plume and cried:
"The king! The king!" and laughed aloud,
"The king! The king!" and died.

Let none affirm he vainly fell
And paid the barren cost
Of having loved and served too well
A poor cause and a lost.

He in the soul's eternal cause
Went forth as martyrs must—
The kings who make the spirit laws
And rule us from the dust.

Whose wills, unshaken by the breath
Of adverse fate, endure
To give us honor strong as death
And loyal love as sure.
—Margaret S. Wooda.

HER NOM DE PLUME.

I stand here alone—as much alone this clear, cold winter morning as though the wastes of Sahara stretch out around me. Yet I am in a pretty room—a luxurious room—with a glorious fire glowing in the silver barred grate and the curtains of frosty lace half obscuring the outside world. A room with a warm crimson carpet, a jardiniere of blooming plants, a redbird swinging idly to and fro in its gilded cage, a piano in the corner and pictures on the walls, and books—books everywhere.

This is my especial sanctum, my own den, whither I retreat from the storms of the world, the cold, pitiless blasts of adversity—and find peace. Yet I am a woman—a sensitive, imaginative woman—and if sometimes a tiny touch of discontent starts into my heart—a feeling of loneliness—it surely need not concern any one but myself. "Man was not made to live alone," and, for the matter of that, neither was woman. Yet better a lonely, single life than an unhappy double existence. So I say as I go over to my desk and seat myself for the daily "grind."

First I will introduce myself. My name is Vere St. Albans Hale, and I am a newspaper correspondent, writer of magazine articles and everything else in the imagination line for which I can find sale. The reader must not object to the implied inference that the newspaper correspondent is to be classed with writers of fiction. Yet whence do they glean all their scraps of wonderful information?

For a long time I have been writing articles for a leading magazine under a masculine nom de plume—Vere St. Albans—which is an abbreviation of my own given name attached to my second. To my surprise, the articles have been received with far more appreciation than I had dared to hope for, and that fact, accompanied by liberal checks, has proved a very pleasant episode in my hardworking existence. This morning as I seat myself at my desk preparatory to coming down on the day's work like the traditional wolf on the fold I am interrupted by the appearance of my own servant—a girl with a fair, open countenance and general vacuity.

"Well, Abby," I observe, a little testily, for she is transgressing a well known rule regarding the interrupting of my work, "what is it?"

"Please, miss" (in a solemn voice, which somehow provokes me to smile), "there's a lady—that is to say, a girl—in the deception room."

A small antechamber where my stray visitors are first received before being welcomed into the sanctum. I smile a little more.

"Reception room, Abby," I correct severely, but feeling an irresistible desire to expand the smile into a laugh.

"What is her business?"

"Oh, she wants to see Mr. Vere St. Albans—that's the very name, miss" (proudly). "I've said it over and over till I know it's right."

"Mr. Vere St. Albans!"

I repeat the name—the unlucky name—in a bewildered way.

"What does she wish of him?"

Abby courtesies.

"Please, miss, I don't know. But she's a-carryin a little book in her hand. No, miss, she's not a book agent, 'cause I asked her. She's a college girl, she says, and—and—I believe it's some writing she wants done."

I arise in mock resignation. I did have an idea—a bright and brilliant idea—in my brain when I seated myself at my desk this morning. It has flown now. Will it ever return?

I take myself into the reception room and find my visitor, a pretty little schoolgirl, overdressed and laden with schoolbooks. Conspicuous on the very top lies a velvet bound volume. Yes, I have seen such volumes before, "many a time and oft," and it does not require the word "Autographs" in huge, gilt letters to explain its mission. She arises at once.

"Pardon me for intruding," she begins, "but I have ventured to call to request the autograph of the great writer, Vere St. Albans. Will you kindly intercede in my behalf, madam, and beg him to write in my album?"

There is the situation in a nutshell. She believes Vere St. Albans to be a man, and she wants his illustrious autograph. Well, the very easiest way in the world to get it over with and to be at liberty to return to my day's work at the desk is to grant her request.

"I will ask him," I return, feeling like a small conspirator.

"Oh, will you, please?" her face lighting up wonderfully. "How good of you! You see, there's a wager on it. Brother Tom has bet me a dozen pairs of kid gloves—six buttons and assorted shades—that I'll not be able to get St. Albans' autograph. He says there is a mystery about him. I think you are very kind to promise to help me!" she adds gushingly.

I do my best to repress a smile, and so taking the book from her hand I retire to the privacy of my sanctum, where I proceed to inscribe my name in my largest, manliest chirography. I dry it carefully and return to the reception room.

"Oh, how very kind in you!" my visitor gushes again. "I shall prize it as long as I live! Are you his sister?"

I shake my head.

"Oh, not his—wife?"

I fancy consternation in the sweet, thrill, girlish voice. Evidently the fact of a "better half" would forever obscure the fame of the popular writer.

Again I shake my head.

"Vere St. Albans is not married," I return, and the violet eyes dance with delight. She is pleased and does not attempt to conceal it.

"I am his nearest friend," I added explanatorily, "nearer to him than any one else."

And then I bow her out and go back to my work. But all day long I am visited by thoughts of the pretty college girl, and I fall to wondering if Brother Tom paid his wager like a man of honor.

The next day "Vere St. Albans" receives cards of invitation to several affairs. The envelopes are all addressed to Mr. Vere St. Albans, and gradually it dawns upon me that I am universally believed to be of the masculine gender. It is amusing and provoking, but the situation has its compensations. I decline every invitation in Vere St. Albans' name and feel almost like an impostor as I do so.

Day after day I am besieged by callers who demand to look upon the face of the mysterious St. Albans. Of course I refuse everybody. I double Abby's wages and station her in the small entrance hall, with orders to admit no one. I receive letters from my publishers reproaching me with my seclusion.

"Don't be a hermit, my dear fellow," says one of the letters from the august head of the house; "a little society will freshen you up, and besides you have really made a hit in that last article, and people are desirous of meeting you. My son, whom we have just admitted to the firm, is very anxious to meet you."

And so on until I feel the blood grow cold within my veins at thought of possible complications.

Can I always preserve my incognita? Will they not besiege my den and ferret the truth and me—out of it together? It comes at last. One bright winter morning Abby ushers into my presence a portly looking old gentleman, and with him a man of some 30 years, tall, dark, handsome—just such a face as I love to portray as the faces of my heroes.

"I beg your pardon!"

Mr. Atherton falls back, overcome with surprise.

"The servant showed us in here. We are desirous of meeting Mr. Vere St. Albans. We are of the publishing firm of Atherton & Sons. I wish to see Mr. St. Albans in regard to some especial work. Will you kindly request him to give us audience?

I feel my face growing red—redder—reddest. I rise from my chair and motion them to be seated near. I open my mouth to blurt forth the whole truth, but some perverse imp seizes my tongue, and instead I falter:

"You cannot see Vere St. Albans today, gentlemen. He—is indisposed."

So he is, indeed, indisposed to receive visitors.

"You are Mrs. Vere St. Albans, I presume," he observes. And I—oh, depths of infamy! I am so embarrassed, so overwhelmed with embarrassment under the cool, steady gaze of the younger man that I bow and mutter something which sounds strangely like "Yes."

At that moment there is a curious bustle within the flat where my little home is situated. An uproar all at once, and in rushes Abby, wild and disheveled, and clings to my arm like a mad creature.

"Oh, Miss Vere! Miss Vere?" she shrieks, "the house is on fire! Come, let us get away, or we shall be burned alive!"

It is all true. The fire has been burning so long unsuspected that now it breaks out with irresistible force, and soon the whole building is in flames. But long before then we are quite safe. My two visitors bear my desk down stairs between them, and while the elder man keeps watch and ward over it outside upon the street the younger returns to me.

"We must get your husband out," he says eagerly. "Show me his room, and I will do my best to save him!"

"My husband!" I falter feebly. "Why, I have no husband!"

"Then who is Vere St. Albans?"

"I am!"

So the truth is told, and somehow I feel better.

When we are all safe on terra firma, my new friend turns to me and says in a low tone:

"My name is Tom Atherton. My young sister called to obtain Vere St. Albans' autograph. She is more than half in love with the unknown and mysterious Vere. I shall take pleasure in undeceiving her."

Then after a long pause, during which he studies my shamed face attentively, he adds:

"And I am quite in love with Vere St. Albans. I have known that writer for months through her manuscripts. Tell me, is there any hope for me?"

What can I say but murmur something about short acquaintance and all the rest of the conventional excuses that flock through my brain. But time does away with the first excuse, since he proceeds henceforth to devote himself to cultivating my acquaintance, and the others he puts aside as he would a shadow.

So one day Tom takes me to his home, and I am duly presented as his betrothed wife in propria persona.—New York Weekly.

—The birthday of Neal Dow, March 20, is going to be celebrated this year all over the English-speaking world—but Mr. Dow doesn't want anybody to drink his health in the old-fashioned way. He was mayor of Portland when he prepared his first draft of the famous Maine prohibitory law in 1851. In the forty-three years since then he has had ample evidence of the beneficent influence of the law; and though liquor has often been smuggled into the state and the law at times evaded, yet no other section of our land can claim such long and happy immunity from the corrupting influence of intemperance through license or free rum.

—During the month of January, 1894, the United States government received from customs $21,102,476.50, internal revenue $12,052,917.57 and miscellaneous $1,847,658.24—total, $35,003,052.31. The expenditures during the month were $38,351,452.18, divided thus: Pensions, $13,038,270.40; civil and miscellaneous, $10,451,683.25; interest, $7,103,836.25; war department, $4,270,785.65; navy, $2,319,309.60, and Indians, $1,167,567.03.

—While Elijah Morse was advocating the passage of his resolution on Tuesday to put God in the constitution he took from his pocket a silver dollar to emphasize the Nation's belief in a Supreme Creator by pointing to the motto upon the coin: "In God we trust," but before he had time to return the piece to his pocket Representative Lane assured him that that motto had been repealed several months ago.—Athol Chronicle.

TO HELP WOMEN.

That Is Why This Woman Writes.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Few people have any idea of the suffering that oppresses some women.

Pains run rampant through their entire bodies. They suffer secretly as long as they can, and then go all to pieces and don't care what happens.

Yet this misery is easily relieved; thousands of American women proclaim the fact.

The portrait presented here is that of Mrs. J. M. Bender, who lives on the old York Road at Nicetown, Pa. She has been for many years in very poor health.

She had falling of the womb and other forms of female weakness, with headache, severe backache, pains all over her body, and serious kidney trouble.

Her blood was in such a bad state that physicians said she had dropsy. Nearly discouraged she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to her great surprise it made her a well woman.

She now wishes to tell women all over the world to take the Vegetable Compound and be well. Any druggist has it.

Nothing in all the world has cured so many cases of female weaknesses as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Why don't you try it?

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.

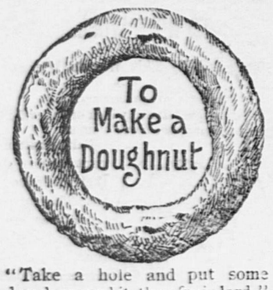

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

In the Temple of Wisdom.

"Give me thy dreams," she said. And I,
With empty hands and very poor,
Watched my fair, flowery visions die
Upon the temple's marble floor.

"Give joy," she cried. I let joy go.
I saw with cold, unclouded eyes
The crimson of the sunset glow
Across the disenchanted skies.

"Give me thy youth," she said. I gave,
And, sudden clouded, died the sun,
And on the green mound of a grave
Fell the slow raindrops, one by one.

"Give love," she cried. I gave that too.
"Give beauty." Beauty sighed and fled.
For what on earth should beauty do
When love, who was her life, was dead?

She took the balm of innocent tears
To hiss upon her altar coal;
She took the hopes of all my years,
And at the last she took my soul.

With heart made empty of delight,
And hands that held no more fair things,
I questioned her, "What shall requite
The savor of my offerings?"

"The gods," she said, "with generous hand,
Give guerdon for thy gifts of cost.
Wisdom is thine—to understand
The worth of all that thou hast lost."
—E. Nesbit.

PACKED IN A TRUNK.

How a London Woman Disposed of a Murdered Man.

TELLTALE SPOTS OF BLOOD

Led to the Discovery of a Most Fiendish Crime.

LONDON, March 19.—This city has for a comparatively long time been exempt from murder, but yesterday a sensation was caused by the discovery of a crime which somewhat resembles the notorious Gouffe murder that occurred in Paris.

The scene of this latest London horror was in Grafton street in the Soho district, which is infested with foreigners of the lower class. An Austrian woman named Marie Hermann, who is well known to the police as a night prowler, recently rented a small room in a house in Grafton street.

On Thursday night last, she, in company with an elderly man, was seen to enter the room. Subsequently loud quarreling was heard in the room by other tenants in the house, but as wordy wars were of frequent occurrence no attention was paid to this disturbance.

A Roommate's Suspicion.

A woman named Hutchins, who lodged with the Hermann woman, on Friday found blood stains on a sink, and spoke to the Hermann woman about them. The latter passed the matter off lightly, but on Saturday she changed her lodgings, taking better apartments in Marylebone street. She took with her a heavy trunk, which she asked should be carefully handled.

In the meantime the suspicions of the Hutchins woman were aroused, owing to the bloodstains she had found on the sink. In addition, it became noised about the house that the man who had gone to the Hermann woman's room had not been seen leave it. The Hutchins woman followed the Hermann woman when she moved, and after learning her new address, informed the police that she suspected that foul play had been done.

Officers were sent to the house in Marylebone street, where the woman had taken up her residence, and a search was made of the apartments occupied by her. The trunk which the woman had been so careful about was in the room. The police forced it open and found in it the body of the missing man. His head had been battered, evidently with some blunt instrument. The body presented a frightful appearance and the clothing in which it was attired was drenched with blood.

The Hermann woman was at once taken into custody on a charge of willful murder. The body has been recognized as that of a well-to-do ex-jobmaster named Stefens. He was 76 years old.

It is believed that the Hermann woman had an accomplice in committing the murder, as Stevens was a muscular man. It may be, however, that he was killed while asleep. The prisoner was 43 years old. She is ugly, almost to repulsiveness.

Eighty Thousand Took Part.

LONDON, March 19.—An impressive demonstration to protest against the action of the house of lords in rejecting the employers' liability bill was held in Hyde park yesterday. About 80,000 persons were in attendance. The chief speakers were Messrs. Burns, Woods, Arch and Cremer. Resolutions were adopted calling upon them to introduce the employers' liability bill immediately on the reassembling of the house of commons and also demanding that the government take steps to bring about the entire abolition of the house of lords.

Their Boat Capsized.

PROVIDENCE, March 19.—The body of Edward H. Bennett was recovered yesterday off Chippewanoxette Point. The body of Charles P. Spencer has not been found. The two young men were drowned while duckshooting in Greenwich bay Saturday. In some manner their boat became overturned, and as their pockets were heavily weighted with ammunition it was impossible for them to reach land.

Much Work to Be Done.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—By the appointment of Senator White to be an associate justice, the supreme court of the United States has once more its legal quota of justices. There are enough full-bench cases to occupy the attention of the court for more than a month, and the present expectation is that April will be consumed in that way.

Protests of No Avail.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The D'Oyley Carte Opera company, which is to perform Gilbert and Sullivan's new opera, "Utopia Limited," arrived yesterday on the steamship Campania. They were allowed to land, notwithstanding the protests of the Chorus Singers' association.

No Official Inquiry Desired.

LOWELL, Mass., March 19.—The parents of Robert Bee, who was accidentally shot and killed by Benjamin Parsons, Saturday, have requested the police not to take any steps toward official inquiry. They are convinced that the shooting was purely accidental.

Parents Quarantined.

LYNN, Mass., March 19.—Ida M. Russell, a smallpox patient, died in the pesthouse yesterday and was buried at midnight. Her parents, who accompanied her to the pesthouse, were taken to their home and will be kept in quarantine two weeks.

Faith In Rosebery.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The council of the Irish National federation met yesterday at Cooper Union. Patrick Gleason said Lord Rosebery's speech in Edinburgh proved the sincerity of the Liberal party to the home rule question.

A Big Contract.

LYNN, Mass., March 19.—The Thomson-Houston Electric company has signed a contract with the Cataract General Electric company of New York to furnish them with machinery to the amount of $100,000.

Dropped Dead.

BOSTON, March 19.—Dr. John P. Sheehan of Dennisville, Me., dropped dead in the New York and New England depot last night. Heart disease was the cause of death.

All Quiet at Denver.

DENVER, March 19.—General McCook yesterday withdrew the federal troops from this city to Fort Logan.

BENZINE AND ASPHALT.

Deadly Fumes Almost Caused the Deaths of Three Men.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., March 19.—In the large tower on Capron's hill yesterday George Wilcox, Patrick Scully and Charles Scott, riggers connected with the firm of C. T. Berry & Co. of Dover, N. H., narrowly escaped suffocation from the fumes of asphalt and benzine.

The men were engaged in painting the interior of the tank, and were on a raft 110 feet from the top and 15 feet from the manhole at the bottom. The ingredients which were used in the preparation with which the interior was coated were of a poisonous nature.

At an early hour the riggers began their work, and had but a short space to paint before the completion of the job. A raft, upon which the men stood, was built at the top of the standpipe, and by letting the water escape, the men were lowered to the place where the work was to be done.

When the water was but 15 feet deep, the outlet was closed and the men began mixing paint. At noon, while the men were hurrying to finish their labor, Wilcox became semi-unconscious almost instantly, and Scully and Scott felt a peculiar sensation overtaking them.

Scott, with much presence of mind, called to the watch at the top of the tank. By this time all three men were more or less overcome. They could not be rescued from the top of the well, so the outlet was opened again and all the water in the tank was allowed to run to waste.

The manhole at the base of the tank was removed, and through this opening the partially unconscious men were dragged into the fresh air and taken to the hotel for treatment.

Wilcox was in the most serious condition, but he will probably recover. He is just recovering from a fall of 70 feet from a church steeple at South Hadley Falls.

The cause of yesterday's disaster was due to the prevailing high winds that swept across the top of the tank and acted as a suction to draw out the fresh air, so the fumes of asphalt and benzine filled the reservoir.

RESOURCES IN RESERVE.

Breckinridge's Counsel Evidently Expect Their Client to Win.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The legal complications and moral side issues of the Breckinridge case, which are gradually coming to light as the trial progresses, increase the public interest here in Washington, where the Kentucky orator is best known, and make it the most sensational scandal ever reviewed in the criminal courts here.

The mystery of the defense will be solved in a few days, however, for it is the present intention to place Colonel Breckinridge on the witness stand as the first witness in his own behalf. It is evident that his attorneys place their principal reliance upon the story which he will tell, and from their sanguine state of mind today, it seems probable that they must have in reserve resources which have not been made known.

That Colonel Breckinridge's recital will be a long one was foretold by one of his attorneys yesterday, when he said that the defendant would doubtless be on the witness stand three days. This attorney prophesied that the trial will continue for two weeks or more. He said that the cross-examination of Miss Pollard would consume two days more; that Colonel Breckinridge would be on the stand three days; that two days would be occupied in reading depositions for the defense and three days in closing oratory for the ears of the jury.

From this statement, it appears that the defense expects to probe into the circumstances surrounding Miss Pollard's life in much greater detail than was indicated by the commencement of the cross-examination by Mr. Butterworth.

New Clew Furnished.

GEORGETOWN, Mass., March 19.—A new clew to the identity of the murdered man found in the brook March 1 has been found. Officer Hull learned from George Nelson of Boxford that a person answering the description of the murdered man worked and boarded with him during the months of December and January and left his house about Feb. 1. While there he said repeatedly that he was in trouble over some woman.

Will Worry the Big Three.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—The Chronicle prints a story to the effect that Mrs. Stanford is about to dispose of her large holdings in the Southern Pacific and the associate corporation, the Pacific Improvement company, to the great embarrassment of the Crocker, Huntington and Hopkins interests.

Another Victim.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 19.—Maurice Harney, one of the victims of the explosion on the torpedo station launch Wave, has died as a result of the burns received. This is the second of the men burned that have died. Harney's relatives are to sue the government.

Probably Infanticide.

WATERTOWN, Mass., March 19.—Soon after 1 o'clock yesterday several boys, when in the rear of the Watertown Water Supply company's works, found close to the river bank the body of an infant entirely without clothing. The police are investigating.

A Hard-Fought Battle.

EL PASO, Tex., March 19.—One of the hardest fights that ever took place in the west was fought yesterday between Australian Billy Smith and Billy Lewis of Butte. The fight was for $500. Lewis was knocked out in the 14th round.

Box Factory Burned.

KEENE, N. H., March 19.—The building occupied by the Cheshire Box company at Sprague ville was totally destroyed by fire, together with two barns and a lot of lumber. The total loss is $19,000. The fire was of incendiary origin.

Brooklyn's Big Blaze.

BROOKLYN, March 19.—A fire, resulting in the destruction of over $200,000 worth of property, broke out last night in the tinware manufactory of Silas Ilstey & Co. Three hundred persons were employed in the building.

THE QUESTION.

HE.

I asked her today,
But she gave me no answer,
Neither word would she say,
Though I asked her today
In the most approved way
Of the modern romancer.
I asked her today,
But she gave me no answer.

SHE.

He has spoken at last.
Shall I take him or leave him?
At my feet he is cast.
He has spoken at last.
If his hopes I should blast,
Would it really grieve him?
He has spoken at last.
Shall I take him or leave him?

HER MAMMA.

Is he rich, as they say,
Or a penniless masker?
I must find out today
If he's rich, as they say,
For she's not said him nay,
And again he may ask her.
Is he rich, as they say,
Or a penniless masker?
—Yankee Blade.

At the Nice Race Meeting.

A race meeting is much the same all the world over, and the Nice gathering can hardly be called the exception.

There is the same noisy crowd and crush at the railway station—the races are held at Le Var, some few miles out of Nice proper—and the familiar line of beggars, blind, halt, lame and more so, as ready with curses as blessings—all the way from the station to the course.

The three card trickster, the fortune teller and the whole brotherhood of the ring, each with bag and board, the latter bearing an English name, as a rule, are to be seen, each in his appropriate place. The sun may shine with greater regularity and brilliance and the landscape with its slim rows of eucalyptus trees look more delicate and fragile than we are accustomed to, but otherwise all has the appearance of the "correct card."

It is a charming little course at Le Var, and in fine weather it would be difficult to find anywhere a more representative gathering of beauty and fashion than may be seen in the paddock on a big day.—Pall Mall Budget.

Missionaries.

Archdeacon Farrar sets forth forcibly the large debt of science to missions in these words: "Is it nothing that through their labor in the translation of the Bible the German philologist in his study may have before him the grammar and vocabulary of 250 languages? Who created the science of anthropology? The missionaries. Who rendered possible the deeply important science of comparative religion? The missionaries. Who discovered the great chain of lakes in central Africa, on which will turn its future destiny? The missionaries. Who have been the chief explorers of Oceanica, America and Asia? The missionaries. Who discovered the famous Nestorian monument in Singar Fu? A missionary. Who discovered the still more famous Moabite stone? A missionary. Who discovered the Hittite inscriptions? A missionary."—Exchange.

A Possible Derivation of "News."

The word is not, as many imagine, derived from the adjective new. In former years—between the years 1595 and 1730—it was a prevalent practice to put over the periodical publications of the day the initial letters of the cardinal points of the compass, thus:

N
W—E
S

importing that those papers contained intelligence from the four quarters of the globe, and from the practice is derived the term newspaper.—New York Mail and Express.

Mahone's Flesh Wound.

General Mahone was wounded at second Manassas, and some one, to comfort Mrs. Mahone, said: "Oh, don't be uneasy. It is only a flesh wound." Mrs. Mahone, through her tears, cried out: "Oh, that is impossible! There is not flesh enough on him for that." Those who have seen General Mahone can appreciate the remark.—Buffalo News.

Would Feel Natural.

Wife—What effect will these powders have?

Doctor—He will seem rather dull and stupid, but don't feel alarmed.

Wife—Oh, no. He's that way when he's perfectly well, you know.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

To Test Steel.

The simplest way to tell iron from steel is to pour on the metal a drop of nitric acid and allow it to act for one minute. On rinsing with water a grayish white stain will be seen if the metal is iron; a black one if it is steel.—Toronto Mail.

Under Officer (to new cavalry recruit)—Never approach the horses from behind without speaking. If you do, they'll kick you on that thick head of yours, and the end of it will be we'll have nothing but lame horses in the squadron.

An old lady who claims "to know all about it" says the only way to prevent steamboat explosions is to make the engineers "bile their water on shore." In her opinion "all the bustin is done by cooking the steam on board the boat."

There are just three women physicians in the state of Delaware, and not one of these is native born. There are no women lawyers, women journalists or women ministers in the state.

Sire was originally used to designate the proprietor of a farm. Rising in dignity, it was afterward applied to a nobleman, then used in addressing a monarch.

DEATH IN ITS WAKE.

The Cyclone In Texas Killed at Least Twenty Persons.

MORE THAN A HUNDRED WOUNDED.

Tennessee and Arkansas Are Deluged by Rain.

DALLAS, March 20.—The storms which swept over northern Texas Saturday night, Sunday and yesterday are unparalleled in severity. The death roll will reach 20 and the list of wounded over 100. At Emery the cyclone knocked the town nearly out of existence. There were many other towns visited and handled roughly. Mayor Barry has called for contributions to relieve the sufferers, many of whom have been ruined and mourn the loss of members of their families.

An electric storm, followed by a miniature deluge of rain, fell upon Dallas and in all the countries around yesterday. No breaks in any of the railroads have yet been reported, but it is nearly certain many will occur. The river in front of the city is rapidly rising.

Communication Cut Off.

NACODOCHES, Tex., March 20.—A cyclone passed through this county and a second tornado traversed a wide scope of country. Rain has been falling in sheets; so the communication with the stricken section has been suspended and only meager details are obtainable. Every house in the Whitaker negro colony was blown away, and a number severely hurt.

In the Grimes neighborhood, eight miles from here, there is not a fence or hut left. Daniel Grimes was killed, and his wife, who was confined to her bed, received fatal injuries. The corpse of a young lady was mangled beyond recognition. Many inmates of the houses were fatally injured. Jake Ballinger was killed by flying timbers. Relief parties have been organized to go from here. It is reported that Hilland, in Bell county, and Bartlett were washed out.

Still Raining.

LITTLE ROCK, March 20.—The storm which began in Arkansas Saturday night has not yet abated. The average rainfall from Eufala to Memphis has been four inches. The Arkansas river is rising rapidly, and will, it is expected, reach the danger point by Thursday morning. Reports indicate that the storm has been very severe throughout the state. Two washouts have been found on the Iron Mountain road, south of this city, and no trains have arrived from Texarkana since Monday. Several hundred feet of the cotton belt track is washed out.

Tied Up by Water.

MEMPHIS, March 20.—The storm continues in all its intensity and the downpour has been incessant, causing damage to roads and bridges and overflowing branches and bayous. In the city water filled the streets and gutters and impeded or stopped altogether for a time traffic over the street car lines.

Streams Overflowed.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., March 20.—The most violent electric and hail storm ever known has been prevailing here during the past three days, causing all streams to overflow their banks. Fears are entertained that much damage will be done.

Killed by Hailstones.

TEXARKANA, Ark., March 20.—A severe hailstorm visited Saratoga and the surrounding vicinity, killing five people and severely injuring many others.

Against the Seigniorage Bill.

NEW YORK, March 20.—President Thomas of the Produce Exchange was yesterday handed a petition signed by over 500 members of the exchange requesting President Cleveland to veto the seigniorage bill on the ground that it would be detrimental to the business interests of the country.

BOSTON, March 20.—A lengthy document, signed by over 50 of the most prominent bankers in this city, was last night forwarded to President Cleveland, urging the necessity of refusing to sign the seigniorage bill, stating that it will ruin the banking business, create distrust and in a measure ruin the financial standing of the country.

Knights of the Quill.

BOSTON, March 20.—The 12th annual reunion of the Suburban Press association was held at the United States hotel. Editor Whittaker of the New England Farmer presided. Governor Greenhalge, Lieutenant Governor McLean of New Hampshire, Edward Stanwood, E. J. Carpenter, Mrs. Whittaker, of the New England Women's Press association, and others, made speeches. "Law of Libel" was the topic of discussion. In the evening the entire party attended the Hollis Street theater.

Ingenious Counterfeiting.

OMAHA, March 20.—Treasury secret service officers are working in Omaha and vicinity to unearth a private mint, which is alleged to have turned out over a half a million standard silver dollars, using the same amount of silver and alloy as the government. The profits of the gang are made from the seigniorage, which gives to the makers a rake-off of 51 cents on each dollar made.

A Bloodthirsty Youngster.

ABBEVILLE, Ala., March 20.—Dick Vant, a 10-year-old colored boy, asked a 12-year-old brother for a piece of biscuit which he was eating, and on being refused, shot him in the head and killed him. Dick killed a 6-year-old brother two months ago with a club, and a month ago he cut three fingers off the hand of his little sister with an ax.

NO ACTION TAKEN.

Fall River Spinners Have a Conference With Manufacturers.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 20.—After a long conference between the committees of the cotton manufacturers' association and the Fall River Mule Spinners' association the meeting was adjourned, without any action being taken, to meet again in three weeks.

The manufacturers first tried to draw the spinners out, and finally stated that a general cutdown of 10 per cent for all classes of help was about what would be recommended. The spinners were opposed to such action and stated that it would be resisted. They recommended that the mills run only four days a week.

This did not meet favor with the manufacturers, who claimed that such a curtailment would increase the cost of manufacturing, as taxes, insurance, interest, and other regular expenses aside from supplies would not be reduced.

The spinners withdrew twice for private consultation before the conference closed. They were asked to meet the manufacturers again in a week and state what they proposed to do, and declined, saying the time was too short. The manufacturers agreed to two weeks, and then to accommodate the meeting of the National Spinners' association, the conference was adjourned for three weeks.

THE FULL PENALTY.

Justice Sutherland Will Have to Go to Prison "If" Found.

BROOKLYN, March 20.—Chief Justice Sutherland failed to appear before Judge Brown yesterday, and the judge sentenced him to the full penalty—one year's imprisonment and $500 fine.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says that it learns on undoubted authority that Sutherland is in Nassau, N. P., and publishes the following cablegram dated Nassau, which it asserts was received by close friends of Sutherland at Paterson, N. J.:

"Kenny arrived safe. Telephone Mack. More by letter."

Kenny is the abbreviation of Kenneth and the name by which Sutherland is known to his intimates. The identity of "Mack" is unknown beyond the fact that he is a close political friend of the above justice at Gravesend.

PATERSON, N. J., March 20.—William Sutherland of this city sailed for Nassau, N. P. This may be the man who was mistaken for Justice Sutherland.

BONUS OF $100,000

Asked by Bath Iron Works From the City of New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 20.—A proposition has been made public on behalf of the Bath (Me.) iron works, regarding which there have been conferences between officials of that company and representatives of the city. The proposition from Bath is that they be paid $100,000 to reimburse them for losses sustained in sacrificing real estate in Bath and the cost of moving; that New London people take $150,000 in bonds of the company; that the New London and Northern Railroad company give them land and water frontage which they selected, and that it be filled in at actual cost.

Other considerations in the way of low taxes, water rates and additional land are included. In return for these concessions they are to establish a plant costing $400,000. It is doubtful if this offer will be accepted. No action has been taken on it as yet. Opinion is against the $100,000 bonus.

A FIENDISH CRIME.

Young Girl's Body Dismembered and Hidden In a Coal Bin.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The Herald today publishes the story of the finding of the body of a child, headless and armless, concealed in a coal bin in Hell's kitchen, which is located on Thirty-ninth street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues. The clothing was identified as that worn by the 12-year-old daughter of John Martin. The child was evidently kidnapped, killed and mutilated. The missing arms and head were sawed off and the body was then thrown into boiling water.

Crisis Bridged Over.

PARIS, March 20.—The cabinet crisis which was caused because the senate refused to take action on the measure creating a special ministry of the colonies has been averted. The senate approved the bill by a vote of 225 to 32, and later the senate agreed to the grant asked for in connection with the creation of this new ministry by a vote of 216 to 31.

More Testimony Against Shea.

TROY, N. Y., March 20.—In the famous election murder inquest the seventh witness testified to seeing "Bat" Shea not only fire in the melee, but deliberately kill Robert Ross while he was prostrate. The witness was August Loebele.

Giving Them a Chance.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 20.—Chief Justice Gilfillan has granted a writ of habeas corpus in the case of the Floyd brothers, convicted of complicity in the looting of the Bank of Minneapolis. The point raised is a technical one.

Baffled the Sports.

LONDON, March 20.—A sensation was created in sporting circles here when The Sportsman announced that it was reported that Cloister had broken down. Betting on Cloister has declined 6 to 1 against.

The Beale-Blaine Engagement.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The engagement of Miss Harriet Blaine and Truxton Beale was formally announced last evening at a dinner given by Mrs. Blaine. Mr. Beale is about 34 years old, and will, it is said, inherit a large fortune.

Missing From Gloucester.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 20.—Thomas Rose of this city disappeared 12 weeks ago and no tidings have since been heard from him. He was last seen in Ipswich, slightly unbalanced. His wife is distracted.

They Favor Davis.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 20.—Ex-Mayor Carroll was nominated by the Democrats for state senator last night. Six men were named for representatives. They favor ex-Governor Davis for United States senator.

DECEIVED MRS. WING.

Breckinridge's Bride, However, Still Has Faith In Him.

RUMORS OF DIVORCE DENIED.

Substance of Miss Pollard's Testimony In Court.

LOUISVILLE, March 20.—The wife of a prominent attorney who is acquainted with the inside facts of the Breckinridge scandal said yesterday in speaking of the rumor that Mrs. Breckinridge would seek a divorce: "The rumor that she now intends seeking a divorce is entirely without foundation. I received a letter from her last Saturday in which she was in good spirits. Colonel Breckinridge she believes now to be the victim of blackmail.

"I have tried to keep myself aloof from participating in this affair until now it seems it would be false to my convictions of right if I refrained from making known a few inside facts about this secret marriage of Mr. Breckinridge and his present wife. Many have blamed her as being a party to a plot to prevent the fulfilling of his vows to Madeleine Pollard.

"The truth is, Colonel Breckinridge has played the deceiver in her case also. She knew nothing whatever of his relations and obligations to Miss Pollard at the time she married Colonel Breckinridge. He knew that Miss Pollard would push her claims and before she had time to utterly compromise him he hastened the marriage, both because he loved and felt her necessary to his happiness and also because he thought of her rank and station that would serve as bulwarks against Miss Pollard's statements.

Making Mrs. Wing His Victim

"On the day Mrs. Wing was married in this city, Colonel Breckinridge vowed by all the saints that he hardly knew Miss Pollard, but that she was very much in love with him, and he was a comparative stranger to her.

"I do not think Dr. Scott or any of his family knew of the secret marriage. The marriage at his residence was simply to relieve Colonel Breckinridge from any further annoyance from Miss Pollard, and to prove to the friends and relatives of Mrs. Wing his loyalty to her, as well as to refute Miss Pollard's publication of her engagement to him.

"So far as the rumor of Dr. Scott's urging the marriage of Colonel Breckinridge and his sister is concerned, I do not think he had anything to do with the affair. Colonel Breckinridge was too anxious to have his marriage take place, thinking that Miss Pollard would never pursue the subject further."

A Wonderful Woman.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Madeleine Pollard faced her opponents on the witness stand yesterday under a continuous fire of cross questions, and the trial was like a play in which one actor is starred to the exclusion and belittlement of all accessories. Major Ben Butterworth played a minor part as the questioner, all the interest centering about the slender, black-robed plaintiff in the case.

It was the most interesting day of the sensational trial, and it was made more so by the masterful display of intellectual resources of quick perception and of telling replies which flashed forth at every turn of the plot as the lawyers followed up every possible trail which might lead to admissions casting any sort of a shadow on the life of the woman apart from those passages which had been identified with the career of the Kentucky congressman.

Miss Pollard has shown herself a wonderful woman. Whatever other opinions may have been held regarding her by the men who sat listening all day as though to the revelation of a fascinating story rather than a woman's recital of sorrow and disgrace, all of them were constrained to admit their admiration of her intelligence, her quick perception and her effective command of words.

Seldom does a witness manage to give replies so telling in support of her own case and keep within the limits of the courtroom regulations, and several times the plaintiff's attorneys admonished her to confine her statements to answers to the questions which were put.

Another Stab.

NASHVILLE, March 20.—W. C. P. Breckinridge delivered a lecture at the Gospel Tabernacle in this city in June last for the benefit of a local charitable institution. He gave the lecture here without any personal remuneration. At the conclusion of his address, he was presented with a beautiful basket of flowers. In return for this compliment he made a highly pathetic speech, saying that he had no wife to whom he could give them. This circumstance is vividly realized by those who remember that Mr. Breckinridge was at that time married to Mrs. Wing.

Circuit Completed.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., March 20.—The membership of the Hudson River Baseball league is perfected. Albany, Glens Falls, Amsterdam, Gloversville, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Pittsfield, and Rutland, Vt., are represented. Each team is limited to 12 men. The salary is $750 a month. The season opens May 12 and closes Sept. 15.

Malayans Badly Punished.

MADRID, March 20.—Advices from Mindanao, in the Malay archipelago, show that a large body of Mohammedan natives made an attack upon the Spaniards on the island of Pantar. One Spaniard was killed and many were wounded. The Spaniards killed 200 natives.

Won't Accept a Reduction.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 20.—Glass blowers employed at the Washington glass works struck yesterday, as a result of an attempt of the corporation to enforce a 10 per cent reduction and make the shop non-union. All the blowers belong to a union.

TO ENLARGE CHAPEL.

Congregational Society Elect Officers and Appoint Building Committee.

The annual meeting of the Congregational church was held Monday evening and these officers elected:

Clerk,—James S. Baxter.

Treasurer,—C. T. Sherman,

Parish committee,—T. H. Wason, R. D. Chase, C. T. Sherman.

The treasurer's report showed the parish to be in a good condition with a balance in the treasury.

It was practically decided to remodel and enlarge the chapel and a building committee consisting of R. D. Chase, Simeon Scammell and W. H. Mitchell were appointed to procure plans and estimates to be presented at another parish meeting to be held soon.

THE MORNING FIRE.

Fire at the Residence of F. J. Fuller at West Quincy.

The alarm from Box 45 at 9 o'clock was rung in for a fire on the roof of the house of F. J. Fuller on Hall place. The fire evidently caught from the chimney and ran down the roof and it looked bad when the alarm was rung in.

The roof was apparently one mass of flame. The department from the Central station was the first to arrive on the scene and shortly after Hose 3 came. Somehow the members of Hose 3 did not seem to accomplish much, perhaps because they were unfamiliar with the business.

Before any of the apparatus had arrived, a bucket brigade had made some progress in extinguishing the flames.

The loss will not be over $100 which is covered by insurance.

MISTOOK THE BOX.

A Recall Which Fortunately was Not Heeded by Department.

The district engineer at Wollaston made a record for himself this morning. When the alarm came in from Box 45, he counted it as coming from Box 54. He made a lively dash for the latter box which he found had not been opened. Without stopping to think whether or not he was right he opened the box and rung in the recall which was heard about the time the apparatus reached the fire. He then returned to his occupation conscious of having done his duty. If the apparatus on the way to the fire had heard this recall the chances are that they would have turned back and as a result the building would have been at the mercy of the flames. Another time this engineer should be certain what he is doing before he rings the recall signal.

ANOTHER OPENING.

A Large Display of Pretty Hats and Bonnets at Miss Fish's.

Miss M. E. Fish, the Chestnut street milliner, had her Easter opening today. The interior of the store is very prettily decorated a large cluster of roses occupying a prominent position on the show case, while about the door, chandeliers and windows are large bunches of pussy willows.

In the large show window and about the store are shown a large number of prettily trimmed Easter hats, as well as hats that are serviceable for every day wear.

Among the Easter novelties shown, was a new French hat from M. De Jonas of New York. It is a large black jet frame covered with net with a lace straw edge falling over the frame, with a broad bow of the same at the back with wide lace ties brought from a pin in the centre. A bunch of cat-o-nine-tails in the front fastened at the base with a large jet buckle.

Another novelty is a blue crepe capote with gilt cord, a large butterfly forming the crown. Two jet aigretts and a lace butterfly are at the centre of the back held with a gilt buckle from which hangs blue movie ties.

In bonnets, the most striking is a three-leaf clover with edge of black violets, the stems coming to the centre and held with a jet pin. A heavy lace forming the lining and trimmings at the sides. At the back is a large green velvet alsation bow, the black velvet ties being held with a brilliant buckle.

Miss Fish will be open every evening until Easter.

A HAPPY GATHERING.

Reunion of Newspaper Men and Their Wives and Daughters.

The twelfth annual reunion and banquet of the Suburban Press Asssociation was held at the United States Hotel, Boston, yesterday afternoon. The day was warm and delightful, and the gathering the largest the association has ever held. The dinner was excellent, served with good taste, and was much enjoyed. After an hour spent over the festive board speeches were in order.

President Whitaker was in his usual good humor, and after a short welcoming address presented Gov. Greenhalge, who was received with applause. He made a fifteen minutes' speech which was listened to with pleasure. Private Secretary Thomas, C. K. Fay, Edward Stanwood and Lieut.-Gov-McLean of New Hampshire, and other invited guests were present and made short addresses. Brother Cook of Milford made an able speech on the libel law, and interesting remarks were listened to from other members. Near the close of the exercises Brother Starbuck of the Waltham Free Press read a very pleasing poem which contained many clever personal hits.

The evening was very pleasantly spent at the Hollis Street Theatre; the management having extended an invitation to the association to witness the new play, Friends,'' which was heartily enjoyed.

Investigation Demanded.

Are the finances of the Lazy club running low, or what is the matter? Surely there must be something wrong for the genial secretary who has for centuries done nothing but hold down chairs, smoke the pipe of peace and tell fairy tales, has been busily at work this week upholstering chairs. The only reason the president can give for this new departure is that the secretary has experienced a change of faith or the funds of the club have run low.

At the recent annual meeting the treasurer reported $181,001 on deposit, yet within a few days he has purchase a $4 clock on the installment plan. These matters will demand the attention of the members at the next smoke talk.

GATEWAY TO ATLANTIC.

"The Pit" at Atlantic Being Built Upon—Lost for a Playground.

The lot of land near the Atlantic depot, known as the "Pit," but given the more fashionable name of "the gateway to Atlantic" by some of its citizens, will probably never be utilized by the Park Commissioners as a public playground as on one corner a large business block has been erected, and work has been commenced by Burns, the East Milton contractor, to erect ten houses, the cellars of two of them being nearly completed.

The largest cargo of coffee ever brought into the United States numbered 57,491 bags, and came from Brazil.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Committees on Public Health Votes Against the Cigaret Bill.

BOSTON, March 20.—The committee on public health voted, 5 to 4, against the bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of cigarets.

These reports came into the house: Ought not to pass on the bill recommitted to the committee giving Boston firemen one day off in seven; ought not to pass on a bill giving firemen in all cities one day in seven; bill providing that registration in cities shall close 20 days before election and in towns on the Wednesday before election; leave to withdraw on the petition that steam railroads charge a uniform rate of fare in the limits of the city of Boston.

The anti-treating bill of Mr. Day was the first in the orders of the day, and that gentleman, in speaking for the bill, said that he had supposed when he introduced the bill that it was the first of its kind ever introduced in this or any other state, but he had been informed that Governor Winthrop had drafted a bill which was passed by the general court in 1839. The bill was passed to a third reading by this vote: Yeas, 83; nays, 38.

Mr. Searles introduced on leave a bill to prevent the mutilation of horses by docking.

The committee on education unanimously reported a resolve appropriating $100,000 annually from the state treasury to the Massachusetts school fund until the fund amounts to $5,000,000.

The following resolve was introduced in the senate and is of interest as recalling memories of the failure of the Maverick bank: That there be allowed to the treasurer and receiver general of the commonwealth, chargeable to ordinary revenue of the current year, the sum of $107.75, it being the amount of loss on a deposit of the funds of the commonwealth in the Maverick National bank in the year 1890.

The legislative committee on the unemployed appointed a sub-committee to draft a bill embodying the recommendations of the committee in relation to an appropriation to place men at work on the metropolitan park system and the sewer system.

The committee on election laws last night deliberated on the bill providing for minority representation on the school board of Boston. There was but one member in favor. Leave to withdraw was granted to the petitioners, by a vote of 10 to 1. Senator Cronan alone dissented.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

WHAT IS APPETITE?

Healthy Appetite teaches us when we ought to eat.

Without Appetite we would not eat, we would not live.

Convalescents are always hungry: they are well. Children have great appetites: they are growing big. Healthy people have good appetites: their stomachs need food to replace the waste tissue and fat consumed by the body.

If your appetite is bad you are sick. Your stomach does not wish to work. Your store of fat will decrease. You will get thinner. You will sooner or later waste away. That is consumption.

If you do not waste away, but remain always thin, you are still laying yourself open to the attacks of disease. Fat is nothing but nature's reserve force or fuel. You cannot be absolutely healthy unless you are normally fat.

What makes Paskola the great "appetizer" is the fact that it aids the stomach to digest all other food, is itself at once absorbed into the system, and thus leaves the stomach perfectly empty. As soon as this happens hunger occurs. The reason so many dyspeptics have no appetite is that their stomachs are constantly full of imperfectly digested food.

There is only one way to permanently remedy this and that is by the use of Paskola. Paskola being a pre-digested food is directly absorbed, and gives the stomach no work. It brings back a healthy appetite and will make even a consumptive healthy and fat.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patens.

The Seven Stages of a Railroad.

At first the Incorporators,
Striving and pushing for a chartered right,
To enforce the doctrine "Right means might."

Then the Wealthy Syndicates,
With their glowing bits of facts and fancy
Sounding like tales of necromancy.

And then the Bankers,
Seeking to sell the bonds, solid as rock,
Keeping themselves the freely watered stock.
This for the lambs—investment good as gold—
A brand new lamp, better than those of old

Then the Car Trusts,
Mortgages on wheels,
Foreclosed so readily, without appeals!

And then the Receivers—
No coupons now to pay,
All debts deferred until some other day.
A Voting Trust, protecting all the stock
That grewsome Bears are sure to try to knock.

The sixth stage shifts
Into the Reorganization Plan,
Where all the Wreckers join in one great band,
Where innocent experience, dearly bought,
Is daily learned by some—by others taught.

Two streaks of rust—a mortgage and—a history.

LIKE A COMIC OPERA

A Few Inside Facts Concerning the Brazilian Revolution.

VICE CONSUL LEWIS SCORED.

Declared to Be Unfit to Represent Our Country.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The following letter has been received from a correspondent at Rio de Janeiro, dated Feb. 14: When an unsophisticated young person first attends an opera and sees a gang of conspirators openly discussing their plot on the street corners, or hears a tribe of robbers singing at the top of their voices, he thinks the whole thing nonsense. But if the aforesaid young man could spend a few weeks watching a Brazilian revolution he might come to think the opera real life after all.

Two instances in point have recently occurred here. The first was in connection with a proposed uprising in the city, in favor of the rebels, in which a number of citizens and a few officers of the National Guard were involved. The details of the plot were worked out on a Friday night. The citizens were to go on Monday morning to San Conceicaro and Sande Hills garrisoned by the government.

The officers there, in the plot, were to admit them and then join them with as many of their soldiers as they could persuade to do so. The other soldiers were to be overpowered or killed. The rebel fleet at the first shot or at a given signal was to hurry in and land its men to help the plotters.

Their total force would be small, not over a thousand men; but it would occupy a strong position and would probably be rapidly increased by volunteers from the city. So far the plot was strictly business. But now the comic opera element comes in.

Over-Exuberant.

Nearly every conspirator went about town telling all his friends—on the streets, in the horsecars, anywhere—that the next day Peixoto was to be humbled and the revolution was to be successful. The British, who are very intimate with the rebels, were, of course, notified, and the two principal banks went so far as to post notices informing their clerks that they need not come to business on Monday if there was heavy firing. Of course, in less than an hour, every one in the commercial quarter knew that something was going to happen on Sunday and Monday. And, of course, the government knew it too.

Even then the plot came near succeeding through the influence of another opera bouffe idea. On the stage a murderer may openly form his plot on one side, while the victim complacently makes love on the other. It would, however, be contrary to all precedent for the victim to overhear the murderer and spoil the denouement. So in Brazil.

It seemed somehow unfair for the government to discover the plot before the rebels were ready and consequently prevent the fun. Nothing was done or said on Sunday to obstruct the success of the uprising. It was only on Sunday evening when the rebel fleet anchored close to the city that any action was taken. The suspected regiments were then moved and a number of arrests of officers and citizens were made. It is said that 15 officers were shot. If so, it was done secretly.

This Needs Investigation.

John T. Lewis is the vice consul general at Rio de Janeiro, and at present he is acting consul general. His uncle, William T. Townes, is the consul general, but he is now on leave of absence. It is affirmed by Americans that Mr. Lewis has swollen under the influence of his official position. To say that Vice Consul Lewis is an untrained product does not, in the view of resident Americans, fully mark the measure of his unfitness for a responsible position.

When those of his own land in difficulty have applied to him for official direction or assistance his attitude and utterances have been arrogant to the point of insult, if not of abuse. He pays absolutely no heed to the complaints of his countrymen other than to affront them, and they are forced to the United States naval officials for redress.

It has been fortunate that so able a man as Admiral Benham has had practically complete charge of American interests here. Vice Consul Lewis has sworn at distressed sailors who have appealed to him, and in various ways is brutal and disgusting. Americans declare that naturally and by lack of acquired attainments, Vice Consul Lewis is wholly unfitted for the position which he is presumed to occupy but does not fill, and that he should be instantly recalled to private life, where he will no longer bring humiliation and suffering to his fellow-countrymen.

IN CONGRESS.

Sundry Civil Bill Will Soon Be Disposed of by the House.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The house did not complete the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill yesterday, but Chairman Sayers, by the exercise of masterly diplomacy, succeeded in effecting an arrangement which will bring it to a final vote before adjournment today.

Most of the day was spent in a discussion of the item appropriating $750,000 for the Missouri river. This item led to a general canvass of the merits of continuing the contract system begun in 1890 and the work of the river commissions. The amendments looking to a diversion of portions of the appropriations for the emergency work at Atchison and strengthening the revetments above Sioux City were defeated.

The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to the discussion of two propositions, one requiring the disbursing officers of soldiers' homes to give bond to the government and providing for the auditing of their accounts by the treasury department, and the other requiring the board of managers to make annual reports of the condition of the homes to the secretary of war for transmission to congress.

General Black opposed the change on the ground that it would interfere with the plenary powers of the board of managers. He made a point of order against it, which Mr. Lester, in the chair, intimated he would sustain.

There was no important business transacted in the senate, the day being consumed in the consideration of bills on the calendar. Most of them were measures of small importance.

GROSS INHUMANITY.

Charges Against Elmira Reformatory Officials Are Sustained.

ALBANY, March 20.—The state board of charity handed in its report on the Elmira reformatory investigation and it is against the board of managers. After detailing at length the findings in the evidence, the investigating committee concludes:

"That the charges and allegations against General Superintendent Brockway of 'cruel, brutal, excessive, degrading and unusual punishment of the inmates' are proven and most amply sustained by the evidence, and that he is guilty of the same; that the general superintendent in punishing convicts by blows across the face by the paddle and the handle thereof, not because of any offense committed by them, but because they happen to turn their heads often for the purpose of pleading for mercy, is guilty of needless cruelty and gross inhumanity; that the general superintendent permitted and encouraged officers and keepers to strike, kick, beat and otherwise practice brutality upon the inmates when in his presence in the bathroom, and that, therefore, said officers and keepers were encouraged to exercise brutality upon the inmates elsewhere and when not in his presence.

"We therefore find the general superintendent guilty of the charge of 'permitting, countenancing and encouraging brutality on the part of the officers and keepers;' that corporal punishment as practiced in the reformatory should be prohibited by law; that the general medical supervision of the reformatory is inadequate."

Great Britain Won't Interfere.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The president transmitted to congress the answer of Secretary Gresham to the resolution offered in the senate calling for information relative to the recent British occupation of Bluefields. Secretary Gresham states that an explicit declaration has been received from the British government that nothing in the way of a protectorate over the Mosquito Indians is desired or intended by the British government.

The End of It.

PITTSBURG, March 20.—The application for an injunction filed by the Junior Order of American Mechanics against the employment of nuns as teachers in public schools has been withdrawn, the plaintiffs stating that as the defendants have abandoned their illegal course in the matter an injunction is no longer necessary.

Nearly Two Years on Strike.

MILFORD, Mass., March 20.—The Milford granite trouble, existing since May 15, 1892, was formally settled yesterday. The settlement provides for prices till March 1, 1895, no discrimination to be made between union and non-union men, or on account of the recent trouble.

Will Be Carefully Considered.

WASHINGTON, March 20. — Chairman Pearson presented the Bland silver seigniorage bill to Private Secretary Thurber, who receipted for it in the president's name at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Very speedy action on the part of the president is not expected.

Joseph Moreau's Cruelty.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 20.—The coroner's inquest on the body of Mrs. Joseph Moreau resulted in a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to her death by pneumonia, hastened by exposure and brutal treatment by her husband.

It Favors McKane.

NEW YORK, March 20.—John H. O'Rourke and Jacques Striker have completed the report on the accounts of John Y. McKane. It is said that the document explains away all the charges made against McKane by Gravesend officials.

All Quiet at Cripple Creek.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., March 20.—Governor White has issued an order calling all the troops to their homes. General Tarsney advises the governor that after a careful canvass of the situation, he was satisfied that they were not needed.

Two Desperadoes Out of the Way.

FERNANDINA, Fla., March 20.—Chief of Police Livingston shot and killed Jack Hippart, Jr., and mortally wounded Jack Hippart, Sr. The Hipparts are negro desperadoes. The chief was forced to shoot to save his life.

Cubans Are Kicking.

MADRID, March 20.—Official dispatches have been received from Cuba predicting trouble if the government renounces the Mauras proposals in regard to political reforms.

Power of Glycerine.

BUFFALO, March 20.—Olin D. Stevens, contractor of the Sycamore-street sewer, was killed, and Jacob Collins seriously injured, by an explosion of glycerine.

Over a Million Decrease.

OTTAWA, March 20.—Trade returns for February show a decrease in the total foreign trade of over $1,000,000.

FARMERS, STOP AND THINK!

Why Struggle Through Mud and Mire When Good Roads Cost No More?

The rural population may now exclaim, with the Duke of Gloster, "Now is the winter of our discontent," and may add on its own account that the spring prospect offers no hope that the clouds will be lifted. But with the return of summer and consequent drying up and temporary hardening of the highways the farmer forgets the lesson he has been taught and thinks no more of mud and impassable roads and wrecked wagons and broken down horses. He is like the man who couldn't mend the roof of his cabin when it was raining and wouldn't when the sun shone because it didn't leak.

To a disinterested observer the attitude of the average farmer toward the movement for better roads is inexplicable. Year after year he goes on in the same old rut, ruining his temper and incurring needless expense in wagons and horses simply because he won't stop to think. Experience has proved that enough money is annually expended in useless tinkering by ignorant roadmasters to keep the roads of the country in passable if not first class condition. Instead of passively submitting to existing conditions the farmers should combine with a view of having the time and money now wasted judiciously and intelligently expended.

The roadmaster, as we know him, is usually wholly incompetent. His knowledge of road building and repairing has been acquired by working out his taxes probably, and his prime object is to finish the work assigned to him with the least outlay of labor consistent with drawing his salary. His method of procedure consists in dumping washings from the roadside into the middle of the highway—which is the very material most injurious to the road—there to remain in stifling dust or sticky mud until kindly rains have again swept it to the ditch, if there be one, or it has been transported to other scenes in the lungs and clothing of passing travelers. I have in mind just such a road and an equally capable roadmaster. In a town on Long Island a stretch of the sandy roads of that region had, through the action of the rain, been rendered hard and smooth, with a corresponding clogging of the so called ditch. Instead of clearing the ditches and carting away the powdery earth, which had produced a luxuriant growth of grass and weeds, he plowed it up and dumped it, weeds and all, into the middle of the road, wholly destroying what had grown of itself to be a fairly good highway.

What is necessary is to employ a man who has had experience in scientific road-making. Such a one can do much toward making perfect roads and keeping them in repair at little more expense to the community than the incompetent tax worker.

Farmers, stop and think! Get together and take steps to get some return for money expended. Hire a competent man to supervise road construction and repairing, and soon you will rejoice in highways that will keep hard and smooth despite winter's frost and rains of spring.

W. H. BALLINGER.

For Farmers to Consider.

Many farmers today send their produce to market by railroad because the roads are so muddy and bad. There is more wear and tear on horseflesh and wagons than could be paid for by the saving on transportation charges. It would be a delight and pleasure to many farmers in the winter and spring to carry their farm products to market by wagon if the roads were hard and smooth. Good roads can be obtained better by the farmers taking an interest in the matter than by state legislation. The latter never accomplishes an object so well as local boards and improvement committees. When farmers have the same amount of local pride that some suburban villagers have, they will make the roads along their farms harmonize with the appearance of their well cultivated fields.

There is a lack of interest in the matter when we see thrifty barnyards, buildings, fields and fences, but wretchedly bad roads. And yet this is the case in many parts of the country. The great essential thing is to devote more attention to one part of the road until it is finished, and not spread out the work over several miles, doing no part any particular good. The labor is then generally lost, for the first winter will destroy all of the improvements. If every farmer would take a piece of road 100 yards in length in front of his house and fix it up into the right shape, finishing it completely before turning his attention to anything else, he would do a lasting benefit to his country. The following year it will need some slight repairs, and then another 100 yards can be finished. In the course of a few years we would have the finest roads in the rural districts that can be found in any part of the country.—American Cultivator.

Rum and Roads.

The question of the right of county courts to appropriate and expend two-thirds of the tax derived from the sale of dramshop licenses for the improvement of county roads was brought from Jackson county, Mo., to the supreme court at Jefferson City.

Kansas City wanted to retain the moneys thus arising from the sale of licenses for the use of the city and petitioned for a writ restraining the county court from so using the said moneys. But the superior court holds that the law making this provision was good, and that the county courts were empowered to appropriate and expend money thus raised for the improvement of county roads. This settles a much vexed question, as several cities of that state have held that the revenues arising from the sale of licenses should be used only for the benefit of the city wherein were located the dramshops.—Exchange.

Lay the road out perfectly straight and in the center of the allowance, where a straight road is the proper thing. Make all diversions in natural, easy curves.

WITHOUT A COUNTRY

Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian Patriot, Dies In Exile.

LAST MOMENTS WERE PAINFUL.

A Persistent Follower of What He Believed His Duty.

TURIN, March 21.—Louis Kossuth died at 10.55 o'clock last night.

Kossuth's end was extremely painful. He showed signs of consciousness until the last. He expired in the arms of his son, and died pressing the hand of the Hungarian deputy, Karolyi. The members of his family and a few of his intimate friends stood around the bedside of the expiring patriot.

Although Louis Kossuth's name and his deeds are mainly a memory with the present generation, his death caused universal sorrow. Once the dictator of Hungary, with his dream of national independence on the verge of realization, the old man died in exile and poverty—literally a man without a country—for Kossuth would never bow the knee to the house of Hapsburg and refused all inducements to return to his native land.

With thousands ready and even anxious to ease the burdens of his later years, he preserved a spirit of sturdy independence to the last. His pen earned him a bare subsistence, and his declining years were smoothed by the devotion of a favorite sister. The fire of his patriotism was never quenched, but it burned dull and cheerlessly amid the desolation of age and penury.

LOUIS KOSSUTH.

Lajos (Louis) Kossuth was born at Monok, Hungary, April 27, 1806. His parents were poor, but of noble rank. He was educated at the Protestant college of Sarospatak, where he qualified himself for the practice of law. In 1830 he became agent for the Countess Szepary, a position which gave him a seat in the comital assembly. Two years later, when the people of Hungary were groaning under the restrictions on their rights and privileges, his active political career began in the diet of Presburg.

Fearless Discussion of Liberal Ideas.

As in other countries, about this critical period, the authorities were opposed to the publication of debates or legislative proceedings. Knowing the power of the press in the cause of reform, Kossuth founded a paper in which speeches were published and governmental affairs fearlessly discussed. The authorities took alarm and tried in vain to stop the spread of liberal ideas. Kossuth was threatened and his paper suppressed, but he found means to keep the people informed of national affairs, and in 1837 he was imprisoned for the publication of a lithographed newspaper.

His imprisonment, which lasted about two years, increased his popularity, and when he was released he continued his work for Hungarian freedom. Year by year, despite numerous attempts at coercion, Kossuth's influence spread. He was the recognized leader of the opposition in the diet, striving for the complete emancipation of the peasants, the elevation of the citizen class and the freedom of the press.

In 1848 the French revolution, the great stimulus of radical doctrines, spurred Kossuth on to broader objects. He demanded independent government for his country and constitutional government in the hereditary territories of Austria. It was his burning eloquence more than anything else that started the revolution and insurrection in Vienna. The ministry was dissolved in September, 1848, and Kossuth was placed at the head of the committee of national defense. Events followed thick and fast after this. Measures for pushing the war against Austria were prosecuted with great energy.

At Debreczin in April, 1849, the independence of Hungary was declared and Kossuth made provisional governor. Then came difficulties and dissensions in the ranks of the patriots. Russia threw herself into the Austrian cause, and to end the jealousy of Gorgei, his political rival in the great struggle, Kossuth resigned the dictatorship. The patriots were defeated in August, 1849, and Kossuth fled into Turkey, where he was held a prisoner.

His Visit to the United States.

Despite the pressure of Russia and Austria the sultan refused to surrender the patriot, who through the intervention of England and the United States was allowed to leave Turkey. In December, 1851, accompanied by his wife, he was conveyed to the United States as the nation's guest by the warship Mississippi, which had been dispatched for that purpose. What followed is well known. Kossuth was received everywhere with great enthusiasm. His eloquence was regarded as marvelous, but the coup d'etat of Napoleon III struck a fatal blow to his agitation, and in spite of popular sympathy with the great exile his mission fell flat.

Kossuth returned to Europe in July, 1852, and joined hands with Mazzini and Ledro-Rollin. He delivered lectures in Great Britain and became as popular there as he was in the United States. In 1859 he proposed a plan of attack on Austria to Louis Napoleon, but the peace of Villafranca prevented its consummation. The Hungarian legation was dissolved, and Kossuth returned to England bitterly disappointed. He removed to Turin (where he died) in 1862. During the war of 1866 he tried again to rouse the Hungarians, but failed. His hopes fled with this failure, and he remained in exile, preparing his memoirs, studying scientific subjects and writing occasional articles for magazines.

Kossuth always entertained a warm affection for the United States, which afforded him asylum and substantial encouragement in time of need. At this humble home in Turin he was always glad to receive Americans.

It was in a mood of mournful foreboding that the venerable patriot passed the last years of his life. As he expressed himself on one occasion: "I am alone with my memories, alone with my bitter experiences. When on the brink of the grave a man makes up his account the balance is always on the wrong side. I have asked myself whether life was worth living. Only one comfort remains to me—I have persistently followed duty."

MOVED TO TEARS.

Judge and Jury Deeply Affected by Madeline Pollard's Story.

WASHINGTON, March 21. — When the shrill voice of the bailiff cried adjournment in the circuit court yesterday afternoon, the face of Madeline Pollard was buried in her arms on the rough board top of the witness box, behind which she had sat for three days. The only sound which had broken such a silence as seldom falls on a courtroom was a sobbing that seemed to come from her inmost heart.

Three jurors were fumbling in an uncertain way with their handkerchiefs, the judge was staring toward the ceiling abstractedly. Even the lawyer, whose cross-examination had led up to his passage, wore a look of unwonted gravity on his fatherly, benevolent face, with something remarkably like moisture about his eyes.

If there was a man among the curious hundreds in the courtroom unmoved, he was inconspicuous in the majority of sympathetic faces. Madeline Pollard had been telling the most tragic episode of her unhappy life, that of the disposal of her babies.

BRUTALLY ASSAULTED.

A Sick Woman Becomes the Victim of a Ruffianly Gang.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Word was sent to the police station in Jersey City that a woman was being murdered in a lot at the corner of York and Hudson streets. Officers were dispatched to the place. In the lot was an unoccupied house and standing on the stoop of this the policemen saw a woman struggling to free herself from the grasp of a number of men.

She was screaming and crying for help. Three men succeeded in making their escape, but the four others were arrested.

The woman was Adaline Waters, an actress. Her clothing was torn almost from her back, and she showed signs of having been frightfully abused.

Miss Waters lies in a critical state from shock, but may recover. The young woman is a handsome brunette, 33 years old. When the McKee Rankin combination was playing here a week ago, she was taken sick. She had been taking morphine to allay her pains, and it is supposed she became delirious and left the house and fell into the hands of the men who assaulted her.

To Be Settled by the People.

THE HAGUE, March 21.—Owing to the recent defeat of the government on the electoral reform bill, the chambers have been dissolved. The queen regent was convinced that an appeal to the country was expedient, in order to place the question of franchise on a satisfactory basis.

Belgian Cabinet Resigns.

BRUSSELS, March 21.—Premier A. Beernaert announced to the chamber of representatives the resignation of the cabinet on account of the rejection by the chamber of the proportional representation bill.

VIGOROUS AT NINETY.

Prohibitionists Celebrate the Birthday of General Neal Dow.

MESSAGES OF CONGRATULATION

Received From Many Different Parts of the World.

PORTLAND, Me., March 21.—Yesterday was the 90th birthday of Maine's celebrated apostle of prohibition, General Neal Dow. The veteran temperance advocate arose at an early hour and ate a hearty breakfast.

During the forenoon he held an informal reception in his parlor, many of his friends and neighbors calling to present congratulations. He was in high spirits, evidently being greatly elated over the congratulations and messages which began to pour in on him by mail and telegraph.

All day there was a constant stream to and fro from the general's residence. The rooms were handsomely decorated with flowers and General Dow was assisted in receiving by his son, F. N. Dow, and his daughter, Miss Cornelia Dow. The reception was entirely informal. In the afternoon a delegation from the veteran firemen called, General Dow being the oldest living ex-chief. A delegation from the city government also called to extend their congratulations to the general, he being the oldest ex-mayor of Portland. General Dow received a large number of birthday presents.

Last night in city hall there was a great meeting. Addresses were made by General Selden Connor and Rev. Matthew S. Hughes. A presentation was made of a portrait of General Dow for the state house. A poem, written for the occasion, was read by Caroline Dana Howe.

After an address by Mrs. Clara C. Hoffam of Missouri and reading of telegrams and messages from contemporary meetings, and from prominent men all over the world, General Dow, erect of body and strong of voice, spoke for some minutes, urging Maine people to stand by Maine law.

The state board of trade in session here last night passed resolutions of congratulation on Neal Dow's anniversary.

Well Beloved by Hubites.

BOSTON, March 21.—The 90th birthday of Neal Dow was most fittingly celebrated at King's chapel yesterday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Rev. L. A. Banks told of the great work of the man whose birthday they were celebrating; of his unremitting labor for years before perceiving any results of his work, and of the part he took in the passage of the Maine liquor law. He said that the day was not far distant when Massachusetts would be governed by the same statutes. Among other speakers were Mrs. M. E. Cheney, who told of the white ribbon movement; Mrs. Mary E. Howes, on practical results of Mr. Dow's long life, and Mrs. Mary E. Gleason, on the liquor habit. Ex-Governor Long and Mrs. Livermore also spoke.

Enthusiasm at St. John.

ST. JOHN, N. B., March 21.—The Neal Dow celebration in Mechanics' institute last night attracted an immense crowd, and each reference to Maine's temperance champion was cheered to the echo. All the temperance bodies in the city were represented, and a combined choir from all the city churches furnished music. Charles A. Everett made eloquent reference to the three surviving members of the national division Sons of Temperance, who held the highest offices 40 years ago, namely, S. F. Carey, 1848-'52; Neal Dow, 1852-'54; Sir Leonard Tilley, 1854-'56. Hope was expressed that all three would live to be present at the national division session at Waterville, Me., during the coming summer. Sir Leonard Tilley eulogized the work of Neal Dow and related many interesting facts concerning him.

A Celebration at Denver.

DENVER, March 21.—The 90th birthday of Neal Dow was appropriately celebrated at the People's tabernacle. Rev. Dr. Tupper lectured on "Neal Dow and Prohibition Laws," and addresses were made by Mrs. Annie Dow, Mrs. Urie and Mrs. Higgins.

London's Celebration.

LONDON, March 21.—The meeting called for last evening in Exeter hall to celebrate the 90th anniversary of the birth of Neal Dow was an immense success. The hall was packed to its utmost capacity, and the greatest enthusiasm was manifested by the audience. On the walls were hung extracts from the writings of General Dow, while over the organ the British and American flags were displayed. Speeches were made by Lady Somerset, Miss Frances Willard, Sir Willford Lawson and Louis E. Ormiston-Chant, all of whom highly eulogized General Dow.

Closed Down Again.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., March 21.—The Raven and Strong mines, which started up on the nine-hour scale, have been forced to close down again. The men, it is claimed, were intimidated, the strikers threatening to blow up the properties if the miners did not quit work.

Rivers Are Away Up.

CAMDEN, Ark., March 21.—The storms which have raged here and southwest of here are nearly over. The rivers and creeks are very high and washouts have suspended railway traffic. The rivers' rise promises to be the highest ever known.

An Appeal to the Sheriff.

PITTSBURG, March 21.—The officials of the Monongahela Iron and Steel company at Hayes station have applied to the sheriff for protection. Strikers have attacked and beaten a number of the non-unionists.

Editorial Comment.

A WORD of explanation may not be out of place relative to the figures of yesterday comparing the city estimates of 1894 with the appropriations of 1893. The appropriations were not those contained in the appropriation order passed in April, 1893, but include those items and also all extra appropriations and transfers made during the remainder of the year. The items are those given in the Auditor's statement of January 1, 1894, for the year 1893, and are the sums that were actually available for each appropriation. There were two misprints in the appropriations for 1893 which effect the items themselves and not the grand total. The item for repair of public buildings should have been $4,125 instead of $1,125, and the total for current expenses, aside from the schools should have been $114,064 52 instead of $104,064 52. In the above total, therefore, there is an increase of but $4,131.98. Including schools, the increase is $8,372.98, a little more than half the increase being in the school department.

Including maturing debt and interest the estimate shows a still greater increase over 1893, or $32,140.98, because this is the first year that payments are to be made on the water and playground bonds. The corrected summary is published below:

	Estimates, 1894.	Appropriations, 1893.
Current city exp.,	$118,196.50	$114,064.52
School expenses,	78,475.00	74,234.00
Total current exp.,	$196,671.50	$188,298.52
Interest,	13,000.00	16,000.00
City debt,	64,730.00	62,962.00
Water debt,	24,000.00	—
Park debt,	1,000.00	—
	$299,401.50	$267,260.52

—While the appropriations for current expenses last year amounted to $188,298.52, the income and available cash on hand reduced the amount to be raised to $160,000. The total of $196,671 50 above will probably be reduced a like amount, but as stated above the amount to be raised for city purposes this year, if the amounts estimated are appropriated, will be $32,140.98 more than in 1893.

There are still other items to enter, for which the following sums were raised in 1893:

State tax (less polls),	$10,042.00
County tax (less polls),	7 795.24
Polls,	11,066 00
Overlayings,	6,082.266
Reservations,	—

The State tax may be less, as Governor Greenhalge thought $2,000,000 would be sufficient for the State this year, where it was $2,500,000 last year. The former amount would reduce it about $3,000.

The total county tax will be $150,000, against $140,000 last year, increasing Quincy's tax about $1,000.

The polls and overlayings may remain about the same as in 1893.

The reservation item is a new one and may amount to $5,000 or more.

The above five items will increase rather than decrease the grand total, making it anywhere from $39,000 to $35,000 over 1893. As the valuation of the city is $16,638,070, it will require an increase of $2 or more on a $1,000 to provide for the above excess over 1893, and it seems probable that the tax rate of 1894 will be about $18. If there is any way the levy can be reduced the taxpayers will feel happier no doubt.

GOVERNOR GREENHALGE is right and we endorse his views at the banquet of the Mystic Valley club in Boston. Alluding to the question of a greater Boston, the Governor said: "What is wanted is pure government, and so far as is possible local self-govenment. This is the great and master idea. Municipal and local taxation greatly exceed the burdens of federal taxation, of which so much is made. The proportion is more than five to one. Hence the need of economical city, town, county and state government. What advantage will it be to Somerville, Malden and other cities to come into Boston? There are some advantages and disadvantages. But the greatest care would have to be taken to preserve the peculiar flavor of local self-government. No one institution should be sacrificed that has in it the spirit of Massachusetts.

"It is to the smaller cities that we must look to find the best type of Massachusetts character. While I have no objection to a consolidation, yet I insist as a sine qua non preservation of those ideas which will keep unchanged the flavor of local character. Great cities are not increasing by internal growth. There is rather a tendency to a return to the land. The line of demarcation between the city and country is daily becoming fainter and fainter. As in the consolidation of railroads, the greater corporation may be managed more economically so also, perhaps, it is with cities. But local ideas and principles must be preserved."

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Province Laws Commission—The Normal School Question.

BOSTON, March 21.—The committee on election laws, Senator Cronan and Mr. Quinn dissenting, reported against the bill providing for minority representation on the school board of Boston.

Upon the senate bill to establish a normal school at Fitchburg, Mr. Bennett moved in the house that the matter be referred to the committee on expenditures with instructions to report at once on the subject, deciding as to the number of normal schools: the number to be established should be fixed upon before any one school is voted upon by the house. All locations should be considered together. Mr. Bennett's amendment, that the committee on expenditures report in one bill on the whole matter of normal schools, was finally adopted by a vote of 106 to 25.

The committee on judiciary reported recommending reference to the next general court of the bill to provide for payment of an allowance to the families of firemen killed or fatally injured while in the discharge of their duties.

The committee on taxation reported for the second time leave to withdraw on a petition to exempt from taxation soldiers and sailors of the war of the rebellion under certain circumstances.

The province laws commission is likely to have to go. That is the decision of the joint committee on the judiciary. There does not seem to be anything before the legislature on which the committee can base a bill, and therefore House Chairman Malone has drafted a measure abolishing the commission, and the judiciary committee has given it its sanction. The bill places the work in the hands of the governor and council entirely.

An order was adopted by the senate granting to joint committees an extension of time until March 28 within which to report upon matters referred to them. The house concurred in the order.

The committee on agriculture reported a resolve appropriating $165,000 for the extermination of the gypsy moth.

The committee on harbors and public lands reported a bill limiting the expense of repairing the bridge between New Bedford and Fairhaven to $400,000, and that the city and towns required to contribute to such expense may increase their indebtedness outside of the debt limit for that purpose.

At his own request the committee on taxation reported leave to withdraw on the petition of the mayor of Newton that said city may be authorized to require payments from street railway companies for the use of streets.

TURNED STATE'S EVIDENCE.

Justice Newton Creates Consternation In the Gravesend Camp.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Following close upon the "jumping" of his bail by Justice Sutherland, Justice Newton startled his constituents yesterday by turning state's evidence and appearing as the first witness for the prosecution in the trial of Constable Jamieson upon the charge of perjury.

As Newton was the justice of the peace before whom the prisoners were arraigned, against whom Jamieson swore to the complaints, the significance of his action is apparent.

The action of Newton carried consternation to the camp of the other indicted men in Gravesend, and they are expected to fall over each other in their efforts to secure such immunity as may be obtained by offering to give evidence or by pleading guilty.

Games and dancing were indulged in, after which refreshments were served, and all returned to their homes at a late hour, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Foster many more years of happy married life.

THE WEST QUINCY HOSE.

The Delay on Tuesday an Example of What May be Expected.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I want to enter a protest against the inertia of our fire department in Ward Four.

At Tuesday morning's fire, it was by actual time, nine minutes before the hose carriage got out of the house. Just think of the start a fire can get in nine minutes!

I do not think the firemen are to blame for this, the fault lies with the arrangement of the department. When an alarm rings in someone has to go out and lasso a horse, feed and water him, before he can be harnessed into the hose carriage.

In the meantime think of valuable property going up in smoke and possibly lives in jeopardy.

Fire authorities in all large cities assure us that the value of fire fighting depends upon the quickness with which the blaze is attacked.

A pail of water at the right minute would have averted the great fire of Chicago, the first great Boston fire and the Lynn fire of four years ago. A minute's delay and see the result, millions of dollars wasted.

Now, gentleman of the Council, is it not about time that something definite was done about our new engine house?

Some one states that the Quincy steamer can reach us in five minutes. I will admit they got here in 9 1-2 minutes Tuesday morning.

Even five minutes is too long however.

What we need and need badly is a new engine house between the present site and the depot, with an engine as well as hose carriage. This with the stable containing three good horses, and four permanent men on duty would give us a reasonable amount of protection. WEST QUINCY.

Milford Granite Strike Settled.

Boston papers report the Milford granite trouble, existing since May 15, 1892, to have been formally settled Monday by the action of the local union in promulgating the agreement between the contractors and the union, effected quietly last week. The settlement includes all local yards and provides for prices till March 1, 1895, no discrimination to be made between union and non-union men, or on account of the recent trouble.

To Answer Later.

The committee appointed at the annual Parish meeting of the First church to wait upon Rev. Benjamin R. Buckeley to formally notify him of the call to become pastor of the church, held a conference on Tuesday with that gentleman who took the matter under consideration, and will give his answer later.

HOW A CITY IS BUILT.

ENERGY AND ENTERPRISE ARE EVER POTENT FACTORS.

They Are the Genii Under Whose Magic Touch Industry Springs Into Life and Commerce Unfolds Its Wings—Natural Advantages Not Indispensable.

[Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association.]

The town which is built on a great waterway or has other extraordinary transportation facilities, or those situated contiguous to coalfields, iron regions, lead mines or in districts rich in other natural resources, have a great advantage over those which are not so fortunate in this respect. But experience teaches us that a possession of natural advantages is not indispensable and an unfavorable location does not prevent a city from attaining greatness and success if the citizens who inhabit it are made of the right kind of stuff.

Chicago, the wonderful city which has made such strides in the past few years, is located on a tract of land which was at one time a swamp. A more forbidding spot for the site of a city could hardly be imagined. But the indomitable spirit of its early settlers, which still characterizes the citizens of that metropolis, overcame all obstacles and built a city that is at once the pride of the American people and the marvel of the world. Kansas City, the name of which is a synonym for western grit and enterprise, outdoes Rome for a rugged location. Rome was built on seven hills, but Kansas City boasts of being located on 70. The stranger who saw Kansas City in its early days and who visits it now can see an example of what energy and determination will do when put in practice. Bluffs have been blasted away, hills graded down, valleys filled up, and the Gate City has not only become beautiful, but is now the commercial center of the great west.

We have in our mind's eye a fine city in one of the western states which was laid out about 15 years ago on the raw prairie. This village had not one natural advantage to recommend it. It was many miles from navigation, and not even a streamlet sufficient to furnish water for domestic purposes flowed within several miles of it. It was remote from timber or coal, and if one had prophesied in its early days that a city would be built on that spot he would have been ridiculed. But what the embryo city lacked in natural resources was more than balanced by the pluck and persistence of the citizens who first took up their residence within its borders. "Hustle" has been their watchword from the day they secured a cross railroad up to the present time.

Four mammoth canning factories send their pack all over the United States and foreign countries, and the product of their overall and shirt factories are worn from Maine to California, and their foundries, machine shops and cigar factories furnish employment for hundreds of men and women, while a flourishing college is annually attended by a large number of young men and women, who contribute in no small measure to the volume of the city's trade. The farms for miles around present the appearance of vast market gardens, and their tillers reap a rich harvest, furnishing vegetables for the canneries and produce for consumption by the operatives in the various industries.

The city continues to grow and bids fair to become one of the most important manufacturing centers in the west. All this has been attained solely by the exercise of energy and enterprise of the citizens, directed and encouraged by three or four leading spirits. A paid secretary keeps himself informed of the movements in the commercial and industrial world, and no sooner does a manufacturing enterprise, state or charitable institution intimate that it contemplates a change of location, or there is an inquiry for a suitable place for the establishment of a new industry, than a committee of business men from this city at once besieges the management with data and evidence to convince them that no place on the footstool can offer such inducements as the city they represent.

The promoters of the city we have referred to have no monopoly on enterprise, and their methods are not copyrighted. They have no exclusive privilege to make a desert bloom like a rose or build cities where but a few years ago tall weeds nodded in the wind and the gopher dug his hole unscared. That which they have accomplished under disadvantageous surroundings we who have so many natural advantages that they have not may also accomplish. It is only a matter of making the attempt and persevering in it. Industries that will employ labor will enhance the value of our property, make business for our merchants and furnish a home market for the products of our farms. All classes of people will profit by it. Energy and enterprise, backed by brains and common sense, will accomplish all this, and more.

A Good Word For the Newspaper.

At a recent business convention Governor Francis of Missouri, who is in a position to know whereof he speaks, paid tribute to the local newspaper as follows:

"Each year the local paper gives from $500 to $5,000 in free lines to the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The editor, in proportion to his means, does more for his town than any other 10 men, and in all fairness with men he ought to be supported—not because you like him or admire his writings, but because the local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be brilliantly edited or crowded with thought, but financially it is of more benefit to the community than the teacher or preacher. Understand me. I do not mean mentally or morally, but financially, and yet on the moral question you will find most of the local papers on the right side. Today the editors of the home papers do the most for the least money of any people on the face of the earth."

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE.

The Telegraph and the Telephone Under Discussion.

President Cashman opened the meeting of the High School Debating club of this morning. Miss Souther, treasurer read the secretary's report in the absence of the secretary.

The entertainment included the following:

Recitation,—Miss Thomas, '95; A study in the subject of jealousy.

Recitation,—Miss White, '95; a good selection.

The debate followed: Resolved that the Telegraph is of More Importance than the Telephone.

The speakers in the affirmative were: Miss Crocker, Miss Ball, Miss Delony, Miss Forrest, Miss Gay, Miss Granahan, Miss Griffin, Miss Hall.

In the negative were the following: Miss Keenan, Miss Meany, Miss McLeon, Miss McGovern Miss Mitchell, Miss Monohan.

The critic, Mr. Barry, gave his report, which was accepted.

The decision was in favor of the telegraph.

The meeting then adjourned.

One Woman's Occupation.

That one-half of the world does not know how the other half lives is as true of polite circles as of the social nobodies. According to some statistics quietly circulated in Washington, a distinctly English style of adding to one's income prevails in unlooked for quarters. It is well known that in London the hansom cabs are owned and run at a fine profit by a man of distinguished title. It should not therefore be so astonishing that to a Washington society woman has occurred the idea of emulating such an illustrious example by operating a similar industry. She buys up from time to time carriages in varying states of repair or dilapidation and runs them as "night liners." This fact she has of course endeavored to keep from her friends, as she wisely grasps the fact that, while they one and all would be nothing loath to benefit themselves by such an unusual enterprise, they would be the first to turn and rend her for going into the business that now nets her a comfortable sum.—Kate Field's Washington.

Woman as a Positive Influence.

Woman has discovered herself en masse. But the intelligent observer discovered her long ago. She took every opportunity offered her for education, and she used every opportunity to apply her education after it was her possession. The year 1893 was her opportunity to show what her education, her training in organization, her belief in her responsibility for the common fame and common good of her country, enabled and compelled her to do. Woman as woman centralized may have been a discovery to some, but woman as a positive influence, a common factor in national development, is not the discovery of a year ago. She is not a phenomenon, but a human being who needs education, experience and natural endowment to use with wisdom the opportunities that come to her. She holds no patent from nature that saves her from error of judgment nor endowment that frees her from the toilsome years of preparation if she is to reach the position her true lover sees her filling.—Outlook.

The Foreign Bred Woman.

When shall the American young girl fully understand the young girl foreign bred? It is indeed an unanswerable query. For instance, it comes to us with the shock of an exaggeration that Mme. Paul Bourget has only recently been allowed to dip into unexpurgated romance. Though the wife of one of the most famous novelists of the day, Mme. Bourget had never been allowed to look between the covers of one of her husband's books, is utterly ignorant of the tainted literature of France and has read only as une jeune fille. Under American influences she has ventured on ground hitherto forbidden and borrowed some of De Maupassant's works as an experiment. Truly, an American tour worketh wonders! But what does M. Bourget say?—Washington Post.

Men Neatly Classified.

One of the ladies who addressed the committee of the legislature on the subject of woman's suffrage made the following classification of the human kind:

I divide mankind into four classes—(1) Those who do not know and do not know that they do not know. These are fools—leave them. (2) Those who do not know and know they do not know. These are children—teach them. (3) Those who know and do not know they know. These are asleep—arouse them. (4) Those who know and know they know. These are wise men—follow them.

This is certainly a very wise classification, and every one can satisfy himself as to which division he ought to fall into.—Cleveland World.

Mrs. Helmuth.

Mrs. William Tod Helmuth, who has been elected president of Sorosis, is hardly the woman to please the "advanced" element, for she distinctly disavows any belief in the general superiority of one sex to the other and owes a great deal of her influence, her knowledge and her liberality to her gifted husband, who has made her his confidant, his assistant and his other half on all occasions. When her election was announced, she had to be kissed by all the members, and when it was over she is said to have remarked in a sly tone, "Well, men have some advantages over us yet."—New York World.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Fun In a Snowbank.

Archer avenue was a perfect harbor of refuge for the flying snow. It covered the car tracks, it blockaded the doors and windows, it heaped up in great banks above the gutters, and it welcomed all the boys in the neighborhood. Belden's youngest lad, Arthur, got a crowd together when the men with shovels came along, and he pre-empted the biggest snowbank. Then he ran a drift into its side and widened it out in a cavern. He and Pat Demorest uncovered an old stove at the junkshop on Armour avenue, and they carried it into their cave. They found a few joints of stovepipe and ran it up through the roof. They split up a store box for kindling and foraged down the Santa Fe tracks for coal. They beguiled Connors, the grocery man, out of apples and potatoes and roasted them while Tim Westervelt told stories about things that happened him when he lived in Cohoes.

They had great times there for a week, and then the snow riot came one day, and the hired men of the Chicago City railway loaded the snow into wagons and hauled it away.—Chicago Herald.

The Dwarf Fortune Teller.

A young lady's hands are to be put into a child's socks and little shoes. She is to disguise her face as effectually as possible. A piece of black sticking plaster put over one of the front teeth or over both will aid to do this, and a little face powder on the face, with a few lines drawn under the eyes and at the corners of them and the mouth, will prove very effectual.

Then she puts on a child's skirt around her neck long enough to reach to her hands, which are disguised as feet, with a shawl to cover the upper part of her waist and a bonnet, cap or hood for her head, and stands in a window where there are draperies or an arched recess or between portieres, and a smaller girl stands behind her and passes her arms in front to supply those of the young lady.

A table is placed in front of them, upon which the young lady rests her hands dressed in shoes.

The little girl behind her supplies, as we have said, arms and hands to the figure, and if well managed when the visitors are summoned "to see the dwarf who tells fortunes" they will be struck by the illusion of the pygmy apparently standing on the table. The dwarf is expected to be funny enough in her fortune telling to make the guests laugh.—Household.

How My Mamma Was Lost.

My mamma and I went to Mr. Wanamaker's store. It's as big as my grandpa's woods, and I was tired. Then mamma put me on a stool and told me to stay there and rest, and she would come back pretty soon. She never got lost before when she left me, but this time she was lost, and I had to find her. There was a big man without any hat on, and I told him my mamma was lost and I was trying to find her.

He took hold of my hand, and he said he would send a man for her. He put me on a high counter, and he said, "This is where they bring everything that is lost, and the man will bring your mamma here."

I liked him, and he gave me some candy and a doll, and I ran up and down on the counter, and I played with the doll. She had a prettier dress than my Edna, but she didn't behave so well.

There were some more men there and some ladies, and they told me stories.

And then I saw my mamma, and she cried and kissed me, and I said: "Don't cry, mamma! I was finding you. Are you so sorry that you were lost?"—Youth's Companion.

Boys, Girls and Curls.

Are not for boys, Tim Willigan?
They are meant for girls."

Bessie's Composition on Sawmills.

Sawmills is very useful. If it was not for sawmills, we wouldn't have no sawdust for to stuff our dolls. If I was a doll, I would rather die than to be stuffed with straw. Straw is very ticklesome when you hain't got anything else on your inside. I know a good deal more about sawmills, but my paper is all gone.—Bessie in Chicago Tribune.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

SAVED TWO WOMEN,

THOUGH MANY MILES APART.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Many curious and interesting experiences are found in the correspondence of a woman like Mrs. Pinkham, who for many years ministered to the sufferings of her sex all over the land. Here are two notable cases, one from the Pacific and the other from the Atlantic coast.

The Brooklyn woman is Mrs. Lillie Meyer. Five years ago she began to feel sharp pains in her abdomen, with the bearing-down feeling and pains in her back. She tried doctors and got no relief. A friend told her of Mrs. Pinkham's Compound, and after using it the pain left her, and menstruation now comes without suffering.

The Riverside, Cal., woman is Mrs. J. E. Dewey, who says, "I have used three bottles of your Vegetable Compound for painful menstruations.

"Every month my suffering was terrible, and I was obliged to go to bed.

"After using the first bottle, my general health was much improved, and now, after using three bottles, all pain has left me, and I am a well woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is as unfailing as the sun." Get it from your druggist.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Lyric of Action.

'Tis the part of a coward to brood
O'er the past that is withered and dead,
What though the heart's roses are ashes and dust?
What though the heart's music be fled?
Still shine the grand heavens o'erhead,
Whence the voice of an angel thrills clear on the soul,
"Gird about thee thine armor; press on to the goal!"

If the faults or the crimes of thy youth
Are a burden too heavy to bear,
What hope can rebloom on the desolate waste
Of a jealous and craven despair?
Down, down with the fetters of fear!
In the strength of thy valor and manhood arise
With the faith that illumes it and the will that defies.

"Too late!" through God's infinite world,
From his throne to life's nethermost fires—
"Too late!" is a phantom that flies at the dawn
Of the soul that repents and aspires.
If pure thou hast made thy desires,
There's no height the strong wings of immortals may gain
Which in striving to reach thou shalt strive for in vain.

Then up to the contest with fate,
Unbound by the past, which is dead!
What though the heart's roses are ashes and dust?
What though the heart's music be fled?
Still shine the fair heavens o'erhead,
And, sublime as the angels who rule in the sun,
Beams the promise of peace when the conflict is won.

Explosion In a Laundry.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Three persons were fatally injured by the explosion of an ironer in a laundry at 79 West Van Buren street yesterday. The injured are C. M. Won't Drop Behind.

LONDON, March 21.—John Morley, replying to Thomas Sexton, in the house of commons, said that he did not say that the introduction of the evicted tenants' bill would be deferred sine die. He added that he (Morley) was too well aware of the urgent importance of the bill to allow it to drop behind.

A Vivid Imagination.

Robert Collyer tells the story of a little girl with a vivid imagination which constantly led her into amazing extravagances regarding things which she claimed to have seen. One day after an extraordinary exhibition of her inventive powers her mother exclaimed in despair: "Oh, my dear, my dear, my dear! Don't you know that Ananias and Sapphira fell down dead on account of the lies they told? Don't you remember that terrible story?" "Oh, yes," responded the child, unabashed. "I saw them carried in after they fell down dead!"

SUNDRY CIVIL BILL

Is Finally Passed by the House Without Division.

TARIFF BILL IN THE SENATE.

Some of the Changes Made by the Finance Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The sundry civil appropriation bill was passed by the house without division. The bill as passed carries $217,000 more than it did as reported from the committee on appropriations. The four appropriation bills passed by the house (District of Columbia, pension, fortification and sundry civil) carry a net reduction of $24,334,958, as compared with the same bills for the current fiscal year.

After the disposal of the sundry civil bill the O'Neill-Joy contested election case was called up, but the Republicans raised the question of consideration against it and then declined to vote. Their purpose is to force the Democrats to produce their own quorum to unseat Republican members. The rollcall showed but 154 Democratic members present, although it is claimed that there are 173 in the city.

As many members desired to witness the test of the 13-inch gun at the Indian Head proving grounds, and as the chances of securing a quorum were slight, a resolution was adopted revoking leaves of absence and the house adjourned over until Thursday.

The Tariff.

The tariff bill was fairly launched on its way to the senate. Mr. Voorhees reported it to the senate and gave notice that on April 2 he would move to take it up for consideration. The rest of the day was taken up by Senator George in a discussion of the legal aspects of the Hawaiian question, defending the action of the president. There was but little interest manifested in the proceedings.

The duty on collars and cuffs is increased from 45 per cent to 55 per cent ad valorem.

The only additions to the free list are horn strips and tips and cocoanuts.

All sugars testing not above 80 degrees, 1 cent; from 80 to 90 degrees, 1-100 of a cent for each degree; from 90 to 98, 2-100 of a cent for each degree; all sugars testing above 98, or above No. 16 Dutch standard in color, 1-8 of a cent a pound in addition to the duty on sugar testing above 98 degrees.

Whisky, iron ore, coal, lead ore and opium are unchanged.

Section 105, which provided that the president shall notify the Hawaiian government of the intention of this government to abrogate the treaty of 1875, has been stricken out.

Reciprocity.

The clause of the section repealing that part of the McKinley act providing for reciprocal treaties has been amended to read as follows: That sections 3, 15 and 16 are hereby repealed, and all agreements or arrangements made or proclaimed between the United States and foreign governments under the provisions of said sections are hereby abrogated, of which the president shall give such notice to the authorities of said foreign governments as may be required by the terms of such agreements or arrangements.

The most important change in the administrative features of the bill is the action of the committee in striking out the words "highest duty," as found in the house bill and regulating the rates of duty on all goods coming in under the similitude clause and substituting therefor the words "lowest duty." This was the subject of a large argument in full committee, in which Secretary Carlisle endorsed the provisions of the house bill. The committee therefore has made the change, and all goods unenumerated or coming in under the similitude clause will pay the highest instead of the lowest rates of duty.

The iron schedule is twisted about considerably and the duty on tin plate is further reduced.

Of Socialistic Tendencies.

BOSTON, March 21. — Four thousand workingmen attended a rally in Faneuil hall last night to hear labor leaders discuss the problem of the unemployed. The socialistic element was apparent. Politics, the governor, the mayor, non-union men and capitalists formed the line attacked. The speeches urged organization as the best remedy to meet the needs of the unemployed. The names of Governor Greenhalge and other prominent men were hissed.

A Deadlock.

LOWELL, Mass., March 21.—The city council in joint convention took 20 ballots for city treasurer to succeed Austin K. Chadwick, resigned, without a choice. John H. Harrington, Democratic candidate, receiving 16 votes, and Walter M. Sawyer, Republican, 15, with one vote for John J. Burns, another Democrat, who would not withdraw and allow Mr. Harrington's election.

Governor Backed by the Court.

LANSING, Mich., March 21.—The supreme court rendered a decision sustaining Governor Rich in removing Secretary of State Joachim, State Treasurer Hambitzer and Land Commissioner Berry for neglect in failing personally to canvass the returns on the amendment in the election of 1893.

Maine's National Banks.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The state of Maine has 83 national banks. Loans and discounts, $20,228,919; lawful money reserve, $1,436,763, of which $872,979 was gold; individual deposits amounted to $12,424,532; average reserve 300.68 per cent.

Convicted of Manslaughter.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 21.—Mrs. Florence Hawley, charged with the murder of Mary L. Munson in Shelton, two years ago, was found guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. Sentence was deferred.

Good Signs.

WHEELING, March 21.—Four hundred men started to work at the Benwood steel and iron works yesterday and over twice as many more will resume work this week. The works have been idle several months.

Another Postponement.

DENVER, March 21.—The contempt proceedings against Mayor Vanhorne and Fire Commissioners Barnes and Mullins was again postponed by Judge Glynn.

RHODY'S DEMOCRATS

Unanimously Renominate Their Entire State Ticket.

PROVIDENCE, March 21.—The Democratic state convention was remarkable for the presence of most of the leaders and prominent men of the party. Temporary Chairman Augustus S. Miller said the state was in a crisis and was not living under the constitution, but he hoped the wrong would soon be righted. He denounced the McKinley bill and the evils which he alleged had followed it, the Sherman silver bill and its results and the A. P. A. movement. He also referred at length to the alleged steal of the state by the Republicans.

The roll of the convention was then made up, and the temporary organization was made permanent.

A committee on platform was appointed, and then the convention proceeded to nominate the state ticket. The old ticket was named entire by R. B. Comstock, as follows:

Governor, David S. Baker of North Kingstown.

Lieutenant governor, Dalton E. Young of Newport.

Secretary of state, John J. Heffernan of Woonsocket.

Attorney general, Clarence A. Aldrich of Providence.

General treasurer, John G. Perry of South Kingstown.

They were seconded by Hugh J. Carroll and were separately and unanimously made the nominees of the convention.

AMERICA'S SECURITY

Due to Her Naval Policy Adopted a Century Ago.

LONDON, March 21.—In the discussion in the house of commons of the navy estimates, Mr. Cremer suggested that England take the initiative in proposing to the other powers a reduction of armaments.

Mr. Harcourt said that he sympathized with Mr. Cremer, but to make such proposals would not advance the object that the government had at heart, namely, to diminish the great curse of militarism in Europe. The navy, he added, was defensive and not aggressive like armies. The supremacy of the British navy was the greatest element in the preservation of peace, as it enabled Great Britain to stand aloof from European combinations.

Mr. Harcourt declared that he regarded the American policy established by Washington more than a century ago as a great example to be followed by all civilized countries. It was a policy of peace and of abstention from difficulties with other countries. The result of this policy was that the Atlantic ocean separated America and Europe. Great Britain in her superior navy will have as great a security from the invasion as the Atlantic ocean affords America.

DARK SUSPICIONS

Against a Couple Who Will Try to "Fulfill a Bet."

ST. JOHN, N. B., March 21.—A man, who gives his name as Paul Revere, with his wife, announced through the press that they would start out on a tour of the world last night after earning enough money to buy some clothing. They claimed they had made a bet in New York to make the journey.

Man and woman disrobed in a private room, and the latter made suits for both out of canvas, and all their clothing, even to the underclothing, was then sold to parties for about $11. It is generally believed here that Revere is none other than Mr. Chesley, who eloped with his boarding mistress in Dorchester, Mass., some time ago. He declined to give his right name, but says he came from New York.

Salvationists Want Funds.

LONDON, March 21.—An appeal has been issued for the purpose of raising a fund of 50,000 pounds sterling in order to celebrate the jubilee of the Salvation Army. General Booth has just received a legacy from a lady of 20,000 pounds sterling, with which fund and the 50,000 pounds sterling he intends to pay part of the army's debts.

Preparing For Business.

HARTFORD, March 21.—A meeting of the representatives of the new Connecticut Baseball league was held here yesterday and arrangements made for opening the season. President Powers of the Eastern league has modified the constitution of the Eastern league for the use of the State league.

A Warning.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 21.—Police inspectors were sent out last night with orders to notify all wholesale liquor dealers to stop business and keep their teams off the streets. If wagons are sent out drivers are to be arrested.

Conference Was Interrupted.

OMAHA, March 21.—The conference between Arbiter Clark and the engineers in the Union Pacific wage schedule hearing was interrupted by a disagreement between the men and the officials of the road on certain points.

None Were Saved.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21. — Advices from Hong Kong state that the general opinion is that the steamer which was in collision with the Hang Chow was the St. Asaph. The steamer sank immediately and all were drowned.

Three Murderers Punished.

PRAGUE, March 21.—In the trial of the murderers of Mrva, the police spy, Dolezal, Kriz and Dragoman were each sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment at hard labor. The other accused persons were acquitted.

Given Up by Bondsmen.

BROOKLYN, March 21.—The bondsmen of two of the indicted election inspectors of Gravesend surrendered their charges, and the latter were locked up. They are William Lyons and John H. Brownhill.

A NEW MESSIAH.

He Stirs Up Things In the State of Washington and Is Jailed.

News has reached here that Loon Lake, 60 miles from Spokane, on the Spokane and Northern railway, is in a fever of excitement. Six weeks ago William Lewis and wife came to the Lake and instituted a series of revival meetings. Lewis proved to be a fluent speaker and captured his audience. He was energetic and enthusiastic and inspired in his hearers a wonderful degree of confidence.

When he had his audience thoroughly aroused, among other things he stated one evening that he possessed supernatural power. He claimed to be a specially ordained apostle of God and had come into the community to work miracles and save souls. The meetings were conducted in the schoolhouse, and while he succeeded in securing many followers an element in the community, believing him an impostor, succeeded in getting the permission granted him of preaching in the schoolhouse revoked.

He was loud in denunciation of his persecutors and finally disturbed a religious meeting, which resulted in his arrest, trial and conviction. Being unable to pay the fine, he was committed to jail at Colville. He now lies ill at Loon Lake, and the authorities are unable to remove him.

He declared that he was empowered by God to heal the sick, cast out devils and raise the dead. He secured 15 or 20 converts, who went through a singular gymnastic performance in his soul cleansing process. They were required to die a spiritual death, lying upon their backs on the floor, closing their eyes and passing into a trance.

Before they entered the spirit land Lewis reminded the converts that it was easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven, whereupon he required them to surrender to him their pocketbooks, rings, watches, pins, jewelry and valuables of every description. At this juncture all who refused to accept the faith were excluded from the room.

The community is still considerably wrought up over the affair, and feeling is divided.—Spokane Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

HIS LAST JOKE.

The Danbury News Man Was a Philanthropist as Well as a Humorist.

The Danbury News man made fun almost everywhere and all the time to the end of his life. He was just as funny in his office and at home as he ever was in the funniest copy of his newspaper. It was quiet, unexpected, quaint, homelike funmaking on his part, with nothing strained or pedantic or pretentious—as natural and spontaneous as a sunbeam or the rippling of a hillside brook. Like sunshine, too, his jollity cheered, warmed, delighted every one and wounded none. Everybody was his friend, and he was everywhere beloved. He was the life and light of every gathering, but was never forward or obtrusive.

He was also a philanthropist. Every year he gave away a small fortune to the unfortunate and unhappy, to vagrants and the most notorious tramps and beats. Every tramp who drifted into Danbury wandered into Bailey's office eventually, and none ever failed to get a pecuniary lift there to help him on his thorny path in life.

One of the worst of professional bummers, accosting Bailey on the street not long ago, said, with the self assurance of a friend addressing another:

"Ten cents, Mr. Bailey, please. I want to get a drink with it."

"What do you say?" was the quick reply. "You mean to get a drink? Now, don't you try to deceive me. You intend to buy sandwiches with it."

The Danbury News man's last quip was unique and pungent. He had been ill of pneumonia, but rallied temporarily and visited his office one day about three weeks ago. An office employee greeted him as he came in, looking wan and feeble, with:

"Well, how are you today, Mr. Bailey?"

"Oh, I am very much better. I was able to get down town today in one hack."

Not many hours after he had passed away from the world which he had done so much to brighten and cheer.—Danbury Special.

She Considers It a Libel.

Kentucky editors cannot be too careful about what they print. The citizens of the blue grass commonwealth are touchy, and statements published with the most amiable intentions are likely to cause trouble. Here is the editor of the Mount Sterling Times, for example, who printed what he thought was a graceful obituary notice, winding up with the perfunctory statement that "the deceased had gone to a happier home." He is now the defendant in a libel suit brought by the widow, and when he goes home after seeing the paper to press he takes the middle of the street and carries his shotgun at full cock. The notice was gratis too.—Chicago Herald.

Went Mad on the Bench.

A case was being heard in a Berlin law court the other day, and the evidence of a lady was being taken, when suddenly, apropos of nothing in particular, the judge said sternly, "Do you like potatoes, madam?" Naturally the people in court were much surprised, and their surprise was intensified when the judge proceeded to make grimaces at the witness and to talk at random on incongruous subjects. The unfortunate gentleman had to be led from the bench and placed under the care of a keeper.—London Tit-Bits.

Earth From Lafayette's Tomb.

In accordance with the request of a society called the "Daughters of the American Revolution," some pinches of earth have been taken from Lafayette's grave, in the Picpus cemetery, by order of the minister of the interior. A tree of liberty in commemoration of the American revolution is to be planted in San Francisco, and the earth is to be placed at its base.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

A FLOOD OF APPEALS

Asking the President to Veto the Bland Seigniorage Bill.

ITS AUTHOR INTENDS TO FIGHT

Regardless of the Final Action of the President.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The pressure being brought to bear upon President Cleveland in regard to the action he shall take upon the Bland seigniorage bill is not confined to senators and representatives, for he is in receipt of letters and telegrams from all sections of the country upon the subject, and contrary to the belief that seems to prevail a very large majority of these communications urge him to exercise the veto power.

Many of the most emphatic of the letters in their urgency for a vote are from Baltimore, New Orleans, Richmond, St. Louis, Charleston, and other southern cities, and represent boards of trade and large business men. Similar communications have been received from the cities of Chicago, Pittsburg, Allegheny City, Detroit, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Rochester, N. Y., and Providence.

The prevailing sentiments contained in these appeals are the expression of an apprehension that should the bill become a law there would result a loss of confidence in the credit of the government, a fear that the gold would be drained from the treasury, and a feeling that the government would be unable to maintain the parity between gold and silver, thus placing its financial status on the same footing with Mexico, the South American republics and India.

Where Bland Stands.

Representative Bland of Missouri wishes it understood that the committee on coinage, weights and measures, of which he is chairman, has not, as a body, waited upon Secretary Carlisle to give any pledges as to the future action in case the bill should became a law.

The individual members, he says, may have spoken with the secretary and assured him that if the bill were signed there would be no further silver legislation by this congress, but if they did this it was in their personal capacity and without any authority from the committee. Mr. Bland says that he has not seen Secretary Carlisle for some time; that he only saw the president for a moment the other day, and at that meeting simply expressed the hope that he would not veto the bill.

Mr. Bland adds that he has not abandoned his crusade in favor of the free coinage of silver. He purposes putting such a bill through the house at this session if possible, without regard to the president's action on the seigniorage bill.

The vital interest in the fate of the seigniorage bill was clearly manifested yesterday in the large number of congressmen who called at the White House to talk to the president on the subject. The president saw all of these, and is listening patiently to everything bearing upon the bill that is advanced.

A Frenzied Mother's Revenge.

NORFOLK, March 22.—Edith, the 15-year-old daughter of Henry Hugo, a prosperous farmer near here, is at the point of death from a loathsome disease. She confessed to her mother yesterday that a month ago she had been criminally assaulted by Frank Watts, a youth of 19, and had been threatened with death by Watts if she betrayed him. Mrs. Hugo at once secured a pistol and shot Watts dead. She gave herself up to the authorities. Public sympathy is with the woman, whose daughter is momentarily expected to die.

Panic In a School.

CHICAGO, March 22. — The four-story public school building in South Evanston caught fire from some mysterious cause and was destroyed. Several of the panic-stricken pupils, surrounded by smoke and fire, jumped from the third and fourth story windows, and eight were severely injured. Most of the children were marched through the thickening smoke to fresh air and safety. The loss on the building is $50,000.

Love and a Triple Tragedy.

DURANGO, Mex., March 22.—At Carcaria, Rafael Lopes was engaged to marry Miss Forina, the daughter of a wealthy rancher. Having heard reports to his character, the young lady broke their engagement. The father of the girl invited the discarded lover to remain for dinner. Lopez secretly put poison in several dishes of food, and with the others he partook of the fatal mixtures, and all three died.

A Loss of $100,000.

ST. LOUIS, March 22.—The Cardinal avenue car sheds of the Laclede division of the Missouri railway here was struck by lightning at midnight and burnt to the ground, causing a loss of fully $100,000. Eleven motors and 53 trailers valued at $90,000 were destroyed. The company operated the Market street and Laclede avenue lines and the Oliver street cable.

Alleged Malfeasance In Office.

JERSEY CITY, March 22.—The Hudson county grand jury handed up 72 indictments yesterday, including five counts against each of the street and water commissioners for malfeasance in office. The alleged irregularity was the award of contracts for street improvements and for improvement of schools.

They Mean Business.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The presidents of the Trunk Line association and the managers of the Central Traffic association have agreed to regulations providing for a $10,000 forfeit for the violation of the agreement not to pay commissions on passenger business after March 31.

BRECKINRIDGE'S DEFENSE.

Weakness of Human Nature Appears to Be the Main Point.

WASHINGTON, March 22. — Yesterday was a field day for the colleagues of Representative Breckinridge. Congress had taken a recess ostensibly to sail down the Potomac on an excursion and witness the trial of some big guns at Indian Head, but the trial progressing in the circuit court had greater charms for many than the junket on a government gunboat.

Gray heads and bald heads were in a majority, but the spectators were disappointed by one of the least sensational days of the trial, although they heard the defense of Colonel Breckinridge outlined by his law partner and attorney, Colonel John J. Shelby, and the last words of Madeline Pollard's story. Then they slumbered through the monotonous reading of a long deposition.

The defense will be partly denial and partly explanation—denial that Colonel Breckinridge seduced Madeline Pollard; that she gave birth to a child at the Norwood convent, and an explanation that she trapped him into a promise to marry her.

The long continued illegal relations between the two are admitted without excuse or palliation, except a reference to the inherent weakness of human nature, but the orator's spokesman represents that he was often anxious to break them off, but was always inveigled into a continuance by the young woman; that she followed him, demanded money from him and compelled his promises to marry her under threats, several times repeated and emphasized by a display of pistols. Moreover, it is promised to be shown that Miss Pollard's early life had not been one of virtue before the silver-tongued orator crossed her path. This in substance is the defense, but it has many branches and side issues.

POLITICS IN BRAZIL.

President Peixoto May Eventually Become Dictator of Brazil.

MONTEVIDEO, March 22.—Passengers arriving here on the royal mail steamer report that it is doubtful if President Moraes will have a majority of the votes for president. No elections were held in the states of Parana, Santa Catherina and Rio Grande do Sul. In the states where elections were held, the voters were intimidated by the military. In Rio de Janeiro the majority of the votes were cast by the government forces and employes.

In Minas Geraes, Silveira, Martens received an overwhelming majority for president, while the northern states report a majority for Alfonso Penna.

The passengers predict that Moraes has not received a majority. Floriano Peixoto will accept a dictatorship. It is said a majority of the army is anxious to proclaim him for 10 years.

A salute of 21 guns to the British flag was fired yesterday in Rio harbor as apology for the arrest of an officer of the Sirius. The salute is regarded with disfavor, as it was believed an apology would have been ample reparation. This action has increased the dislike of the Brazilians for the English. No news has been received from Lisbon yet.

Not a Bad Idea.

OMAHA, March 22.—President Clark of the Union Pacific railroad has notified the representatives of the employes that he would like to have them present schedules of their own that they would like to have adopted in place of the one made up by the receivers. He believes that it would be the easiest way to ascertain the exact points of difference between the men.

Keepers Withdrawn.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 22.—The Newport Elastic Fabric company made a satisfactory arrangement with the East Hampton rubber works, and has again obtained possession of the works from keepers. One hundred hands will resume work Monday.

Expended $100,000.

BOSTON, March 22.—Boston's citizens' relief committee finished their duties last night, when the labors of three months were at an end. During that period $100,000 has been expended on the 7000 people who have been given work.

Dominion Financial Estimates.

OTTAWA, March 22.—Estimates for the year ending June 30, 1895, show a total estimated expenditure of $40,038,392, a decrease from last year of $465,521. The interest on the public debt is estimated at $10,141,000, an increase of over $250,000.

Widow Claims It All.

PROVIDENCE, March 22.—By the death of John W. Attwood a sensational court case is expected to materialize by the claim of the widow for the entire estate valued at $50,000. A brother of the deceased will fight the case.

Held For the Grand Jury.

BOSTON, March 22.—Langdon W. Moore, the noted criminal, was arraigned yesterday on the charge of assault with intent to kill John H. Foster. Moore waived examination and was held in $1000 for the action of the grand jury.

Depew Denies It.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Chauncey M. Depew denies the story to the effect that the Vanderbilts and the Standard Oil interests have joined forces to invade the Gould territory in the west and southwest.

For Old Glory Alone.

ALBANY, March 22.—The assembly received without comment the favorable comment of Mr. Lawson forbidding the raising of any flag but the Stars and Stripes on public buildings.

Not Guilty.

NEW ORLEANS, March 22. — Asa G. Gurney, who was charged by the American Express company with having stolen $22,500 from a package of $50,000, was acquitted.

Too Much Drink.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Richard Golden, the actor, who is in Bellevue hospital, is much better. The physicians say that Golden is suffering from a disease caused by drink.

Against Prendergast.

OTTAWA, March 22.—The motion for a supersedeas in the case of Prendergast, the assassin of Mayor Harrison, was denied by the supreme court.

DEMANDS OF IRELAND

Must Be Granted to Clear England of Her Deepest Stain.

A LETTER FROM GLADSTONE

Deals With Affairs of the Past, Present and Future.

LONDON, March 22.—Mr. Gladstone recently received an address from his constituents in Midlothian, in which he was requested to continue to represent that parliamentary borough in the house of commons. Replying to this address, Mr. Gladstone has written a letter declaring that his chief desire will be to follow the wishes of the constituents and the borough he represents.

He adds: "There will naturally be a change in my attendance at parliament. I cannot yet judge how far my sight and hearing will disable me from performing parliamentary duties."

The letter continues: "Whatever the merits or demerits of my career, and certainly I have been chargeable with many errors of judgment, I hope it at least has been governed by uprightness of intention and a desire to learn."

Proceeding to review his public life of 60 years, dating from Lord Derby's reform act, which he describes as the political birth of Scotland and the beginning of a duty which has been solemnly recognized, Mr. Gladstone says that his career has been a history of political, economical, social, moral and intellectual emancipation. He adds that in all the numberless causes that had been brought forward in this time, Scotland has battled for the right.

A New Era.

Another period has opened, possibly of greater moral dangers and certainly as great an ordeal for those classes who are now becoming conscious of their power, and who have never heretofore been subjected to its deteriorating influences. Now is the time for the true friends of the country to remind the masses that they owe their political elevation to broad, noble principles, love of liberty for all, without distinction of class, creed or country, and a resolute preference for the interests of the whole to an interest of narrower scope.

"I am sanguine," Mr. Gladstone further says, "that Scotland will continue to cherish a lawful and enlightened sense of duty, and that undoubtedly she will be able to obtain without difficulty every satisfaction of her own special wants. For myself, I carry out of office the same political opinions I professed while in it.

"It is indeed a satisfaction to me, after more than 60 years of a highly contentious life, that I can honorably be relieved from some active participation in political conflict, but I recognize the great and growing demands of these countries for the satisfaction of their legislative wants, and I lament that the discrepancy of sentiment between the two houses of parliament has reached during the past year such development as to raise a question between the chamber, in the main responsible, and the chamber totally irresponsible to the nation, in such form as to early necessitate a conclusive judgment from the country.

"I am deeply convinced that not until the just demands of Ireland are satisfied, as the house of commons tried to satisfy them, will the legislative wants of any portion of the United Kingdom be adequately met, nor will the empire attain its maximum union and power, nor British honor be effectually cleared of the deepest historic stain ever attached to it."

England and Russia and Seals.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 22. — Newspapers are publishing articles opposing a renewal of the Anglo-Russian convention for the regulation and protection of the Behring sea and seal fisheries on the ground that while Russia binds herself to limit the catch on the Commander islands, England is allowed to make unlimited captures while the seals are en route from the Japanese coasts during the spring migrations.

A Fair Proposition.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 22.—The Portuguese warships were allowed to leave this harbor under the stipulation imposed by the Brazilian government that Da Gama and his officers and men who are with him should remain on board the Portuguese ships until the question of their ultimate destination has been settled between the two governments.

Tourists Bled by Mexicans.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 22.—The Two Republics contains a strong protest from United States Consul General Crittenden for the charge of $10,000 made for embalming the body of Miss Lelia Sherman of an excursion party. The consul general thinks the general way in which tourists are bled is a matter requiring remedy.

The Wily Czar.

VIENNA, March 22.—The czar has intervened and ordered the Russian delegates appointed to negotiate a commercial treaty with Austria to abandon their demand that Austria reduce the duty on Russian corn without asking compensation in return. The conclusion of the treaty is thus regarded as an accomplished fact.

Beat Him With a Hammer.

LONDON, March 22.—Marie Hermann, who was charged with the willful murder of a man named Stevens in her lodgings, was committed for trial. Hermann is 43 years old, and jugly almost to repulsiveness. She confessed that she had beaten Stevens about the head with a hammer after she discovered that he had no money.

Trying to Sneak In.

BUENOS AYRES, March 22. — The insurgent warships Aquidaban and Republica are cruising off Maldonado, 60 miles east of Montevideo. It is supposed that they are waiting for Peixoto's vessels to leave Montevideo.

Editorial Comment.

IT DON'T seem right that as large a sum should be appropriated for lighting streets as for the miscellaneous expenses of the same, yet we find in the Mayor's budget the sum of $14,000 to each item. It is a decrease of $1,781.01 for maintenance and improvement, and an increase of $1,000 for lighting. The sum of $14,000 for lighting seems large, but yet there are many places none too well lighted. But $14,000 is a small sum for the highways. It is not as much as was appropriated under some years of the town government. Were it not for special appropriations and loans nothing could be accomplished. No department suffers so much for lack of funds as the street department. It should not be so.

Street watering has also proved a great help in maintaining streets, yet this sum is also reduced. The good work of last year should be continued, and extended where abutters are anxious to pay fifty per cent. of the cost. Rather than curtail the miles watered it would be more satisfactory to all to increase the assessment on abutters to seventy-five per cent.

No special appropriation appears for sidewalks, if we except the $1,000 for edgestone. If edgestone was continuous and uniform all would be well, but one does not care to put in edgestone in front of his estate unless his neighbor does likewise. When will the city grapple this sidewalk question?

IT IS remarkable that Ward One has quietly submitted to being left out in the cold without a playground, particularly as it is the most thickly settled portion of the city, and more in need of a breathing place. Faxon park is on the boundary between Wards Two and Three, but both of these wards get an additional playground. Ward Four has the Blue Hills reservation, yet another large tract was was bought. Merry Mount park is in Ward Five, and as handy to Ward Six as Ward One, yet Five and Six are to have playgrounds, and Ward One none.

City Hall is about midway between Merry Mount and Faxon parks, but is about a mile from each, and all the playgrounds are still further. Will any one give Ward One a playground?

THE SUM of $600 is recommended by the Mayor for fire alarm boxes. This should provide a large number of new boxes, but everybody likes to have a box handy, and a prompt alarm will always save much property.

A PRETTY PARTY.

Last Night's Hop at Faxon Hall an Enjoyable Occasion.

A very pretty dancing party was held at Faxon hall, Wednesday evening, and although the party was not as large as might have been desired there was just enough to make dancing comfortable and enjoyable. The participants were for the most part young people, and if appearances count for anything they were in their element. At 10.30, during intermission, Caterer Wales served ices and cake. Prof. Holmes and Mrs. Rhines furnished the music, and the affair was under the direction of Frank Bassick, William Thomas, J. Munroe Perry and Arthur T. Perry.

THE BUBBLE PRICKED.

The Shoe Manufactory at North Weymouth Not to be Opened Just Yet.

North Weymouth people will be sorry to learn that the proposed plan to reopen Torrey's shoe manufactory has fallen through just at the time when everything seemed most favorable for its opening. Men have been at work in the factory for the past week putting the machinery in order and it was the intention to start up next week but the death of Mr. Dodge's father and the withdrawing of his New York partners in the enterprise put a sudden stop to the scheme.

When Mr. Dodge severed his connection with Whicher & Co. of this city, he took with him quite a number of that firm's Quincy and Weymouth employes under the promise that they would be given employment in the new factory, and as several were offered an increase in salary the bait was swallowed but now that the bubble has burst they are sorry that they did not remain with Messrs. Whicher & Co. until the new enterprise was an assured fact.

Wedding Reception.

The wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. Horace A. Feltis occurred at their home on Bigelow street, Wednesday evening. Although the weather was not very favorable, about fifty of the relatives and friends of the happy couple came to congratulate them and leave their tokens of a happy future, which were many and beautiful. Mrs. Elmer W. Webster of Holbrook, sang two fine selections, Miss Edith Hill of Braintree, gave a reading. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, after which Mrs. W. P. Bullard (nee Baker) and Mrs. W. C. Baker sang a pleasing duet.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

An Important Proposition Governing Politics—Worcester City Hall.

BOSTON, March 22.—An act to provide for the existence of political committees, and to regulate the holding of caucuses of the qualified voters of cities and towns for political purposes, was submitted to the legislature.

The committee on fisheries and game reported a resolve requesting all officials who have to do with the same to enforce the fish and game laws; also a resolve that the steamer Ocean Gem be kept in the waters of the commonwealth south of Cape Cod.

Under a suspension of the rules a petition was received from the mayor of Worcester that said city may be authorized to borrow $300,000 in excess of its debt limit for the erection of a new city hall.

A bill was presented in the house appropriating $75,000 for an addition to the normal school at Bridgewater, to provide for manual training, kindergarten and drawing department, etc., not over $45,000 to be expended in 1894.

Leave to withdraw on the petition to establish the compensation of officers in attendance on the courts in Norfolk county.

Ought not to pass was reported by the judiciary committee on house bill relating to the conveyance of church lands, which is intended to protect the rights of pew proprietors.

An adverse report was presented on the bill intended to prevent the members of state commissions from lobbying; also the bill to extend the provisions of the law relative to mechanics' liens to persons engaged in furnishing labor in moving buildings; also the petition for legislation to make owners and lessees of property liable for gaming and other illegal acts carried on on their property; also a petition for a repeal of the law requiring notice of an intention to claim a lien for materials furnished.

Leave to withdraw on the petitions for a new registry of deeds building for the county of Suffolk.

Leave to withdraw on a petition for an amendment to the law relating to sewers so as to prevent double assessments in certain cases.

The special assignment from last Thursday, the Bullock bill to establish a police commission in Fall River, was taken up again yesterday, and the house, after a sharp debate of an hour and a half, voted to strait-jacket the Border City.

ENGLAND MENACED

By Dangers Far More Serious Than War Could Bring Her.

LONDON, March 22.—Replying to an address presented to him by the progressive members of the London county council, Prime Minister Rosebery said that there were signs of a new spirit passing from municipal into imperial politics, which aimed more to improve the lot of workers than at those great constitutional changes of the past.

He added that he was certain there was a party in the country not connected with any political organization which was inclined to demand that more be done for the people. That spirit would spread, and if parliament was unable to do something effective it would spread higher and wider in the social scale.

Lord Rosebery asked the presenters of the address to rob no class, but he declared that unless effective means were taken to deal with the incalculable population, which is growing up half noticed and half ignored, there would be a danger for England such as no war had ever given her.

Bat Shea Shot Ross.

TROY, N. Y., March 22.—The coroner's jury has rendered a verdict that Robert Ross came to his death from a gunshot wound, caused by a revolver in the hands of Bartholomew Shea. Shea will be charged with murder in the first degree.

THE MAN IN A HURRY.

How He May Make Himself a Decidedly Unpleasant Person.

A stout and determined looking man with white chin whiskers, gray hair brushed severely back from his forehead and gold spectacles on his prominent nose entered a restaurant in Fourteenth street at the "rush" hour and strode rapidly to one of the tables at which there was a vacant seat. He hung a stout cane on the hatrack far up on the wall near the end of the table and was divesting himself of his overcoat when he happened to notice that the waiter was about leaving the table with orders for the other men.

"Hold on a minute, young feller, and take my order, too," he shouted. "Bring me some hash, with poached eggs on it, and a couple of sinkers and some coffee in a hurry."

Then he finished taking off his overcoat and tried to hang it on what he probably thought was a peg of the hatrack, but he hit on the end of his cane instead, and the coat flopped down on the floor, while the cane, after knocking several hats off the rack, fell on the head of a man near the wall and then bounded on the table with force enough to break several dishes and scatter coffee and gravy about promiscuously. The men at the table picked up their hats and began to say unpleasant things, but they were quickly awed to silence by the stout man, who declared with a foghorn voice:

"It's an infernal outrage for a man to keep such a rack as that in his place. If I was running this house, I'd see that there'd be decent arrangements for folks who patronized it."

Then he slammed his cane back on the rack, hung his overcoat on a peg and sat down to glare at the waiter, who cleared away the broken dishes and wiped up the spilled coffee and gravy with fresh napkins. Two minutes after the waiter had left the table the stout man began to gramble.

"I guess," he said, "that he has gone down town to buy the meat to make that hash with. He must have been born late in the day. I said I was in a hurry, and now I suppose he will take all day. If I don't get what I ordered right away, I'm going to leave."

Then the waiter came with the hash, sinkers and coffee, and the stout man made them disappear in a way that showed he was a "hustler." When his jaws had ceased to work, he yelled for his check and made a grab at his overcoat and cane. There was another shower of hats from the rack, but the man in a hurry did not stop to pick them up. He evidently was too angry to say more. The other men did not try to detain him, but one of them said:

"That man must have been born before daylight."

There were some expressions of assent to the remark, and then another man rounded it off with the declaration, "And he is trying the best he knows how to make other men wish he never had been born at all."—New York Tribune.

Disposing of a Difficulty.

Judge Kent once in a very sensible and summary fashion disposed of a quibble such as lawyers so often set up in defense of their clients. A man was indicted for burglary, and the evidence on the trial showed that it consisted in cutting a hole through a tent in which several persons were sleeping and then introducing his head and arm through the hole and abstracting various articles of value.

It was claimed by prisoner's counsel that inasmuch as he never actually entered the tent with his whole body he had not committed the offense charged and must therefore be acquitted.

The judge in reply to this plea told the jury that if they were not satisfied that the whole man was involved in the crime they might bring in a verdict of guilty against so much of him as was thus involved.

The jury, after a brief consultation, found the right arm, the right shoulder and the head of the prisoner guilty of the offense of burglary.

The judge therefore sentenced the right arm, the right shoulder and head to imprisonment with hard labor in the state prison for two years, remarking that, as to the rest of the man's body, he might do with it what he pleased.—Green Bag.

Early Efforts at Making Cook Stoves.

Doubtless some form of cooking stove has been used from a very early period. Previous to 1745 the stoves of all kinds used in America were imported from Holland or Germany, but in that year a stove was invented by Benjamin Franklin that was a great improvement on all that had preceded it. In 1771 he continued his inventions in this line and produced a stove for burning bituminous coal which consumed its own smoke and another which, after being filled at the top, could be inverted and made to burn from the base. Between 1785 and 1795 several improvements in stoves, ovens, heating and cooking apparatus were made by Count Rumford, and as early as 1798 his soapstone lined ranges had been introduced in New York and were coming gradually into general use.—St. Louis Republic.

A Hard Times Story.

A young negro girl was met by an old negro woman, and the usual salutations, with by questions as to the health and happiness of the families, were passed. "Does you' mammy still take in washing?" asked the older. "Yes'm," replied the younger. "She been doing washing for Mr. Blank down here at Mrs. —— boarding house, but he says times is too hard to have clothes washed, and I dunno what she gwine to do now."—Valdosta (Ga.) Telescope.

WEDDINGS IN WALES.

Some Curious Marriage Customs That Still Exist Among the Peasantry.

Some quaint customs still survive among the peasantry of south Wales—at least in the remote villages. One of the oddest is the "bidding." When a young man and woman are engaged, a circular is printed—known as a "bidding letter"—and distributed at market and outside the chapels on Sunday, so that all may know of the event. The form is always the same and runs as follows:

As we intend to enter the matrimonial state, we are encouraged by our friends to make a bidding on the occasion at the young man's father's house (here follow the address and date of the entertainment), when and where the favor of your good and agreeable company is most humbly solicited, and whatever donation you may be pleased to bestow on us will be thankfully received, warmly acknowledged and cheerfully repaid whenever called for on a similar occasion by your obedient servants,
JOHN EVANS.
JANE DAVIS.

All being ready on the day, a party goes to fetch the bride to the bidding. She hides and has to be sought for in all directions, but being at last found is escorted in triumph. Her procession is met by that of the bridegroom, and they all repair to the church, where the wedding ceremony takes place, after which all return to the groom's house to make merry and to count the gifts. These are generally in money and vary from a shilling up to half a sovereign.

Each item is carefully entered in a book by the "bidding clerk," together with the donor's name, so that it may be repaid when he or she marries. As all the money will probably not be called in for many years—some not at all, if the givers remain single—the young couple receive a tolerable start in life. Oddly enough, the bridegroom is expected to provide the kitchen clock and table, the glass cupboard and the kitchen dresser, also the bedstead. Each of the young people is supposed to bring half a dozen chairs, the bride's especial contribution being the bedding, the crockery ware, the parlor table and a chest of drawers. Things are done methodically in that part of the world.—London Tit-Bits.

Curing a Dead Man.

"I was employed to cure a dead man," said Dr. C. R. Gregg of St. Paul. "I was awakened during one night and found a lady awaiting me. She told me that her husband was very ill and for me to bring my medicine cases and some surgical instruments, as I might have to perform an operation to assist him to breathe. It was but two blocks from my office to the house of my patient, and as we entered the room where the man lay no one else was visible. At a glance I saw that he was dead. I told the wife that her husband was beyond the reach of mortal aid. 'He is not dead, and you must cure him,' she said and locked the door. Then going to a dressing case she procured a revolver. I saw that she had become crazed and was at the time a dangerous lunatic.

"Making the best of the situation, I began a surgical operation on the windpipe, the woman watching me closely. I worked with the corpse and prepared medicines for three or four hours, assuring the woman that I would save him if possible. Succeeding in disarming her fears, she began to have entire confidence in me, and when I fixed a potion and gave it to the corpse, seemingly taking a similar one myself, I induced her to take one in order to quiet her nerves, as it might be some time before any change took place in the condition of the patient. I soon had the satisfaction of seeing the woman fall upon the floor in an insensible condition, and I made my escape from the house, calling sufficient assistance to attend to the wants of the wife and prepare the husband for burial. But I don't want any more calls to resurrect the dead under the superintendance of a dangerous lunatic."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

How He Explained It.

The affable young man was doing the polite to the very swagger young woman at a reception, and she was tolerating him because no swagger young man was in sight.

"May I escort you to the dining room?" he asked.

She hesitated and drew back.

"I'm sorry," she began.

"Thanks," he interrupted and disappeared.

That made her think a minute, and later in the evening she cornered him.

"Why did you say 'thanks' to me awhile ago?" she asked, quite reserved, but curious.

"Did I say that?" he said, with a faraway try to call it back again look in his honest eyes.

"Yes, you did."

"I didn't know I said it, really."

"Well, you did," she persisted, "and I want to know why."

"I presume," he responded, "it was a case of unconscious gratefulness." And he got away with some degree of precipitancy.—Detroit Free Press.

Postmasters and Stamps.

The postmaster who finds his office getting short of stamps makes out an order on a printed blank and sends it to the postoffice department at Washington. Here the postmaster's accounts are examined, and if his credit is good the order is approved, charged to his account and forwarded to the goverument agent at the factory where postage stamps are made. The government agent has the stamps counted, carefully packed and sent by registered mail to the postmaster, who sends a receipt for them to Washington.—Kate Field's Washington.

LADIES' NIGHT.

The entertainment provided consisted of solos, by Miss Jennette M. Spencer, alto, of Boston; Miss Bertha Davis, soprano, of Allston; Miss Spencer; and Mr. Edward A. Osgood, bass, of Boston; recitations by Miss Edith Packard of Melrose, and piano solos by Mr. E. A. Whitney of Boston, who also officiated as accompanist.

Dancing followed the entertainment, refreshments also being served during the evening.

Norfolk Unitarians.

H. W. Lull of this city presided at the banquet of the Norfolk Unitarian club at the United States hotel, Boston, Wednesday. The arrangements were made by the secretary, John O. Hall of this city, and the meeting was a very pleasant one.

"The Value of the Church to the Community Aside From Its Church Service" was the subject discussed at the meeting. President Lull briefly addressed the club, and invited debate on the proposed question. The work already done clearly demonstrated its true value, and was of a character that deserved the success with which it has been crowned.

The special guests of the evening were Rev. C. A. Humphreys of Randolph, Rev. Pitt Dillingham of Brockton and Rev. Mr. Eldredge of Dedham.

The next meeting will be held the third Wednesday in October.

Capt. Merrill Dead.

Capt. Samuel A. Merrill, for fourteen years proprietor of the Wollaston hotel, died at that place yesterday of a complication of diseases. Capt. Merrill was born at Cornville, Me., in 1820, and passed his early years there. He was an active member of the Maine state militia and was the captain of a company. He removed from that place to Salem, Mass., where he resided for sometime, and was for three years a member of the Salem city council. Four sons survive him, two of whom are residents of Germany and two of Salem.

Real Estate.

John T. Pope, the real estate broker at 35 Congress street, Boston, has sold for Charles A. Wood of Boston, land on Ash and Myrtle streets, Grove Hill, Atlantic, to Patrick J. Lyons. The same broker has also rented the Samuel Thomas homestead on Hancock street to Dr. Fred. Henricks, who moved into and occupied the same last week.

Two new houses have been started on Atlantic avenue next to Duggan's new block.

Another New Church.

Work on the foundation of the new Methodist church at Atlantic was commenced Wednesday and quite a little party gathered to witness the ceremonies. The exercises opened with singing, which was followed by prayer by Rev. H. D. Deetz after which Mrs. P. Wilson, the oldest member of the church threw out the first shovelful of earth. Singing and prayer closed the ceremonies.

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.
Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.
With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.
If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

On the Grave of an Unbeliever.

Some men believe in God, and that great faith
Gives them the strength for all their earthly needs.
Some know a life beyond, and faith in that Makes burdens light, gives strength for noble deeds.

This man believed in man; in doing good;
In simple, silent pluck; in goodness; honesty;
And, so believing, lived his short life through
And gave that life a noble majesty.

Simple his faith, yet strong enough to make
Him bear life's burdens as they should be borne;
To share with others only their great griefs;
To help the weak; to comfort the forlorn.

We saw him lose what seemed his all in life;
We saw him made to feel acutest pain;
We never saw him turn from duty's path
Or yield at all beneath life's greatest strain.

O Father, somewhere in thy heavenly home
Must be a place for such true sons of thine,
Who, midst all doubts and troublous unbelief,
Cast all their living on the plan divine.

Let him who scoffs at all who own thee not
Refrain from thinking such men are unblest.
They serve their God who serve their fellow men
By simply doing what they feel is best.

—Sherman Hoar.

BRITISH VIEW OF THE KEARSARGE.

Why She Won Her Combat With the Confederate Commerce Destroyer.

The old Kearsarge, which sank the Alabama, herself came to a violent end, wrecked in the Caribbean sea, happily with the loss of but one life. It is 30 years since she fought her great fight off Cherbourg, so she has kept the seas a long time. She deserved an honored place on the retired list of the American navy, for she had claims on national gratitude only second to those of the Constitution.

Her fight with the Alabama was a duel conducted very much on the model of the personal contests in the age of chivalry. After a hot pursuit she had at last cornered the Confederate cruiser which had wrought so much ruin to American commerce, and it was well understood that pursuer or pursued must perish. She watched the mouth of Cherbourg harbor, which her enemy was under short notice to leave, and the fight was inevitable. The steamers in port came out to see it, and some of them carried excursion parties from Paris. The Kearsarge won by superior artillery, superior discipline, superior patriotism. Her crew had a nobler idea to fight for than the medley of mercenaries that crowded the privateer. These were a desperate gang, and they had given their officers endless trouble before the Kearsarge took the reformation of their manners in hand.

As the Alabama steamed out of harbor at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, June 19, she found her antagonist waiting for her, and the two approached each other in ever narrowing circles, firing all the time. The Kearsarge was better prepared for defense as well as for attack. Her commander had roughly armored her in the most vulnerable parts by laying all his spare chain cables in folds over the sides. The Alabama opened fire at a distance of about a mile, and when the ships had made seven complete circles she suddenly turned and headed for the land. She was sinking, for both shot and shell had reached her with fearful effect on ship and crew. A British yacht, the Deerhound, which had come out to see the fight, came up in time to save about 40 of the crew as they jumped for their lives. The last shot was fired as she went down. It was a glorious victory. We can say so with a clear conscience now, as The Daily News was among the few metropolitan journals that said so when it was won.—London News.

ANOTHER EXPLOSION.

Sad Sequel to the Recent Disaster at Santander.

SEVERAL WORKINGMEN KILLED.

Details of the Dynamite Explosion In November Last.

SANTANDER, March 22.—Another fatal accident occurred here yesterday, caused by an explosion of dynamite. Ever since the awful disaster that occurred in this city on the night of Nov. 3 last, when the Spanish steamer Cabo Machichaco was blown up by the explosion of part of the large consignment of dynamite aboard of her, the wrecked hull of the vessel has been lying at the bottom of the bay.

It was discovered by divers, who went down in search of the bodies of some of those who were killed at that time, that a considerable quantity of dynamite was still in the wreck. This was considered to be a menace to shipping, and the authorities determined to have it removed. While a number of men were engaged in the work of taking the dynamite out of the hulk, yesterday, the explosion occurred, and several of the workingmen were killed.

The Disaster of November.

The loss of life occasioned by the disaster last November has never been accurately ascertained.

It is known, however, that the list of the dead, missing and wounded numbered fully 1000. The Cabo Machichaco was lying alongside a wharf discharging a part of her cargo, which consisted of general merchandise, including iron ore, flour, wine and petroleum in cases. While this work was going on the steamer caught fire and the blaze attracted large crowds to the water front to watch the spectacle of the burning vessel.

Officers and men from vessels lying near the Cabo Machichaco went to the assistance of the firemen who had been hastily summoned. Suddenly there was a deafening roar, and the steamer disappeared. The slaughter among the spectators was frightful. Houses along the water front were either completely destroyed by the shock of the explosion or else so badly damaged as not to be fit for occupancy.

Vast quantities of burning oil were thrown far up into the city, and at one time it appeared as though the whole place would be destroyed. Fortunately, however, a change in the wind prevented this, but not until enormous money damage had been done.

Awful Results.

A hundred small vessels sunk in the harbor, and a number of others, including the merchant steamer Alfonso XIII, caught fire from the rain of flaming oil and burned fiercely. Forty of the crew of the Alfonso XII lost their lives.

Mangled and blackened corpses were scattered along the quay, and the scene was one that defied description. Among the dead was Don Manuel Somoza de La Pena, the provincial governor, and a number of other officials.

Just as the steamer blew up a railway train arrived at a station, a considerable distance from the scene of the explosion. This train was completely wrecked, set fire to and most of its passengers were burned to death.

The people were rendered helpless by the terrible calamity that had befallen them, and it was necessary for the government to assume for a time the direction of affairs in the city. The place has not yet entirely recovered from the effects of the disaster.

It was learned subsequently that, though the Cabo Machichaco had 20 cases of dynamite on her manifest, she had about 480 more cases of the explosive stored under her other cargo.

Hope It Will Stay Out West.

DEADWOOD, S. D., March 22.—The worst snowstorm of the season commenced here Monday night and has kept up continuously ever since. The snow is about four feet on the level and still coming down.

OMAHA, March 22.—The blizzard which developed in the northwestern portion of the state is moving slowly but steadily toward the Missouri river. Its progress is marked by drifts from six inches to two feet deep, and a general blockade of business.

Strikers Making Trouble.

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 22.—Since the Washington mill attempted to run on Tuesday the police have been kept busy protecting those who have gone back to work. Last night 1500 strikers gathered at the mill gates, and trouble being feared the entire police force of the city was stationed at the gates. On the appearance of the workers cries of "Scabs" filled the air and stones flew. A riot was prevented with difficulty.

State Prison For Life.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 22.—Jose Veira Sarmento, the Portuguese who shot his sweetheart, Maria Dascandias, at New Bedford on June 9 last, was brought into the superior court yesterday, and, retracting his plea of not guilty to an indictment for murder, pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree. Sarmento was sentenced to state prison for life, one day of which is to be in solitary.

Higher Wagers Will Come Later.

THE DEAD PATRIOT.

Hungarians Deeply Feel the Loss of Their Lifelong Friend.

TURIN, March 22.—A guard of honor remains in front of the house where the remains of Kossuth are resting. The syndic of Turin visited the house and condoled with the members of the Kossuth family. Later the syndic on behalf of the municipal authorities of Turin sent a message of sympathy to the municipal authorities of Buda-Pesth.

The body of the Hungarian patriot lies on the bed where he breathed his last. The body is attired in black and is surrounded by floral wreaths.

Messages continue to arrive from all parts of the world. The first message of sympathy received was from the municipal authorities of the city of Pesth.

Premier Crispi sent a message by telegraph expressing sorrow at the death of the Hungarian, and adding: "The memory of Kossuth will rest eternally with the lovers of liberty."

Hon. Wayne MacVeagh will represent officially the government at Washington on the occasion of Kossuth's funeral. The body will lie in state in Turin for three days.

The Independents in Buda-Pesth have published a manifesto asking that the nation mourn for eight days the death of the greatest Hungarian. The government, fearing that disturbances would arise from its refusal to order the closing of the court theater at Buda-Pesth, reconsidered its action and ordered that no performance be given.

The Independent party resolved to move at the special meeting of the diet, which has been called for Friday next, that the greatest honors be paid to the remains of Louis Kossuth.

As a mark of respect to the dead patriot, the bourse was closed.

He and His Adherents No Longer In the New England Road.

BOSTON, March 22.—The New York and New England Railroad company is about to be reconstructed upon intended lines of financial and business activity. Six solid Boston business men have been put on the directory.

As a result of the meeting held yesterday, President McLeod and his adherents have been dropped entirely.

In order to place the road on a proper financial basis nearly $7,000,000 will have to be raised. This sum will not be needed all at once.

It is predicted that within a few months the corporation will be able to appeal to the courts in a solvent condition and ask for the removal of Receivers Platt and Perry.

The following board of directors were elected: Gordon Abbott, Boston; Charles F. Adams, 2d, Boston; A. S. Bigelow, Boston; Francis C. Lowell, Boston; A. C. Tower, Boston; S. M. Weld, Boston; John Kean, Jr., New York; John G. Moore, New York; T. C. Platt, New York; Samuel Thomas, New York; Benjamin F. Tracy, New York; John W. Doane, Chicago; Spencer Ervin, Philadelphia; Joseph F. Sinnott, Philadelphia; Arthur Brock, Lebanon, Pa.; Marsden J. Perry, Providence; B. F. Vaughan, Providence; D. S. Plume, Waterbury, Conn.; Arthur Sewell, Portland, Me.

COMPLETE AND FINAL.

Priest of High Rank Renounces the Roman Catholic Church.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Rev. Father Lambert, one of the leading missionaries of the Redemptorist order of the Roman Catholic church, a Jesuit and an officer in the papal army, has renounced the priesthood and withdrawn from the Roman Catholic church. His withdrawal from both the church and the priesthood is voluntary on his part and is due entirely to the fact that he has ceased to have faith in the tenets of Rome, and therefore his conscience would no longer allow him to remain either in the priesthood or in the church. His renunciation is complete and final. He is now with Protestant friends in this city, who have offered him an asylum until such time as he may determine what he will do.

Left Two "Widows."

BOSTON, March 22.—George B. Melledew's two widows are contesting the payment of $3000 life insurance. Wife No. 1, Mrs. Jane E. Lord, was married to him in England in 1855. The other wife married Melledew in this city in 1883. Wife No. 1 and her daughter are contesting the payment of the policy to No. 2, despite the fact that in 1885 wife No. 1 had remarried.

Wants of Bimetallists.

DES MOINES, March 22.—The Interstate Bimetallic league convened here yesterday. General Warner, speaking of the silver question, said to a reporter: "We don't want silver monometallism. We only ask that gold and silver be placed on an absolute equality as money metals. Free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 will solve the currency problem of the country."

Captured After a Long Chase.

TAMPA, Fla., March 22.—For more than a year authorities of Canada have been searching for J. C. Bain, a defaulter. Detective Rogers got a clew and followed him to Spain, thence to the Canary islands, where he captured him. He passed through here on his way to Canada, with his prisoner.

Wheel Will Continue to Spin.

LOUISVILLE, March 22.—In the criminal division Judge Jackson, in the lottery case, held that the judgment of the Louisville law and equity court has never been set aside and that the lottery company can operate.

Miss Pollard as a Novelist.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 22.—Miss Pollard's friends here say she will write a book giving all the unfortunate events of her life and a graphic account of her infatuation and relations for 10 years with Breckinridge.

Knighted by the King of Spain.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Rev. Clarence E. Woodman of the Paulist fathers' church has been made knight of the Order of Isabella by the King of Spain. The order is one of the oldest in Spanish knighthood.

Charged With Smuggling.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Weill de Bonilla, who arrived on the steamship La Bretagne, is accused of having concealed a large amount of jewelry about his person.

A Broken Heart.

READING, Pa., March 22.—While looking upon the face of her dead husband, Mrs. Henry M. Hoffman fell beside the coffin and expired instantly.

AS VIEWED BY AN ENGINEER.

Impressions of a Piano Solo From a Railroad Man's Standpoint.

"I was loitering around the streets one night," said Jim Nelson, one of the old locomotive engineers running into New Orleans, to a reporter. "As I had nothing to do I dropped into a concert and heard a sleek looking Frenchman play a piano in a way that made me feel all over in spots. As soon as he sat down on the stool I knew by the way he handled himself that he understood the machine he was running. He tapped the keys way up one end, just as if they were gauges, and he wanted to see if he had water enough. Then he looked up as if he wanted to know how much steam he was carrying, and the next moment he pulled open the throttle and sailed on to the main line as if he was half an hour late. You could hear her thunder over culverts and bridges and getting faster and faster until the fellow rocked about in his seat like a cradle. Somehow I thought it was old '36' pulling a passenger train and getting out of the way of a 'special.' The fellow worked the keys on the middle division like lightning, and then he flew along the north end of the line until the drivers went around like a buzzsaw, and I got excited.

"About the time I was fixing to tell him to cut her off a little he kicked the dampers under the machine wide open, pulled the throttle way back in the tender, and how he did run! I couldn't stand it any longer and yelled to him that he was pounding on the left side, and if he wasn't careful he'd drop his ash pan. But he didn't hear. No one heard me. Everything was flying and whizzing. Telegraph poles on the side of the track looked like a row of cornstalks, the trees appeared to be a mud bank, and all the time the exhaust of the old machine sounded like the hum of a bumblebee.

"I tried to yell out, but my tongue wouldn't move. He went around curves like a bullet, slipped an eccentric, blew out his soft plug, went down grades 50 feet to the mile and not a controlling break set. She went by the meeting point at a mile a minute and calling for more steam. My hair stood up straight, because I knew the game was up. Sure enough, dead ahead of us was the headlight of a 'special.' In a daze I heard the crash as they struck, and I saw cars shivered into atoms, people smashed and mangled and bleeding and gasping for water. I heard another crash as the French professor struck the deep keys away down on the lower end of the southern division, and then I came to my senses. There he was at a dead standstill, with the door of the firebox of the machine open, wiping the perspiration off his face and bowing to the people before him. If I live to be 1,000 years old, I'll never forget the ride that Frenchman gave me on a piano."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

This Dog Knew Too Much.

Jack, an Irish setter whose home is in Maryland, has the regular duty of bringing the mail from the letter box at the gate, the house standing well back from the road. His family were anticipating a two weeks' visit to New York and proposed sending Jack to the country during their absence. Jack's wishes in the matter were not consulted, and he was not invited to take part in the discussion, but that he listened was proved by his actions. It was decided to start on a Tuesday evening, provided a letter were received by the morning's mail. It did not come, however, nor in the afternoon, when Jack brought up a whole batch, and to his satisfaction no one left home. Several days passed. Then a telegram came inquiring what was the matter. An exchange of letters disclosed the fact that the promised letter was written and should have been received when expected. A search, into which Jack was impressed, much against his will, discovered the missing letter hidden in a hencoop, and it bore unmistakable evidence that Jack had placed it there.

Now, it is not to be supposed that Jack could read or distinguish handwriting, so his keen nose must have recognized the writer, who was a frequent visitor, of whom he was very fond, but only from listening to the talk could he have connected that person with the plans for departure. This is the only instance of Jack's ever betraying a trust, but the sagacity evinced was so great that confidence in him was increased instead of lessened by it.—Demorest's Magazine.

In Every Line.

The poet Bryant, while editor of the New York Post, insisted that young poets should be sympathetically noticed in the book columns of the paper. Once a subeditor handed him a thin volume of poems saying that they were worthless. Mr. Bryant looked through the book and then said, "You might say that it is prettily bound and clearly printed."

The editor of whom this story is told also had a soft side for young men who would write poetry.

"Give me your candid judgment of these lines," said the young man of literary aspirations. "Do they convey the idea of poetry at all?"

"Yes, sir," replied the editor, looking them over, "they do. There is something in every line that conveys the idea. Every line," continued the kind hearted man, letting him down as gently as he could, "begins with a capital letter."—Youth's Companion.

The Power of Song.

The power of song is illustrated in a custom on the railroads of northern Florida. Whenever a train crosses the Swanee river the conductor announces the fact in each car. If any passenger has never heard "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," this particularization of the stream must seem peculiar, and the Suwanee is like a dozen other rivers in the same region, and these are passed without comment from the conductor. —Philadelphia Press.

CLEVELAND LIKES IT

Wants the Wilson Bill as It Now Stands to Become a Law.

A DEADLOCK IN THE HOUSE.

The Democrats Must Furnish Their Own Quorum.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The Democratic members of the senate committee on finance have been assured of the president's co-operation in having the tariff bill become a law, as he has expressed his approval of the bill as a whole.

In the course of a conversation with a member of the committee, Mr. Cleveland referred to the bill and took occasion to say that he hoped it would pass and that there might be as little delay as possible in getting it through the senate.

He spoke of the condition of the country, which was such as to render it important that the agitation of the tariff subject should be terminated at the earliest possible moment. There has been some apprehension as to the way in which the president might regard the income tax in the shape agreed upon, and also the sugar duty, but he is said to have spoken in not an unfriendly way, in the interview mentioned, of these two items, not so much with reference to the principles involved in the provisions, as of the fact that they would assure a sufficient revenue for the necessities of the government.

The friends of the senate bill are encouraged to believe that the president's position with reference to the bill as now prepared will strengthen it materially in the house.

A Day of Filibustering.

The house spent the entire day in filibustering over the O'Neill-Joy contested election case from the St. Louis district.

The report of the commission on elections is in favor of unseating Mr. Joy (Rep.), and the Republicans are determined that this shall not be accomplished unless the Democrats furnish their own quorum. For five hours yesterday they filibustered and kept the house deadlocked. The highest number of Democratic votes cast during the day was 166—13 short of a quorum. A motion was made to adjourn over Friday, but was not carried, and the struggle was resumed today.

The contested election case of English against Hilborn, Third California district, was finally disposed of in the committee on elections by the adoption of the report prepared by Chairman Brown favoring the seating of the contestant, English. The vote was strictly a party one.

In the Senate.

The bill for the purchase of a site for the new government printing office consumed nearly the whole morning hour, and much to the surprise of nearly everybody an amendment providing for the purchase of what is known as the "Mahone site" was passed. Notice for a motion for reconsideration of the vote was given, however, and at some future time the matter will be reopened.

The McGarrahan bill, which was to have been taken up yesterday, went over until Monday, and the bill for extermination of the Russian thistle shared a like fate.

Mr. Sherman introduced a resolution directing the committee on judiciary to investigate the charges of "simulation" of United States coins or of the coining of standard silver dollars, but it went over under objection. After a brief executive session the senate adjourned until Monday.

Claim For $2,250,000 Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The Chilian claims commission yesterday sustained a motion to dismiss the Grace cases, amounting to $2,250,000. The reason assigned was that the claimants were shown to have given aid and comfort to Peru during the last war. The claim, which grew out of violated nitrate contracts, was specially barred by the treaty creating the commission.

Big Fire at Denver.

DENVER, March 23.—A most destructive fire broke out last evening in the recently finished six-story Champs building on Champs street. The fire department worked with desperate energy, and in spite of insufficient water conquered the flames after about a quarter of a square was destroyed. The loss is $187,000.

The Santander Disaster.

SANTANDER, March 23.—The funerals of the dynamite victims occurred yesterday. Some of the victims were so horribly mangled that it was impossible to identify them. No further attempt will be made to raise whatever may remain of the dynamite in the hulk of the Cabo Machichaco.

Old Lovers Elope.

MACHIAS, Me., March 23.—Mrs. Nellie Mallar is gone from here, leaving a husband and three children, taking with her the youngest child, all her husband's cash, and Alfred Brooks, a male boarder in the Mallar household. Brooks and Mrs. Mallar were old sweethearts.

THREE VICTIMS.

A Burly Polander Kills a Child and Fatally Shoots Man and Woman.

MIDVALE, Pa., March 23.—John Sanders keeps the largest boarding house in this place. He is a burly Polander, greatly feared by his countrymen. Last evening he had a quarrel with a Polander named Mike Boshop. The latter is alleged to have said: "You big tyrant, I am not afaid of you."

The words had hardly left his mouth when Sanders picked up a rifle, took aim and fired. The first shot missed Boshop, but found a target in the person of 2-year-old Willis Hendershot, who was reclining in his mother's arms. The ball pierced the little fellow's brain and he expired almost immediately.

The second shot fired by Sanders entered Boshop's body near the heart, and he fell to the ground. Sanders then attacked his wife. He fired two shots at the woman, one ball lodging in the fleshy part of the right leg and the other in her back. Boshop and the woman will both probably die from their wounds.

After the shooting Sanders barricaded himself in the house. A crowd began to stone the house, when Sanders raised a window and fired two shots into the crowd. This made the people more angry than ever.

Several attempts to burn the house were made, but they were not successful. Squire Perkins headed a party which entered the house. The murderer was helpless, his ammunition being exhausted and blood streaming from a wound in the back of his head, inflicted by a stone thrown. When the murderer was brought out of the house the crowd wanted to lynch him, but Sanders was safely lodged in jail. The house was badly wrecked.

Affairs In Honduras.

DALLAS, March 23.—Cabell has returned from Honduras. He reports two or three revolutions on hand and one general election for president. Dr. Arios will undoubtedly be elected. The exiled ex-President Vasquez is safe in San Salvador, where he has a companion, E. A. Burke, late defaulting state treasurer of Louisiana.

Patterned After Mexican Dollars.

LONDON, March 23.—A dispatch from Singapore says that the chamber of commerce there has voted its adhesion to the request made by the Hong Kong chamber of commerce for the coinage of a British silver dollar of the same weight and fineness as the Mexican dollar.

May Be a Double Crime.

NEW YORK, March 23.—A new theory has been started in connection with the mysterious death of Miss Martha F. Fuller, which is to the effect that she was outraged just before she met her death.

Epidemic Threatened.

BROOKLYN, March 23.—Health Commissioner Emery says that unless great care is taken there will be an epidemic of smallpox in this city. Ten new cases were reported yesterday.

Miss Hattie Fuller of Hall, place, received a present of a fine Decker piano from her brother Virgil Fuller, as a birthday present last week. It was one of the articles threatened with destruction by the recent fire.

A. G. Durgin also has an Easter opening today. His confectionery counter occupies a more prominent place in his elegant store and the assortment is large and choice. There is also today a very attractive display in his show window. All the young ladies will expect their young gentleman to have a box for Sunday evening. It is Easter, you know.

An orange supper and social was successfully given at the Wollaston Unitarian church vestry on Thursday evening. After an excellent supper, Masters Harold Baker and Avery Bennett played a violin and piano duett; Mr. Harry W. Sprague gave an euphonion solo; Mrs. George W. Bennett read a short selection; Miss Lula Phelan sang a ballad; Master Avery Bennett played a piano solo, and Masters Eddie and Fred Mitchell gave a piano duett.

—The value of the fire drill in schools has been shown again in New York, where several hundred pupils were marched out of a burning building to the music furnished by a teacher upon a piano.

—For reasons of economy in cost, swiftness of construction and saving of space in buildings requiring tall chimneys, the material of construction now used is steel, with firebrick and tile lining.

DROPPED IN THE SQUARE.

Two Geese Take a Short Fly and Surprise the People.

Thursday afternoon people in the Square were surprised to see two geese fly over. They were very low and one became tangled in the electric wires in front of the Adams building, then he struck the building and fell on the sidewalk. Although greatly exhausted he did not propose to lay prostrate and had started off when Daniel O'Connell grabbed him and after a lively tussle captured him, and soon cooped him up. He was evidently a tame goose used as a coy and on his leg was a broken band by which he had been fastened.

The other goose fell in the yard of Mr. George A. Brackett on Chestnut street where he was captured by Joseph Conlon.

Later it was found that the geese were the property of ex-Councilman Morse, one of the city's well known sportsmen, whose residence is on Goffe street overlooking the Square.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Gist of Bills Agreed Upon by the Committee on the Unemployed.

BOSTON, March 23.—The senate concurred with the house in sending to the committee on expenditures the normal school bills, with instructions to report a single bill. The adverse reports on the petitions of various towns were likewise sent to that committee.

The special committee on the unemployed has agreed upon two bills. One of the bills provides for the appointment of a board of three members to investigate the whole question and recommend practical measures for the relief of the unemployed. The board is to be appointed by the governor and council, by whom the compensation is to be fixed, and it expires on the second Wednesday in March, 1895, on or before which date it is to make final report. It is also to report on temporary measures to the present legislature.

Another bill which the committee will report gives authority to the metropolitan park commissioners to proceed at once with the construction of roads and boulevards to connect the public parks in the several town and cities, and authorizes the expenditure of $500,000.

This is a partial report, and in case the bill establishing a board of investigation is passed, all questions will be referred to it. Otherwise the committee will make several suggestions.

Adverse reports were made to the house on the bill to define the liability of railroad companies in cases of injuries to employes, the object of the bill being to make it necessary for the companies to prove due care on their part in cases under the act proposed; also against the bill to prevent the offensive use of buildings for advertising purposes.

Ought not to pass, on the bill requesting patent medicine bottles to have on them a label stating the per cent of alcohol in the medicine; also on the bill requiring cans and other receptacles used by milk dealers to be kept free from impurities.

Leave to withdraw on the petition of the town of Ashland that the city of Boston be required to make good the loss in valuation of the taxable property in the town caused by the taking of water for a water supply.

Leave to withdraw on the petition to abolish the grade crossing of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at Brownell street in Fall River.

Leave to withdraw on the petitions of the following cities and towns for a state normal school: Cheshire, Hinsdale, Haverhill, Athol, Barre, Gardner, Winchendon, Templeton and Lowell.

On motion of Mr. Simpson the petitions for normal schools, on which leave to withdraw was reported, were all referred to the committee on expenditures.

Mr. Russell introduced a bill extending to New London, Conn., the provisions of the act relating to the immediate transportation of dutiable goods in bond.

WHAT IS APPETITE?

Healthy Appetite Teaches Us When We Ought to Eat.

Without Appetite we would not eat, we would not live.

Convalescents are always hungry: they are well. Children have great appetites: they are growing big. Healthy people have good appetites: their stomachs need food to replace the waste tissue and fat consumed by the body.

If your appetite is bad you are sick. Your stomach does not wish to work. Your store of fat will decrease. You will get thinner. You will sooner or later waste away. That is consumption.

If you do not waste away, but remain always thin, you are still laying yourself open to the attacks of disease. Fat is nothing but nature's reserve force or fuel. You cannot be absolutely healthy unless you are normally fat.

What makes Paskola the great "appetizer" is the fact that it aids the stomach to digest all other food, is itself at once absorbed into the system, and thus leaves the stomach perfectly empty. As soon as this happens hunger occurs. The reason so many dyspeptics have no appetite is that their stomachs are constantly full of imperfectly digested food.

There is only one way to permanently remedy this and that is by the use of Paskola. Paskola being a pre-digested food is directly absorbed, and gives the stomach no work. It brings back a healthy appetite and will make even a consumptive healthy and fat.

Lawrence White of Quincy was arraigned for assault on Timothy Donovan. Case continued until next Thursday.

Personal.

The East Boston Free Press has the following complimentary notice of a former teacher and citizen of this city:

Mr. Tilson A. Mead, elected principal of the Chapman school at the last meeting of the school board, is well and agreeably known throughout this district where he has resided for a number of years. Mr. Mead since his connection with the school in the capacity of sub-master has been an active agent in its progress and his promotion meets with universal satisfaction. Mr. Mead is connected with many local organizations, prominent among them is the Citizens' Trade Association for which he is at present secretary. Apart from educational matters the welfare and improvement of East Boston has been his chief concern. He will assume his duties Sept. 1, 1894, with the best wishes of the community.

Musicale.

The social event of Atlantic was on Thursday evening. It being ladies' night, the Atlantic Social club gave a delightful musicale which was largely attended and greatly appreciated. Seldom have we the pleasure of such a talented company of artists in one evening's entertainment. All the selections on the programme were finely rendered and enthusiastically applauded. The artists assisting were Miss Davis of Allston, soprano; Miss Jennie Mae Spencer, Boston, contralto; Mr. E. A. Osgood, basso, Boston; Miss Edith Packard, elocutionist, Melrose, and Mr. E. A. Whitney, accompanist. The hall was prettily decorated with Easter lillies and ferns. The committee who are to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment, consisted of ex-Councilman W. H. Owen, chairman, W. P. Hayden and Councilman S. O. Moxon.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Wollaston Baptist church gave a very interesting musical and literary entertainment at the Young Men's Christian Association Rooms Thursday evening.

The entertainment opened with a selection by a mixed quartette, which was followed by a piano solo by Miss Olney. Miss Read of the Emerson School of Oratory gave several selections which were well rendered. The violin playing of Miss Olney was one of the features of the entertainment, showing remarkable talent for one so young.

Mrs. Wilson and Mr. Saunders rendered a duet, and Mrs. Fiske and Mr. Saunders each a solo. The entertainment was the best musical and literary entertainment of the season.

Next Thursday evening Mr. Charles A. Foster will speak on "Custom Administration." This talk will be particularly interesting to young men interested in mercantile life.

Few men who are now living and who were present on that memorable occasion can fail to recall its solemnity and stateliness. All the lawyers of Norfolk County were expected to attend the funeral and most of them did. Of all the attorneys of that county who had been admitted to the bar before March, 1848, only two now survive—Samuel B. Noyes of Canton and Samuel Warner of Wrentham, and of all the gentlemen who were at the time members of Congress from Massachusetts only one survives, and that is the distinguished Robert Charles Winthrop of Brookline, ex speaker of the House. It will be recalled that Mr. Adams was a member of the 30th Congress from the district which then included Quincy, Canton, Dedham and other towns in Norfolk County. The other members from Massachusetts to the 30th Congress were Daniel Webster and John Davis, senators; Amos Abbot, George Ashmum, Joseph Grinnell, Artemas Hale, Charles Hudson, Daniel P. King, J. G. Palfrey Julius Rockwell and Robert C. Winthrop. Mr. Adams was struck with paralysis, while in his seat at the Capitol, on the 21st day of February, 1848. He died on the 23d of that month; his last words were: "This is the last of earth! I am content!"

—Editor Starbuck of the Waltham Free Press has put a great deal of truth in the following few lines: "The laboring man seems to be about the only one who refuses to work for reduced wages. The capitalist finds his stocks and bonds paying him little or nothing; the manufacturer finds it hard work to even meet his regular pay rolls, the employer is content if he can only raise money enough to pay off his help, the merchant is satisfied if he can pay expenses. But the workingman insists on full pay or no work, even if his employer's business is ruined."—Athol Chronicle.

A NEW CHINESE TREATY.

Senator Perkins Thinks It Furnishes a Loop-Hole For Celestials.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—A new Chinese treaty has been negotiated and will soon be reported from the senate committee on foreign relations. When reported the treaty will be for 10 years instead of 20 as originally proposed, and the period of renewal is also fixed at 10 years in case neither government gives notice that it should no longer continue in force after that time.

The reference to the Geary law in the treaty is to registered Chinese, and stipulates that the registered Chinese who go to China shall not return unless they have a lawful wife, child or parent in the United States, have property to the value of $1000 or credits due to that amount.

Senator Perkins of California was asked if such a treaty as had been described would permit Chinese to return. He replied that it would absolutely render the Geary law nugatory. At present a registered Chinaman cannot return. Under the proposed treaty the Chinaman who has $1000 in this country or credits to that amount can return.

"It is no trouble," said the California senator, "for a Chinaman to make a showing of this kind. He can easily get a certificate showing debts due him, and when he goes back to China he sends another Chinaman in his place. The provisions of the treaty as set forth show it to be a shrewd piece of diplomacy on the part of the Chinese government, and it is an easy matter for the Chinamen to get around it."

DIDN'T TESTIFY.

Colonel Breckinridge Disappoints Visitors to the Courtroom.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Counsel for Colonel Breckinridge have decided to follow the example of their opponents by reserving their client's testimony for the closing card in their case.

Accordingly Breckinridge disappointed many people by failing to go upon the witness stand, and one of the disappointed was Madeline Pollard herself, who left court as soon as she learned of the program for the day. The entire day was dragged out by reading of depositions, all aimed at two points, viz.: To prove that Miss Pollard did not give birth to a child at the Norwood convent in 1885, and that she is older than she represents herself to be.

There will be nothing more for the jury until Monday, as the court is observing Good Friday, and the session tomorrow will be devoted to arguments over the admissibility of depositions to show that Miss Pollard had been intimate with other men than the defendant, to which the plaintiff has given notice of objections.

Judge Bradley has been the recipient since the commencement of the trial of an unusually large correspondence concerning this case. Many letters come from religious people, urging him in the interests of the morals of the community to exclude newspaper reporters from the court—a power which the judge says is not his to exercise.

Succumbed to Ill-Treatment.

BOSTON, March 23.—Madeline Baudet, the 9-year-old daughter of Frank Baudet, died at the city hospital last night from the effects of the ill-treatment alleged to have been received at the hands of her father and his paramour, Ida Darling, at their home, 14 Davis street, on Feb. 26. The father and his paramour have been under arrest since March 1, charged with assault and battery. The case will be brought up again next Monday, when a more serious charge will be brought against them.

Erected by Women.

The Daughters of the Republic, an association of ladies in Texas, have erected in Lakeview cemetery, Galveston, a shaft of granite in honor of David G. Burnet, first president of the republic of Texas—1799-1870—and General Sidney Sherman—1805-73—who commanded the left wing at the battle of San Jacinto. The base of the monument carries inscriptions, and the second base, on which rest plinth and shaft, have the names of the two Texans in large raised and polished letters. The unveiling ceremonies were followed by a grand banquet.—Dallas Letter.

France Feels Her Loss.

The woman suffrage movement in France is temporarily without a leader since the death of Mlle. Maria Deraismes early in February. She was 65 years old and from her childhood had shown independence of thought. She was a writer and lecturer on all subjects connected with the cause of women, and when Dumas' "L'Homme-Femme" first appeared she replied to it in "Eve Contre Dumas," the controversy exciting much interest. Mlle. Deraismes was always called "madame" by courtesy.—Paris Temps.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

THE MAINSPRING OF HER LIFE.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Few people realize this.

What can she do, where can she go, so long as that dreadful backache saps both strength and ambition?

She cannot walk or stand, her duties are heavy burdens, and she is utterly miserable.

The cause is some derangement of the uterus or womb. Backache is the sure symptom.

For years Sarah Holstein, who lives at 7 Perry Street, in Lowell, Mass., suffered with falling of the womb. The best doctors failed to relieve her, and as a last resort she purchased six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now she is a well woman.

The dreadful pain in her back stopped after taking the second bottle. She wishes she had taken it sooner, and saved both money and years of suffering.

This Vegetable Compound is the one unfailing remedy for such troubles. A woman discovered it and gave it to woman.

TWO WEEKS' GRACE.

Murderer Prendergast Was to Have Been Executed Today.

PLEA OF INSANITY IS RAISED.

Case Will Come Before the Court on Saturday.

CHICAGO, March 23.—When the federal judges announced that they would not grant the petition for writ of habeas corpus in the case of Patrick Eugene Prendergast, the assassin's attorneys renewed their efforts by raising the question of their client's sanity. The point raised was that Prendergast had become insane since the trial. So they applied to Judge Chetlain, and he consented to hear arguments to show that he could properly take up the matter.

MURDERER PRENDERGAST.

Judge Chetlain refused to extend the time for the hearing beyond 11 o'clock this morning, the hour set for the execution. The authorities at Springfield refused to reprieve Prendergast.

It was nearly 11:30 last night before the attorneys concluded their opening arguments, and Judge Chetlain decided that he could rightfully take up the case. The regular court was summoned and the work of summoning a jury begun. Having heard the arguments Judge Chetlain announced his decision, extending the time of the execution of the sentence two weeks, to April 6, and setting the commencement of the trial of the question as to the prisoner's sanity on Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock.

The Judge's Review.

Said the judge: "The case as it now stands is as follows: The state has appeared and declared itself ready to proceed. It has conceded to the defendant the right to a trial. The court required the defense to introduce evidence to make a prima facie case, raising a reasonable doubt as to the sanity of the prisoner. The question is not one of the guilt of the prisoner, but whether he between the time of the judgment of the court of the execution of his sentence has become insane.

"The court has the power to empanel a jury and try this case. It is now nearly midnight and it is apparent to counsel on both sides that the trial could not be concluded before the time appointed for the execution. Shall the court be left powerless to prolong the time of the execution of the sentence from the authorities? I am satisfied that the court has that inherent power. The question ought to be submitted to a jury, and investigation be made quietly and duly. It would be inconsistent with justice to compel a trial at midnight. For the foregoing reasons the court will prolong the execution of Patrick Eugene Prendergast."

Mrs. Hawley Sentenced.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 23.—Florence Hawley, the convicted murderess of Miss Mary Munson, was sentenced to nine years in the state prison and ordered to pay a fine of $1. The prisoner was unmoved by the long sentence. John Hawley, her husband, is now serving a life sentence for the crime.

A CRACK ON THE NECK

Sent Dixon to the Floor to the Delight of a Large Crowd.

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—If the second round last night between George Dixon and Walter Edgerton, the "Kentucky Rosebud," had been allowed to continue for three minutes Dixon would have been completely knocked out. As it was it took 1 1-2 minutes to recover his senses, while in the meantime the 2000 persons who were present went wild with enthusiasm.

The "friendly" bout took place at Industrial hall, where an athletic entertainment was in progress for the aid of the poor of this city. Neither man attempted to do any slugging in the first round. In the second round, the old enmity which exists between the two men cropped out. They rushed each other all over the ring for a minute. The "Rosebud" had Dixon in the latter's corner, and the champion seemed to be wary of his antagonist.

Edgerton led with his left, and as Dixon parried the blow with his right, the Rosebud swung his right glove on George's neck. Dixon went down like a log, his head striking the floor a hard blow, which probably stunned him. Referee Cole picked him up and sat him in his corner. It was just 1 minute and 10 seconds before Dixon realized what had happened. The bout lasted 1 1-2 minutes.

Dixon, by careful handling, was about able to go on and finish the scheduled three rounds. Tom O'Rourke said that it was the first time that Dixon had ever been knocked down.

PEOPLE'S PARTY OF MAINE

Adopt Resolutions and Nominates L. C. Bateman For Governor.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 23.—The state convention of the People's party opened here with an attendance of about 100. All Populists present were admitted without credentials. A. A. Beaton of Rockland was elected chairman, and the following state committee chosen: J. E. Ash, Auburn; W. H. Jewett, Portland; B. H. Ridley, Jay; Henry Betts, Ellsworth; A. W. Boynton, Augusta; A. L. Young, Camden; C. W. Bickford, Dresden Mills; John White, Levant; Willard Lord, Abbott Village; John M. Jordan, Richmond; Andrew Clark, Belfast.

Resolutions were adopted declaring that the present condition of affairs was owing to a lack of a proper circulating medium; declaring for the free coinage of gold and silver; government control of railroads, telegraph and telephone systems; a graduated income tax and other legislation endorsed by the Omaha platform.

Mr. Lennond of Thomaston fought the silver coining clause unsuccessfully, and the adoption of the plank endorsing the Omaha platform was to satisfy those who approved the sub-treasury loaning scheme.

A resolution offered by Mr. Smart of Swanville, "That the drunkard factories of the state are a nuisance, and we should use all honorable and legal means for their suppression," was adopted.

Luther C. Bateman of Searsmont was renominated for governor by acclamation. There was a public meeting last evening, at which Mr. Bateman, Solon Chase and others delivered addresses.

DOUGLASS IS PRESIDENT.

Anti-Lynching League Promises to Be Aided by Whites.

CHICAGO, March 23.—The following telegram has been sent to Governor Hogg of Texas by the newly organized colored anti-lynching league:

"The anti-lynching league protests against the contemplated lynching of 16 men at Matagorda, in your state. If you take no action to protect them, we will hold you responsible for their murder."

The officers of the league say that if the men are lynched they will make a test case and bring pressure to bear that will cause congress to appoint an investigating committee. The formation of the league by the colored people has aroused considerable interest among the white people of the city. The Woman's Christian Temperance union of Chicago and President Gunsalus of Armour institute will endeavor to form a Caucasian anti-lynching league.

The original league was formed by the colored people very recently with the object of exerting influence looking to the suppression of the frequent lynching of colored men. A platform was adopted and Fred Douglass elected president.

CITIES IN MOURNING.

Further Evidence of Hungarians' Love For Kossuth.

STUDENTS TURN OUT IN FORCE

And Make It Warm For Those Enjoying Festivities.

BUDA-PESTH, March 23.—The government has ordered to be hoisted upon the state buildings the national flag draped with crape in memory of Kossuth.

Mourning for Kossuth is general in this city. Every man has crape on his hat. Women wear only black garments. Black flags hang over the front of the houses of parliament, the banks, the university buildings and the clubs. Many provincial towns have gone into mourning as deeply as has the city.

The students of this city, ardent admirers of the great general, have determined that the people shall pay every respect to his memory or else suffer the consequences. Crowds of them went about the city last night smashing windows and gas lamps in front of houses of which no mourning was displayed. The students invaded the theaters and drove from the stage, with missiles of all sorts, the actors taking part in the performances, and then the audiences.

The same tactics were employed at the concert halls until all of them were closed. The police attempted to arrest the disturbers, but students, who were out in strong force, and who were aided by the rough element, resisted them and a number of sanguinary street conflicts took place.

Stopped Opera Show.

When the students entered the Royal Opera House and National theater, the attaches and the police attempted to prevent them, but the former fought their way into the bodies of the houses and stopped the performances. The managers refusing to display banners, they themselves hoisted mourning banners they had brought with them over the boxes.

The distinguished Hungarian novelist, Jokai, has issued an appeal to the Hungarian people in which he asks that all the draped flags which the army of sorrowing people will carry before the hearse conveying Kossuth's remains be preceded by a white flag of reconciliation, an immaculate flag of homage to the pillar of the constitution.

WILSON VERY WEAK.

The Sick Congressman Is Now at San Antonio, Tex.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 23.—Congressman W. L. Wilson has arrived here from Mexico. He left Guadalajara last Monday morning in his private car and traveled by easy stages to this city, reaching here yesterday afternoon. Mr. Wilson is very much emaciated, and it was only with great effort on his part, and assistance by other members of the party, that he was able to reach the carriage in waiting to convey him to his hotel.

He stated that he was very weak and tired, although he had stood the fatigue of the journey much better than he had expected. He asked to be excused from being interviewed on the situation in congress as regards his tariff measure and other subjects until he had recovered from the effects of his long trip.

His face is colorless and he speaks in an almost inaudible tone of voice. He stated that he would remain in San Antonio until he was fully recovered from his illness. He is accompanied by Congressman Tarsney; his son, J. H. Wilson, and Dr. Underwood of the City of Mexico.

Rowell Hasn't Backed Down.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 23.—The principals in the breach of promise suit brought yesterday are Miss Lizzie Campbell of Boston, 42 years of age, and Ephraim K. Rowell, aged 73, of this city, a wealthy real estate owner. Mr. Rowell acknowledged that he had promised to marry Miss Campbell, and the day set for the wedding was May 1 next, but said that now he would not marry her unless the suit was first withdrawn. He was surprised to learn that a suit had been brought, as he thought it well understood that they were to be married on the above date.

Wedded Late In Life.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

APPEALS FOR A VETO

Of the Bland Seigniorage Bill by All Sections of the Country.

THE PRESIDENT HARD AT WORK

On the Merits and Demerits of the Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Probably because it was cabinet day and therefore difficult to get the ear of the president, there were few congressmen at the White House yesterday.

But they have in no degree been relieved of anxiety as to the fate of the seigniorage bill. The situation at the White House presents one strong feature of novelty in the fact that it appears to be the scene of a bloodless battle just now between the congressmen on the one hand, the large majority of whom are urging the signing of the seigniorage bill, and the great commercial interests of the country on the other, for 29 out of every 30 of the communications coming from them pray for the veto of the bill.

These communications by mail and wire are not, as might be supposed, altogether of eastern origin. For instance, there were appeals for a veto from Cincinnati, St. Louis, San Francisco and Salem, Or. Virginia has also joined the line, as was made evident by protests against the bill from the cotton factories of Norfolk and the transportation interests there.

Thoughtfully Considered by Cleveland.

A very thoughtful presentation of objections to the bill coming from Richmond has made some impression upon the president. Of course it is manifestly impossible for the president to read himself in detail all of these communications, but they are carefully examined by Mr. Thurber, and any new point or suggestion on either side of the case is brought to the president's attention.

He has up to and including next Thursday to make up his mind what to do with the bill, and there are indications that he proposes to use most of this time in thoughtful consideration of the matter. It is certain that he has committed himself to no man, as respects his action on the bill.

It is noticeable that some communications received urging a veto concede that owing to the slow formation of popular opinion the result may be a temporary party loss at the polls, but they insist that in the end the sound and conservative course they approve will surely be rewarded by popular support.

This view is strongly expressed in the communications from the south, which in cases adjure the president to follow the line of conduct pursued by him in making the tariff issue.

The comparatively few appeals for the signature of the bill as a rule are based on the plea that it will do no harm, and is absolutely demanded to ensure party unity and the control of the house of representatives.

Trouble Enough on His Hands.

DENVER, March 24.—When the attention of Governor Waite was called to the report that L. Houseman had gone to Cripple Creek to ascertain whether assurances can be given of no interference by the authorities if Corbett and Jackson decide to fight there, he said: "My advice is not to make any arrangements for an international fight in this state; we have enough fight on our hands at present."

Employes' Schedule Not Accepted.

OMAHA, March 24.—The last move in the joint conference of the Union Pacific was made yesterday, when the firemen submitted their schedule to Mr. Clark and were informed in return that it was not acceptable. There is a possibility that the engineers may be called to confer with Mr. Clark again, and everything will remain in statu quo until the arrival of Judge Caldwell next week.

The Anti-Option Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—According to the anti-option bill the termination of a contract is to have affixed thereto a 2-cent internal revenue stamp. The special tax on dealers in options and futures is fixed at $12, instead of $24 as originally proposed, and the penal bond required to be furnished is fixed at $3000 instead of $10,000.

Crew Were Rescued.

BOSTON, March 24.—The steamship Lake Ontario, which arrived at this port yesterday, brought in the captain and crew of the fishing schooner Mabel Wolford of Gloucester, which vessel the Ontario run down on Thursday, in a dense fog, while the schooner was fishing on La Have bank.

ROCKLAND, Me., March 24.—The pants factory operated by the Maine Manufacturing company, employing from 200 to 500 hands, shut down for the season yesterday. It will not reopen until Sept. 1 at least. Manager Martin states that the cause is tariff uncertainty.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

The Constitutionality of the Dipsomaniac Law—The Unemployed.

BOSTON, March 24.—In the senate the committee on treasury submitted a unanimous report in favor of the bill requiring the registration of physicians.

Ought not to pass on a bill to amend the city charter of Boston so that the mayor of said city might be empowered to appoint all officers and boards and heads of departments which are provided for in the statutes or ordinances.

Ought not to pass was reported on the bill that every manufacturing, mining or quarrying, mercantile, railroad, street railway, canal, steamboat, telegraph and telephone corporation be prevented from paying employes in any other way than by public currency.

An adverse report was submitted on the bill to prevent any person or corporation from enjoining, under penalty, their employes not to affiliate themselves with labor organizations. Ought not to pass on a bill making it unlawful for persons to work more than six days in seven. Similar action was reported on a bill providing that all employes of the commonwealth shall receive $2 a day.

In the house Mr. Coakley offered an order to require the opinion of the justices of the supreme judicial court on the following questions:

1. Is an adjudication that a person is a dipsomaniac under chapter 339 of the acts of 1885 equivalent to a criminal adjudication? If so, is said act unconstitutional by reason of providing for a criminal adjudication without giving a right to a trial by jury?

2. Is the term "habitual drunkard" as used in said act synonymous with the term "dipsomaniac," or is dipsomania a distinct condition from the habit of drunkenness within the meaning of said act?

3. Is the right of appeal provided by section 10 of chapter 414 of the acts of 1889 to be exercised under the provisions of the law as to appeals, in criminal cases, from the judgment of trial justices, police, district and municipal courts?

4. Do sections 10 and 13 of said chapter 414 grant or deny the appellant the right of being admitted to bail? If they deny the right, is not so much of said act as involves a denial of such right unconstitutional?

The order was laid over to Monday.

J. E. Hayes, Mr. Wentworth and Mr. Kneil announced that they dissent from the adverse report of the committee on judiciary on the bill of Mr. Bliss of West Springfield to define the liability of railroad companies to make compensation for injuries suffered by employes in their service. This bill gives a presumption of due care on the part of the employes, instead of, as now, compelling him to prove due care.

The joint special committee on the unemployed reported in part as follows:

The petition presented on Feb. 20, 1894, requests that the general court "formulate and adopt such immediate plans of public work as will fully relieve the present distress."

The committee does not deem it wise to commit the commonwealth to expensive projects, without regard to the general welfare, in order to give employment to labor.

The committee found, however, a proposition before the general committee looking to the building of boulevards or roads connecting parks or other open spaces with cities and towns of the metropolitan park district. This work has been suggested by the metropolitan park commission in its report of 1893.

The bills provide for the construction of parks and boulevards and an appropriation of $500,000; the act for appointing a commision provides that the board shall consist of three persons whose term of office shall expire the second Wednesday of March, 1895. The members of the board shall receive such compensation and incur such expenses for carrying out the provisions of the act as the governor and council shall approve, provided that the whole amount expended shall not exceed $15,000.

Ought not to pass on two bills requiring specifications of work to be supplied to weavers.

Ought not to pass on bill to prohibit railroad companies from changing time tables without permission of the railroad commissioners.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 24.—An attempt was made to wreck the northbound train on the Boston and Maine railroad, leaving here at 7:30 last evening, at a point between Willimansett and Chicopee, by placing ties across the track. TAKE UP one of our leading religious weekly newspapers and turning to the editorials, one is astonished to find how different the subjects discussed are, from those uniformly treated, in the editorial columns of our leading daily secular newspapers. You say, well this is to be expected because of the nature of the case. Well there is some truth in this, but then, there is something more that strikes one, as a distinguishing feature characterizing the religious weekly. And that is, there is not a subject discussed but what is of the first importance to be known.

Keeping this in mind and having respect to the calm and able manner in which the subjects are discussed, and yielding ourselves up to the charm, cogency and reasonableness of the argument, we cannot help coming to the conclusion, because we feel it that we have been made better in consequence of having perused it.

The same kind of feeling of satisfaction takes possession of us when we think of the difference there is between religious and secular holidays and seasons of the year.

Tomorrow is Easter Sunday, and the fact that it is, brings to the mind feelings of the most soothing and pleasurable description.

"Lo! in the clouds of heaven appears
God's well-beloved Son.
He brings a train of brighter years,
His kingdom is begun.
He comes a guilty world to bless."

QUINCY WILL be interested in a bill to be favorably reported in the Legislature in a few days which gives authority to the Metropolitan Park Commissioners to proceed at once with the construction of roads and boulevards to connect the public parks in the several towns and cities, and authorizes the expenditure of $500,000. With Hon. Charles Frances Adams on the board, and his known endorsement of the Bay Shore reservation and the Furnace Brook boulevard in this city it would not be surprising if a boulevard was built by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners from the Blue Hill's reservation via Furnace brook, to Merry Mount park, and thence along the shore both to Houghs Neck and Squantum. From Blue Hill the boulevard will extend to Franklin park and the other reservations in and about Boston, and it will be possible for Quincy people to take a delightful ride for many miles.

THE LEDGER does not say a great deal about the mayor's budget. It keeps mighty mum. Wait till next November and then it will find the weak points in it.—Advertiser.

The LEDGER was under the impression that it had commented on the budget in more than one issue, and it spelled Mayor with a big "M." It was the LEDGER that pointed out that the grand total was a large increase over 1893, and would make the tax rate of 1894 excessive, and that it should be scaled down if possible. The LEDGER also pointed out in advance the importance of keeping the appropriations down, and the Advertiser said we were premature. We recognize that it is practically impossible to have a lower tax rate this year than in 1893, either under a Democratic or a Republican administration, and hinted as much during the campaign last fall. But it can and should be kept below $18 per $1,000, and Mayor Hodges and City Council will do their best to accomplish this.

HAPPILY SURPRISED.

Not a Baby Carriage This Time, but Several Articles Which Will be Appreciated.

"Earl Folsom Weeks, from the employes of the Quincy & Boston Street Railway, March 20, 1894," was the inscription on a handsome gold-lined silver cup that was presented to Superintendent Benjamin J. Weeks at the office of the street railway this noon by the employes of the company, for his young son and heir. Accompanying the cup was a silver knife, fork and spoon and a silver puff box.

The set was a very handsome affair and was a complete surprise to Mr. Weeks, who in the gift saw another token of respect by which he is held by his faithful employes. It is doubtful if he was more pleased with the gift than was genial Dan Moran whose good-natured countenance was wreathed with smiles, that proved the old maxim that it is more blessed to give than receive.

Supt. Weeks, in behalf of his wife and son, thanked the boys for their kind remembrance and assured them that there was no superintendent that had a more faithful and honest set of employes than he did, and that he would always do whatever lay in his power for their welfare and comfort.

He then took the next car for home to show his wife the gifts.

GRAND OFFICERS HERE.

The Sons of Veterans Parade and Give a Banquet Last Evening.

Francis L. Souther Camp, Sons of Veterans celebrated its fourth anniversary last evening by a reception and banquet to the high officers of the order and the occasion proved to be a red letter one in history of the camp, as it was the first time in its history that this camp has ever been visited by division officers.

The members of the camp marched from headquarters to the depot, where the visiting officers were met and escorted through Hancock, Elm and Bigelow streets to Faxon hall, quantities of red fire being burned on the way.

Arriving at the hall seats were immediately taken at the tables and all fell to enjoying the banquet, which was a credit to Caterer Allen under whose charge it was served. The menu consisted of turkey, escalloped oysters, mashed potatoes, frankforts, sauer-kraut, coffee cakes, charlotte russe, ice cream, coffee and rolls.

Among the dignitaries present were: Commander-in-chief, Joseph B. Maccabe; division commander, Col. Albert C. Blaisdell; Adjutant Fred E. Bolton; Inspector Edward Mullen, department inspector of the Grand Army; William L. Gage, Senator John F. Merrill, Selectman John V. Scollard, Superintendent of Schools Horne of Braintree and Rev. W. Sherman Thompson.

Capt. Melvin C. Holmes acted as toastmaster, and the first speaker was Commander-in-chief Maccabe.

He spoke in a happy strain, hoping this meeting would inspire them to make their camp become not only the banner camp in the division but of the country, and he asked the members to help make their camp a credit to the division. He would esteem it a favor when he retired from his present office to go into the ranks. If there was one flag on God's footstool we all love it was old glory, the stars and stripes. He urged the members of the camp when in uniform to bear in mind that they are soldiers, for it means as you follow those colors, you are gentlemen. He was sorry they had not discarded the cigars and had the Woman's Relief Corps there. They are doing a noble work. God bless them. In closing Commander Maccabe said if the camp did not make a good gain this quarter he would come out and read the riot act to them.

Senator Merrill spoke briefly, saying one of the sweetest and prettiest things a person could have was love of country. He was not old enough to be a Son of Veteran, but he was in hearty sympathy with the organization. Upon your shoulders will rest the responsibility of perpetuating the memory of your fathers.

Division Commander Blaisdell said this was one of the brightest of the many pleasant moments of pleasure he had spent with the Sons of Veterans. He had travelled over 7,000 miles visiting camps since last June. The division had gained since he took charge which was do to the work done by the camps, and at the close of his term there would be 6 or 7 new camps added to the credit of the present administration. If you have a good man in your camp and he can not pay his dues, remit them. Do not suspend a single man. He urged the members to stand together and attend the meeting and thus help your officers. Stand by your captain and let it be when the camp turns out it will make as good appearance as it did tonight. There is a great possibility for the order in the future and it stands us to do what is right. Stand for one flag and for one country.

Adj. Boulton, Department Inspector Gage, Rev. W. Sherman Thompson, Selectman Scollard, James O'Donovan and others followed all speaking in the same happy strain.

Between the several speeches the party was entertained by one of Edison's phonographs, which treated them to all the latest selections of the day.

—Senator Lodge is a Republican, but no Democratic constituent from the old Bay State can claim that his politics are in evidence when the senator's time and patience are encroached upon, which is the continuous experience of his Washington life. A more unfailingly courteous member cannot be found at the capitol, a fact which can be attested by hosts of visitors who constantly beset him for aid and advice.—Roxbury Gazette.

—Columbus did not make an egg stand on end to confute his opponents. The feat was performed by Bruneleschi, the architect, to silence critics who asked him how he was going to support the dome of the cathedral of Florence.

Tenui Musam Meditamui Avena, exclaimed Carlyle. Asking what it meant; he replied, "We cultivate literature on a little oatmeal," a motto I selected for the Edinburgh Review. But for positive inspiration use

The Blue Hill prediction of Mar. 16 for the past week were wonderfully accurate. A pleasant Easter is predicted.

Seldom do the show windows of our local enterprising merchants look more attractive than at the present time with the Easter displays.

The vessel beached at Nut Island this week to be burned, is the old whaling bark Gosnold of New Bedford. Of late years she has been used as a coal barge.

It is said the girls feel like thanking the LEDGER for the hint given the young men yesterday, and the latter will find it almost impossible to pass by the fine confectionery display of A. G. Durgin.

Friday afternoon the horses of Penniman & Son's hack received a shock from the rails of the street railway in the depot yard, and as a result both were knocked down. Fortunately no serious damage resulted.

William E Hartwell who has been superintendent at the new High school building was presented by the workmen with a handsome gold watch chain yesterday. Mr. Hartwell severed his connection as superintendent today.

It is said that a newly married couple living in the vicinity of Faxon hall, very much feared that they were to be serenaded last evening when the Sons of Veterans marched through the street. Now they are disappointed.

The opening display made by A. G. Durgin, druggist, in his window, of confectionery, surpasses anything ever before attempted in that line in Quincy, and shows the hand of an artist. The public will no doubt appreciate such efforts by their patronage.

The wife of Mr. Joseph N. Page of Foster street, left Thursday for a visit to Somerville. Mrs. Page has been an invalid for two or more years and we are pleased to learn she stood the trip well, and if she does not get too tired it may be very beneficial to her.

The simple funeral services over the remains of the late Capt. Samuel A. Merrill were held at the Wollaston Hotel on Friday forenoon. The Rev. James E. Bagley, pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church, conducted the services. The floral offerings were beautiful. The body was interred in the family lot at Danvers.

The next meeting of the Hospital Aid Association will be held in the Probate Court Room, Adams building, Thursday afternoon, March 29, 1894, at 3 o'clock. Directors' meeting at 2.30 o'clock. Interesting letters are to be read, and important business is to come before the meeting. It is earnestly desired that every one shall make an effort to be present.

Object to Spirits.

There is more trouble at the Lazy club headquarters and if it continues the president says that he shall have to drop the name of the secretary from the books. The trouble this time is the appearance of spirits, not liquid spirits, but departed spirits. These spirits do not make their appearance only in the presence of the secretary who apparently goes to sleep in his chair but in reality goes into a trance.

This is a serious charge and as the president states if sustained the club will loose one of its members. The appearance of spirits other than in a liquid form cannot be tolerated.

Fine Piece of Statuary.

Mr. Fred Barnicoat, sculptor and statuary artist, South Quincy, will complete and placed on exhibition Sunday, at his works, a beautiful piece of statuary representing an angel standing out in full relief with outstretched wings, on a cross 9 feet high by 6 feet, 2 inches wide, carved from a block of Westerly granite which weighed in the rough eighteen tons.

The work has been examined by critics and pronounced the finest piece of statuary ever carved in this city. It is a work of art and anyone taking an interest in such work will be amply repaid for their journey by an inspection of this fine piece of workmanship. It will be shipped to St. Louis, Mo., Wednesday.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. D. G. Greer, telegraph operator, at South Braintree station, living in Everett, has had his happy home brightened by the appearance of a sweet baby face. A little girl.

The Universalist society will hold an Easter servlee in the Town hall on Sunday afternoon at half past two. The choir will be enlarged and under the direction of Mr. Hayward. Special Easter music will be rendered.

Mr. George Young of Braintree, a popular engineer on the N. Y., N. H. & H. whose train was discontinued through the winter months, has been put on and Mr. Young restored to his former position which he is competent to fill.

A special train was run on Wednesday over the Plymouth division of the N. Y., N. H & H., carrying a tailor from A. Shuman & Co., taking the measurements for the new suits to be worn by the station agents and baggage masters etc.

The N. Y., N. H. & H. have discontinued the running of their pay car on extra trains, and are now running them on regular passenger trains which it is said is a saving of one hundred dollars per day, certainly something worth saving.

Gardner Leavitt picked a peck of dandelions Wednesday growing out of doors. The plants were both large and healthy. Gardner has prided himself in being the first to secure dandelions, for y ears, in this part of the country an so it will be seen that he still keeps up the record.

Monday afternoon, after the regular routine work was disposed of, the school committee granted Miss Margaret Bannon of the South school, who was injured in the late railroad accident, a leave of absence. As two of its members were absent organization was put off till the next regular meeting.

Mr. John Cavanaugh and daughter, Miss Stella Cavanaugh, returned from Florida last week. The journey was undertaken for the benefit of Miss Cavanaugh's health and the intention was that Mr. Cavanaugh should accompany Stella out there, and leave her after making all arrangements for her comfort, and return home, but the young lady was so homesick that her father could not leave her. So they returned home together. How true it is "there is no place like home."

As many inquiries are made as to the street railway enterprise, we are informed by Mr. Hobart, president of the company, that delay on the work is caused by the non-action of the Legislature relative to the application of the company to fix its capital stock and authorize a consolidation with the Randolph company; and also the right to extend its line into Holbrook. When the matter was heard before the Committee on Street Railways, no opposition whatever was manifested, and there seems no good reason why the petition should not have been granted long ago. Until this is done the company are powerless to proceed with the work.

The first of the winter, darkness was visible on Shaw street, nights. And there being no other way, seemingly, at the time, to "chase away the darkness," one of the residents, we think it was J. Francis White, advertised for three red haired men to do night work by the "sheen of their hair." But no applicants appearing darkness continued to reign on Shaw street, and the residents "smote their breast" and bumped their heads against each other until the other evening, when an incandescent electric light was put in the street, where the "Egyptian darkness" was thickest, thereby enabling the people living there "to see themselves as others see them."

The annual meeting of the Parsonage Association of the First Congregational church was held in the chapel, Friday afternoon. After the report of the receipts, which, for the year, amounted to $366, it was voted to pay the taxes on the parsonage for the next year and to devote all their efforts towards the repair of the church organ.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President,—Miss S. H. Thayer.

Vice Presidents,—Mrs. H. S. Thayer, Mrs. H. M. Hollis, Mrs. S. W. Thorndike, Mrs. T. H. Dearing.

Secretary and Treasurer,—Miss Margie White.

Blue Hill Predictions.

Observer Clayton at the Blue Hill observatory made the following predictions Friday for the ensuing week:

The days on which rain is most probable during the coming week are Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The warmest days will probably be Sunday and Monday; coldest Wednesday and Friday.

The forecast for the individual days is as follows:

Saturday—Fair; colder during morning.
Sunday—Fair and warm.
Monday—Warmer; local showers.
Tuesday—Fair.
Wednesday—Rain or snow; colder.
Thursday—Fair.
Friday—Increased cloudiness, followed by rain or snow; colder.

—The tower which is being erected by the Russians on the highest point of the Mt. of Olives, at Jerusalem, is already several stories high, and but one more is to be added. It is to be so high that both the Mediterranian and Dead seas can be seen from the top.

BURGLARS AT WOLLASTON.

Residence of Mr. William P. Whitmarsh Entered—Peddlers Suspected.

The residence of Mr. William P. Whitmarsh of Wollaston was entered by burlars early Friday morning. Entrance to the house was gained through a cellar window. The burglar found the door at the head of the stairs locked and deftly cut a hole large enough for a hand to be thrust through near the lock, and turned the key. A small quantity of jewelry was taken, nothing portable of any value being in the house, as it has been closed for over a week—Mrs. Whitmarsh being in Florida and Mr. Whitmarsh at Neponset.

The burglary was probably committed by a gang of fellows who have been working the place for the past ten days disguised as peddlers. Officer Beahn has been on their track since Monday morning, when he believes that they attempted to break into Boynton & Russell's store.

Electric Plant Commended.

The Monday evening Boston Transcript speaks in an editorial, of Braintree's electric plant in the following flattering terms:

The town of Braintree owns an electric plant operated for both municipal and commercial purposes. It lights the streets and sells electric light to all persons who desire it. Though this plant was established three years ago, it has been so enlarged within twelve months that the results of its operations in the last-mentioned period are the true tests of its progress thus far. The total cost of the street-lighting system up to Jan. 1, 1894, was rather more than $31,000, and of the plant answering the commercial patronage about $19,000, making the entire investment of Braintree in the electric lighting business about $50,000. The commercial department in the last six months received from consumers, occupants of houses and business establishments, $1253 against operating expenditures of $811. The charge to consumers is six mills per 16-candle-power light per hour. The receipts for the six months in question did not come up to the requirements of interest on bonds and sinking fund, but the expectations are of increased patronage that will make the earnings of the commercial department fully $4000 per annum this year. The operating expenses of the street lights which burn all night are $48.70 per annum per lamp, or with interest and sinking fund requirements added, $60.51. Certainly this is a very creditable showing for the experiment of municipal control of electric lighting that ought to encourage its extension.

LOVE FOR A PATRIOT

Louis Kossuth's Memory Must Be Respected by All.

POPULACE MAKE A BOLD STAND.

A Conflict Ensues With Police and Soldiers.

BUDA-PESTH, March 24.—Cavalry and infantry patrol the streets, but their presence is not sufficient to preserve order.

Shortly after darkness had set in last night crowds began to gather in certain cafes and other places of public resort, the proprietors of which were in sympathy with them. Soon the crowds took to the streets, where their numbers were rapidly augmented and began acting in a riotous manner in different parts of the city.

The most serious disorder occurred at the Opera house. The black flag that had been hoisted on that building had been hauled down again after the military had succeeded in driving the crowd from the vicinity of the building late in the afternoon, and when this news spread it excited the deepest indignation among the populace. It was said that the flag had not been hoisted out of respect for the memory of Kossuth, but simply for the purpose of appeasing popular fury. The streets close to where the Opera house is located were filled with a dense throng, the members of which bitterly denounced the government and the director of the Opera house for what was termed the disrespect shown to the memory of the greatest of martyrs.

For a time no overt act was committed and the military stationed along Andrassy strasse made no attempt to disperse the crowd. Finally some men in the crowd began to throw stones, while others hurled insulting epithets at the troops and the police.

The Mob Routed.

At this the cavalry and police charged upon them with drawn swords. The mob resisted, and, though driven back, stubbornly defended every inch of their ground. The soldiers and police had their hands full, and it looked after the first charge as though the rioters would turn the tables, and unarmed as they were, except with stones and clubs, swoop through the forces attacking them.

Again and again the crowd was charged, until they began to give way a little in the direction of the river, keeping up a continual fire of stones as they fell back. Many of the crowd were knocked down and tramped upon by the horses of the cavalrymen, and seriously injured.

The soldiers and police used their swords unsparingly, and many of the rioters were so badly wounded that it was necessary to remove them to the hospital. Several of the troops and police were injured more or less severely by stones thrown by the rioters. Hundreds of windows were broken during the melee, and considerable other damage was done to property before the mob was put to flight.

In the meantime, rioting of a less dangerous character had taken place in other parts of the city. At these points, however, the authorities had comparatively little difficulty in restoring quiet.

Traffic Stopped.

Order was not restored until about midnight. Cordons of troops were then placed across the principal streets and all traffic was stopped. No one was allowed to pass through without explaining the business they were on.

It would not be a surprise if the rioting should be resumed at any moment. It is known that 40 persons were injured during the rioting. Thirty-six men who appeared to be leaders in the movement were arrested.

Nearly all the thieves and other lawless characters of the city were hanging on the skirts of the fighting crowds, awaiting opportunities to rob houses or shops that were carelessly left unprotected. Among the places looted were two large shops and a warehouse in Konigstrasse. It is supposed that many private houses were robbed, but the police are too busy to give any details of this kind.

The Buda-Pester Corespondenz states that the government has decided that no mourning flags shall be displayed on any of the state buildings.

Comment on Peixoto's Action.

LONDON, March 24.—The Times today has an editorial on the action of President Peixoto of Brazil reviving the imperial decrees of 1838 and 1851, by the terms of which the government is authorized to execute, without the benefit of a formal trial, all persons, whether natives or foreigners, who, either directly or indirectly, have aided or abetted a revolt.

Beernaert to withdraw his resignation.

What the Czar Thinks of Anarchy.

LONDON, March 24.—A dispatch to The Telegraph from St. Petersburg says that in conversation lately with a Russian dignitary, the czar declared that anarchy was one of the Protean forms of irreligion. IS PRENDERGAST INSANE?

The Defense Propose to Submit the Case to a Jury of Physicians.

CHICAGO, March 24.—The Prendergast insanity hearing came up in Judge Chatlain's court this morning. The state entered upon the case under protest, but is preparing to introduce expert testimony to show that the assassin is at the present time responsible for his acts. The case for Prendergast was conducted by Attorneys Gregory and Darrow. Neither side expect to devote much time to getting a jury.

In fact, Attorney Darrow proposed to the state's attorney that the case be submitted to a jury of physicians, stating that he would abide by the decision reached by the medical men. Attorney Kern, however, declined to agree to the suggestion at once, but took the proposition under advisement. Should he determine to accept that way of disposing of the case, and it is found to be legal, much time and expense will be saved. In any event, the state's attorney refuses to be a willing party to the proceeding, maintaining the ground as summed by Judge Chatlain.

CZAR'S FRIENDSHIP

Has Had Much to Do With the Pope's Standing In Russia.

ROME, March 24.—The pope's encyclical letter to the bishops of Poland, Russia, Austria and Prussia was published yesterday. His holiness says in brief that the mission of the papacy is not to teach anything against the power of princes or the utility of nations, but to provide for the prosperity of all. The pope then recalls the agreement with Russia by which the position of the clergy was immensely improved.

This agreement, the pope declares, was obtained through requests directly addressed to the czar, whose spirit of friendship and justice is highly extolled.

The encyclical proceeds to exhort the bishops to avoid any hostility to the civil authority, and to inculcate among the Poles the observance of the Russo-papal agreements.

Addressing the Catholics of Austria and Poland, the pope enjoins them to meet with gratitude for religious zeal of the emperor, and concludes with urging the Poles in Prussia to trust to the equity of their emperor and to observe the laws.

IN CONGRESS.

Contested Election Cases—The Military Academy Appropriation Passed.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The house was in session yesterday, notwithstanding the fact that the day was Good Friday. The Democrats were again without a quorum, and the attempt to consider the O'Neill-Joy contested election case was abandoned until next week.

The unanimous report of the elections committee in the Wheatley-Cobb case, confirming the title of the sitting member to his seat, was adopted, and the military academy appropriation bill was passed practically without debate. The military academy bill carries $400,438, a reduction of $32,000 compared with the amount appropriated for the current fiscal year. Today the house will take up the postoffice appropriation bill.

A Coal Market For America.

The manufacture of carpets by an entirely new method has lately been undertaken at Pueblo, Col., imported Irish linen being the component material, no wool being used in the weaving of the product. The goods are sold and cut to fit any room, and then finished in designs and colors to suit the taste of the purchaser; rugs and mats being included among the fabrics. It is asserted that not only are the colors guaranteed to be fast, but that the cost of the carpets is only about one-half as much as ingrains, the wear being also two to one in favor of the new article as compared with the best ingrains. An important advantage claimed for these productions in addition to those of economy and wear, is that of heal hfulness, medical authority being cited in favor of their superior character from a sanitary point of view.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W. Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

COXEY ON THE MARCH

The Army Starts on Their Long Tramp Unfavorably.

ATTEMPTS MADE AT DISCIPLINE

Meet With Very Poor Results From the Soldiers.

CANTON, O., March 26.—In the face of a sharp, cold wind that brought shivers to the frames of well-clad people, Coxey's army marched eight miles yesterday on the road to Washington. There were a few less than 100 of them. Not to exceed a dozen had overcoats or gloves.

Several hundred persons watched their departure from Massillon. About 3000 persons assembled at the temporary camp at Reedurban, and a host greeted the crusaders at Canton.

Last night they were sleeping at camp Lexington, in the eastern part of Canton. A heavy snowstorm set in before the details of the camp had been completed, and the trampers are huddled around roaring campfires. About two-thirds of the men listed made the trip. Coxey has buried his disappointment at the non-appearance of the myriad he expected, and is exultant over the handful who reported for business.

The Massillon camp on the Tuscarora presented an odd sight yesterday morning. No fire was permitted in the big tent, but there was a heap of blazing logs outside. Every few moments the flaps of the tent were parted by a soldier of the commonweal, who visited the fire to drive away the chills.

Falstaff's Army.

The hobos in the party became known just before breakfast. Some of them washed at the river brink and others carried water in pans and heated it over the fire. They burned straw and frolicked about like a troop of boys. A bugle call to breakfast brought them together at the tent with a rush. The bill of fare comprised bread, coffee and raw meat. The latter was affixed to the end of pointed sticks and roasted over the fire.

One group of five ran away in a body after breakfast and boarded a passing freight train. Thirty of the commonwealers spent the night as lodgers at the Massillon police station. They comprised two entire groups, who could not be found when they were needed for picket duty.

At 8 o'clock Marshal Louis Smith, otherwise "The Unknown," summoned the men to camp together, and they were found to number 11 groups. They were organized into a commune. Smith drilled them on the meadows for half an hour. He has added several formalities of military discipline to the rules of the commonweal. One of them is the plan of having them march in files of two, and a more surprising innovation is the adoption of military salutes.

Standing on Dignity.

A man who shouted "Here Browne" at the California reformer half way across the field was given a raking over by Smith. Among other things he said that the proper caper was to ask for Chief Marshal Carl Browne and salute when his attention was secured.

The despised military system is being introduced, even though companies are called communes and regiments communities. The 11 groups consolidated are called the Chicago commune. Two hours before the time for departure the tents were pulled down and preparations made for the trip.

Outsiders were directed to leave the field and await the commonweal on the main streets of the town. Camp wagons and saddle horses were brought in from Coxiana, and the soldiers had a busy time of it. A diversion was caused by a bullet in from Coxiana, announcing that a steamer had just passed that point laden with recruits from Canton. The steamer made the trip of nine miles in 2 1-2 hours, but only a few men from Canton were enrolled.

A Gang From Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, March 26.—The Southern Pacific railroad officials have received word that the United States industrial army of several hundred men were put off the trains at a siding near Finley station on the El Paso division, and that trains were run through without stopping. The so-called army broke the lock on the switch and threw it open, causing the next east bound train to take the siding.

The men climbed upon the cars and Conductor Martin pulled them to Finley, where he tied up the train, pending the arrival of orders from General Van Vleck. The order came for him to keep the train tied up. Several trains have arrived at Finley since, and all are tied up, as the army shows no disposition to let any of the trains depart without them. Finley is an isolated station, and the army will starve out if they remain here a few days.

All Quiet at Nicaragua.

COLON, March 26.—The British cruiser Canada arrived here yesterday from Bluefields, Nicaragua. She reports that everything was quiet there when she left. Great interest was manifested at Bluefields as to the decision of the question between the United States and Great Britain regarding the landing of the British sailors and marines on Nicaraguan territory.

Chicago After the Gas Trust.

CHICAGO, March 26.—The quo warranto proceedings against the gas trust here may possibly result in profit to the city and advantage to the consumers of gas in Chicago. If the present proceedings be successful the city government will, it is said on good authority, take up the franchises of the companies concerned and sperate the plants.

SWINDLING ADVERTISERS.

They Hold Out Strong Inducements to Bicyclists.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The police think they have unearthed a swindle, by which some shrewd crooks in this city have managed to get money from people in other towns. On the 18th inst. an advertisement appeared in the Boston Herald, in which George Goodwin of New York offered two Columbia bicycles for sale for $135.

John Mooney of Boston answered the advertisement, and received a reply from "Rev." George Goodwin, in which the writer said that the bicycles had been given to him and his wife by his congregation. He had suffered from a rupture, and wanted to sell the bicycles quietly. To pay the cost of transportation, Mr. Mooney was asked to send $5, and the rest could be paid for on the arrival of the bicycles at Boston. Mr. Mooney sent the money, but never heard again from the "Rev." Mr. Goodwin.

He then sent the letter he had received from Goodwin to his brother, C. W. Mooney of 169 St. Nicholas avenue, New York, asking him to call on Mr. Goodwin.

Mr. Mooney found that Goodwin's address, 46 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, was a second-hand bookstore.

A young lady, the proprietor said, always called for Mr. Goodwin's mail. The police were notified, and two detectives watched the young lady, who came to the bookstore yesterday and received 14 letters from Mr. Goodwin. She was locked up, but refused to say anything about herself or Mr. Goodwin. She was remanded in the Harlem court for examination. One of the letters she received is registered. It is from W. H. Lambert Hookbridge, Pawtucket, R. I. Other letters from Foxboro, Walpole and Worcester, Mass. The detectives are looking further into the case.

THE LAST SCENE.

Business Manager McGlenen of the Boston Theater Succumbs to a Short Illness.

BOSTON, March 26.—The death of Harry A. M'Glenen, the popular manager of the Boston theater, so endeared to the people of Boston during the past half century, formed the sad theme of discussion in every circle about town last night.

The high appreciation and respect in which he was held by the masses was shown everywhere in the kindly spirit of sympathy and condolence spoken in his memory.

The force of the blow sustained by the profession of journalism—in which Harry began his early struggles, and to which of late years he was looked upon as the patriarch of even the "older boys"—was marked in every newspaper office throughout the city, where he was so long and familiarly known.

At the house of mourning, 8 Greenwich street, where the deceased had lived with his lovely family for several years, letters and telegrams of sympathy and condolence for the bereaved wife and sons poured in during the evening.

It has been decided to hold the services at the Church of the Unity at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, to be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Minot J. Savage, for years a warm and intimate friend of the deceased.

Will Not Fight In America.

LOUISVILLE, March 26.—At a banquet given him here last night, Champion Corbett said: "There seems to be a mistaken idea in regard to where my fight with Jackson will take place. The articles of agreement state that it will be fought in the United States. I want it distinctly understood that the fight will not take place in England or anywhere else except in the United States, under any circumstances."

Says There Will Be No Strike.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 26.—Grand Chief Ramsey of the Order of Railway Telegraphers said that he had information to the effect that there would be no strike of the employes of the Union Pacific railway. The real employes of the company, he said, had no intention of striking, and the agitation in that direction was by outsiders.

Boston's New Theater.

BOSTON, March 26.—A large number of New York, Philadelphia, Providence and Boston newspaper men and civic officials, together with their lady friends, attended the private opening of B. F. Keith's new theater Saturday. The new playhouse cost $600,000, and will seat about 2300. The theater was opened to the public today.

Commenting on Cleveland's Action.

LONDON, March 26.—Commenting upon the approaching departure to Honolulu of Admiral Walker of the American navy to establish a naval station, The Times says: "This means to mark a precipitate descent from the pinnacle of virtue on which President Cleveland took his stand a short time ago.

Drifted Off Shore.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 26.—A large body of ice was driven off from here Saturday night, carrying with it a party of 40 or 50 men who were killing seals. It is feared that many have perished. Two dead bodies have been brought ashore, and steamers are searching for the remainder of the party.

Converts Fatally Injured.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., March 26—Twenty-eight converts to the Church of God were immersed in the Juniata river this afternoon. While the converts were returning to town in an omnibus the horse ran away, upsetting the vehicle. Miss Elsie McMany and Mrs. Westley Elliott were fatally injured, and four others were badly bruised.

Trouble Feared.

KNOXVILLE, March 26.—A special from Williamson, W. Va., to The Journal, says: "It is likely that the murder of Major Farrell at Thacher, by the Riddles will start a feud as deadly in its results as the old Hatfield-McCoy trouble. Groups of men are seen talking the situation over and all are heavily armed.

Killed by Wife and Daughter.

HOMER, Ga., March 26.—J. F. Willis was killed last week by his daughter Lillian and his wife. The news of the tragedy did not leak out for several days, until a son, Francis, 11 years old, told it to a neighbor. Daughter and mother were both arrested and given a preliminary trial.

RESIGNS HIS PULPIT.

Rev. Mr. Brown of Fall River Wants Perfect Freedom.

WILL PREACH FROM A TENT

And Against Hatred and Corruption of Sects.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 26.—Rev. John Brown, known throughout this section as "Parson," and one of the most prominent organizers of the present Weavers' union, surprised his congregation yesterday by reading the following letter:

"My dear friends—On the first of next June I shall have been in the ministry 25 years. These years so quickly passed away. I have been continually in harness, have built eight churches, have organized over a dozen, and have helped to pay the debt of a good many others. I thank God that I have been able to do so much, but yet I am not satisfied. I feel that I have given my strength largely to digging wells in the desert and setting up candle sticks in the night, while water flowed not so freely from the one, nor light flamed so brightly from the other, as I could have wished. I propose, therefore, to change my methods in future.

"I will sell my library, buy a tent, and with this tent I will go where I please, preach when, how and what I please. It may be that our children, centuries hence, will look on these church buildings of ours that we struggle so hard to build and pay for, as we look upon the old cathedrals built by our fathers in past centuries; mere places of historical interest, but useless so far as the worship of our Heavenly father is concerned. That the Master put but very little value on church buildings can be seen from his conversation with the woman of Samaria.

"Then too I want perfect freedom to emphasize the social aspects of Christianity. There are Jericho walls to be battered down, and Jerusalem walls to be built up before the reign of King Jesus can be established.

The Drink Habit

must be done away with; the rights of woman in the state, as they are now in church, must be acknowledged; labor and capital must shake hands, or lock horns like the two steers and fight it out on the edge of the precipice till either one or the other goes over; corruption in high or low places, especially in politics, must be swept into hell with the 'besom of destruction;' class jealousies and sectarian hatreds must be annihilated, and truth, righteousness, brotherly love and brotherly helpfulness must exist between masses and classes, employer and employe hereafter, as never past.

"All the legislatures, governments and governors in the world will amount to nothing. No new gospel, but the same old gospel of the Man of Nazareth is needed for the world's regeneration. The nearer we keep to the original methods for its proclamation, the better. I leave this congregation with the best feeling toward every member in it. I am glad that there is no discord among us. I am glad, also, that the church is paid for and that you have no debt resting upon you.

"If I am spared for active service for 25 years more, I shall know in the meantime only my Master in heaven, and his toiling, sorrowing creatures here on earth. These being my sentiments, I ask you to meet me next Sabbath, to appoint commissioners to the Presbytery, who shall join with me in requesting that the pastorate be dissolved on June 1 next."

No Action Taken.

No action was taken on the resignation, as the reading of the letter came as a surprise. The congregation will appoint a committee to ask the presbytery to dissolve the present pastorate.

Parson Brown does not intend to dissolve his connection with the Presbyterian church, but it has been known for some time that he does not care to subject himself to the restrictions that the presbytery wishes to place on him as a parish preacher.

His career in this city has been of a startling character. He took charge of the Westminster Presbyterian church in 1883 and shortly afterward became identified in the practical work of conducting a large strike of weavers, through the importunities of two reporters. They feared that trouble might grow out of the condition then existing, and he was induced to mount a platform at South park and to counsel peace to a crowd of 2000 hot-headed men and women. His advice prevailed, and shortly afterward he became the idol of the working people.

He was elected a member of the school committee and of the legislature; he aspired to be the successor to Robert Howard as senator. Several other things had combined to make him dangerous to politicians, and he was shelved. He has been preaching in the Academy of Music Sunday nights for some time, and it was generally thought that his ministerial field here was wide enough for any man. He has been an ordained preacher for nearly 30 years.

No Change In Glass Strike.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 26.—There is little change in the condition of affairs at the Mt. Washington glass works. The glass cutters are determined to start a shop on the co-operative plan, and they claim to have been promised considerable work if they can secure a shop. A committee has been in Sandwich looking at a shop there. The glass blowers have recently had their strike pay raised, so they can indefinitely carry on a fight against the Mt. Washington company. The married men of the union receive $12 a week and the single men $10 a week.

The Death of a Coal Merchant.

BOSTON, March 26.—Hon. Horatio Wellington of Charlestown died suddenly last evening at his home, 56 Monument avenue. Although he had not been feeling well for several days his death was unexpected, and, therefore, came as a great shock and surprise to his relatives and friends.

CROWDED CHURCHES

Large Congregations at the Easter Services.

ELABORATE DECORATIONS.

Special Sermons, Music, Children's Festivals and Concerts.

It is estimated that the aggregate attendance at the churches and Sunday Schools on Easter Sunday was equal to the total population of the city,—upwards of 20,000. There are 23 or more societies, and some of these held five services. Certainly the non-church goers were in a minority. The LEDGER reporters were kept busy and a report of many of the services follows:

First Church

Seldom has there ever been a larger audience at the First church than that which greeted Rev. Philip S. Moxom, Sunday. All creeds were present to hear the eloquent preacher and none went away disappointed, for seldom is it that many have an opportunity to listen to such a sermon.

The Easter decorations of the church were confined wholly to the pulpit. On either side of the rails were pots of Easter lilies in bloom, and on the end of the rails were large pots of hydrangeas. In front of the desk on the communion table was a large cluster of Easter lilies, while around the top of the desk was a row of calla lilies.

Special music of a high order was rendered by the choir and the exercises throughout were of an impressive nature.

Rev. Mr. Moxom took for his text St. John xx, a portion of the 25th verse: "We have seen the Lord." The disciples no longer doubted, but said the speaker they had seen for themselves. Thomas asked to see with the hand as well as with the eye. The first perception of the disciples was physical compared with what the world needed and which has existed for centuries. They were physical facts that they had seen the Lord within. The gospel and Acts give us certain things, but what shaped them we can only know by spiritual sympathy. If we did not have the gospel we should have enough in the epistles to establish this fact. The disciples came first to see that Jesus was not merely the Messiah but the son of God; second that salvation was not temporary but eternal; that sin was symbolically put away by self sacrifices. Salvation was not for a chosen people but for everybody. The spiritual conception of Christ is open to all. We can not see Jesus in the flesh, but we have the vision of the Lord as the revealer of men. If we have committed ourselves to Christ's laws we can say, we have seen the Lord. Christ risen from the dead means, so shall man rise to live again, to live again in the fulfilment of life. Come take the glad message the Lord has opened to you. Let hope triumph over sorrow. Open your eyes and hearts to him who waits to receive you.

Congregational Church.

"If a man die, shall he live again?" was the text of Rev. Edward Norton's Easter sermon, at the morning service and it was an eloquent and thoughtful production, very appropriate to the day. There was special Easter music, and the anthems were finely rendered, Mrs. Eben Wallen Sheppard, Mr. H. W. Fiske, Mr. Bianchi and Mr. Albert Hayden were heard in solo parts.

The floral decorations were profuse and beautiful, Easter and calla lilies being prominent in the bank of plants which almost hid the platform and desk.

The capacity of the church was tested at the morning service, but the congregation was larger at the evening service, an Easter concert by the Sunday School. There was a short talk by the pastor; bass solo by Mr. Parker Souther, and Miss Isaac and Mr. Hayden had solo parts. Miss Fish read an original poem by Mrs. Kingman, and Mrs. Hattie Baxter and Miss Hattie Sargent contributed essays. Recitations, quartettes, quintettes, etc., made up an interesting programme.

St. John's Church.

The penitential robes which have covered the altars of the Catholic churches during Lent and Holy Week were replaced on Sunday by white, symbolic of rejoicing.

At St. John's church the decorations were magnificent. The main altar was almost buried beneath a wealth of palms, Easter lilies, potted plants and cut flowers. The altar and tabernacle were covered with white satin trimmed with gold lace. Among the palms and flowers were myriads of candles, which when lighted, shed a bright but softening light on the scene. At the vesper services, when the gas and electric lights were turned on, the scene can be better imagined than described.

The first mass at 8 o'clock was celebrated by Rev. A. F. Roche, who preached a powerful and eloquent sermon on "The Resurrection." High mass at 10.30 was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. F. A. Friguglietti. Solemn high vespers was celebrated at 5 o'clock by Rev. A. F. Roche, assisted by Rev. J. P. Cuffe and Rev. F. A. Cunningham.

PEACE PREVAILS.

Affairs Assuming Their Wonted Quiet. The Government Confident.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 26.—Affairs here are rapidly resuming their normal aspect, and aside from the damage done to the forts along the waterfront, by the fire from the insurgent warships, all traces of warfare have disappeared. The past week has been one of general festivity, marked by the constant firing of salutes and holding of reviews.

The usual religious processions were held, and the church services were very largely attended. For months past the city was filled with troops, and almost everything partook of a military character. Now the troops have gone south to re-enforce the government armies in the states where the insurgents are still opposing federal authorities. The harbor has been deserted by all the foreign warships, and the loading and discharging of merchant vessels are proceedings as before the revolt.

The government entertains no fear of much further trouble in the south. The insurgent sympathizers claim that the placing of Admiral de Mello at the head of the provisional government will attract many persons to the rebel standard, but the government here believes that the insurgent forces will gradually melt away until nothing remains. The government has 12,000 men at Itarare and more at Sao Paulo, and these forces are believed to be more than sufficient to meet any that the insurgents can bring against them.

It is reported here that the rebels are already retreating from the Rio Grande do Sul, and it is thought that by the time the government reenforcements arrive there will be no enemy for them to engage.

At any rate, it is declared by the government officials, who are in a position to know the exact position of affairs in the south, that no battle of consequence is likely to occur.

The correspondents of the various American newspapers have left the city en route to their homes, or are making preparations for their departure, which is evidence that the trouble is over so far as Rio de Janeiro is concerned.

A TERRIBLE FATE.

A Fall From a Balloon Results In Instantaneous Death.

CANNES, March 26.—An immense crowd witnessed a balloon ascent by the aeronaut Wilton, who is well known in America. No car was attached to the balloon, and Wilton ascended hanging to a rope. When 1500 feet high the balloon was caught in a current of air that carried it rapidly seaward. It was apparent that Wilton could not control the valve at the top of the balloon, which, had it been open, would have allowed the gas to escape and the balloon to gradually descend.

For some unexplained reason the aeronaut let go his hold of the rope from which he was dangling, and his body shot down into the air with frightful velocity. The accident occurred in full view of the spectators, and a number of women in the crowd fainted. A number of pleasure boats hurriedly made their way to the place where Wilton had fallen, and after a short search his body was recovered. His death must have been almost instantaneous.

Murderer Said to Be a Chinaman.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The police think they have run to earth the murderer of little Susie Martin, whose mutilated body was discovered seven days ago in the coal cellar of the tenement at 517 West Thirty-ninth street. The suspected murderer is a Chinaman, Sam Sing by name, who runs a laundry at 520 Tenth avenue.

Solving the Problem.

LONDON, March 26.—A special dispatch to The Times from Paris refers to Chancellor Von Caprivi's recent utterances, as indicating that Emperor Williamis preoccupied with the problem of reducing the military burdens of Europe.

Fruit Crop In Danger.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Reports come from points throughout the states of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota of severe cold weather. The fruit crop in Missouri will be badly damaged by frost.

Five Perished In the Flames.

LONDON, March 26.—A lamp exploded in a dwelling house and set it on fire, and Mr. and Mrs. Croger and three children were burned to death.

CROWDED CHURCHES

being provided to accommodate the many who desired to attend.

The floral decorations, which were confined to the chancel, were profuse and consisted of Easter lilies and potted plants, and looked very handsome.

Holy communion service was held at 7.30 in the morning and the regular morning service was at 10.30.

In the afternoon at 4 o'clock there was a children's festival, at the conclusion of which each child was given a plant.

The evening service was held at 7.30 and the attendance was so large that many did not seek an entrance.

At Wollaston.

Easter was observed at all of the Wollaston churches, Unitarian, Congregational, Methodist, Baptist and Episcopal, with the usual elaborate musical programmes and Easter sermons by the pastors.

The floral decorations were beautiful but not so extensive as those of last year. The attendance, notwithstanding the unpropitiousness of the weather, was unusually large but there seemed to be less display in new gowns and bonnets than on previous Easter Sundays.

The programme of the concert by the Unitarian Sunday School, is here given:

Invocation, Pastor.
Carol,—"Immortal Hope." School.
Responsive Reading and Prayer, School.
Hymn, School.
Memory Gems,—by classes,
Mr. Sylvester Brown's, Mr. Chandler W. Smith's, Rev. Mr. Bagley's, Mrs. Chandler W. Smith's, Mr. W. M. Hatch's.
Carol,— "All is Well."
Memory Gems,—by classes,
Mrs. Sylvester Brown's, Mr H. W. Lull's, Mrs. J. H. Litchfield, Jr.'s, Mrs. G. W. Bennett's, Miss Simmons.
Carol,— "Easter Bells."
Concert Piece,— Miss Thayer's class.
Recitations,—
Mr. Percy A. Lull, Miss Lizzie Thayer, Mr. George Brown, Miss Marjorie Fay, Miss Isadore Lull.
Carol,—"Coming of Spring," Solo by Miss Hastings.
Address,— Rev. Mr Bagley.
Carol,—"In my Father's House are Mansions Fair."
Benediction.

At Quincy Point.

The Easter services at the Washington Street Congregational church throughout the day were largely attended and full of interest. Rev. W. Sherman Thompson, pastor, delivered an impressive sermon, using as his subject "Our Risen Lord." The music was furnished by a double quartette in charge of Mr. Charles Newton of North Weymouth and proved a special feature of the occasion.

The church was tastily decorated with a profusion of Easter lilies and potted plants.

The flower committee, consisting of Misses Amy Newcomb, Gertrude Sampson and Margaret Thomas, proved themselves most efficient in the artistic arrangement of the flowers.

The Sunday School concert in the evening, conducted by Superintendent C. H. Sherburne, passed off most successfully. The music wasfurnished by a sextette in charge of Mr. H. A. Hayden and added much to the services.

At West Quincy.

The pulpit at the Methodist Episcopal church, West Quincy, presented a very pretty appearance Sunday. It was very handsomely decorated with Easter lilies, cut flowers and potted plants. At the morning service Rev. W. H. Baldwin, preached an eloquent Easter sermon. In the evening at 7 o'clock the annual Easter concert of the Sunday School was held. All of the services were largely attended. The pastor received a telegram from Rev. G. S. Chadbourne, D. D., who was to preach, saying that he had the grip and could not come until next Sunday, April 1.

At Atlantic.

Easter services at the Memorial church, Atlantic, were in accordance with the programme published in Friday's LEDGER. The floral decorations this year were not as profuse as in previous years, as the funds usually used for this purpose was used for charitably purposes. All of the services were largely attended.

MILLIONAIRE KING'S CASE.

John French Appointed Guardian With Power of Investigation.

BOSTON, March 24.—The case of Millionaire William Henry King, who has been confined in the McLean asylum for the insane since 1870, and who is petitioning the court, through his next friend, for liberty, was resumed yesterday in the United States circuit court. After some argument by Hon. Edward Avery for the petitioner and Hon. George O. Shattuck for the asylum, the court appointed Hon. John S. H. French of Portsmouth, N. H., guardian ad interim of the alleged lunatic, with instructions to investigate the allegation of both sides, and report at a subsequent session of the court. An accompanying order from the bench gives the guardian the right to visit, together with Lawyer Avery, the petitioner at the asylum at any time, and restrains the officials of the institution or their representatives from being present at the time of such visits.

In answer to the return of the officials, the writ of habeas corpus recently served on them commanding them to produce the body of the millionaire in court, in which they replied that he was in a mental and physical state to preclude his appearance, counsel for King denied that the petitioner was violently insane, or that he was legally held under the statutes of Massachusetts, and denied the potency of the recent decisions of the supreme judicial court of the state in the matter to debar the present inquiry.

Attorney Avery made the motion for the appointment of the guardian ad interim. All parties agreed to the plan and the court adjourned until next Tuesday. In the meantime various attorneys will busy themselves in Rhode Island and New York finding more evidence to ascertain who shall have the custody of the old man and his great wealth.

NEW COUNTERFEITS.

The Treasury Department's Circular Describing Them In Detail.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The secret service of the treasury department has discovered that there are two new counterfeit government bills in circulation. One is the $2 treasury note and the other is of the $1 silver certificate. This is the first counterfeit ever found of the $2 treasury note. The officials send out the following circular:

This counterfeit is of the series 1891, check letter "C," W. S. Rosecrans, register; E. H. Nebeker, treasurer; portrait of McPherson. The note is from 1-8 to 3-16 of an inch smaller than the genuine; the color of the treasury numbers and seal is a much darker red than that of the genuine, and the numbers are heavier.

In the portrait of McPherson on the counterfeit a blotch of black ink completely hides the nostrils and lower part of the nose, and the beard does not extend down and cover a small portion of the coat collar, as in the genuine; the outlines of the lower or fifth button in each of the two rows on the coat of the genuine are clearly defined, while in the counterfeit a portion of one only can just be discerned.

Racing Bill Favorably Reported.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The senate district committee has agreed to favorably report a bill allowing spring and fall meetings of 18 days each at the Ivy City and Bennings race tracks. During the Engeman decision, racing in the district of Columbia was barred by the statute.

THE TRADE REVIEW.

Business Increasing In Volume at Reduced Profits.

THE OUTLOOK IS DISCOURAGING.

The Textile Industries and the Provision Trade.

NEW YORK, March 24.—R. C. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: It is perplexing to be obliged to report that business grows larger in volume and at the same time not more profitable. Uncertainty does not diminish, but has rather increased, in the judgment of many commercial bodies which have urged the president to veto the seigniorage bill. Prices of commodities do not rise, but are on the whole about 1.5 per cent less than last week, though then the lowest ever known in this country, and are 12.9 per cent lower than a year ago.

The prospect of getting constant remunerative employment for works and hands does not change. The fact that orders keep only part of the forces at work, while both prices and wages tend downward, though spring is near at hand, renders present business less profitable and the future less promising.

The starting of four furnaces by the Illinois Steel company and one other at Pittsburg increases the output of iron, and some large sales have been made at the lowest prices yet reported, with indications of continued demand for structural work, especially at the west.

Cotton and Wool Manufactures.

The textile industries are answering the growing demand for replenishment of stocks with what may be called hand-to-mouth production, some mills getting orders enough to start and others which have filled orders in sight stop without trusting to future trade. The demand for cotton goods is fairly large, but the reductions in prices of some grades and the accumulation of print cloths continues.

Sales of wool for three weeks have exceeded last year's 23.9 per cent, though transactions for March last year were about 40 per cent below the average. There is no demand for such wool as is needed in the manufacture of underwear, dress goods and worsted suitings, but fine fleeces are almost unsalable, Ohio XX being quoted at 22 cents, and carpet manufacturers buy sparingly.

The Provision Market.

Wheat, corn and pork have declined a little, wheat making another record, a shade below 40 cents at New York. Western wheat receipts are 1,598,379 bushels, against 2,545,709 last year, and exports only 1,013,200 bushels, against 1, 295,894 last year, showing that even at present prices the grain is not largely wanted abroad. Corn was 1 cent stronger, with western receipts 2,874,695 bushels, against 1,953,322 last year.

The termination of the rebellion in Brazil opens a new crop of coffee, which reported very large, but prices are as yet steady.

Failures for the week ending March 15 involved liabilities of only $2,558,818, and for two weeks of March only $4,835,110, of which $2,330,257 were of manufacturing and $2,446,069 of trading concerns. A number of railroad receiverships have been noticed, though none of importance. The failures this week number 244 in the United States, against 217 last year, and 50 in Canada, against 26 last year. It is noteworthy that Canadian failures are considerably increasing.

Eckels Will Address Them.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Hon. J. H. Eckels, the comptroller of the currency, has accepted an invitation from the officers of the national banks of Providence to deliver an address on some financial topics, on the occasion of the 20th annual dinner of the Bank Clerks' Mutual Benefit association of Providence, on April 18, next.

Bill to Cover Seduction.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The Pollard-Breckinridge case having developed the fact that there is no law in the District of Columbia for the punishment of seduction, Congressman Morse of Massachusetts introduced in the house a bill which contains the text of the Massachusetts law on this subject.

Added to Hartford Customs District.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The house committee on commerce has directed a favorable report on Representative Sperry's bills adding the towns of Manchester and Vernon, Conn., to the Hartford customs district, and making Rockville, Conn., a port of delivery.

Brave Policeman Remembered.

NEW YORK, March 24.—At the monthly meeting of the New York board of fire underwriters yesterday, the gold medal of the board for heroism in saving life was awarded to Patrolman Owen Daly for saving the life of a woman at a fire on Jan 20.

Virgina Gold Discovery.

RICHMOND, March 24.—Two valuable veins of gold-bearing quartz have been discovered in Louisa county. It is said that New York capitalists, who own the property, have organized a syndicate to buy up all the adjoining land.

Cincinnati's Musical Festival.

CINCINNATI, March 24.—Arrangements were completed yesterday for the 11th biennial May musical festival. Theodore Thomas, who has been director since the inception of these festivals, will conduct his own orchestra.

Heavy Verdict For Damages.

UTICA, N. Y., March 24.—Achsah L. Bateman yesterday received a verdict against the Vermont Central railway rompany for $17,500 for damages sustained in a collision near Rouse's Point, April 3, 1891.

A Dynamite Explosion.

ROCHESTER, March 24.—John Regotlo, Frank Carlotta, two Italians, and Edward Wathine, a Pole, were seriously, if not fatally injured by an explosion of dynamite yesterday.

Lumber and Planing Mills Destroyed.

NORFOLK, March 24.—Fire yesterday at Monroe point destroyed lumber mills, planing mills, lumber, etc., to the amount of $500,000.

College Baseball.

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 24.—Yale, 7; university of North Carolina, 3, is the score of yesterday's baseball game.

Fraud Discovered.

A very clever, and up to the present time successful, attempt to defraud the town of Braintree out of water rent was discovered by Water Commissioner John V. Scollard, a few days ago, whereby a citizen who resides on Quincy avenue, East Braintree, has, by a very clever trick, been furnishing water for his 12 horses without paying anything. He had a pipe laid from the cellar of his home and connected with his water pipe out in the yard, the pipe running up the side of an old pump. There being no handle on the pump, the Commissioner's suspicions were aroused, and on investigation the fraud was discovered. He will be called upon to settle for a year's water supply.—Hingham Journal.

New Magazines.

Godey's for March came a little late but it is a very entertaining number. The serial story, "This Man and This Woman," by Margaret Lee, is concluded, and there are four short stories. Among the illustrated are, "Seward and Napoleon III," and "An Historic Play-House."

Hallo is among the new illustrated comic weeklies, and is becoming popular. It is independent in politics, but has a policy, to hit every corrupt politician in sight, which makes it spicy. It sells for five cents.

Donahoe's Magazine for March has a story and poem for Easter, and there are many papers of note, including, "What is Gambling," "Co-operation and Human Nature" and others. An illustrated sketch of Gen. James Shields will be read with interest.

The April number of Current Literature is a brilliant one with a freshness, piquancy and interest in every page that is irresistible. It contains so much matter on so wide a field as to make it difficult to condense the list of its contents into a single paragraph. The subject of Ballooning is the topic of the month in The Glimpses of the Future.

The April number of Short Stories offers to the readers of this entertaining magazine a fine collection of stories appropriately illustrated. Among the original tales worthy of note are: "Heir to His Affection," by S. Elgar Benet; "The Nelghin' o' the Hawses," an ingenious story of a detective's adventure with the moonshiners, by R. Shackleton, Jr.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

MRS. IDA CASLER.

Her Advice to Over-Ambitious Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Mrs. Ida Casler, of 126 Olive Street, Syracuse, N.Y., believes that there is no amount of money large enough to equal a good, sound, healthy constitution.

Here is a history of her case:—

She was so ill with falling of the womb and leucorrhœa that she could not stand. She was attended by several doctors without benefit, and was completely discouraged.

One evening she heard what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women, and decided to try it, together with Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and it is well she did, for she says:—

"I am now well and strong. I am not troubled with either trouble, and all owing to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"If more women would use the Compound there would be less suffering in the world. Many women bring on their troubles by over-work. Remember good health will outbid riches every time."

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Song of the Spirit of Ink.

I am the spirit of ink! I am lord of the world of men!
The mightiest monarch who walks the earth
Acknowledges me of superior worth—
Me and my slave, the Pen!

When I wield my magic spell, I sing in a mystic strain,
And I make men's brains grow mad with hate—
Or their hearts lift up with a joy elate—
As they list my weird refrain.

I sing of life and death, and I sing of hopes and fears,
And the burden of griefs and dark despairs
Each human heart in its sorrow bears
Through the length of the weary years.

I sing of woman's scorn, and I sing of lover's sighs,
And my music rare and my endless themes
Fill the souls of men with wondrous dreams
That reach beyond the skies.

I stay the hand of Time as he whirls in his ceaseless flight,
And the thoughts of men long turn'd to clay
I keep as the centuries roll away
To the realms of endless night!

For I am the spirit of ink—the lord of the world of men!
The mightiest monarch who walks the earth
Acknowledges me of superior worth—
Me and my slave, the Pen!

WASHINGTON, March 26.—3:35 a. m.—Senator Colquitt is sinking rapidly. His death is expected momentarily.

The Guillotine.

The striking thing about the execution was the appalling quickness of it all. Action was so rapid from the instant the condemned appeared in the doorway of the prison to the moment the knife fell that it was almost impossible to distinguish the slight chain of incidents. He flung himself eagerly against the plank, was strapped to it, and in the flash of a glance the plank was pushed forward on the platform of the guillotine. An instant's vision of a recumbent figure, face downward. In the same moment a head, with two staring, wide open eyes, whirled almost defiantly, as it seemed, and with a slight zigzag movement to the right-ward, while simultaneously the pinioned body rolled inert, convulsive, into the capacious basket, also at the right hand side of the guillotine. The swiftness, the mechanical promptness of the business, fairly stupefied the spectator. It was impossible to realize that a human life had ended in less time than it would take to draw a full breath. The guillotine had done its work well. There was scarcely a sense of horror in the sight.—New York World.

SENATE'S FORECAST.

McGarrahan Bill Has the Right of Way as Unfinished Business.

THE CONTESTED ELECTION CASES

Will Probably Consume the Week In the House.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The probabilities are that the week in the senate will be given up largely to matters of minor importance.

The McGarrahan bill had the right of way after 2 o'clock today. There will be an effort to dispose of this bill before the close of the week, and Senator Hansbrough has given notice that he will again call up the Russian thistle bill immediately after the disposal of the McGarrahan bill.

Senator Dolph also intends to make an effort to have the bill for the relief of certain settlers on the public lands considered.

The fortifications appropriation bill is now on the calendar and in position to be taken up for action at any time. Senator Harris may also move, in accordance with notice given, for a reconsideration of the printing bill, but it is presumed that his action in this matter will depend upon the attendance of senators who are friends of the bill.

Senator Turpie has evinced a desire to have his resolutions concerning the annexation of Hawaii voted upon before the tariff bill is taken up, but it is doubtful, in the face of Senator Dolph's opposition, whether it can be done.

The House Program.

The house will devote the week to the contested election cases.

Today is District of Columbia day, and it is probable that a portion of the time will be given to the consideration of bills reported from the District of Columbia committee, after which the appropriation bill will be called up and disposed of.

According to the arrangement made Friday, the O'Neill-Joy contested election case will be called up tomorrow. Inasmuch as the Republicans are already committed to a policy of filibustering of election cases, they will consume the entire week.

The Republicans will demand the presence of a Democratic quorum at every stage of the parliamentary proceedings. Every means known to parliamentary law will be used to prevent the seating of O'Neill and English, the Democratic contestants from the Eleventh Missouri and Fifth California districts, respectively.

Should the cases by a chance be disposed of before the end of the week, the house will resume the consideration of the appropriation bill. The army appropriation will be next in order. These routine matters will probably occupy the attention of the house until the tariff bill returns from the senate.

THE COMING CONTEST

Over the Tariff Promises to Be Bitterly Contested.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Inquiry among Republican senators as to the policy they will pursue with reference to the tariff bill when it shall reach the senate, develops the fact that they are as yet undecided as to whether they will move to recommit the bill upon the commencement of the debate next Monday.

This was the first plan when the bill was received from the house, and the Democratic majority of the finance committee refused to grant hearings, but there are indications that they have reconsidered and will not move in this direction, at least not at the beginning of the debate. There is no indication, however, that they have abated the purpose of contending for every point of advantage, and forcing if possible, full debate on every proposition contained in the bill.

They expect the general debate to continue for at least a month, and hope to have every schedule discussed, paragraph by paragraph, afterward. Some of them intimate that this course will delay action so as to render it impossible to pass upon the bill during the present session.

The purpose of the Democrats is to permit the Republicans to do the greater part of the talking. There will be comparatively few general speeches upon the bill on the Democratic side of the chamber if the members of the finance committee can control the matter.

Some of the members of this committee announce that they will not make speeches upon the bill while it is being considered as a whole, and announce that their policy is not to be led into unnecessary debate upon the various schedules. They say that they will make explicit statements of their reasons for the various changes, and then refrain from further discussion of them, however much they may be baited by the Republicans.

After there shall have been sufficient time for legitimate debate they will probably ask for continuous sessions. The Democratic members of the finance committee think the bill can be disposed of by June 1.

Permit Granted by Austria.

TURIN, March 26.—It being necessary to procure from the Austrian government permit to convey the body of Kossuth through Austrian territory, application was made to the Austrian minister of foreign affairs for such a permit, and the authorization was at once granted. It has been decided that the library belonging to Kossuth shall be placed in the Buda Pesth museum. The prefect of Turin visited the Kossuth family and conveyed to them the personal condolence of King Humbert.

Socialists In Session.

VIENNA, March 26.—A congress of Austrian socialists was held in this city yesterday. Among the speakers were Bebel and Singer, the well known socialist members of the German relchstag, who dwelt upon the international character and the common object of the whole labor movement.

Indignant Californians.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—The Democratic general committee adopted resolutions protesting against the adoption of the new treaty with China, and requesting the congressional delegation from this state to prevent its ratification.

Physician Sues For Divorce.

SACO, Me., March 26.—Dr. Henry Reny, a young physician of this city, alleges that his wife attempted to poison him, putting arsenic in his tea, and he has brought suit for divorce.

DOCTRINES CONDEMNED.

Henry George Said to Come Under the Ban of the Church of Rome.

NEW YORK, March 26.—A statement was published here yesterday from a Rome correspondent that the holy office has condemned the doctrines of Henry George, and that this condemnation cannot but be followed by some grave consequences.

In view of the fact that Henry George is expected to be a candidate for the mayoralty of this city, and that such a pronouncement would seriously affect his chances of success, inquiries were made as to the truth of the statement.

Rev. James N. Connelly, secretary to Archbishop Corrigan, said: "Henry George's doctrines were emphatically condemned by the holy see two years ago, and there is no necessity for any further condemnation of them now."

John D. Crimmins did not believe that the holy office had made any recent pronouncement. "The pope," he said, "issued an encyclical two years ago in which he condemned Henry George's theory as to state ownership of lands. That encyclical deals with the question now as well as when issued."

Mr. Crimmins handed the reporter a copy of the papal encyclical, which is dated May 15, 1891, and emphatically approves of individual ownership of land. It is entitled "On the Conditions of Labor," and discountenances the establishment of trades unions or societies not based on the principles and teachings of the Catholic church.

Henry George said: "I do not believe there is any truth in the statement. I don't think the holy office will or can condemn my doctrines."

In answer to a question as to whether the papal encyclical was not condemnatory of his theories, Mr. George said: "The encyclical does not deal with my doctrine at all and, therefore cannot condemn it. My doctrine is so palpably right that any such condemnation as that spoken of is utterly impossible."

Rev. Edward McGlynn looked on the statement as absurd. "I am positive," added he, "that it is absolutely false. The inquisition has neither condemned George's doctrines, nor will it do so. Of that you may rest assured."

It is asserted that the condemnatory stricture on Henry George's doctrine has been forwarded from Rome.

SURVEYORS AT WORK

On a New Connection With the Mexican International.

MONTEREY, Mex., March 26.—A corps of civil engineers have been sent here from New York by C. P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific company, with instructions to run a survey of a route for a railroad from this city to Monclova, at which station connection is made with the Mexican International, which is also a part of the Southern system.

The Mexican International is now being extended to the Sierra Mojada mining camp from Monclova, and the proposed line to this city is to be built for the purpose of obtaining a direct outlet for the rich silver ores of Durango and Sierra Mojado. The building of the proposed road will give Monterey a much shorter standard guage route to the United States than at present.

Found Dead In the Ruins.

SHARON, Pa., March 26.—Wheatland, two miles south of here, was the scene yesterday of either a terrible accident or a horrible tragedy. Fire broke out in the residence of William Laird and destroyed five houses. In the ruins was found the burned body of a man, who was subsequently identified as William Laird. His watch and money were gone, and the authorities have strong suspicion that Laird was robbed, killed, and his house fired to conceal the crime.

Anarchist Most Rampant.

BOSTON, March 26.—The Boston anarchochists held a field day here yesterday, with Johann Most as chief marshal. Over 400 people, of whom 100 were women, crowded into a small hall. Mr. Most was greeted with tumultuous applause, and his rabid remarks found favor, if judged by the amount of applause he received. In his speech he commended the revolution of 1848, he endorsed the killing of the czar and glorified the commune of 1871.

The Sutherland Will Case.

LONDON, March 26.—The trial of the great Sutherland will case has been fixed to begin on June 1. This is an action to have the high court of justice declare valid the will and codocil made by the deceased husband of the Duchess of Sutherland, by the terms of which she was to benefit to the extent of 1,000,000 pounds sterling. The present Duke of Sutherland, who is the stepson of the plaintiff, will contest the case.

A Desperate Man.

HARTFORD, March 26.—Nicoli Fanoblio, an Armenian, tried to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a pair of shears last evening. He is unable to speak English, and despondency unbalanced his mind. His employer narrowly escaped injury while trying to take the shears from Fanoblio. He cut frightful gashes on both sides of his neck.

England's Money Market.

LONDON, March 26.—Money during the past week was in short supply, though the demand somewhat increased. The loans from the Bank of England increased nearly 275,000 pounds sterling. Discount discontinued easy, and the indications for the future pointed to an extremely easy market.

Shot Through the Heart.

NEW YORK, March 26.—John Delmour was shot in the hallway of 439 East Seventy-ninth street, and died almost instantly. A 38-caliber bullet had gone through his heart. William alial "Bull" Powers, a watchman along the docks, is suspected of the crime.

Huret the Winner.

PARIS, March 26.—The long distance bicycle race was concluded yesterday. It was won by Huret, who covered 1749 kilometers. Linton was second, with 1745 1-2 kilometers to his credit. The Frenchman, Williams, covered 1736 kilometers; Mayer, 1728; and Ashinger, 1478.

International Bicycle Meeting.

NICE, March 26.—An international bicycle meeting opened here yesterday. In the 3000 metre race for safeties, Gougoitz and Nicodemi (both of Nice) finished first and second, respectively; Warwick of Australia was third.

Tobacco Works Seized.

KNOXVILLE, March 26.—The Unaka tobacco works at Greenville, were seized and closed by revenue officials for violation of the law. It is one of the largest factories in the state.

A HEROIC CALIFORNIA WOMAN.

She Braves Dangers From Train Robbers to Help an Injured Man.

There were some incidents in the recent robbery of the Southern Pacific railroad train near Roscoe, in Los Angeles county, which were not developed in the accounts sent from Los Angeles or in the stories told by passengers. One of the best of these incidents was the bravery of little Mrs. J. D. Brown of Bakersfield, who ventured out in the darkness when men refused to go and gave aid to the fatally injured fireman, who was jammed under the disabled engine. Mrs. Brown is the wife of a civil engineer who is engaged in superintending large irrigation works in the San Joaquin valley. She had been visiting in Los Angeles, and on leaving her mother in the depot she said laughingly that she proposed to put one of her slippers in her berth, so that if the train was held up she could break out the window. An hour afterward she had really figured in one of the most sensational holdups in this state.

Mrs. Brown, when seen a few days ago at her home, disclaimed any special merit in the work that she did on the night of the robbery. She is a fragile little woman, but in her eyes is a light which gives some hint of her nerve. She didn't want to be quoted, but she gave a very amusing account of the scenes that followed the stoppage of the train. It seems that the crash of the derailed engine and baggage car was followed by a fusillade of shots.

The Pullman cars were largely filled with eastern tourists, with a sprinkling of heavy business men of San Francisco. The latter did not show the courage which has been ascribed to the far western man. They were fully as much "rattled" as the down easters. They indulged in foolish speeches, hid their valuables in all sorts of ridiculous places and acted like children. Only one man had a revolver, and he declared he wasn't going out to be filled with lead as Detective Len Harris had been at one of the train robberies two years before in the San Joaquin valley. Another man, who afterward told a story of his great efforts to get out and of the refusal of the conductor to allow him to risk his life, really kept very close to his berth and never stuck his head out until the robbers were reported to be gone. The frightened passengers could see the bandits carrying sacks of coin to a wagon, and then, so clear was the moonlight, they saw the robbers drive off.

Even then no one ventured out. In a moment came a thundering knock at the car door and a demand for admittance. Every one fancied that it was a part of the gang which had been detailed to rob the passengers, as this was the last Pullman on the train. Finally Mrs. Brown suggested that it might be some one who was wounded and needed aid. So the door was unlocked. She proved to be right. It was one of the brakemen, who said the fireman was terribly hurt, and a doctor was wanted. No physician was on the train, but none of the men volunteered to help. Then Mrs. Brown rose up and said she knew something about dressing wounds, and she would willingly do what she could. Only one of the passengers showed any desire to accompany her out into the night, which had become very dark, owing to the clouding of the moon.

They found the poor fireman crushed between the engine and tender and calling upon his friends to shoot him and end his misery. No one could extricate him, but Mrs. Brown climbed up on the disabled engine and gave clear directions for applying liniment and bandages to alleviate his sufferings. She did everything she could to help the victim, who was afterward taken out of the wreck, only to die a few hours later.

In the half hour that she was on the wrecked engine, Mrs. Brown says, no one came near the place to offer help, except the brakemen, the conductor and the one passenger mentioned. The engineer at the first alarm had leaped from the engine and taken refuge in the brush, from which he did not emerge until a relief train arrived from Los Angeles with a force of heavily armed detectives. He could have done more than any one else to ease the fireman, as he knew the engine, but repeated calls for him brought no response. When Mrs. Brown went back to the car, she found the ladies in mild hysterics and the men still greatly agitated and fearful of an attack. She could not understand their fear any more than she could comprehend that she had done anything calling for commendation.—San Francisco Dispatch.

An Effective Gown.

A gown warranted to bring out the dazzling tints of youthful complexions, the brightness of youthful eyes and to impart an air of dignity to the most youthful wearer is of black velvet. The plain skirt has a band of ostrich feather trimming a little above the bottom, and on both sides are narrow rows of jet. The tight fitting bodice has three vandyke points, each outlined with jet and jet trimmed epaulets and belt. The cape that is worn with this frock is edged with feather trimming and jet. It is lined with a dazzling changeable silk in which gold and green are the most pronounced colors. The tiny black velvet hat has tips of black, gold and green standing erect in front.—Detroit News.

A Suffrage Reminiscence.

The wife of a well known public man, in putting her name to the petition for woman suffrage that is going round, recalls the first petition of the kind she signed, years and years ago, when she was a young girl. Her mother, who was a firm believer in the cause, had all her children, regardless of their youth or sex, put their signatures to the paper. "We went further than that," she said, "and added the names of the cat and dog, for which we were rebuked with a dignity and sweetness that I shall never forget."—New York Commercial.

BRADLEY'S DECISION

In the Pollard-Breckinridge Case Has Been Rendered.

DEPOSITIONS TO BE ADMITTED.

Breckinridge's Counsel Working to Prove an Alibi.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—When the Pollard-Breckinridge trial began yesterday morning, interest centered in the decision of Judge Bradley, with reference to the admission of certain depositions taken in Ohio and Kentucky in behalf of Colonel Breckinridge, to which objection was made by Miss Pollard's attorney.

Arguments on the legal points raised against these depositions were heard by Judge Bradley Saturday, and as he promised to render his decision yesterday, many lawyers were present to hear it.

Miss Pollard was not in court.

When the court had been called to order Judge Bradley rendered his decision.

He cited statements to show that circuit and districts courts of the United States had the power to authorize depositions to be taken de bene esse, and it could not be successfully disputed.

The first deposition read was that of Joseph C. Bailey of Versailles, Ky., who is a clerk of the Woodford county court, who produced his records to show that W. C. B. Breckinridge had been an attorney for R. B. & O. D. Brown in their trial for murder in January in 1883. On Jan. 3, 1884, Colonel Breckinridge was in court, according to the records, and was also there April 19, 1884.

The Brown Case.

The record showed that the Brown case was up in court on Aug. 5, 1884, at the time when Miss Pollard testified that Colonel Breckinridge had met her at the assignation house of Sarah Gess a few days after the alleged betrayal.

The deponent said the case had gone along on Aug. 10, when O. D. Brown was admitted to bail.

"Was Colonel Breckinridge at this trial?" was asked the deponent.

"Yes, he was present every day," was the answer.

The cross-examination of Mr. Bailey was read by young Mr. Farrel of Lexington, who represented Miss Pollard at the taking of the deposition, and the questions asked were evidently intended to show that Colonel Breckinridge could have attended to the trial in the daytime and gone back to Lexington at night. Mr. Bailey said Colonel Breckinridge frequently came over to Versailles in a buggy, sometimes with his wife.

The deponent said he knew, of his own knowledge, that Colonel Breckinridge was at the court on the days given by him in connection with the Brown trial, and he would swear to having seen him Aug. 5. He knew, too, that Colonel Breckinridge always stayed in Versailles until late at night.

Trying to Prove an Alibi.

Ed M. Wallace was the next deponent, and Mr. Stoll read his testimony. He is a lawyer, and was one of the counsel with Colonel Breckinridge in the case of O. D. Brown. Colonel Breckinridge, he said, was the leading counsel for the defense. Mr. Wallace said he knew Colonel Breckinridge was present at the trial on Aug. 5, 1884, and on every other day it was before the court.

The deposition of Rodney Hagart, local counsel for the Kentucky Central Railroad company of Clark county, Ky., also dealt with showing that Colonel Breckinridge was elsewhere at the time that Miss Pollard says he was with her. Mr. Hagart was particularly questioned with reference to Colonel Breckinridge's whereabouts at times in 1884.

Judge Jerry B. Morton deposed that he was associated with Colonel Breckinridge in a case tried in the circuit court of Jessamine county, Ky., and that Colonel Breckinridge was present at the trial of the case at Nicholsville, a town 12 miles from Lexington, on Aug. 27, 28, 29 and 30. On cross-examination, Judge Morton said the town was connected with Lexington by railroad, and the journey took about an hour and a quarter.

The deposition of Judge Joseph D. Hunt, an arbitrator in one of the Clark county cases, corroborated the testimony of Mr. Hagart.

Discussed the Bankruptcy Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The senate committee on judiciary at its meeting yesterday had the bankruptcy bill under discussion, and while no decision was reached a general disposition was manifest to report a bankruptcy bill. There was a difference of opinion as to whether the bill to be reported should provide for both voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy, or simply for voluntary bankruptcy.

The Work of Cranks.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Letters are coming to the war department daily, demanding that the secretary of war provide an abundant supply of rations for the Coxey commonweal army. These letters are from all directions, but their destination is the same—the departmental waste basket.

Assets Exceed Liabilities.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—it is stated that Henry S. Louchheim & Co., the bankers and brokers who assigned yesterday, will have liabilities amounting to $300,000 or $350,000, while the assets are placed at from $500,000 to $700,000.

Miners All Back to Work.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 27.—All of the miners of the Kanawaha valley have resumed work. About 5,000 men are now employed. There is no trace of the recent bloody disturbance left here.

SENATOR COLQUITT DEAD.

Close of the Eventful Career of One of Georgia's Sons.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Senator Colquitt of Georgia, who was stricken with paralysis for the second time about a week ago, died at his residence in this city yesterday morning. Alfred Holt Colquitt was born on April 20, 1824. His father, Walter T. Colquitt, was a cultured man as well as a politician, and sent his son to Princeton college, where he graduated in 1844. Returning to his home in Walton county, he studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1845.

SENATOR COLQUITT.

He served as a staff officer, with the rank of major, during the Mexican war. He was elected and served as a member of the Thirty-third congress, was a member of the Georgia legislature in 1859, and was a presidential elector for the state at large on the Breckinridge ticket in 1860.

He took a prominent part in the secession convention of Georgia, and when the state decided to withdraw from the Union he entered the Confederate service as captain, and was subsequently chosen colonel of the Sixth Georgia infantry, served as a brigadier general, and was commissioned as a major general.

On the close of the war he returned to his home and was chosen a delegate to the Seymour convention in 1868. In 1870 he was made on the same day president of the state Democratic convention and president of the State Agricultural society, a place he was re-elected to for six years. In 1872 he was a delegate to the Baltimore convention.

In 1876 he was elected governor of Georgia by 80,000 majority, the largest majority ever received in the state, and in 1880 was re-elected under a new constitution for two years. In 1882, upon the expiration of his second term as governor, he was elected to the United States senate, and was re-elected in 1888, but only by the narrowest margin.

The remains will be taken to Macon, for interment, and will be accompanied by committees of the two houses of congress and the family of the deceased and that of his colleague, Senator Gordon.

HONORED BY ALL.

Kossuth's Sons Reminded of the Good Deeds of Their Father.

TURIN, March 27.—The committee representing the municipal authorities of Buda-Pesth presented the condolences of the municipality of that city to the relatives of the deceased patriot. The vice burgomaster, in addressing Kossuth's sons, recalled the deeds of their father, whom he described as the "Founder of modern Hungary," and thanked the sons for consenting to the interment of Kossuth's remains in Hungary.

Francis Kossuth, in replying to the address of the vice burgomaster, assured the deputation of the devotion and affection for their native country felt by both the sons of the ex-governor of Hungary.

The sons of Kossuth have telegraphed to Premier Crispi, requesting the latter to thank King Humbert for his condolences, and to assure his majesty of their devotion to the Italian royal family.

A Careless Dairyman.

HAVERHILL, Mass., March 27.—Inspector Dean discovered yesterday the most startling case of tuberculosis ever found in this city. A man named Haines, living near Salem, N. H., killed a cow affected with the disease, and fed out the entrails to a large flock of hens, and has sold the milk of this cow regularly for some time. The rest of Haines' stock has been quarantined. Much excitement exists among families who have taken the milk.

The Children Pleased.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—In spite of most discouraging conditions of wind and weather, that ancient Washington custom of egg rolling in the White House grounds on Easter Monday was duly observed by hundreds of little ones. There was no music at the grounds, but by the president's orders the gates were thrown open, and the children had free access to the well-kept lawn.

Burlet Will Be Busy.

BRUSSELS, March 27.—M. de Burlet, who has been charged by the king to reconstruct the ministry, on account of the resignation of M. Beernaert, will, in addition to assuming the premiership, retain the office of minister of the interior and public instruction which he previously held.

Cornell's Poisoning Case.

SYRACUSE, March 27.—Justice Smith heard the arguments in the habeas corpus proceedings for the release of Taylor, the Cornell student, for contempt in refusing to answer questions in the investigation of the Jackson poisoning. The justice reserved his decision.

Peach Crop Damaged.

KINGSTON, N. Y., March 27.—The Hudson river peach crop is practically nipped in the bud this season. The present cold snap is also fraught with danger to cherries and plums, the first buds of which became naturally swollen during the warm weather.

Fiendish Work of Robbers.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., March 27.—Last night thieves entered the residence of Basil D. Hall, a farmer of Great Bend, Jackson county. The robbers tied him to a chair and placed a burning lamp under his bound hand, burning it to a crisp, and robbed him of $5000 in cash.

Telegraphers Case Settled.

OMAHA, March 27.—Judge Caldwell will not have to hear arguments by the Union Pacific telegraphers in regard to wages, for the operators have compromised their case with the officials of the road. The exact terms of the new schedules are kept from the public, but the men claim that they have scored a victory, and have secured every concession which they demanded.

COXEY'S AID VEXED.

Congressman Stewart's Letter the Cause of His Annoyance.

THE "ARMY" IS FOR PEACE.

Belief Prevalent That They Will Soon Disband.

CANTON, O., March 27.—Among some of the things that made Chief Marshal Browne mad yesterday, was a letter addressed by Congressman Stewart to General Coxey. Browne scratched his head for some time, and then penned the following unique letter:

"CAMP LEXINGTON, March 26.

"The telegraph report of your letter to General Coxey, has been seen by the undersigned, and permit me to say that you have built up a straw man, and have proceeded to demolish it—and what good you have done for the cause of human rights.

"Long ago my suspicions have been aroused by the attitude of several men; the rich silver mine owners. I believe that most of the interests of the people, the majority of them, has been and was to use the people to put up a silver throne instead of a golden one and so have feared the Greeks, even when bearing presents. This attitude in the Chicago bimetallism convention was shown strongly in the contest made by me to get the word "land" inserted in the resolution as a basis for money as well as gold and silver, and when it was done, by voice of the convention, the officers of the league failed to make the correction in giving it out officially for publication.

Blames the People.

"For years and years, we thoroughly understand, or think we understand, the evils that you so masterly portrayed in your letter, have been trying to get the people to rally at the polls and wipe out, and we believed that they would at each succeeding election for years past, but they did not, and after the election or ides of November, still are in the same fix because of political boodlism and money power, so as to obtain the pools in counting us out; hence, the only resort left to exercise that power.

"Other congressmen and senators besides the Democrats and Republicans, for some reason, don't fully grasp the idea that the sovereign people have the inherent right to tell their public servants what they want, and so we are not coming as an army and this is one of the appellations.

"General to Mr. Coxey, by you, is out of place. We come to bring peace and not war. We are now re-enforced by millions of unemployed and the wealth producers of the nation.

"In this laudable move we stand on the proposition that the constitution of the United States is the charter of our liberty, and that guarantees us the right of peaceable possession and petition. It is simply exercising these prerogatives that we are carrying out in this procession.

Peace and Prosperity Predicted.

"There is no one starving in our camp. The people, whose hearts are responsive to us, are loading us down with the good things for our physicial welfare, as well as with words which inspire us with hope that the senate and congressmen of the United States will do their duty when we reach there, and pass these two bills of Brother Coxey's, that will bring peace and prosperity.

"And we trust that you, sir, will be found like a soldier at his post, to do your duty and to cast your ballot for both of these bills that will be the entering wedge of the kingdom of heaven at hand, and the whole people will applaud our act in those words of 'Glory to God in the Highest, Peace on Earth, Good Will to All Men.'

"For it will eventually bring the national co-operation of heaven here on earth. CARL BROWNE."

Notwithstanding the apparent success of Coxey's plan, the army will hardly last more than two days unless the weather moderates. At present there is reason to be apprehensive that the men now here will revenge themselves on Carl Browne, against whom they are all very bitter.

Hartshorne Sentenced.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., March 27.—Professor Hartshorne was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. He broke down when he heard the decision. A timely discovery by Sheriff Doughitt prevented another jail delivery. The prisoners interested in the plot were Professor Hartshorne, Charles Jacobs and Sam Schell. They had skeleton keys, and intended to release Hartshorne before sawing the iron bars of the windows.

House and Senate Adjourn.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The house and senate adjourned yesterday after a brief session on account of the death of Senator Colquitt. Some routine business was transacted, pending the arrival of the resolutions adopted by the senate. As soon as they were transmitted, Mr. Turner, on behalf of the Georgia delegation, presented appropriate resolutions which were agreed to.

A Crooked Alderman.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Jacob Newman, the attorney who was "worked" for $28,000 by DeFrance, who got 11 years in the penitentiary for a similar operation, says that a certain Chicago alderman got one-third of the $28,000. He also declares that he has evidence enough to send this city lawmaker to Joliet, and that he will start him there this week.

Report Submitted.

BOSTON, March 27.—The report of the superintendent and chaplain of the Massachusetts reformatory says the average number of prisoners has been 954; the average age of prisoners about 21. The net profit of all the industries was a little over $25,000. The net cost per man was $163.

Editorial Comment.

IT MAY not be too late now for Ward One to obtain a playground out of the original appropriation of $50,000. The annual and monthly reports of Auditor Hall show a balance of over $30,000 unexpended. No payment has been made on the land taken in Ward Two because the award has not been accepted, and in Wards Five and Six no land has as yet been purchased, unless quite recently. If the advocates of breathing places in Ward One will make their wants known they may be successful. We have no particular site to suggest, but the location should be central. Would not the vacant land on Granite street opposite Goffe street, or a portion of the Cranch pasture on the opposite side of Granite street make a desirable location? The land should not be expensive and it could be improved at a small outlay. While centrally located it is over a mile distant from Merry Mount park, nearly a mile from Faxon park and the Ward Three playground, and nearly two miles from the Ward Four playground. It would be the handiest playground for a large majority of the Ward One children, and would be appreciated by many in Wards Two and Three. There is another site which might be more acceptable. A small tract of land between Canal and Bigelow streets, used in part by the Quincy Tennis club, and there are doubtless many more. A playground of one acre would be better than none at all.

CONCERT AND DANCE.

The Atlantic Band Renders Several Selections.

The first social dance of the Atlantic band was held Monday evening at Music hall and was largely attended.

Dancing was preceded by a concert which was greatly enjoyed. The programme was as follows:

March,—"American Cadet," R. B. Hall
Selection, "O Fair Dove! O Fond Dove!" Schlepegrell
Song for cornet, "The Nightingale," C. Zeller
Medley,—"Recollections of the War," E Beyer
Galop,—"All Caught Cold," Gungt

The several selections were well rendered and showed that the band was making good progress.

Timothy J. Golden was floor director, and was ably assisted by Walter Hill, A. J. Williams and Joseph Phillips.

Our Little Men and Women, for March, comes to us from the Alpha Publishing Company (successors to Lothrop Magazines), Boston. The best and most popular writers and artists for children not only are represented, but their brightest and best thought is particularly happy in its expression. It sings itself in rhyme and verse, and speaks in story, bits of history, hints at science, and old-time tibles and wonders.

Babyland, for March, is brim full of good things. There is a telling frontispiece to amuse Baby, and more pictures Baby will like; there are rhymes for mamma to say over to baby, and stories for her to tell. THE INVESTIGATION.

Few of the Charges Against Hose 4 Sustained.

MAHONEY SUGGESTED CHANGES

The Company Now Without a Foreman—Only Six Members.

The joint committee on Fire Department and Ordinances of the City Council held an investigation Monday evening of the trouble in Hose Co., No. 4, and the causes which led to the recent discharge of the company's captain and four of the men.

Chief Williams was the first witness and stated that the company refused to give him the records and that the old members made it disagreeable for the new men and that when the furnishings were removed he should have been notified. He had no fault to find with the efficiency of the discharged men.

On cross examination, the witness said he had left the appointment of the men to the assistant engineer, and that the men were selected for the benefit of the department. He had received notice of disagreement between the old and new members from the assistant engineer. He considered Capt. Burrell an efficient man but thought it his duty to report to him. When asked for the records he said he would get a copy of them. He had nothing to show what properly the city owned in the house. He did not know whether Capt. Burrell made himself disagreeable to the company or not. In conversation with Capt. Burrell after his discharge he had offered to reinstate Capt. Burrell and gave him two days in which to decide. This was after he had made an explanation. At present there were six men in the company. Ten is the requisite number. Company had been working since March 16, with six members. He considered it perfectly safe with six men.

District Engineer Mahoney in response to questions said: He had consulted with several persons about the make up of the company. The company to a certain extent was satisfactory. After the first call we had to answer, witness asked the steward how many members responded. He replied 3 of the new and 1 old. The steward opened the door to start when one of the old members said, "No, if they want us let them come after us." Witness had heard that the old men had made statements that they would let the new men haul the carriage. Witness asked Capt. Burrell for the records and was told the clerk had them and that he would get a copy. He did not hear any box ring in Sunday as the bell at the Point did not work right.

Ex-Capt. Burrill said no fault had been found with the company by Engineer Mahoney. He had no conversation with new members to lead him to believe there was any dissatisfaction.

Mr. Federhen asked if he did not understand that he was discharged because he did not produce the records.

Capt. Burrell answered, no; the letter read that he was dissatisfied with the new members and that he was held responsible for things taken from the house. The pictures were originally given to the old Vulture company and had been handed down from company to company by vote. The pool table belonged to the ten members who had paid for it with their own money. The clerk who had kept the records had expressed a wish to keep them, and by a vote of the company he was allowed to do so as we considered we had that right. Witness did not refuse to give up records as he did not have them. They were simply minutes of meetings held. The roll call was kept as a separate book and forwarded to the Chief Engineer at the end of the year. There were several members who had taken coat and boots home to have them handy, and some of these he had found and had returned to the assistant engineer.

I. P. Bent, one of the dropped members, had heard none of the old members make any remarks about the new members.

William Caldwell had heard nothing to lead him to suppose that the new members were dissatisfied with the old members. All he had said was that they were kind of green. He had no ill-feeling against any of them. The rule was to proceed to the fire.

Ex-Chief W. H. Ripley was satisfied with the company when he was in charge.

A. L. Mead said he was clerk of old company and had the records. He had not been notified to produce them. They contained only minutes of meeting. Witness refused to tell where the pictures were.

Roland H. Newcomb, ex-engineer, said he had said nothing in regard to the old or new company. He refused to answer when asked by Mr. Federhen if the matter had not been talked over at the Hayden house.

William C. Caldwell said he was dropped the first of February. He had said he did not think the new men knew anything.

Engineer Mahoney, recalled, said he did not consult Councilman Federhen in the make up of the company. He did not know why the company were not social enough.

Two of the present company were called but gave no testimony that any of the members dropped March 16 had said anything or made it disagreeable. The examination of these men, however, brought out the fact that the company now had but six members and were without a captain or clerk and had been since March 16.

The hearing then closed and the committee took the matter under consideration and will probably report a resolution the latter part of next month.

The hearing was largely attended.

The Y. M. C. A. Exhibition.

The gymnastic exhibition in Hancock hall tomorrow evening by members of the physical department of the Young Men's Christian Association should be well patronized. Few cities of the size of Quincy, have such a thoroughly equipped gymnasium where the physical education is so well conducted as that of our local association. The object of the exhibition is two fold, first, to show the work and results of the modern scientific system of body building gymnastics; second, to give an interesting entertainment, showing the wonderful capabilities of the human body in performing feats of skill and endurance, many of which are not only interesting but amusing.

The exhibition will be a fair sample of the regular work of the gymnasium, suited for all classes.

It is not intended to pick out those who have become the most expert only, but some who have recently entered the class will participate. The boys as well as the young men will appear on the programme.

In the house Mr. Simpson offered an order for morning sessions of the house to begin April 4. Laid over.

The matter of assigning a day for a hearing on the bill regarding the term of the district police provoked a considerable discussion. Mr. George asking for April 10; the bill was finally set for April 3.

The committee on roads and bridges reported a bill providing that draught wagons shall, after July 1, 1894, have wide tires. The county of Suffolk is exempted from the operation of the bill.

A delegation of the unemployed appeared to secure amendments to the bill reported Friday by the select committee on the unemployed. They want the proposed commission to consist of five instead of three members, the salaries to be $900 instead of $1500 each, and that the work on roads to begin at once. Mr. Mellen of Worcester was called out, and he advised that the amendments be submitted to the finance committee, to whom the bill is referred.

The hearing on the proposed subway was continued. Samuel J. Byrne claimed that the derangement of business along the line of the proposed subway would result in the loss of millions of dollars while the tunneling was in process.

In the hearing on the Norwegian system, William E. Weld and Gallas Thomann appeared in opposition for the wholesale liquor dealers and brewers. Mr. Thomann said the introduction of the Norway plan would mean that the present excise laws are ineffectual as temperance measures. Other remonstrants were F. C. Nash, Henry H. Faxon and Dr. H. A. Gibbs. The petitioners were given the closing hour, which was occupied by John Graham Brooks, John Koren and Rev. Dr. N. Beach.

RECEIVING INSTRUCTIONS.

Admiral Walker Getting Ready to Assume Charge of Pacific Station.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Admiral John G. Walker, who has been assigned to the command of the Pacific station, has been detained here to receive his instructions. These are now in course of preparation at the navy department, and the president, who himself selected Admiral Walker for this important command, is taking an active interest in their definition. It is expected that the admiral will be able to receive these instructions in time to leave Washington tomorrow, and will take the steamer April 5 from San Francisco for Honolulu.

The admiral professes to be in ignorance as yet of the scope of his instructions, and consequently could not say anything as to the likelihood of the establishment of a coaling station at Pearl harbor. There is an impression there that this matter will be left largely to Admiral Walker's discretion; that it is not the main purpose of his detail, but that the president selected him for the post in order to have at Honolulu an officer upon whose judgment and experience he could rely in case of trouble.

Valuable Property Involved.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Corporation Counsel Miller of Chicago is here to look after one of the branches of the Chicago front litigation, which is to be heard in the United States supreme court. The lower courts have sustained the claims of the city.

The Behring Sea Dispute.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Sir Julian Pauncefote had another long interview with Secretary Gresham in connection with Behring sea matters. There are evidences that the efforts which both parties have been making to arrive at a satisfactory agreement touching the regulation of the seal fisheries this season, are likely to be crowned with success within the next 10 days.

A NEW GAS DISCOVERY.

A Kansas Reporter Visits Doniphan Lake and Backs Up a Good Story.

The confidence of The Globe in the veracity of Clark Drummond, Tip Young and L. H. Chamberlain having been badly shaken by their statement that you could punch a hole in the ice at Doniphan lake and light the natural gas which escaped through it, a reporter visited the lake last week for the purpose of an investigation and was convinced of the truthfulness of their statement.

Upon arriving there a bonfire was found, which Frank Brenner had started by piling some brush over a white spot in the ice, puncturing the ice and touching a match to the fume. The entire lake was covered with spots, and they were opened, and the gas burned out of them until it became work instead of play. The illumination was kept up until after dark, when the effect was better. It takes about a minute to burn the gas out of a spot as big around as a washtub. The smaller the hole in the ice, the longer it takes the gas to escape. The flame shoots up fully a foot and looks exactly like gas coming out of a pipe with the burner removed. The gas has no smell—at least the investigating committee detected none.

It is claimed that it is a vegetable gas that is always found in newly formed lakes and is caused by the decomposition of vegetable matter. It escapes without attracting attention as a usual thing, but is imprisoned when the water freezes. The gas at Doniphan lake was discovered by a boy who fell and broke the ice. He had a box of parlor matches in one of his pockets. They became ignited and lit the gas. The boy's trousers were considerably disfigured.—Atchison Globe.

SHOWMEN COME TO GRIEF.

They Are Arrested For Packing 800 Children Into a Hall Built to Hold 250.

Two itinerant showmen—Professor Albert Nickel, an alleged magician of Philadelphia, and his manager, Clarence Veerlander of Pittsburg—have come to grief in New Castle, Pa., and are under arrest, charged with fraud and with cruelty to children.

They went to New Castle and advertised to give a Punch and Judy show and a sleight of hand performance, the admission to be 5 cents each for school children. They hired a hall which had 250 seats, and into this over 800 children were packed. So dense was the crowd that windows could not be opened for fear the children would fall out, and the room soon became like an odoriferous oven.

Several children fainted, and 50 or more were crying and screaming at the top of their voices through fear and discomfort. A panic seeming inevitable, Mayor Richardson was notified, and after a score or more of angry parents had invaded the hall and made open threats of violence to the showmen the mayor commanded the latter to close the show and disperse the crowd.

By this time the children were in a terrible state, dripping with perspiration and sickened by the breath poisoned air of the packed room. When an attempt was made to get them out, several fainted, and it was fully an hour before the crowd was out of the hall.—Philadelphia Times.

BOMBS IN BIRMINGHAM.

The Spirit of Destruction Makes Itself Felt Even In the Scrap Pile.

Anybody desiring an exciting occupation could not do better than to obtain a job at one of the numerous metal refineries in Birmingham. In addition to the usual risks in such business the workmen daily encounter the danger of being blown up by bombs. A good deal of scrap metal bought for the melting pots comes from the continent, where, it seems, carelessness has almost reached the rank of a virtue. It is a common thing to find loaded military bombs among the refuse. The workmen must always be on the lookout for them.

For the second time within a week one firm has providentially escaped being blown sky high. First it was an old gunpowder shell, probably found on some battlefield. Then variety was given to the entertainment by the arrival of a more scientific and up to date bomb which came in a cargo of scrap iron, and the workman just missed shoveling it into the furnace. It only weighed two pounds, but it would have done damage altogether disproportionate to its size, for on being tenderly dissected in the firm's laboratory the little stranger was found to contain a quarter of a pint of nitroglycerin.—London Letter.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

STARVING TO DEATH.

Plenty to Eat but They Get No Nourishment from Their Food.

Dangerous Loss of Weight—Doctors Can Do Nothing.

There are in America perhaps 5,000,000 people who, in the midst of plenty, are starving to death. Not paupers, simply people who cannot digest their food. What is to be done with them? Give them a food that is already digested—Paskola.

There is no medicine in nature's laboratory that will keep people who cannot digest their food from starving to death. There is only one thing that will do them any good—food. If ordinary food doesn't feed them, Paskola will. Fat people who want to get thin abstain from starch food. Thin, starving people, who want to get fat, should do the opposite, of course. Paskola is prepared according to this scientific fact. It is a pure starch food, artificially digested—not "pepsinated." Pepsin doesn't digest starch The starch in Paskola is digested with the natural ferments discovered in the human saliva and prepared from other natural products. People who are starving, show it by losing weight. Consumptives starve to death. The loss of two lungs wouldn't make a hundred pounds difference in your weight.

What must people do who are steadily losing weight? Eat starch food? But if that doesn't help? Paskola.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W. Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Van Beers' "La Sirene."

Jan Van Beers' first great hit, "La Sirene," representing a naval officer helping a pretty girl into a yacht gig, underwent some strange vicissitudes. The picture, as we are told, was exhibited at the Brussels salon, and having been distinguished by royal notice the critics and brother artists were soon in full cry. They declared that Jan Van Beers could not have produced such elaborateness of finish and minuteness of detail had it not been that he had painted over a photograph.

The pugnacious young Belgian did not sit quietly down under what he termed this "infamous assertion." The head of the young yachtswoman had been specially assailed, and he offered to allow his critics to scratch the head out and chemically destroy the colors down to the white canvas, and should there be found any trace of a photograph he pledged himself to pay over £1,000. On the other hand, should it be shown that the picture owed its art to the sole agency of brush and pencil, then his critics were to pay a like sum to his pet home for incurable idiots or some such institution.

Needless to say, the challenge was not taken up, but a short time after, while the picture was still in the gallery, the head of the lady was surreptitiously cut out and the picture otherwise defaced. Fortunately the painter was able to set it all right again with a few days' hard labor, and it now belongs to a wealthy South American lady and is understood to be in London. The right of reproduction was sold by the artist for 1,000 francs, and he believes the publisher who bought it made something like 100,000 francs profit out of it.—Pall Mall Budget.

A CALIFORNIA CRIME

A Prominent Lawyer on Trial For Murdering a Politician.

A WOMAN'S DAMAGING TESTIMONY.

Nephew of a Judge Implicated In the Murder.

FRESNO, Cal., March 27.—Some testimony was given in the trial of R. S. Heath here yesterday, which created a profound sensation. Heath is on trial for the murder of Louis B. McWhirter, which occurred over a year ago. On the night of the murder McWhirter was aroused from sleep by a peculiar noise in his back yard. He went out to investigate and was shot by an assassin.

McWhirter was a prominent lawyer and a politician. Suspicion was immediately drawn to McWhirter's political enemies. Heath belongs to a prominent family, and is the son of General Heath. He was tried several months ago, the jury disagreeing.

Mrs. Palmer's Testimony.

Mrs. Palmer did not appear as a witness in the previous trial. The witness stated that on the morning of the McWhirter murder she was bringing her husband into Fresno to take a train, which leaves here at 2:30 a. m. She met a short distance from town a buggy containing two persons, one of whom was Reed B. Terry. The other she did not recognize. Just before meeting the buggy, some blazing rags had been thrown out of it, and as she passed she noticed that the dry grass by the roadside was being ignited.

She stopped, alighted and stamped out the flames. She stooped and picked up the half-consumed rags, one of them proving to be a mask and the other a handkerchief, upon which was the name of "R. S. Heath." The handkerchief and mask she saved and produced as evidence. Her testimony created great excitement in court, the prisoner being visibly baffled.

Prominent In Politics.

Reed Terry, whom this evidence implicates in the murder, is well known throughout the state. He is a prominent lawyer, and was a leader of the political faction opposed to McWhirter.

Terry is a nephew of Judge Terry, who was killed by Marshal Nagle as he was about to assault Justice Field of the United States supreme court several years ago. He ran for congress in the Sixth district on the Democratic ticket, but was defeated.

CHAMPION MIDDLEWEIGHT.

Dick O'Brien Secures the Title by Whipping Billy Hennessy.

BOSTON, March 27.—Dick O'Brien of Lewiston, Me., met Billy Hennessy of Clinton, Ia., in the prettiest boxing contest that this city has seen for years, and defeated the champion of the northwest in 11 closely and hotly contested rounds.

His victory gives him the title of the middleweight champion of the country and $700 of the $850 purse offered by the Charlesbank Athletic club for the fight. The combat was desperate from the first call of time until Hennessy was carried into his corner by one of his seconds.

The boy from Lewiston had no "cinch," however, and only the ringing of the bell at the end of the third round kept the fight from being awarded to his opponent. Both men fought at 150 pounds, and both showed up in splendid condition, as a result of faithful training.

The Delmore Murder.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Thomas Hunt, James Gorman, John Hogan and Charles McCormack were arraigned in connection with the killing of John Delmore, who was shot dead in the hallway of Hunt's saloon on Sunday. McCormack said he saw "Bull" Powers fire the shot. The others denied having seen anything of the affair. They were all remanded.

Knocked Insensible.

BROCKTON, Mass., March 27.—Patrick Kelley was knocked down, robbed and left insensible on Belmont street last night. He left Tilden's cigar store at 10 o'clock with $87 in his possession. When found, this was gone. His back and head were frightfully bruised. He was taken home unconscious and in a dangerous condition.

Judge Libby's Successor.

PORTLAND, Me., March 27.—Governor Cleaves is receiving many petitions asking for the appointment of Sewell S. Strout of this city as the successor of Judge Libby. The governor intimated to a friend of Strout's last night that he would be the man appointed. Strout is a Democrat, and very popular with both parties.

Jamieson Sentenced.

BROOKLYN, March 27.—Andrew Scott Jamieson, the Gravesend constable who was last week convicted of perjury, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Brown to 18 months' imprisonment. The judge in passing sentence said that he did not impose the full penalty, because of the recommendation of the jury for mercy.

Severe Frost In Ohio.

CINCINNATI, March 27.—Captain Bassler, the government observer of the weather bureau, says cold will effectually kill the fruit buds over a very large extent of the territory, and that this is the severest weather this time of year that has been known for years.

Mason's Case Continued.

PEABODY, Mass., March 27.—The case of Clarence W. Mason, charged with assault with intent to kill upon James Trask, was again called yesterday in the district court here. A continuance of a week was granted. Trask is improving slowly, although he is still in a critical condition.

Senator Pugh's Opinion.

WASAINGTON, March 27.—Senator Pugh of Alabama expresses the opinion that the president would send in a veto of the Bland seigniorage bill, accompanied by a message explaining his objections.

Goodwin's Accomplice Held.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Alice Webster, the confederate of Rev. George Goodwin, the bicycle swindler, was committed for examination in the Yorkville court.

NAVIGATOR WAS CONFIDENT

Of His Position Shortly Before the Wreck on Roncador Reef.

BROOKLYN, March 27.—The proceedings at the court martial, before which Commander Oscar F. Heyerman is being tried for negligence in allowing the United States corvette Kearsarge to run aground on Roncador reef, Feb. 20 last, was commenced by frequent objections by counsel for the accused to the line of examination taken up by the judge advocate. Lieutenant Walling, in answer to questions, said that about 1 o'clock he was in the navigator's office, and that Lieutenant Lyman showed him the chart and pointed out the position of Roncador reef, which, according to the navigator, was then about 42 miles away, bearing W. S. W., three-quarters west.

"I was sure we could not reach Roncador before dark," continued the witness, "and requested Lieutenant Lyman to see the old man and ask him to get up steam. We had all sail set and were running dead before the wind.

"About 3 o'clock I saw Commander Heyerman on the poop deck, and he told me that about 1:30 o'clock the navivator had suggested that steam be gotten up. He said, however, that he would wait until the 4 o'clock sight, before ordering steam.

Lieutenant Walling said he took a sight at Polaris just before dark. This ship struck after he had begun to work it out, so he did not finish the calculation, but the navigator worked it out afterward.

"Were the watch officers required to send in the ship's position every day independent of the navigator?" was asked.

"No, sir."

The navigator, according to Lieutenant Walling, was confident of his position at 4 o'clock. Asked by the court how he knew this, the witness replied that Lieutenant Lyman laid the parallel rulers from the 4 o'clock position to Roncador, as shown on the chart, and pointed out to him where the ship was to pass to the north of the reef. About sunset the witness said he saw Cadet McCormick taking a sight at Sirius, and later saw the cadet working out the calculation.

BOSTON REFORM CLUB.

International Bimetallism the Theme of Their Discussion.

BOSTON, March 27.—"International Bimetallism" was the subject of discussion at the meeting of the Boston Reform club last night. General Francis A. Walker was the principal speaker. He upheld the bimetallic theory by three lines of argument: That the system is desirable; that it has proven to be practicable, and that it is possible.

"There will be panics and hard times under any monetary system," said General Walker, "but they will be greater when a national monetary system is subject to the fluctuations of a single standard. Bimetallism is economically practicable, and is no longer a question in England and Europe, as it is in the United States.

"Whenever law settles an economic force, then it affects value and not until then. General Walker described the bimetallic system of France, which he pronounced feasible.

"Since 1873 there have been wider fluctuations in gold than any other commodity known, and international trade has been greatly reduced by this state of affairs.

"Bimetallism gives a greater stability than can possibly come to either metal alone. There is not enough gold produced to supply the demand for currency and the arts too. The amount produced is great, but much of it is going into avenues of commerce. Prices have steadily fallen since 1873. Suffocation and strangulation are words none too strong to apply to this restriction of monetary supply."

Chinese interpreters from Boston are in town interceding for their countrymen. Their cases will be heard tomorrow. A life sentence may ensue.

THE GREAT DESERT.

THE AREA OF SAHARA NEARLY EQUAL TO THAT OF EUROPE.

A Barrier to the Progress of Civilization Which Engineering Skill Is Trying to Overcome—The Important Point In the Solution of the African Problem.

We have but to look upon the map to see how large a space upon the world's surface this mighty desert takes to itself. It covers more square miles than the whole of the Mediterranean. If it were transported across that sea, it would extinguish Europe, for it has been computed that if you leave out Scandinavia it would nearly cover the whole of it. If it were only sunk in the sea, the waves would roll over it, and it would be remembered no more forever.

But it insists on keeping its head above water and above ground, crowding out fertile portions of the earth, while its barrenness renders it unfit for human habitation. There it lies on the face of Africa, a huge black spot, deserted by man, as it seems to be accursed by God. No man passes by it or willingly puts his foot thereon. Even the lonely caravan that skims it like a bird leaves no track behind it any more than the bird in the air or the ship on the sea. It passes and is gone, leaving not a trace of life in man or beast or bird or any living thing. So far as we can see, the desert is an utterly worthless portion of the globe.

With such an incubus covering full half of northern Africa there would seem to be little hope of making anything out of it, since the cause which renders its condition so hopeless cannot be removed. You cannot abolish the desert any more than you can abolish the sea. There it is, and there it will remain forever. Yes, but you can get over the sea in ships or under it by telegraphs, so that it is no longer a bar to the intercourse of nations. Is there any way of taming the desert or subduing it so that it shall no longer be a barrier to the progress of civilization? This is the most important question to be settled as bearing upon the future of Africa.

Of course if it were left to the native inhabitants all things would continue as they were from the beginning of creation. Nor has Europe at large any interest in it. But there is one European power that has an interest in it. France has large possessions on this side of the Mediterranean. Algeria and Tunis together make a country as large as one of the kingdoms of Europe, which France has the ambition to enlarge still further, so as to have a great African empire, as England has her Indian empire. As part of the materials for this she has another great dependency in Senegambia, on the western coast, a country covering 400,000 square miles.

If this could in any way be united to Algeria, if the two could be consolidated, the new "empire" would at once assume vast proportions. But the desert blocks the way. It splits the proposed empire like a wedge. It cannot be removed, but is there not some way in which it can be converted into a keystone for the mighty arch that is to span the continent from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic? That is the problem which has long exercised the minds of French statesmen, and which they in turn have referred to their engineers, who are among the best in the world, with what result may be briefly indicated.

First of all, they have shown that it is possible to convert portions of the desert into oases by the sinking of artesian wells. A hundred and forty miles south of Biskra is the oasis of Tuggurt, which has long supported thousands of Arabs, with their flocks and herds, but which was nearly destroyed some years since by the wells becoming so choked up as to no longer furnish a supply of water. Vegetation withered until the wretched people, stripped of what was to them the very water of life and too ignorant to be able to renew the supply, were in despair and began to leave the country.

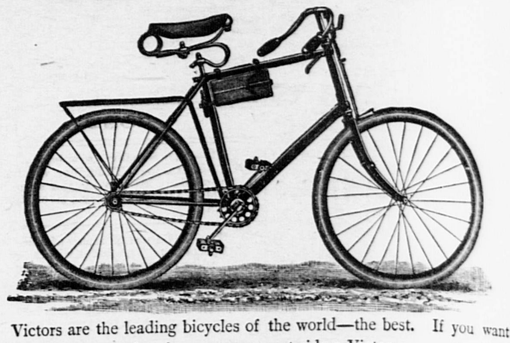

Then the French engineers took the matter in hand and instead of trying to clear out the old wells commenced boring the solid earth and in five weeks struck water to such a good purpose that a river rushed forth that yielded double the quantity furnished by the great well of Grenelle at Paris. To the Arabs it seemed a miracle, and they began to sing and dance in the wildest manner to express their joy. The miracle is one that can be wrought wherever men are willing to take the labor or to bear the expense. Of course to accomplish a large result in the way of pasturage or agriculture it would have to be repeated on a tremendous scale.

But for the purpose of uniting the two vast territories of Algeria and Senegambia the first necessity is that of direct communication, which can only be by a railroad across the desert of Sahara. Is this within the bounds of possibility? Nobody's opinion is of any value except that of an engineer, and that I have tried to obtain. In Algiers the American consul took me to see Mr. Broussais, who has made a special study of the subject and taken long journeys into the desert to survey the field of battle.

He did not conceal from himself the enormous difficulties of traveling 1,500 miles with the want of water, the want of wood for railroad ties, the want of everything. He looked in the face the possibilities of these sand storms, which might bury a railroad train, as they have buried a thousand caravans. All this he had taken into consideration, and yet, looking all obstacles and all dangers in the face, he did not hesitate to assure me that in his judgment a railroad across the desert of Sahara was quite within the resources of modern engineering.

But were the dream already fulfilled, the desert crossed and the tide of travel in full course, the whole African problem would not be solved. This would be one step toward it.—Cor. Evangelist.

AN INTERESTING DAY

In the Pollard-Breckinridge Suit For Damages.

TEXT OF THE FAMOUS LETTER.

Judge Wilson's Bewildering Cross-Examination.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The defense in the Pollard-Breckinridge trial took a new tack yesterday and ventured out on the troubled sea of expert testimony. Two witnesses, well known in Washington—Dr. E. M. Schaefer, the deputy coroner of the District of Columbia, and E. B. Hay—appeared for the Kentucky congressman, and their statements were directed to the support of the contention that the hand of Madeline Pollard penned the black bordered letter written in 1884, which she has most emphatically disavowed twice over on the witness stand.

Great stress is laid by the defense upon the authenticity of this letter, not because it runs counter to the testimony of the plaintiff that Colonel Breckinridge first called upon her at the Wesleyan academy of her own volition, but because they think if she can be proven false on one important detail the whole statement will be impeached.

The signature to the letter also goes to support the opening statement of the defense on a minor detail, viz.: That Miss Pollard had adopted at that time the middle name of Breckinridge. This letter, which has figured so conspicuously in the case, and which the defense will fight to get before the jury, is as follows:

Madeline's Letter.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE, July 24, 1884.

Dear Colonel Breckinridge:

Your letter came to me Saturday. I am glad you told me it would be inconvenient to come out here to the college, for if you had gone to ever such a little trouble to listen to what sometimes overburdens a schoolgirl's mind, you might be inclined to be provoked with yourself. A preacher's opinion of any little affairs of mine, would cause premature gray hairs, where your opinion might clear away all doubts and fears, and let me be quite free-hearted again.

I think I have prepared you for a divorce case, but listen, it is worse than that. If a certain person should advance funds for my tuition here at school for three years, under the promise that I marry him, at the expiration of the time, could he do anything if I would not marry him, but teach and refund all he had advanced? I know you think, why the deception? But on no other terms will he agree.

When a girl wants nothing but a good education and means to obtain, as are denied, what is she to do but take the only chance she is ever likely to have. I liked your face, and I am sure I would like you, and if at any future time you are in the city and would care to come around, remember that home faces are always welcome. I am very respectfully yours, MADELINE B. POLLARD.

Judge Wilson's Brilliant Work.

For the first time yesterday the keen cross-examination power of Judge Jere Wilson, whose work has been awaited with interest by his fellow-lawers, was brought into play.

It was first exercised on Major Moore, the chief of police, who was called back to dispute some of Miss Pollard's statements regarding the two interviews in his office, during which Colonel Breckinridge repeated his promise to marry her, and afterward Mr. Wilson stirred up such a cloud of verbal dust around the expert testimony of Dr. Schaeffer, that the spectators hardly knew whether the letter came from the plaintiff to the defendant, or the reverse.

Today bids fair to be the great day of the trial, for unless the cross-examination of two intervening witnesses is too long-drawn-out, the silver-tongued defendant himself will mount a rostrum of a kind in which he has not figured before, and will begin his version of the long intrigue.

English War Office Secrets Divulged.

BIRMINGHAM, March 28.—The London correspondent of the Birmingham Post says that he has reason to believe that important war office secrets have been obtained on behalf of the French government. He adds that the agents of the French government have procured details of the plans of the new works projected at Gibraltar. A most stringent inquiry has been ordered into all the circumstances of the case.

Politicians Bound Over.

BIDDEFORD, Me., March 28.—Another chapter in the exciting election day fight was finished yesterday, when ex-City Marshal Tarbox, Constable Almon A. Dolliff and William Breton were bound over to the May term of the supreme court. The respondents were charged with assault with dangerous weapons and intent to murder. Dolliff's bonds were placed at $2000; Tarbox's and Breton's at $1000 each.

Brainard Nominated.

HARTFORD, March 28.—Leverett Brainard was nominated by the Republicans last night for mayor, in a caucus in the First regiment armory. He received 1667 votes to 823 for Alderman McGovern, the machine candidate. Mr. Brainard is a Consolidated road director and the head of a big printing and bookbinding establishment.

Railroad Fatality.

NEW HAVEN, March 28.—The last express for New York ran into a double team driven by Samuel Stent, a farmer, near the Brantford station, yesterday, and killed Stent and the two horses. It is said that the flagman at the crossing was at dinner, and the accident was due to his absence.

Students Arrested For Nihilism.

LONDON, March 28.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that 18 students attending the medical academy there have been arrested on a charge of nihilism.

THAT BOMB CASE.

Laidlaw's Claim For Damages For Injuries Against Russell Sage.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The question how much, if any, compensation William R. Laidlaw, Jr., shall receive for the severe injuries he sustained at the time he stood in front of Russell Sage and received the major portion of the effects of the dynamite exploded by the crank Norcross, in Sage's office, came up for trial yesterday before Justice Petersen, in the supreme court.

Laidlaw's claim is for $50,000 damages, and he has for his counsel ex-Justice Noah Davis, Joseph H. Choate and a couple more, while ex-Judge John F. Dillon, Colonel E. C. James and Mr. Taggart were there to see that the interests of Mr. Sage did not suffer.

In his opening, Mr. Davis told how Norcross had visited the office of Mr. Sage and demanded $1,200,000, stating that he had 10 pounds of dynamite in the carpet bag he carried, and would drop it and blow the building and everybody in it into eternity unless it was given him. Mr. Davis also described how Sage called Laidlaw into his private office.

"Then," Mr. Davis said, "Sage gently placed Laidlaw between himself and the lunatic, the lunatic dropped the bag, a terrific explosion, and sheets of flame tore the office to pieces."

In his testimony Laidlaw described the injuries he had received. An artery in his left leg was cut. The drum of his left ear was blown away. Though an athlete, prior to the explosion, and normal in all his powers, he is deaf in his left ear, is in no such condition as he was before, is incapable of any exertion, and is never free from pain. Abscesses form constantly, the witness said, and his nervous force is shattered.

Other witnesses corroborated in part the testimony of Laidlaw, and the court adjourned until today.

TO BE INVESTIGATED.

A Notorious Female Poisoner Held For Trial on a New Case.

RACINE, Wis., March 28.—A startling discovery has been made in the case of Mrs. Meyer, recently back from Brooklyn, on a charge of poisoning her former husband, Herman Groenke. About two years ago an adopted son of the woman died very suddenly.

There has always been a suspicion that the child's death was not due to natural causes, and the district attorney determined to investigate the case. The body of the child was exhumed yesterday, and the liver of the little one was found to be in a perfect state of preservation, indicating that it contained large quantities of arsenic. The liver will be submitted to a careful analysis. The body of Herman Groenke was also exhumed and the liver will be examined. Mrs. Meyer is in jail here awaiting trial.

HOWARD GOULD TO WED.

His Engagement to Odette Tyler Formally Announced.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Howard Gould has made the formal announcement of his engagement to Miss Odette Tyler, who was until recently a member of Charles Frohman's company playing in "The Girl I Left Behind Me" at the Academy of Music.

Mr. Gould took occasion to say that the rumors of a week or two ago of his engagement were premature. At that time he was not engaged to Miss Tyler, and had only become so very recently. Miss Tyler's real name is Miss Kirkland. She is a daughter of General Kirkland of Tennessee, and a niece of General Hardee, the famous military tactician. She is about 24 years old, and has been on the stage about six years.

This will be Miss Tyler's second venture in matrimony. She was married to a stock broker named Crisman, from whom she obtained a divorce on the ground of desertion, about two years ago.

Pension Department Decision.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The pension rolls have been greatly enlarged by a decision announced at the department yesterday. It is one of the most important made by the present administration, and will admit to the rolls the names of a large number of insane, idiotic and permanently helpless minor children of deceased soldiers, where the pensions of the former had ceased by the children attaining the age of 16 years, prior to the passage of the act of June 27, 1890.

Looks Like an Elopement.

BANGOR, Me., March 28.—R. O. Whelpley, a member of the Salvation Army, and father of two children, left his home in Lincoln court, Thursday last, telling his wife that he was going to Oldtown canvassing. He has not been seen since. Mrs. Annie McCauley, a Salvationist, and for a time a servant in the Whelpley household, disappeared the same day. There is no trace of either. The Whelpley family is destitute.

Stewart Will Not Reply.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Senator Stewart says he does not propose to make any response to Coxey's reply to his letter, saying that he is coming, notwithstanding the remonstrance. "I regret," said the senator, "that such is the fact. I fear that the movement will result in much hardship and suffering, and I think Mr. Coxey is on the wrong road to accomplish his purpose."

Five Years at Hard Labor.

BOSTON, March 28.—In the United States district court yesterday, the jury reported an indictment against Walter Percy Thatcher, the ex-paying teller of the Brookline National bank, who embezzled $3000 from that institution. Thatcher pleaded "guilty," and was sentenced at once to five years at hard labor in the Barnstable jail.

LYMAN TO BE TRIED

By Court Martial Regarding the Loss of the Kearsarge.

COMMANDER HEYERMAN'S CASE.

The Testimony For the Defense Now All In.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The secretary of the navy has ordered Lieutenant Lyman, who was navigating officer of the Kearsarge at the time she was wrecked, to appear before a court martial as soon as that now trying Commander Heyerman is finished. It has been predicted that a trial of Lieutenant Lyman would follow that of Commander Heyerman, as the testimony of the court of investigation clearly showed that the lieutenant was in charge of the vessel at the time of the disaster.

Under the charges and specifications, the first charge is neglect of duty. Under this the first specification is that on Feb. 2, 1894, Lieutenant Wyman, serving as navigator of the United States flagship Kearsarge, while making passage from Port au Prince, Hayti, to Bluefields, Nicaragua, neglected and failed personally to take an observation for longitude in the morning, and thus neglected his duties as navigator of the vessel.

The second specification sets forth that on Feb. 21, while on the same duty, he failed to obtain the local deviation by the compass of the steamer, although the weather permitted, and thus neglected his duty.

The third specification charges that the same duty was neglected on Feb. 2.

Drawing to a Close.

BROOKLYN, March 28. — The closing scenes in the trial by court martial of Commander Heyerman, for negligence in allowing the Kearsarge to be stranded on Roncador reef, were enacted yesterday. Lieutenant Commander Bowman was recalled by the defense. He said that his latitude at 8 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 2 was the same as that of the Kearsarge's navigator.

Commander Heyerman then took the stand, and was asked by Lieutenant Commander Marix if he had any reason to suppose or know that all the positions of the Kearsarge handed him on Feb. 2 by the Kearsarge's navigator were not the results of the navigator's own personal work and calculations?

"No, sir; I hav e not," replied the commander.

Captain J. A. Adair, a sailor, who has lived on a ship since 1860, and cruised on waters around the West Indies for 14 years, testified he had passed the dreaded reef within a mile to the eastward. Another time he had passed within 20 miles. The currents were always variable. He had known easterly currents in those waters.

"When passing the reef within 20 miles to the eastward how often have you experienced easterly currents, and at what rate an hour?"

"Two out of five times, at about three knots an hour. We experienced all sorts of currents in the waters around the Roncador reef, and we never could depend upon them," said the witness. "There would sometimes take place the most unexpected reversals."

"What caused these sudden reversals, in your opinion," asked the judge advocate.

"Well, there's usually a reversal when a calm sets in after a heavy blow," answered the captain.

The testimony for the defense was concluded with this witness.

House In Session.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—At yesterday's proceedings of the house Mr. Patterson called up the contested election case of O'Neill vs. Joy, from the Eleventh district of Missouri, in accordance with the notice given by him last week. Mr. Reed raised the question of consideration, and the yeas and nays were ordered without a preliminary division. The vote resulted: Yeas, 169; nays, 1. This was seven less than a quorum, and a call of the house was ordered on motion of Mr. Patterson.

Could Not Meet Obligations.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—An assignment for the benefit of creditors has been made by the firms of Wood, Brown & Co. and Haines & Co., in the process of liquidating the business of both concerns. A member of the firm of Wood, Brown & Co. said that the two concerns were not prepared to furnish any statement of their condition and liabilities, beyond the fact that they could not meet maturing obligations.

Many Notables Present.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The Phi Delta Beta Kappa alumni of New York had a dinner last night, which was attended by about 250 members. Among the speakers were Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson of Boston, President Schurmann of Cornell college, Bishop Potter of New York, Joseph H. Choate, Hon. Edward King and Judge Truax.

Too Cold For Delaware Peaches.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 28.—Reports from the peach district are ominous. Peach growers around Milford, the center of the Delaware peach district, are of the opinion that the entire crop has been killed. The definite extent of the damage will not be known until warm weather comes and thaws the buds, but the worst is feared.

Prendergast Again.

CHICAGO, March 28.—With little prospect of securing a hearing, the investigation into the sanity of Prendergast was called before Judge Cetlain. The state made an application that the case be continued 10 days. It was publicly conceded by the state that the court could further extend the execution of the death sentence.

TELEPHONE, 213-3 QUINCY.

THE EXAMPLE of Salem, which is considering a loan for current expenses to keep down the tax rate this year, is a warning to all cities; first, not to be too lavish in its appropriations, and second to so apportion necessary indebtedness that the annual payments will not become a burden. Quincy is in much the same situation as Salem, and largely because of many short time loans. The law allows loans for ordinary city appropriations to extend over ten years. Was the debt of $339,730 equally apportioned, the amount falling due in 1894, would be but $33,973 instead of $64,730, and the tax rate of 1894 would be nearly $2 less than it now will be. To the ordinary city debt payments are to be added the water and playground bonds falling due, and the Auditor's statement shows the amounts payable for the next ten years to be:

Year.	Ordinary.	Water.	Park.	Total.
1894	$64,730	$24,000	$1,000	$89,730
1895	50,580	24,000	1,000	75,580
1896	49,580	24,000	1,000	74,580
1897	46,580	24,000	1,000	71,580
1898	44,580	24,000	1,000	69,580
1899	41,480	24,000	1,000	66,480
1900	34,200	24,000	1,000	59,200
1901	8,000	24,000	1,000	33,000
1902	—	24,000	1,000	25,000
1903	—	24,000	1,000	25,000

It is expected that the income of the water works will increase rapidly and that after this year there will be a surplus over maintenance and interest to apply to the water debt, and that in a few years the income will provide for all the debt. It is unfortunate this year that the ordinary city debt maturing is so large, as it will require over $5 per $1,000 to pay the debt maturing.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

An Executive Session Relative to Changes in High School Plans.

The regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening but the only business transacted in open session was the announcement that Miss Rena M. Chamberlin of the Wollaston school had resigned to go to Milton for an increase of salary, and the resignation of Miss Sarah M. Aldrich of the Quincy school on account of sickness.

In executive session the matter of the new High school building furnished the subject for discussion in which the committee, Mayor Hodges, Commissioner Eaton and Architect Thayer took part.

From what can be learned, the trouble at the building is simply that while Deputy Inspector Moore approved and accepted the plans, and Chief Inspector Wade will not.

The original plans called for an iron stairway at the rear of the building on the outside, as an extra exit from the second and third floors. This was acceptable to Deputy Moore, and building operations were commenced. Recently, however, Chief Wade visited the building and refused to accept the building, as an extra exit was not provided on the inside of the building from the second and third floors.

This left matters in a rather complicated condition, as operations have progressed so far that it is impossible to build an additional exit on the inside.

As the matter now stands, if Chief Wade still refuses to accept the building that has already been accepted by his deputy, a tower will probably be built on the front of the building in which will be located the iron stairway required as an extra exit from the second and third floors.

A Very Small Fire.

The alarm from Box 26 at 9.28 Tuesday evening, was rung in for a small fire on the roof of the tool house of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., in the rear of Sheppard's coal yard. The fire was evidently caused by a spark from a passing locomotive and was extinguished without the aid of the department.

Fire Alarm at Holbrook.

At the town meeting in Holbrook, Monday evening, it was voted by a large majority, not to sell the steamer. The voters demanded even better protection, and made an appropriation of $450 for the introduction of the Stevens fire alarm system, this to include one gong and five boxes.

CITY BOOK OF 1893.

A Large Volume With Some Additional Features.

WATER REPORT OF INTEREST.

Year of Large Appropriations and Improvements—Payment of Water Award.

The annual city book with the reports of 1893 is out today and makes a book of 376 pages, which will be scanned with interest. All the old features appear, and there are a few additional reports which will prove more valuable than these, because they will be in a handy form for reference. These latter include the election returns by wards for each candidate at the State and municipal elections; the list of fires, and some interesting statistics relative to fires, losses, alarms, etc.; a report of the Managers of the Woodward Fund and Property, and the decison of the court on the Woodward will; and finally in the school report, the graduating exercises and prize speaking contest of the High school, the courses in nature study and sewing, the sub-committees of 1894, etc.

First in order is the city government of 1894, the list including all the city officials both elective and appointive. This is followed by the inaugural address of Mayor Hodges for 1894, which is familiar to all.

The report of City Treasurer Adams shows receipts and disbursements amounting to $1,450,175.03. The largest payment was $791,447.90 in connection with the purchase of the water works, the amount including a temporary loan of $130,000.

City Treasurer Adams reports $295,863.84 to the credit of the Woodward fund Jan. 1, 1894, after deducting $22,248.98, the cost of the Institute and grading. The Rock Island fund amounts to $904.46, and the Cotton C. Johnson fund to $2,002.33.

The next 68 pages are given to an itemized report of City Auditor Hall, and the various accounts will doubtless be carefully scrutinized by many of the taxpayers, who are anxious to know where the money goes. The summary shows appropriations for 1893 amounting to $437,298.19, to which was added income to different account amounting to $8,624.27. Of the total there was expended $322,866.26, leaving a balance Jan. 1, 1894, of $123,026.20. Most of this sum however is available only for the object for which it was appropriated. It includes $61,895.48 for the new High school building (upon which only $259.52 had been expended) and $35,032.18 for playgrounds. In addition to the above appropriations was $12,140.00 for water supply and service, of which $11,187.03 had been expended.

The statement of the city debt follows, showing the years it falls due. The total is $339,730, with $64,730 due in 1894, and $50,580 in 1895. Were the payments spread over ten years, instead of eight (or practically seven) the burden would not fall as heavy as now.

The water debt is $714,000, payable $24,000 a year for the next 24 years and $23,000 a year for the following 6 years.

Commissioner Ewell in his valedictory makes but few recommendations. He says, "only by the most rigid economy have I been enabled to accomplish the amount of repairs that have been done," and adds:

"It must be evident to all, that with the small appropriation of $15,000 for miscellaneous highways, and the very severe wear that our streets are subjected to by our heavily loaded teams, that all our streets cannot be maintained in first class conditon. I have for the past three years selected such streets as in my judgment required repairs the most, paying but little attention to ward lines although each ward and section of our city has received very nearly an equal amount of money and repairs. Some sections require more permanent work than others and consequently more expensive.

"It can readily be seen that work cannot be done as thorough as one would like, or as I believe should be, as the calls for repairs are so loud and the pressure so great in all sections, that much work is done that is not permanent.

"Taken as a whole, I believe that our streets show improvement each year, and in a few years more will compare favorably with cities of the same size near Boston, notwithstanding the severe wear they receive by our stone teams. This city should annually pave some portion of its streets, selecting those most needed, and adding to them, year by year, until all streets much used by stone teams are paved."

The Commissioner comments briefly on each special appropriation in his department; the satisfactory results of street sprinkling, and the good work of the stone crushing plant which is being copied by other cities and towns. He advocates alterations in City Hall, for the better accommodation of the various officers, in accordance with the plans of 1892.

The Assessors statistics of 1893 are familiar and are submitted without comment. The valuation was $16,638,070, and the total tax levy $273,947.506; tax rate $15.80.

Tax Collector Adams reported $91,745.37 of the tax of 1893 unpaid Jan 1; also $6,250.90 of the tax of 1892, $3,396.10 of 1891, $2,522.18 of 1890; $185.22 of 1889; and $20.27 of 1888.

Overseer Field reported the poor department to have been run within the small appropriation of $6,500. There are fourteen inmates in the Almshouse, and the net cost of the institution was but $1,814.44.

The Park Commissioners emphasize the recommendations of last year relative to laying out the boulevard or shore drive and the widening of Sea street. Regarding playgrounds they say the lots in Wards 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 will cost $43,000. Will the balance of $7,000 be expended in Ward One?

The Managers of Public Burial Places report good progress to have been made on the Greenleaf extension at the Mount Wollaston cemetery.

The Board of Health strongly recommends that plumbing regulations or ordinances be enacted. Inspector Cunningham also made a review of his work, with some recommendations as to the discharge of sewage on the ground, draining into brook, plumbing, brooks, etc.

Milk Inspector Garey reports no complaints or prosecutions in 1893. He issued 70 licenses, and estimates a daily consumption of 6000 quarts, of which 3500 is raised in Quincy.

Dr. Cutting, inspector of animals and provisions, reports 683 cows in the city, and in a healthy condition. The few exceptions having been immediately cared for. He finds the provision stores with few exceptions well kept, but that he has been obliged to seize and destroy some meat and fish from carts.

Chief of Police Langley reports 420 arrests and 324 court cases. There was an increase of 27 arrests over 1892, including 12 for drunkenness. The fees and fines paid into the city treasury amounted to $1,129.77.

City Solicitor McAnarney briefly reviews the cases against the city and the work of the law department. The review of the book will be continued tomorrow.

Blue Hill Observatory.

It is reported as probable that the Blue Hill Observatory at Milton will be leased to the President and Fellows of Harvard College. A change of control of the observatory was made necessary by the purchase of the entire reservation by the order of the Metropolitan Park Commissioners. The former owner and director, A. Lawrence Rotch, was obliged to give up the reservation, as the State took it by right of eminent domain.

Mrs. Mary A. Tupper has been released, at Wilton, Me., from the custody of extreme Female Weakness, which kept her a prisoner in bed unable to walk. *Lydia E. It costs only a dollar at any druggists, and the result is worth millions.

SALEM'S SCHEME.

One Way to Reduce the Tax Rate but Is It a Good Way.

Salem is getting in a bad way when it resorts to any such method as this, recommended last night by the finance committee:

The rate of taxation necessary to meet the state and county tax of Salem is about $2 on a thousand, which, added to about $4 50 on a thousand, the rate necessary to raise the amount needed for payment on account of the city debt, and $12 on a thousand, the limit of taxation permitted by law for other purposes, would make a tax rate of $18 50 per thousand, the largest permitted by law. In the present unfavorable condition of business the committee believes that so high a rate of taxation is not expedient, and that of the money needed to be raised an amount sufficient to reduce the rate of taxation to $17 on a thousand, or as near that rate as practicable, should be provided by a loan for which the bonds of the city should be issued.

The committee recommend a ten year loan of $90,000 for these items, some of which must be current expenses: For construction and repair of municipal buildings, $11,232.09; improving, grading and building streets, $60,634.63; fire engines, $4000; health department, $3,361 86; building sewers, $2,663.71; Public Library, $8,107.71.

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

THE PROGRESS OF ONE BENEFICIAL TO THE OTHER.

Co-operative Effort of Farmer and City Dweller Will Best Conserve the Interest of Both—A Word About Kickers—The Value of a Newspaper.

[Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association.]

The interests of a town or city and the community and country surrounding are identical. That which benefits one is certain to favorably affect the other. Often there is an unreasoning antagonism in the farming community against their home town. From some inexplicable reason they consider it their duty to oppose every movement that has for its object the forwarding of its interests and depreciate its importance in every conceivable manner.

Fortunately in this community all of our best and most progressive farmers and landowners have a kindly interest in the town and are as enthusiastic in wishing it success and exercising their energies to attain that end as any one who dwells within its limits. But the fact cannot be disguised that we have many individuals in our vicinity who display the same characteristics that distinguish those who have been the bane and curse of other localities.

These people only speak of their home town, community and neighbors in terms of disapproval. Their good points are kept in the background, while what they are pleased to call their faults are proclaimed from the house tops. They sell their products in a distant market and buy their supplies at the same place. They are simply barnacles on the ship of progress, and the sooner they take up their residence where they transact their business and make room for some progressive and liberal minded citizen the better it will be for the community.

The fact cannot be controverted that a town cannot increase in size and importance without at the same time making the country contiguous a better place to live. As its population increases it furnishes a better market for the farmer, his land is enhanced in value, the amount of taxable property in the town becomes greater, and a consequent decrease of the farmer's tax results. The literary, social and educational advantages and church privileges keep pace with the town's growth, and the farmer, his wife, sons and daughters enjoy them equally with other citizens.

Suppose, for instance, that our thriving center of business and trade was swept away, and in its stead we had a crossroads hamlet, with a postoffice, blacksmith shop and grocery store. Do you think that this community would be as desirable a one to live in as at present?

On the other hand, should the growth of this community continue until we had as large a population as some of the larger cities we might name, with their manufacturing industries, commercial, literary and educational institutions and all the conveniences which are in reach of those who live convenient to metropolitan centers, would not the life of a farmer be more pleasant and comfortable and his vocation more profitable, his daughters better educated and his sons given a better chance in life than as present situated?

Probably we shall never be a New York or Chicago, but by a united effort of our citizens we can build up a place of which we may feel proud and secure to the community many of the advantages that go to make life worth living in the great cities and at the same time make our callings in life more attractive and profitable. This consummation can only be secured by the co-operative effort of the entire population of the community—farmers, mechanics, merchants, laborers and professional men as well as capitalists. Each can contribute his share by assisting his neighbor with his patronage and by giving every worthy enterprise or undertaking his hearty and unqualified support and approval.

Every business and professional man in this town should have an advertisement in this paper if it is nothing greater than a two inch card. In addition to the benefit it does the advertiser in bringing his business to the attention of the public, it is a slight token of his appreciation of the benefit that a well conducted and enterprising newspaper is to a town. Further, it a notice to the world at large that his particular line of business is represented in the place by an enterprising man and gives those seeking locations a good opinion of the business men represented. The advertising columns of the local paper are a good criterion to judge a town by.

The Valuable Citizen.

The citizen who is of the most value to a community, town or city is not always the man who possesses the most wealth, the highest intelligence or the most aristocratic lineage. Of course the two former will increase a man's usefulness if he will but exert them in the proper direction. But the valuable citizen par excellence is the man who believes thoroughly in his town, its people and its business and professional men. He does not make it his business to decry the honesty of his local banker or merchant or the ability of the resident lawyer or physician. But instead he is an enthusiastic advocate of all things that pertain to the welfare of his own locality. He has the interest of its schools, churches, societies and people at heart and exploits their excellence abroad. We need more of this class of citizens and have the material in our midst to construct them.

A newspaper with evidence of substantial support in its pages speaks volumes for a town. The fact that every trade seeker has an advertisement in its columns proves that the people are up with the times and favorably impresses the stranger into whose hands it chances to fall.

If you spend a dollar at home, it will return to you before many days, but if you spend it abroad it is forever lost, both to you and your community.

HE STOOD IT LIKE A MAN.

He went down to the dentist's to have a tooth pulled out,
And he stood it like a man.
The dentist went to punching,
To gouging and to hunching,
While the forceps kept a-crunching,
And he stood it like a man.

He had a spell of sickness that kept him in the house,
And he stood it like a man.
He felt all sorts of turnings
Of his insides, likewise burnings
Of his brain and painful churnings,
And he stood it like a man.

He got up in the middle of the midnight with his twins,
And he stood it like a man.
There was absence of chloric,
And his words weren't metaphoric
As he gave them paregoric,
And he stood it like a man.

He went to do some shopping with his wife one busy day,
And he stood it like a man.
He went to forty places,
Sampled silks and furs and laces,
Till he laid down in the traces,
And he stood it like a man.

They Remembered Him.

A circumstance happened in connection with the failure in business of a well known inhabitant of Yorkshire which caused much amusement. The bankrupt was asked the momentous question, "What are you prepared to offer?" and in reply stated that he had no assets whatever.

"What is there now, Joe?" asked a jolly looking creditor.

"Nothing," replied the bankrupt.

"Well, you can sing. Come, sing us a song."

Joe fumbled with his hat and said he hardly liked to sing.

"Come, strike up," exclaimed the creditor; "let's have something for our brass." Thus urged, Joe cleared his throat and began the ballad "And You'll Remember Me." As the plaintive melody fell on the ears of the creditors some of them began to feel indignant, but the humor of the situation at length burst upon them, and the final line was greeted with roars of laughter. —London Judy.

A Fish With a Rubber Corset.

Forest and Stream speaks of a curious find in the Cape Ann fish market at Gloucester, Mass. It was nothing less than a mackerel with a rubber band around the body. The band had been put on the fish when quite small and staid there in spite of the rapid growth of the wearer. The fish's body under the band did not grow, which caused a depression in the full grown body of about 3 inches in depth. The depression was covered with a healthy skin in no way unlike that on the rest of the body. The fish measured in length 14 inches, diameter of body each side of the depression, 7¾ inches; diameter of depression, 5 inches. The fish was undoubtedly in a healthy condition, and the band was sound and could be stretched like any other band.

Standing by the Women.

Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch writes to the Illinois Suffragist:

The Illinois supreme court is still standing by women's right to vote at school elections, as is evidenced by their recent decision of Ackerman versus Haenck et al. "It is claimed that 600 women were allowed to vote. Under the law as declared by this court in Plummer versus Yost, 144 Illinois, 68, the women who voted for members of the board of education and president of the board were qualified voters." My congratulations to the 600 women suffragists in Spring Valley, where this contest arose.

Earthquakes.

There has been much dispute as to the causes of earthquakes. They are often associated with volcanic phenomena. When the lava of a volcano contains much water, the latter is converted into steam and produces explosions which jar the ground for miles. The explosion of the great mine at Hell Gate, in New York, occasioned tremblings of the earth which were observed 175 miles away. —Washington Star.

Used Up the Alphabet.

A Toronto man has gone through the alphabet naming his nine children, beginning with Alice Beatrice Caroline and ending with Xerxes Yorick Zenith. All nine are living, and the oldest is only 14 years old, but there is one pair of twins in the list, which used up six letters of the alphabet. The children are easily nicknamed by calling their initials for short.—Toronto Empire.

Two Quotations.

This quotation appears on the bedroom door in a south Lancaster (England) hotel, "I will lay me down in peace and take my rest, for it is thou, Lord, only that makest me to dwell in safety." Below which the proprietor has penned, "Owing to the frequency of hotel robberies, you are requested to bolt your door."—London Globe.

M. Dufosse, a French savant, declares that fishes can talk. They can, he declares, produce certain sounds at will by the vibration of certain specially designed muscles. These vibrations are caused by a little air bladder, which is alternately distended and exhausted.

Quito, in Ecuador, though on the line of the equator, has a mean temperature the year round but little different from that of Boston, owing to its elevation, says a writer in Goldthwaite's Magazine.

The idea of the balloon first occurred to the Montgolfier brothers from seeing a large piece of paper fall over the fire, become inflated with smoke and hot air, rise and sail away.

Every man has within himself the germ of a noble life, if he will but pull up the weeds and let the showers and sunshine have a chance.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W, Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

My Pillow.

Sweet Pillow, take me to your breast.
None other hath my soul confessed
So oft, nor ever kept so true
The confidence reposed as you—
My Pillow!

What dreams of fame, that never came;
What dawns of love, no day fulfilled;
What boundless dower of wealth and power
Have stirred you as my bosom thrilled—
My Pillow!

When storm and stress my soul have rent;
When courage, love and life seemed spent;
To you alone, tried friend and leal,
Could I in doubt and darkness steal—
My Pillow!

But storm and woe no more I know,
Nor rosy dawns seem mockery,
When far I sail one snowy sail,
That bears new life, new love to me—
My Pillow!

Since now within your inmost fold
A whispered secret soft you hold,
So holy that I scarce may dare
Remember how I breathed it there—
My Pillow!

Without a name the rapture came;
Dear heaven bent low and touched my life;
What heart reveals the awe it feels
When motherhood first crowns a wife—
My Pillow!

Northampton Badly Scorched.

A Serious Charge.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 28.—Calvin Bartram, aged 15, has been arrested here, charged with causing the death of Jennie Fallon, aged 6. The boy, it is alleged, attempted an assault upon the little girl, who ran and fell dead soon after. Her death, it is claimed, was due to fright.

Greece Shaken by Earthquakes.

LONDON, March 28.—An Athens dispatch to The Standard says that violent earthquakes have occurred in various parts of Greece. The dispatch makes no mention of the loss of life or property damage.

Our Literary Conquest In England.

A little book is to be published here on "First Editions of American Authors." From this one may fairly assume that the popularity of transatlantic writers in England is now considerable. Not very many years ago Longfellow, Poe, Emerson, Hawthorne, Lowell, Mark Twain, Artemus Ward and Josh Billings were almost all the American authors in whom the British public took any interest. How different is the situation now! American books swarm in our literary markets, and their authors, like so many Englishmen and women, have a reputation on both sides of the Atlantic. Every day the rapprochement between the two great literatures and the two great reading publics grows closer and closer.—London Figaro.

BLAND'S SILVER BILL

The President Likely to Take Action on It Immediately.

THE SILVERITES DISHEARTENED

Over the Prospects of the President's Veto.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Seven of the 10 days allowed by the constitution for the consideration by the executive of a bill have passed since the seigniorage bill was laid before President Cleveland, and still there has been no action upon the measure.

It had been assumed in certain quarters that the president had made up his mind what disposition he should make of the bill, and would announce his decision to his cabinet yesterday. If he did, the fact cannot be learned, and indeed two members of the cabinet, after the meeting, which was shorter than usual, stated that they were even then ignorant of the president's intention.

Senator Ransom and Representatives Henderson, Tracey and Kilgore called at the White House before the cabinet met, but were unable to see the president. The Texas congressman is one of the hopeful silver men, and still believes that the president will sign the bill or allow it to become a law without his signature.

All talk of dissension in the cabinet over this bill has practically ceased, for it has been made clear that throughout the pendency of the bill at the White House the president has shown the greatest consideration for the opinions of his constituents and advisers, and the pleasant cordial relations that prevail between them is absolute proof of lack of foundation for talk of the resignations by members of the cabinet.

Silverites Lose Heart.

The silver men have abandoned all hope that the president will approve the seigniorage bill. It is accepted on all sides that the bill will be returned to the house with a message in which the objections of the president will be given. Such has been the prevailing belief from the start. It is looked for in the house today. The silver men take consolation in the belief that the president does not intend in his veto message to denounce the measure in strong language, but will indicate that certain changes might be made under which he would approve the bill.

From the talk of the president with senators and representatives who have called upon him in regard to the matter, it is believed he will rest his veto on the ambiguity of the measure, which was one of the objections raised to it in congress, and that he will further express his disapproval of retiring the treasury notes by the issue of silver certificates, without providing some measure to strengthen the gold reserve in the treasury. The president has repeatedly said that he feared that that provision of the bill would cause a run on the treasury for gold.

Canada's Tariff.

OTTAWA, March 28.—Minister of Finance Foster commenced the delivery of the budget speech in the Dominion house of commons yesterday. The keenest interest was manifested. The first part of the speech was a general review of trade conditions. The speaker then outlined Canada's revenue and expenditure for the current and coming year and finally detailed the proposed tariff changes.

Held For Trial.

CHARLESTON, Me., March 28.—Stillman Laurie was held in $1000 for enticing a young girl from her father's home. Laurie told the girl that his mother sent him to engage her, offering her $3 a week. He then took her to a deserted house in a swamp and kept her all night. She escaped next morning and tramped 10 miles through snow to her father's house.

In the Kanuck's Favor.

NEW ORLEANS, March 28.—The 21 round fight between McClelland of Toronto and Shaw of New Orleans, wound up in the fourth round in McClelland's favor. This nearly precipitated a row. The police interfered and took the participants to jail. The men fought at 125 pounds. The slugging was terrible while it lasted.

AFFAIRS IN BRAZIL.

Peixoto Has Not Issued the Decree Concerning Martial Law.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 28.—Great pains have been taken to learn if there was any basis of truth in the report cabled to the United States in regard to the revival by President Peixoto of the imperial decrees of 1838 and 1851, which relate to the treatment to be accorded all persons, native or foreigners, who in any way aided or abetted a revolt against the government.

Had President Peixoto issued such a decree, the general public would have been fully aware of the fact, and the matter would certainly have caused much discussion among the foreign residents. No one here knows anything about a revival of the imperial decrees.

Inquiry at the various government offices elicited the information that President Peixoto had not issued any decree ordering such revival. The belief was expressed that some correspondent had confounded the decree extending the time in which martial law would be enforced, and providing for trial by military law of those taken in arms against the government, or otherwise illegally seeking to overthrow the federal authorities, with the old imperial decrees.

It can be positively said that no decree has ever been issued by President Peixoto ordering executions without the forms of trial. The martial law decree was in no sense a revival of the imperial decrees.

A general southward movement of the government troops in the state of Sao Paulo is announced. It is believed that the rebels are retreating. An afternoon paper declares that General Saraiva has fled to Uruguay. The defeat of General Salgado is confirmed.

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS.

Great Secrecy Maintained Concerning Admiral Walker's Movements.

WASHINGTON, March 28. —Admiral Walker has finally received his instructions, and expects to leave for San Francisco today. The naval regulations prohibit any public discussion of such orders by the recipient, and Secretary Herbert declines to indicate their nature.

All that is known is that the admiral will go direct to Honolulu by the steamer of April 5, unless some contingency arises before that date. At Honolulu, Admiral Walker will be in command of all of the United States naval forces in the eastern Pacific ocean, and if it should be necessary for him to take personal command of the vessels, which will patrol the seal waters, he probably could reach the scene of operations within two weeks after notice.

Both of the parties to the Behring sea arbitration are of the opinion that the few matters requiring to be adjusted between them can be disposed of within the next week, and if this be the case, Admiral Walker probably will be able before the date set for his sailing to get an accurate understanding of what is necessary to be done by our naval forces in the seal waters.

Indeed, if the conditions seem to warrant such a course, it will be possible to change the admiral's orders and send him northward to Behring sea instead of to Hawaii.

WOOD PULP SILK.

Chardomet's Discovery Perfected and a Mill Started In France.

An experiment is being made at Besancon, in France, with a substitute for silk, which will be watched with interest. The invention, that of Count de Chardomet, is to convert wood pulp into soft silken thread, durable, luminous and elastic. The "silk" threads produced from the wood pulp were first shown at the last Paris exhibition, when they enjoyed a good deal of attention among those interested in the silk industry. But the process was at that time far from complete, and many improvements had to be made before the invention could be regarded as a commercial success.

That point, in the opinion of Count de Chardomet, has now been reached, and a mill has been built for the manufacture of goods from the new material. There are still some details in the process which must be improved before capitalists are likely to embark in the venture. One of the great difficulties, it appears, that has to be overcome is the snapping of the threads while they are being spun, owing to the unequal pressure which is exercised in forcing the wood pulp through an exceedingly small aperture, so as to convert it into thread. This is a defect, however, which the inventor is confident he will soon overcome. After the wood has been reduced to the consistency of pulp it is dried in an oven and then plunged into a mixture of sulphuric and nitric acids, washed in several baths of water and dried by alcohol. The product is afterward dissolved in ether and pure alcohol, and the result is collodion similar to that used in photography.

This collodion, which is a sticky, viscous substance, is inclosed in a solid receptacle furnished with a filter at the lower end. An air pump sends compressed air into the receptacle, and by this pressure the collodion is forced through horizontally in the form of fine threads. As the thread is forced out it passes through a vessel filled with ether and alcohol, which solidifies the collodion and makes it elastic and as brilliant as silk. If the invention turns out as successfully as its inventor anticipates, it will be the beginning of a very important industry.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

MISS HATCH'S CURE.

She Thinks It Was Due to Supernatural Influence, but the Doctor Says Not.

Miss Mary Hatch, a young woman of excellent family, who lives with her mother at 1912 Hickory street, is rejoicing in her recent relief from a tumor which had made her miserable for seven years. She attributes her cure to the virtues of a relic of Mme. Barat, a French religieuse of the Order of the Sacred Heart. Miss Hatch had taken medical treatment without benefit and had finally come to despair of cure by other than surgical means.

Some one advised her to apply to the Sisters of the Sacred Heart for a relic that might, with faith and prayer, help to sustain her through such an operation. She did so and was told that her cure by supernatural means was not impossible. She received from the mother superior a relic of Mme. Barat and a form of prayer and was directed to sew the relic into her dress and repeat the prayer at frequent intervals for a term of nine days.

On the sixth day of the novena Miss Hatch was relieved of the tumor without other than natural assistance and since then has been rapidly recovering strength. She was seen by a representative of The Post-Dispatch and talked enthusiastically of her cure, ascribing it entirely to the virtues of faith and prayer and the relic. Her mother and the Sisters of the Sacred Heart hold the same opinion as to the cause of the cure.

Dr. Robert J. O'Reilly, who gave Miss Hatch some attention at different times, said: "I believe I saw Miss Hatch four times and prescribed for her. But I had not seen her since June up to the time of her delivery of the tumor. I considered the tumor a simple fleshy growth that might pass off of itself if let alone, and I did not at any time consider the young woman's condition critical. I hesitated, however, to make a thorough examination for reasons that medical men will appreciate. You may put me down as saying that I do not think there was anything supernatural about this cure."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Spring Medicine.

This is the time for spring medicine, and there is nothing better than green foods. Celery salad, celery soup, celery sandwiches and celery and salt for nerves, rheumatism and relish; lettuce, chicory, escarol, oranges and grape fruit for the blood; water cresses for the voice, breath and lungs; radishes, onions, shallot and chives for the stomach, and butter, smoked meats, eggs, fish and oysters for good digestion. Pickles, olives, spices, pastry and fresh meats are too heavy when a change of diet is in order. Green soups are as real aperients, and young beets, spinach and stewed cucumbers and tomatoes are remedial for a long list of digestive ailments. At least so the doctors say.—New York World.

Opals For Bird Ballast.

E. E. Van Dyke informs us that he has killed a number of blue grouse from time to time in the region of Crandle creek and that in the crop of the birds he has found opals. It is thought by Mr. Van Dyke that the birds pick up these opals in the Bad Lands in the vicinity of Red Lodge and use the precious stones for ballast. The opals found in the crop of the mountain grouse are of fine character and of variegated colors.—Red Lodge (N. D.) New Idea.

Crowding the Hard Times.

Mrs. David Rosenberger, the wife of a farmer near Kittanning, Pa., has just given birth to five babies, three boys and two girls, all of whom are alive and well. "I thought," says the surprised father, "that we were coming to a time of astonishing pluralities when they began to count up the vote for Grow a few weeks ago. But, oh, my! I didn't look for anything like this—hard times and five babies at once!"—New York Tribune.

VIEWS OF M'KINLEY.

Says the Voters Realize Their "Mistake" of a Short Time Ago.

HE CRITICIZES THE WILSON BILL

And Professes to Find No Good Points In It.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 29.—Upon Governor McKinley and party's arrival here they were met by 600 cadets of the State university and the University Republican club. The party were escorted to the West Hotel, where 4000 people had assembled. A quartet sang "All Hail," expressing the sentiment, "McKinley Leads; We Follow Thee," after which the governor was introduced by President Goodnow.

He directed his remarks principally to the students, and declared that it was to the young men of the country that all parties must look. He declared that the people of the country never wanted to vote, in all their history, as they did now.

The governor afterward made an address at the exposition building, where the state league of Republican clubs was in session. He said that nobody could tell what was going to happen, and nobody knew what the Democratic congress would do. He then talked about the principles of protection.

Later in the day he was driven to some of the public institutions, and made an address to the pupils of the Central high school.

In the evening he made an address at the exposition building, which was packed to overflowing.

A Talk on Politics.

Governor Nelson presided, and after a few preliminary remarks, introduced Governor McKinley, who was received with a storm of applause. The governor began his speech by declaring his belief that the people who rejected the Republican platform and candidates, presented in that same building in 1892, now feel most sensibly, and regret most deeply their great "mistake." Continuing, he said:

"The past year has been a hard one; everybody and everything had suffered except Republican high tariff principles and the Republican party, but they 'shine more brightly and gloriously than ever before.' The principles proclaimed in 1892, like all Republican doctrines, are unchangeable; 'upon them the Republican party basis its claim to future supremacy,' and it impatiently awaits the next national election."

"For the Democrats are demoralized; they have not redeemed a single party pledge; they have been responsible for the business depression in the past year, and through the Wilson bill they threaten to make matters still worse."

The governor then reviewed at some length the history of the tariff legislation in this country, paying particular attention to the early protectionist sentiment in the south and the gradual growth there of the free trade idea, his special purpose appearing to be to furnish an opportunity for the very remarkable statement that now slavery is dead "The interests of one section of our common country are exactly identical with the interests of every other."

"The Wilson bill is not like any of the early tariff measures, but is one in which the changed condition of the country and its marvellous growth and development, are utterly ignored and forgotten. It is for the plantation, not for the farm and factory.

Sharp Criticism.

"I have looked with some degree of care through that bill. I find nothing but irritation and aggravation to the great industries of the country. No interest suffers by it more severely than agriculture, and labor of all kinds seems to have been singled out as its foremost victim. I have examined it carefully to find some section, paragragh, clause or line removing the great burden of tariff taxes from the shoulders of the people, about which we have heard so much for so many years, from the Democratic orators and have read so frequently in the Democratic newspapers and platforms, but I have been unsuccessful in finding any such provision.

"It is true that sugar, an article of prime necessity to every household, and which the law of 1890 made free to the people, has been tariffed at from 1 to 1 4-10 per cent a pound, every cent of which will be paid by the consumers of the United States."

After this interesting confession that there is, after all, one article upon which the "foreign producers" does not "pay the tax," or perhaps, because of it, Governor McKinley made the still more interesting announcement that sugar is one of the things which "We do not ourselves produce," although he favors a sugar bounty as "An encouragement to native industry."

"To my mind," he said, "another hurtful provision of the Wilson bill, entirely unwarranted by experience and unjustifiable of wise international policy, is that which repeals the reciprocity clause," and he quoted figures to show how greatly our exports, and particularly of agricultural products, have increased under the provision of this law.

Better Times at Hand.

NEW HAVEN, March 29.—The mills and factories in the state are increasing their time schedules. The Winsted silk mill began running 13 hours a day yesterday, and the mill hands expect to work overtime for several weeks to come. The Ansonia Brass and Copper company, Wallace & Sons, and the Farrell Foundry and Machine company, employing about 3000 hands, are running on full time.

TWO BAD MEN

Give Testimony Which Is Decidedly Discreditable to Themselves.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The surprise of the Pollard-Breckinridge trial yesterday was the unexpected appearance of one of Miss Pollard's old lovers, Rankin Rossell, a Kentucky schoolmaster. His deposition had been read in the case, but to make his testimony doubly sure, the ex-fiance was introduced in person, and no sooner had he taken the stand, than Madeline Pollard glided in for the first time this week.

Most of the testimony yesterday was in the form of depositions, and much of it was of a character which can only be published in expurgated form. Those despositions, regarding which Judge Bradley had expressed his regrets that they could not be excluded on general principles, were recited, and the justification for the scathing comments on them was self-evident. Some of the language employed by Hiram Kaufman, a Lexington butcher, and John Brandt, a janitor from the same place, would hardly be tolerated in a well regulated barroom.

These gentlemen admitted in a matter-of-fact way their tendencies toward habitual drunkenness and marital infidelity, and the court admitted their statements unexpurgated, as he remarked in conversation that the jury might judge of the character of the witnesses.

Colonel Breckinridge's private secretary was one witness of the day, and another was Colonel Hay, an expert on penmanship, who was subjected to further cross-examination upon the principles employed in detecting forgeries under the suggestion of another expert, who sat at Attorney Wilson's elbow.

From the addition of this new expert into the case it looks as though a hard fight had been precipitated over the authenticity of that black bordered letter.

The case of the defense will draw to a close, with the appearance of Colonel Breckinridge, whose testimony is expected to occupy at least three days, as long a time as Madeline Pollard was on the stand.

Then there will be rebuttal for an indefinite length, as Miss Pollard will take the stand again, and witnesses have been summoned from Kentucky.

A SWEEPING CHALLENGE.

Edgerton Will Fight Any Man In the World at 118 Pounds.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The Kentucky Rosebud (Walter Edgerton) arrived in New York yesterday, with his manager and backer, Jimmy McHale. The boxer issued the following challenge:

"Seeing that George Dixon, the featherweight champion, denies that he was knocked out by me when we boxed in Philadelphia on March 24, I wish to state that he was out, for he was unconscious for nearly five minutes, and 10 minutes elapsed before the third round commenced. I could have knocked him out in the third round, but my backer, James McHale, would not allow me to do so.

"Now to settle the question, I will fight George Dixon at 118 pounds for $2500 to $5000 a side and the featherweight championship of the world, and I will be ready to meet Dixon and his backer at The Police Gazette office on Wednesday, April 4, at 11 a. m., to post a deposit and sign articles. if O'Rourke accepts this challenge."

"Should O'Rourke not accept, I shall claim the featherweight championship, and stand ready to fight any man in the world at 118 pounds for $2500 to $5000 a side and the title."

FIGHT STILL WAGES.

New Bedford Toilers Are Called Scabs and Knobsticks.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 29.—The strike at the Wamsutta mills is growing more serious daily. The presence of police at mill gates has aroused the indignation of all operatives, and exciting scenes have taken place the past few days. When the mills closed last night a crowd of strikers, armed with red flags, bearing the words "Scab" and "Knobstick," surrounded the gates and flaunted provoking signs in the faces of non-union men. No violence was attempted, however, as the police were on the alert. It is feared that a riot may take place unless the police are withdrawn. The strikers have issued an appeal to the public for help. There are no signs of a settlement of the difficulty.

A Bold Robbery.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 29. — A through freight train on the Boston and Albany railroad was suddenly stopped by the application of the air brakes by unknown parties about three miles west of Springfield late last night. One of the cars had been occupied by robbers, who had opened several cases filled with shoes, and after securing sufficient booty had stopped the train and escaped in the darkness.

Mrs. Foster Is Hopeful.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Mrs. J. Ellen Foster was at the Capitol yesterday, trying to arrange with the senate committee on finance for a hearing for the delegation of wage-earning women, who are here to protest against the tariff bill. She expressed the belief that she would obtain the hearing desired before leaving Washington.

Victim of Cigarets.

NEW HAVEN, March 29.—Dr. George F. Peterson, one of the best-known dentists in the city and a leader in New Haven society, was taken to the state insane retreat at Middletown yesterday. He is suffering from insanity, and his condition is due to cigaret smoking.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Representative Pigott has introducbd a bill providing that any person in the service of the United States receiving anonymous letters, shall at once destroy them without revealing their contents.

Strikers Give It Up.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., March 29.—The strikers in the Astoria silk works have returned to work at old wages, and all the looms in the mills are in operation.

At Par.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The directors of the Delaware and Hudson railroad have decided to issue the new $5,000,000 of stocks to stockholders at par.

MANY NEW RECRUITS

Are Added to Coxey's Army During Its Stay In an Ohio Town.

THE SICK LIST GROWS LONGER.

Food and Exposure to Cold the Reason Assigned.

SALEM, O., March 29.—Salem has treated the Coxey commonweal most generously, by supplying food and shelter and recruits. The quality of these contributions of men and things was of the highest. The leaders are more hopeful in their talk than ever.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the army filed into the town, 79 strong. Mayor Northrup provided two halls—Kauffman's armory and the Federation of Labor hall—as sleeping quarters. Quantities of food, such as coffee, bread, meat, sandwiches and 10 dozen boiled eggs, had been prepared by a committee of citizens, and this was turned over to Marshal Browne. Camp Anna Diggs was a vacant lot near the depot, donated by a prominent man for the purpose. In a miserable sleet storm the army camped and was fed.

Carl Browne held a crowded meeting in the Opera House at 7 o'clock. Sixteen recruits enlisted and joined immediately after camp was reached. Two are cooks, and were hailed as acquisitions. One walked from Ashtabula in four days. Another came from Connecticut and two from Alliance. Three men are sick under Dr. Kirkland's care. The food and exposure to the cold are responsible.

Browne was informed here that 200 striking potters at East Liverpool would join the army. A late start was ordered, as the march from Alliance was trying. Camp Trenton, at Columbiana, is where Coxey expects to meet the commonweal.

A Band For the Army.

PITTSBURG, March 29. — The steamer Hudson, from Cincinnati, had on board a small detachment of the forces of the commonweal army. It consisted of 10 men, 17 horses and eight wagons. The Coxeyites, with their horses and wagons, were taken at Bellaire, O. They expect to join the commonweal army at East Palestine or Beaver Falls.

A large military band is being organized in ward 15. Burke is at the head of the enterprise and expects to have a complete, fully-equipped band ready to meet Coxey when he reaches this city. The band is to march out to meet Coxey's army, when it will return with him to Pittsburg and then accompany the commonweal to the capital.

At the Washington End.

WASHINGTON, March 29. — The headquarters of the Washington contingent of the Coxey commonweal has not thus far presented any busy scene, though Colonel Redstone insists that most of the unemployed in this city are interested in the movement. According to a statement made by the local representatives, 205 groups of recruits, ranging from five to 15 men each, have already been organized. Colonel Redstone complains that newspapers are misrepresenting the movement.

Coxey Visits Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Jacob S. Coxey reached Chicago yesterday, and spent considerable time at the stockyards. Mr. Coxey, it was said, came to Chicago mainly to look after an interest he had in a consignment of horses offered for sale at the stockyards.

Coxey's horses brought but $450, while he had expected not less than $1000, and with this for a cue he certainly scored existing conditions. He charged the hard times to a "lack of money." This evil, he said, he proposed to remedy by compelling a government issue of $500,000,000.

Coxey's Chicago lieutenant, Albert Mason, claims that he will leave for the east Saturday with 5000 men. At present the 5000 is represented by a foregoing shadow, consisting of 21 men.

A Plain Statement.

DALLAS, March 29. — Governor Hogg telegraphed the following to The Times-Herald: "You can truthfully say that neither the cormorant nor the commune can disgrace Texas while I am governor. When a railroad company hauls tramps or unemployed penniless men into this state, it cannot dump them in a barren desert, and murder them by torture and starvation without atoning for it, if there is any virtue in our machinery of justice."

Weavers Are Dissatisfied.

PROVIDENCE, March 29.—The weavers of the Riverside mill made a peaceful protest against the two-loom system just before the closing hour last night. They stated that while they were opposed to a strike, they were prepared to undertake just such an aggressive course if the system was continued. Superintendent Ward refused to accede to any of the requests, but promised to refer the matter to the board of directors.

Law May Be Changed.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The board of health will consider the advisability of having the law changed, so as to make it a misdemeanor to fail to file within a specified period all certificates of marriages performed by ministers, etc. The reason for this is the failure on the part of Dr. Paxton to file the certificate of marriage of Colonel Breckinridge to Mrs. Wing.

A "Smoker" at the Capitol.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The paper in the waste room in the terrace of the senate and chamber of the Capitol, caught fire yesterday afternoon and filled the corridors and the senate chamber with dense smoke. It is supposed to have been occasioned by some one throwing a burning match into the mass of paper. Very little damage was done.

—A poet sent to an editor a contribution entitled "Why do I live?" The editor answered, "Because you sent your contribution by post instead of bringing it."

Just a bit early to do it, perhaps, but not to plan for it.

When you get fairly at it you will certainly want a new carpet or two, or some rugs—in a hurry.

Better have them ready, so as not to be delayed. You can make selections now, and we will hold the carpets until you say the word; then they can be laid at a day's notice—or even less.

AN OPEN LETTER

— FROM —

BILLINGS, KING & CO.

DON'T WEAR OUT.

The wearing quality of paint depends largely on the quality and quantity of Pure Linseed Oil (not Water, not Benzine, not Petroleum, not Rosin Oil—please remember), that enters into its composition. The paint manufacturer may employ the best and finest pigments, but he is not so particular about the use of an absolutely Pure Linseed Oil. Neither are many of the jobbers over the country particularly anxious to sell a Pure Linseed Oil, for a better profit is made by selling the adulterated article.

A BAD MISTAKE.

Some jobbers (not well posted) recommend—and often times conscientiously—the use of paste paint and the purchase of oil to use with it, unmindful of the great risk to the consumer.

CONSIDER TRUE ECONOMY.

We urge the use of our Strictly Pure Linseed Oil Paint ready for use, because we can guarantee the quality AS A WHOLE, and, what is also very essential, guarantee that the best coloring material is the only kind used, and that it is mixed and ground so thoroughly with the base as to insure a non-fading paint. It possibly costs per gallon a little more money than paint compounded from cheap raw material, but a gallon of our paint covers from 15 to 20 per cent. more surface and takes less labor to apply it. Hence we say it is cheapest, and you certainly have the assurance of having your buildings painted with a first-class article.

CHALKS OFF. WHY SHOULDN'T IT?

White lead will surely chalk off after a few months' exposure, and even this article—like other forms of paste paint—may not be pure so far as the pigment is concerned; added to this may exist the fact that it is not always ground in pure oil, for oftentimes paste paints are offered to the consumer at a price per pound less than Pure Linseed Oil sells for at the lowest market price (estimating a gallon of Oil to weigh 7½ pounds). Add to this the risk when purchasing Oil, as also the risk incident to the unscientific use of strong dryers which burn up the life and body of the oil, and you will form some idea of the chances you take of getting a reliable mixture for your buildings when you use any kind of paste paint.

BY THE PEOPLE,

THE ADULTERATION OF OIL IS NOT EASILY DETECTED.

THE PROPER PROPORTION OF DRYERS TO BE ADDED TO EACH GALLON OF PAINT IS NOT THOROUGHLY UNDERSTOOD.

COMMON SENSE.

We believe we present here briefly the most convincing reasons why our paint should be used, and why the use of White Lead and other forms of paste paint should be discouraged. How much more reliable must a ready made product be, when bearing the name and brand of a reputable manufacturer, who, having compounded it with care and with a knowledge of the essentials that go to make a first-class paint, practically guarantees the quality of each package.

BRAINS AND THRIFT.

We aim to have our Paint on sale with one reputable dealer in every city and town.

Y. M. C. A. EXHIBITION.

Many Pleased with the Good Work of the Physical Department.

There was a very fair attendance at the gymnasium exhibition of the Y. M. C. A. boys at Hancock hall Wednesday evening, but it would have been much larger had it been well advertised in the newspapers. The programme was varied and interesting and showed the result of good teaching and care by Dr. Johnson, the physical director.

The dumb bell drill was in good time and brought all the muscles into play. The horizontal bar work and vaulting was difficult, but accomplished with apparent ease. The parallel bar work was novel and entertaining, and the pyramid thereon made quite a tableau.

The juniors followed with some lively work on the German horse. The most difficult feats of the evening were the tumbling by Messrs. Donovan, Anderson and Birney, who gave exhibition of strength in various ways. D. E. Donovan did excellent work with Indian clubs and responded to an encore.

But the clown should not be overlooked. He appeared in most of the numbers and made fun, particularly for the boys. Had he been inclined he could have given some fancy work at which he is an expert. Mr. Hardy is instructor in the Salem gymnasium, and the part of a clown is something new for him. He gave two stump speeches during the evening.

The juniors opened part two with an original wand drill well executed, and the seniors gave an exhibition of high kicking, Donovan excelling with 7 feet, 10 inches to his credit. The elephant was no obstacle for the seniors and they jumped over him in various ways.

Another pyramid followed and then a lively dumb bell race won by Peverly, and some more lively mat work, concluding with a floor pyramid.

Those participating were given a surprise at the close, when refreshments were served at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

AT WOLLASTON.

The Musicale in Aid of the New St. Chrysostom Mission.

A delightful musicale was given at the residence of Miss Carrie Raymond Lord of Wollaston on Monday evening, in aid of St. Chrysostom's mission. The affair was a great success from a musical point of view as well as financially. The programme:

March, Schubert
Miss Lord and Miss Nellie Lord.
Violin solo, Lange
Miss Edith Olney.
Song, Gounod
Miss Spear.
Nocturn, Chapin
Mr. Sibley.
Song, Keller
Mr. Lord.
a. Romance, Schumann
b. Minuet, Paderewski
Mr. Sprague.
Song, Nevin
Miss Briggs.
"Intermezzo Sonfonica," from Cavalleria Rusticana, Mascagni
Miss Bjorkman, Miss Grace Lord,
Mr. Dickey.
Song, Schubert
Miss Spear.

Another Artist.

Mr. Charles Hayden, the popular fireman from Ward Three, employed by Swithin Bros., received an ovation at his work Wednesday, by his fellow employes, on account of his great success as a soloist in his first public appearance at the St. John's C. L. & A. A. annual entertainment, held at their hall Easter Monday night.

By special request and permission of the firm, Mr. Hayden rendered in his best manner three of the latest songs, and the round of applause that greeted him at the final selection was something that he will remember with pleasure for sometime to come.

Mr. Hayden says part of his success Monday night was due to the inspiration received from the accompanist, his young son, who inherits his father's love for music.

Eighty-first Birthday.

Mrs. Sophia Lovell of North Weymouth celebrated her eighty-first birthday anniversary Wednesday by a gathering of her children and grandchildren at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John S. Gay on Newcomb place, this city. Mrs. Lovell enjoys good health and is remarkably smart for one of her age, and entered into the festivities of the gathering with a spirit that gave one an idea that she was in the prime of life and that she was just as young as she used to be.

REVIEW CONTINUED.

Reports of the Fire and Water Departments.

IN THE ANNUAL CITY BOOK.

Also the Library, Academy, Woodward Institute Liquor Officer, Etc., Etc.

The review of the City Book of 1893 begun in yesterday's LEDGER is continued below.

The Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library report 74,207 volumes to have been loaned in 1893, against 72,644 in 1892. The percentage of fiction was 32.9 against 34.4 in 1892. The largest gain was in periodicals loaned. During the year 290 books were added. On the 11th of March 685 volumes were issued being the greatest number in any one day since the library was opened.

The use of the three funds connected with the library is defined. They are the Cotton Center Johnson fund, the Crane fund, and the Catalogue fund. The purpose of the trustees to make it a people's library rather than a library of reference is set forth, and also the needs of a new catalogue.

The report of the Managers of Adams Academy speaks of the change of principal, the boarding school, number of pupils, tuition, graduates, etc.

Liquor Officer McGrath says, "During the past year I have used my best efforts to suppress the sale of intoxicating liquors in this city, and I believe that I can again safely say that there is less liquor sold here than in any other city or town of its size in the state. The trade is such that the common mode of treatment for other crimes is not applicable to this business. Hard work is necessary, and the suppression of the liquor traffic requires the ever watchful eye to keep it in subjection. As I remarked in my last report, I believe that a liberal expenditure of money in the future, to continue the fight, is better than allowing the traffic to branch out, when the expense will be four fold to again conquer it."

A report in detail of the liquor officer then follows.

Fire Department.

The report of Chief Engineer Ripley is prolific in recommendations. Aside from repairs he advocates a new hose wagon to replace the one at Quincy Point, which he would remove to the central station; a chemical engine to be located in the vicinity of City Hall, with permanent horses and men; two new steamers, one at West Quincy and one at Norfolk Downs, with a ladder truck at the latter place; permanent horses and men generally; 1,000 feet of new hose; extension of water supply to Houghs Neck; new fire alarm boxes, and the dividing of number three circuit into two circuits; and a reduction of the number of engineers to three.

The fire loss of 1893 was $34,287.50, on which the insurance companies paid $21,412.50. In five years the loss has been $134,657.50, and the insurance paid, $61,883.00. There were in all 64 alarms, Thursday being the unlucky day with 17, against 9 for any other day, the most alarms were between 3 and 6 P. M. The date of appointment, resignation or discharge of the permanent force follows, also a list of fires, and a sketch of the Fireman's Relief Association.

The Water Department.

The Water Commissioners say:

"The rapid growth of the city and the additional demand for new extensions has increased work in all branches of the department. The amount of cast-iron pipe laid this year was 35,570 feet or 6.73 miles. Numerous petitions could not be answered on account of lack of funds available for this purpose. The appropriation now at our disposal will enable the Board to lay considerable pipe the coming season. 51 hydrants have been added this year and 275 new services put in. Total number of service connections, 1850, of which 91 are supplied by meter. 13 new stand pipes for the use of the street department have been added. Reference to the tables given in the report of the Superintendent, will show details of pipe laid, hydrants and gates set, also the average daily amount of water pumped each month. The increase during the summer months is largely due to street and lawn sprinklers. More economy in the manner of using water for the above purposes would materially lessen the pumping expenses. But few complaints have been received by the Board as to the quality of the water. In most cases these were probably due to the shutting off and turning on of the water incidental to the laying of new mains.

"There has been a large increase in the amount received from sale of water, the gross receipts for the year being $36,660.41. The total expended for maintenance account (exclusive of interest,) was $11,370.96, which deducted, leaves a balance received more than expended of $25,269.45. This increase in the income is due largely to the policy adopted by the Board of extending the mains. We estimate the probable gross receipts for the year 1894 at $40,000, and the amount required for maintenance $14,000, leaving a net income of about $26,000, or over 4 per cent. on the net cost of the plant to date. That the plant will be self-sustaining in the near future there is no question. The schedule rates charged for water are the same as used by the Quincy Water Company and are higher than those of most city supplies. The Board propose to make a moderate reduction in the schedule rates to take effect July 1, 1894."

The Commissioners believe more should be done to protect the water shed from pollution.

An abridged statement of the income and expenditures follows.

Superintendent Hall reports the supply of water to have been ample. The total

A $2,000 BURGLARY

An Unusually Successful Raid at East Weymouth.

DIAMONDS AND SEAL SKINS

And Other Valuable Property Taken, But no Cash Found.

Burglars were about East Weymouth Wednesday night and although it is only known at present that but one break was made, goods to the value of nearly $2,000 was carried off.

The place visited was that of Mrs. Leavitt Bates on Broad street, and entrance was made by turning the key in the back door. The time of the break is fixed as having been between twelve o'clock and daybreak, as a son of Mrs. Bates was out in the evening and did not arrive home until midnight.

An inventory taken this morning shows the articles missing to be two diamond rings, diamond ear rings, a seal skin cape, a gold watch, a quantity of silverware, and jewelry all to the value of nearly $2000.

There is no clew to the burglars.

There is a night officer on duty at East Weymouth until 2 o'clock and it is more than probable that the break was committed after that time.

LATER—The house of Mrs. J. Henry Clark on Lake street was also entered and thoroughly ransacked, but nothing is missing.

consumption for the year was 266,264,099 gallons, a daily average of 729,490 gallons. An increase of 127,556 over the daily average consumption of 1892. The maximum consumption was 1,322,522 gallons, August 3d, and the minumum consumption was 494,822 gallons, January 6th. A comparison of the daily average consumption with that of 1892 is given. The rainfall as measured at the pumping station was 40.55 inches.

The maintenance account shows $3,354.34 to have been spent for office expenses, $5,068.21 for pumping station expenses, $2,948.41 for reservoirs, standpipe, mains, hydrants, etc., with an unexpended balance of $769.04. The expeditures for construction were $51,382.17.

The analyses by months of the water is given in detail; also the extensions with size of pipe.

The summary of statistics contains a great many items of interest, which cannot well be condensed.

The population of the city is estimated at 20,000, and of the 14,000 on line of pipe, 10,546 are supplied with water. The gallons consumed per day per inhabitant is 36; per consumer, 69. The location of all the hydrants is given.

City Clerk Spear reported receipts from licenses and recording marriages to the amount of $637.70. There were 219 marriages, 375 deaths and 727 births. There were licensed 893 male dogs and 75 females, for which $2,161 were received.

The vote in detail at the State election and municipal election follows and will be appreciated for reference.

The Managers of the Woodward Fund and Property review the building of Institute and give the decision of the court in full on the interpretation of the will of Dr. Woodward the donor.

This brings the review up to the school reports, which completes the book, and will be reviewed in tomorrow's LEDGER.

THE WOODWARD.

The Directors Complete the Corps of Teachers—Minor Matters.

The board of directors of the Woodward Institute held their regular business meeting on Wednesday afternoon, at which Miss Sarah W. Lane was elected teacher of mathematics, Miss Charlotte F. Franklin of Middleton, Ct., teacher of science, and Miss Maude E. Rice of the Quincy School, Atlantic, instructor in music and general assistant.

The desks have arrived and will be set up in a few days.

Over 90 applications for admission have been received.

For the next three months there will be a preparatory class to train the younger pupils for the sixth grade of the fall term.

It is understood that preparations are being made by the ladies of Quincy, to give Miss Small and her assistants a reception.

Probably but little will be done in manual and physical training until the fall term.

The directors give this official list of the corps of instructors:

Principal,—Miss Carrie E. Small.
Classics,—Miss Edith H. Wilder.
English Literature and History,—Miss Frances C. Lance.
Mathematics,—Miss Sarah W. Lane.
Science,—Miss Charlotte F. Franklin.
Stenography, Typewriting and Telegraphy,—Miss Charlotte J. Burgess.
Music and general assistant,—Miss Maude E. Rice.

WEYMOUTH.

An attempt was made Wednesday to wreck the noon outward train at the crossing west of the Weymouth depot. A block of wood was so wedged in between the rails that had the train struck it, it would have thrown the locomotive off. Fortunately the block was discovered by the flagman just before the train was due. It is thought that the block was placed between the rails by some boys.

An account of the burglary last night will be found in another column.

The marriage of Mrs. Drussilla F. Litchfield of Scituate and Mr. George M. Davis of Weymouth took place Wednesday, Rev. William Hyde officiating. They will reside on Bryant avenue, Weymouth.

The entertainment consisted of piano solos by Miss Dinnie and Miss Adams, readings by Miss Burkett, guitar solo by Mr. Virgil Fuller and vocal solo by Miss A. W. Miller. Refreshments were served after the entertainment.

The death of Mr. Edwin A. Hill, a former resident of Quincy, occurred in Reading, Wednesday evening, where he published for a number of years the Reading Chronicle. During the war he was in the internal revenue service. He leaves a widow and two sons.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

A Nine-Hour Day and Other Labor Bills Brought Up.

BOSTON, March 29.—In the senate, ought not to pass was reported on bill to provide for labelling and marking goods, wares and merchandise manufactured by convicts in the penal institutions; a like report as to labelling reed or rattan furniture so manufactured.

Ought not to pass on bill to provide for the greater safety of railroad employes; leave to withdraw on petition for a repeal of the laws relating to the leasing and consolidation of railroads.

Leave to withdraw on a petition for a normal school in Orange.

Reference to the next general court on the petition for the laying out of Plum Island turnpike and bridge in Newbury and Newburyport, as a public highway.

The labor committee reported against a bill to amend the act relative to the employment of women and minors; against a bill which prohibits the employment of women and minors under the age of 18 from working more than 54 hours a week in manufacturing establishments.

The committe on labor reported a bill providing that nine hours shall constitute a legal day's work in all cases of employment, but providing that extra labor may be performed at extra compensation. The bill provides that no firm, corporation or manufacturing establishment, except street and steam railway companies and express companies, shall require employes to work more than nine hours in one day except when necessary to make repairs to prevent interruption of ordinary running of machinery, or when a different apportionment of the hours of labor is made for the sole purpose of making a shorter day's work for one day of the week, which may be done for a limited time. The bill also requires notices to be posted in all manufactories stating the number of hours which shall constitute a day's work.

The labor committee also reported a bill on the petition of J. M. Berry for a state loan of $3,000,000 to cities and towns of the commonwealth, to establish home building associations for the people, to be paid for in rent and owned by the occupants when the rent paid equals the cost of the buildings, without interest. Not more than $10,000 shall be loaned to any single association. The bill authorizes a state loan of $500,000.

The house passed to a third reading the bill relative to the appointment of first and second assistant assessers in Boston. The bill calls for the equal distribution of the appointments between the two leading political parties.

SCOOPS EVERYTHING.

A Railroad Deal of Decidedly High Commercial Importance.

CINCINNATI, March 29.—Trustworthy news has been received here from New York of one of the most gigantic deals in the history of American railroading. It is nothing less than that the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railway company has bought out the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway company. This is the deal that was consummated in New York yesterday.

This is the greatest north and south combinations ever made in the United States, links the Mississippi, Lake Michigan, Lake Huron, Lake Erie, the Kanawha region of West Virginia on the north with Meridian, Shreveport, New Orleans, Jacksonville, Atlanta, Birmingham, Knoxville, and Chattanooga on the south.

This system has two focal points, the main one at Cincinnati, and a very important, but minor one, at Chattanooga. The distances from Cincinnati the focus, to the main southern points are: To Chattanooga, 336 miles; to Meridian, 690 miles; to New Orleans, 826 miles; to Shreveport, 942 miles; to Brunswick, 1154 miles. A glance at the map will show the commercial importance of this deal.

The Monon being in the deal with the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, it gives the new system two new routes from Chicago to the gulf, one through Cincinnati and the other through Louisville, as well as the Bee line from Toledo, south, and a new route from St. Louis to Florida.

Called Him Crazy Pratt.

WEYMOUTH, Mass., March 29. — The story of Frank C. Pratt's efforts to obtain his discharge from the state farm at Bridgewater, where he is held for insanity, has attracted much attention in this town, where he is well known. Pratt was born at North Weymouth about 40 years ago, and has resided in town nearly all his life, with the exception of a term which he spent in Plymouth jail, and a year passed in a New York penitentiary, and a year or so in Marshfield. His father was the late General B. F. Pratt, who died in the Taunton insane asylum. Frank's insanity was not of a violent kind, being mostly a mania for securing horses and carriages not his own.

LAST NIGHT'S HOP.

An Enjoyable Party at Faxon Hall—Those Present.

A very successful dancing party was given at Faxon hall Wednesday evening under the auspices of Holmes' orchestra assisted by Miss M. Lizzie Furnald. The participants were for the most part young people, who as usual entered into the spirit of the evening with a fixed determination to enjoy themselves and make all others do the same. Each gentleman as he entered the hall was presented with a pretty button hole bouquet which served as an additional attraction to the charming young creatures. Owing to the many other attractions which were being held the same evening the attendance was not as large as might have been wished, yet there was enough for comfortable dancing. Reception to Pastor.

Rev. Walter Russell Breed, rector of Christ's church was given a reception Wednesday evening at the parish house. PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.
Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.
With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.
If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W. Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Don't Blame the World.

Don't blame the world because the thorns are found among the roses;
The day that breaks in storm may be all sunshine when it closes.
We cannot hope to always meet with fortune's fond caressing,
And that which seems most hard to bear will bring with all its blessing.

The buried seed must rot in earth ere it produce the flower,
And the weak plant to fructify must have both sun and shower.
So man, to gain development, must struggle with life's crosses
And view with calm philosophy his trials and his losses.

A deadly, poisonous weed may yield a salve of purest healing;
The sweetest bloom may poisonous be, although its bane concealing.
Things are not always what they seem, but still 'twas heaven designed them,
And we should class them all as good and take them as we find them.

Little we know of this brief life and nothing of its sequel;
Then let us take in humble trust all that may seem inequal.
God's ways are not our ways, and he certainly should be trusted.
All that is wrong in his good time will surely be adjusted

IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

Heyerman's Story of the Wreck of the Corvette Kearsarge.

HE KNEW DANGER EXISTED

And Did the Best He Could to Avert Disaster.

BROOKLYN, March 29.—The arguments of counsel and the written defense of Commander Heyerman of the United States corvette Kearsarge were presented yesterday to the general court-martial in the navy yard, before which he is on trial for culpable neglect of duty in the stranding of the corvette on Roncador reef, Lieutenant Commander Marx said that he had sent to the navy department for the records, to see if there were any complaints against Commander Heyerman, but the documents had not arrived.

Commander Heyerman, however, was willing to go ahead without them. He then presented his written defense. The paper was read by the accused commander's counsel. It consists of 60 typewritten pages, written in the first person. He began by saying that his having been accused of negligence in the accepted sense of the word was a complete surprise to him. Then he continued: "During the afternoon of Feb. 2 every moment of my time and nearly every thought in my mind was devoted to navigating the ship, and keeping her clear of the dangers I well knew to exist."

Commander Heyerman then made an analysis of the currents, in which he found the ship for two days previous to her stranding. He continued:

"It is easy now for every one to say that my calculations were wrong, for things happened which could not be foreseen nor expected, and naturally what might have been done can now be easily suggested. Yet I feel sure that every member of this court will judge me by my acts performed before the disaster, in accordance with the knowledge which was at my disposal at that time."

The Prosecution's Side.

Judge Advocate Kelley then addressed the court, saying that the prosecution will not attempt to refute the claim that Commander Heyerman considered carefully the waters he had to traverse on the trip from Port au Prince to Bluefields. But the negligence consisted in that when about five miles to the north and east of Roncador reef, Commander Heyerman shaped and held a course which lays toward a dangerous reef, surrounded by strong currents, well known to exist, and that he failed to change the course in time to avoid the subsequent disaster.

Furthermore, Heyerman failed to increase the speed of the ship by the use of steam so that the reef could be sighted during daylight, and though aware of the difficulty of sighting the reef at night, he did not before darkness fell haul off to some safe course in clear water to the northward.

After Judge Advocate Kelley had finished, the case was declared closed, and the court was cleared to allow its members to deliberate and find their verdict, which will be forwarded to Washington for revision. It will be announced to Commander Heyerman later.

Behring Sea Again.

LONDON, March 29.—Attorney General Russell introduced into the house of commons today a bill providing for the proper enforcement of the Behring sea arbitration. There is no question of a new modus vivendi. Sir Charles Tupper expresses the opinion that although it would have been preferable to have had no delay in legislating the award of the Behring sea tribunal of arbitration, there is every reason to believe that all the countries concerned in the seal fisheries will peacably conform to the award directly it is legalized.

An Unfortunate Fall.

PROVIDENCE, March 29.—John Dugan died of lockjaw at East Greenwich. Dugan was of an irritable temperament. A weeks ago some boys disturbed him by knocking at his door. In hurrying down stairs he slipped and fell to the bottom, injuring the muscles of his neck. The physicians who attended him were unable to give him any relief, and lockjaw set in on Monday.

Wheat Took a Big Jump.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Wheat took a 2 1-2 cent jump yesterday with a suddenness that surprised old-time traders. The strength was due to a new cold wave that is gathering headway in the northwest, and which, coming down upon the unprotected wheat fields, gave the bears a big scare. The close was firm, with a nervous feeling.

Machines In Opposition.

NEW YORK, March 29. — The Union league Republicans held a meeting last night to indorse the plan for the reorganization of the county machine as prepared by 30 wealthy Republicans. This plan is opposed by Platt, Milholland and others, who are now busy organizing a Republican machine to their own liking.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Assassin Prendergast was kept in the dungeon yesterday because of his violent exhibitions of temper and refusals to eat his meals.

IN CONGRESS.

The Senate Settles Down to Business. Dull Day In the House.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—For the first time since last Thursday, the senate held a session yesterday for the transaction of business, and a number of resolutions were passed, among them one authorizing the secretary of the treasury to receive on deposit the money derived from the sale of the Cherokee bonds.

Several important bills and resolutions were introduced, among them a joint resolution abrogating the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and one repealing all laws granting the secretary of the treasury authority to issue bonds and other interest-bearing obligations without specific authority from congress. All went over without action.

The resolution offered by Senator Sherman directing the judiciary committee to examine whether the existing laws are sufficient to punish the simulation of United States coins of the same metal and fineness was agreed to.

As a preliminary to the session of the house, the committee on rules prepared a rule for the consideration of the Joy-O'Neill and the Hilborn-English contested election cases. When it was introduced the Democrats mustered a battle quorum to enforce the demand of the previous question, and again to adopt the committee's rule, but it melted away again after the discussion of the Joy-O'Neill case had been concluded. The day's discussion was without special interest.

MOURNING AT TURIN.

Great Crowd Witnessed the Departure of Louis Kossuth's Body.

TURIN, March 29. — Shortly before 9 o'clock last night the special train to convey the remains of Kossuth to Buda-Pesth came into the station, and the coffin containing the body was removed from the mortuary pavilion and placed upon the train. There was a great crowd about the station before and during the transfer, and all the men reverently removed their hats as the coffin was being placed in the railway carriage.

The guard of honor, composed of Hungarian students, took their places in the carriages, together with the members of Kossuth's family and the representatives of the municipalty of Buda-Pesth. A detachment of military was present, and at 9 o'clock the train started on its journey to the Hungarian capital. Three volleys were fired by them.

The crowd quickly dispersed after the train left. There are so many Hungarians yet remaining in the city that it may be necessary to run special trains in order to convey them to Buda-Pesth, where all wish to be, in order to attend the funeral services there.

The municipal authorities of Turin have decided, as a mark of respect to the memory of the great Hungarian, to have a tablet bearing a suitable inscription set in the front wall of the house in which Kossuth died.

CONSPIRATOR MURDERED.

Belief That It Was Ordered by the Government of Corea.

SHANGHAI, March 29.—Kimockium, the leader of the Corean conspiracy of 1884, who was subsequently imprisoned in Japan for the part he took in that affair, was released recently and arrived here yesterday. He was accompanied by a companion, who murdered him today. It is supposed that the murderer was acting under orders from the Corean government. The conspiracy, in which Kimockium took such a prominent part, resulted in the massacre of the Corean ministers. The king was attacked in his palace, but the Japanese government intervened and brought about peace. Many Chinese, as well as Coreans, were implicated in the plot.

Of Bay State Stock.

NEW YORK, March 29.—George Ticknor Curtis died of pneumonia at his home here yesterday. He was a famous writer. Mr. Curtis was born in Waterford, Mass., Nov. 18, 1812. He was admitted to the bar in 1836, practised law in Boston until 1862, when he came to this city. He was the author of a number of well known treatise on law and a number of economical and biographical works. Mr. Curtis served for three years as a member of the Massachusetts legislature. He preferred the pursuit of his profession, which he varied by indulging in literature and the study of politics from his library, to active political life.

Exceptions Filed.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 29.—Counsel for the defense in the trial of Daniel M. Robertson, who was sentenced to be hanged for the murder of his wife, have filed exceptions with the clerk of the superior court. The exceptions claim that the weapon and mortal wound were not sufficiently described, together with other minor points.

A NERVY COASTER.

He Slides Down Historic Lookout Mountain at Lightning Speed.

A short, compactly built man, with a heavy blond mustache, took a toboggan slide down Lookout mountain the other afternoon. He went via the incline and made the trip from the Point hotel to the engine house, a distance of 4,500 feet, in 8½ minutes, which is just one-third the time that it takes a car to descend. Fully 100 people saw him make the lightning-like descent, and all were greatly excited.

About 4 o'clock the coaster appeared at the Point hotel with what appeared to be a block of wood about eight inches square under his arm. On one side of the block was a steel horseshoe, in the curve of which was a small flanged wheel. The other side of the block was slightly concave. The block was put on the outside rail of the incline, the wheel fitting close, and the horns of the horseshoe were on either side. Then the man put a heavy glove on his right hand, and sitting down on the block started down the mountain without more ado. He held his feet crossed straight and before him and rested them on the iron rail. For a few feet the little one wheel car moved slowly, and then the speed increased until it and its human freight were going down the mountain at a rate that made the spectators hold their breath.

When a curve was reached, the coaster slowed up slightly by pressing his heels against the rail and steadied himself by touching the cable with his gloved hand. Finally, when he reached the very heavy grade just above the engine house, he took off all brakes and came down like a shot out of a gun. Arriving at the bottom, he put on the "heel" brakes and gently came to a stop just in the depot. Coolly rising from his queer vehicle, he placed it under his arm and walked quietly away before any of the astonished spectators had a chance to recover their breath or ask any questions.—Chattanooga Times.

HIS FIRST PLUG HAT.

Despite a Former Experience the New Minister to Bolivia Will Try It Again.

Colonel Tom Moonlight—nobody ever called him Thomas except the state department clerk who made out his commission as minister to Bolivia—was at the capitol the other day saying goodby to his friends. Colonel Tom tells this story:

"When I received my instructions at the state department, I was told that I must be very careful and punctilious when I reached La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, about my attire. I was particularly informed that I must not appear in the streets unless I wore a silk hat.

"'Good God!' I exclaimed, fondly stroking my soft sombrero, 'I never wore a high silk hat except once. It was when I was governor of Wyoming, and we were celebrating Fourth of July or some other holiday. I was told that the governor ought to wear a tile, and so I put one on. I had not gone 50 yards before a cowboy, just in from the plains, sent a bullet through it. He said that a man ought to have better sense than to wear a silk hat in Cheyenne, and, to tell the truth, my sympathies were with the cowboy.'

"When I get to Bolivia, however, I am going to wear one again. The state department tells me that if any one shoots at me I can call upon the entire United States for protection."—Washington Post.

A STRANGE KENTUCKY TALE.

A Remarkable Transformation In the Grave Reported From Fleming County.

A Vanceburg correspondent sends out this remarkable story: "Dr. C. H. Dyer, who lived in Fleming county, near the Lewis county line, and who was well known throughout this section of the state as a very noted root and herb doctor, died some six weeks ago and was buried at his home near Muse Mills, Fleming county. A few days ago a pack of hungry dogs were discovered digging with might and main in the doctor's grave. They were driven away, but returned as soon as the men left and resumed their digging and howling.

"The friends of the deceased doctor, becoming anxious to know just what the dogs were after, concluded to take the body up. They did so, but what was their astonishment when on opening the coffin they found not the body of the venerable doctor, but a 200 pound hog nicely rolled up in a winding sheet, waiting for Gabriel to toot his horn, when he would walk out and claim the doctor's share in the glories that await him at the final resurrection of the just. The conclusion of the natives as to how this transformation came about is that as the doctor was not above suspicion from a moral standpoint the Lord had changed his mortal remains into those of a hog. The case is a very remarkable one viewed from any standpoint."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Novel Railroad Ticket.

The railway marks invented by the Hungarian minister Lukais will shortly be adopted on all Hungarian railways. For the future no traveler on Hungarian railways will be troubled to stand waiting at the ticket office for his ticket. He will be in a position to make out his ticket for himself. On a blank card he will write the name of the station from which he takes his departure and that of the station he means to go to, and he will stick on the remaining empty space on the card as many "railway marks" as his journey will cost. The blank cards will be obtainable at all tobacco shops. —London News.

The Poor Horses Suffer.

One of the cruelist results of the World's fair is that it doubled the number of horses in Chicago. These poor creatures are now starving because the cab and delivery men who rushed to the Windy City to make a fortune cannot now earn enough to support themselves or their beasts. The best that many of them can do is to turn their animals into the streets for the police to pick up.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE COLONEL'S STORY

Of His First Meeting and Intrigue With Madeline Pollard.

WAS LURED BY THE YOUNG WOMAN

Human Weakness Appears to Be His Basis of Defense.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Had an alien, untutored in the king's English, dropped into the circuit court yesterday afternoon, he might have received the impression that the benevolent elderly-looking gentleman, with ruddy face and waves of snowy hair and beard, who held the open-mouthed attention of 200 men while he discussed in a slow, mellifluous tone, was preaching a sermon from the gospel of peace.

This mistake would have been a natural one, but it would have been a mistake, for the elderly gentleman with the scriptural head, was the silver-tongued orator of Kentucky, Congressman Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge, and he was telling to 12 of his peers, and incidentally to the world at large, the story of his intrigue with Madeline Pollard.

There is a minor key of tenderness, of exquisite pathos, in the voice of Colonel Breckinridge, which has done much to win for him his sobriquet of the "Silver-tongued."

It is such a tone as one would have expected Antony to employ in rehearsing the virtues of dead Cæsar. It has charmed thousands in the house of representatives, the hustings of Kentucky, and the lecture rooms of female seminaries and Christian societies, and it to him in his customary appearances, only it hardly accords with such a narrative as he had to tell yesterday.

Comes Perfectly Natural

The colonel stood in the little witness box, his left elbow resting on Judge Bradley's desk, with his left hand a pillow for his head, and his right hand thrust carelessly into his trousers pocket. He smiled occasionally as he spoke. At first he was evidently a little tremulous in his utterances, but he lost that trace of nervousness before he proceeded far with his story.

Once he glanced down at the slender young woman in the first row of seats before him, that was when he was assuring the court that her manner toward him had been perfectly respectful and very deferential, but for the most part, he addressed himself to his attorney, Major Butterworth, who did the questioning.

As for Madeline Pollard, she never took her eyes from his face. Part of the time she rested her head on her hand, and for half an hour she vigorously wielded a fan.

When Colonel Breckinridge was telling him he made her accept a $10 bill, after their first interview, she shut her lips tightly, and would have made a motion to rise but for restraining words of Attorney Carlisle.

Elevated above the scene sat Judge Bradley, with his chair turned away from the defendant, his head tilted back, his eyes closed, and his features cast into an utterly bored expression.

The Kentucky congressman got no further in his story than the first meeting with Miss Pollard. He held that the young woman had lured him to her; had met him more than half way in their intimacy, and the ground of his excuse is found in his words:

"I was a man with passion; she was a woman with passion; we were human."

JUDGE FORBES' WARNING.

Doesn't Propose to Allow Guilty Students to Escape the Law.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 30.—When court was called to order yesterday, Judge Forbes instructed the stenographer to make a transcript of Taylor's evidence taken before the grand jury, also to certify and present it to him.

"I will then see," he said, "what right another judge has to interfere with the business of this court. I am determined to see that there is no miscarriage of justice in this case, and do not propose to be interfered with in the discharge of my duty. It is your duty, Mr. District Attorney, to arrest these men if the evidence warrants it.

"This court has been trifled with long enough. If the witnesses refuse to testify before me, and if we have jails enough in Tompkins county in which to confine them, and they continue to refuse to open their mouths, we will send them to prison and keep them there until they will testify."

Farm Buildings Burned.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., March 30. — The nest of large barns at New Lebanon, N. Y., on the old home farm of the late Samuel J. Tilden, were totally destroyed by an incendiary fire. Ninety tons of hay, a large quantity of grain and agricultural implements and some sheep were burned. Loss, $7500.

To Tackle Insurgents.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 30.—President Peixoto's warships from Montevideo have arrived here, and every preparation is being made to send them southward, with instructions to seek out and engage in battle with the Aquidaban, Republica and other ships which are still under the command of Admiral de Mello.

Court Will Look After Revenue.

OMAHA, March 30.—In the fight between the National water works of Kansas City and its eastern bondholders, involving $2,000,000, Judge Caldwell ordered the water works company to turn its revenues into court. The court promised to give a decision in the case soon.

IN CONGRESS.

Lively Scenes In the House—Senate Passes the McGarrahan Bill.

A Stormy Session.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Filibustering was resumed in the house yesterday on the O'Neill-Joy election case. Scenes of confusion, recalling some of the incidents of the Fifty-first congress, occurred. Speaker Crisp took the floor, and both he and ex-Speaker Reed spoke on the parliamentary questions involved. All sorts of motions and appeals were made. A scene of confusion followed. After a long while Mr. Patterson's resolution for the arrest of members absent without leave was agreed to, yeas, 164; nays, 3. Mr. Hainer moved to reconsider the vote just taken, and this introduced another hour's filibustering. While this was going on, however, the leaders of the two sides got the ground and affected an amicable arrangement by which Mr. Hainer withdrew his motion. The house then adjourned.

In the senate, the house joint resolution appropriating $10,000 for carrying out the provisions of the Chinese exclusion act was reported from the committee on appropriatios and passed.

The pension appropriation bill was reported from the committee on appropriations, and placed on the calendar. The amount carried is the same passed by the house. An amendment making a pension a vested right was added by the senate committee.

At 2 p. m., the McGarrahan bill was taken up. Mr. George offered an amendment providing that nothing in the bill shall be construed as acknowledging any responsibility on the part of the United States to pay for the land, substance or materials taken, or as assuming any obligation in that behalf.

This amendment was agreed to, and the bill was finally passed without a division. It refers the claim to the court of private land claims.

After an executive session the senate adjourned till Monday.

CRISP FOR SENATOR.

Speaker of the House Appointed by the Governor of Georgia.

ATLANTA, March 30.—Governor Northen has appointed Speaker Charles F. Crisp to succeed the late Senator Alfred H. Colquitt. Not a word has passed between the governor and the speaker, and the latter's name had not even been presented formally to the governor.

SPEAKER CRISP.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—It was after midnight when Speaker Crisp received notice of his appointment as senator from Georgia. He was much surprised, as the offer was unexpected. His first inclination was to decline, but at 1 o'clock he wired the governor that he would hold his answer in abeyance until he could consult with political friends and associates.

IN POPULISTS' DISTRICT.

The Commonweal Army Now Numbers Over a Hundred.

COLUMBIANA, O., March 30.—Coxey has rejoined his cohorts, the army is among Populists, and the commonweal is enjoying a big boom. The Farmers' Alliance provided three wagon loads of provisions, and two of wood. Beef, hams, coffee and 1000 loaves of bread, will furnish the commonweal with provisions for three days, at least.

In a speech, Carl Browne said he was being misrepresented by 40 argus-eyed demons of hell, who followed him around. He meant the reporters, and has given orders to keep newspaper men out of camp.

Three hundred people welcomed the crowd of 108 soldiers to Columbiana, and the citizens provided Johnson's foundry as a camp. Straw beds were provided.

Thirty-six recruits from East Liverpool joined the ranks. This town has a Coxey club with 53 members, of which John Harold is chairman. After seeing the army Harold said that while he sympathized with Coxey's principles, he could not countenance such an array of tramps to force legislation.

Coxey says success is assured, but refuses to speak of his financial troubles.

THREATENS TO PEACH.

Sutherland Thinks That He Has Been Betrayed by Old Friends.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The Herald's Montreal special says Kenneth F. Sutherland, the fugitive ex-justice of Gravesend, who fled to escape one year's imprisonment, is in that city. The correspondent had an interview with Sutherland, who says he went from New York to Buffalo, and thence to Canada. Sutherland seems to feel that he has been betrayed, and it would not be at all surprising if he were to tell everything he knows. His utterances might be looked upon in the nature of an indirect threat to his old political friends in case matters are not "straightened" for him in Brooklyn.

Hostile Forces Defeated.

BERLIN, March 30.—A dispatch from Major Francois, commander of the German forces in Damaraland, operating against Chief Hendrik Witbooi, stated that he has inflicted two severe defeats upon Chief Witbooi, and believes that he has put an end to the latter's raids against German settlers.

Dust to Dust.

HAMBURG, March 30.—The remains of Hans Von Bulow, who died recently in Egypt, were cremated yesterday at the cemetery here. Previous to the cremation there was an imposing funeral service.

Ten Thousand Will Strike.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 30.—A general strike of the 10,000 coal workers and miners of the Connellsville region has been ordered to go into effect next Monday.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Boston Building Laws—The Use of Seals. The Death Penalty.

BOSTON, March 30.—In the senate, the committee on cities reported a bill revising the building laws of the city of Boston in conformity with a draft reported by a special committee of the Boston Society of Architects.

A bill to authorize officials of commissions and municipal departments to adopt seals, distinctive from the town or city seals, was defeated, the main argument against the measure being that some official in the service of the city of Boston desired to give added dignity to the position he occupies.

Mr. Estabrook moved that committees having matters before them on which hearings have been closed, be instruced to report on or before April 2. Laid over.

In the house the committee on liquor law reported a bill providing that sales of cider and native wines, by makers thereof, shall not be sold in quantities of less than 10 gallons without a special license.

It is an open question whether the judiciary committee will report for or against the bill to abolish the death penalty, with the chances rather against the bill. But whatever the committee may report, Representative Kneil is prepared to make a fight for his bill, and in case of an adverse report, he will move to substitute his proposition, which is to substitute imprisonment for life for the death penalty, and to take from the governor the pardoning power, which is only to be exercised by the supreme court when it finds the convict innocent.

At the meeting of the executive council the governor reappointed John Quincy Adams and David P. Kimball as state directors of the Fitchburg railroad.

FRIENDS ARE WORRIED.

Herman R. French Is Mysteriously Missing From Everett, Mass.

EVERETT, Mass., March 30.—The family and friends of Herman R. French of this city are much perplexed as to what has become of him. He has not been seen at his home since last Saturday morning, at which time he left for his office, 27 Cornhill, Boston, apparently in the best of spirits.

Inquiry at all the hospitals and other institutions in and about the city, where he might have been taken if injured or suddenly bereft of his senses, has failed to reveal the slightest trace of him.

Mr. French has just passed his 54th birthday. He is of medium height, and dark of hair and complexion. His mustache is heavy and gray and his head is partially bald in front. He had no marks on his body by which he could be identified.

When he went away he wore dark trousers, a brown coat ond vest, dark overcoat, derby hat and low shoes and gaiters. He carried a gold watch, open face, of Elgin manufacture, across a shield on the back of which was his full name, H. R. French. In his pockets were papers by which he could also easily be identified.

NINE CHARRED BODIES

Found In the Ruins of a Burned Dwelling In a Southern Town.

WHEELING, March 30.—The residence of John Witt at McKendree was burned to the ground yesterday, and with it were cremated eight small children and a servant girl named Mary Hendricks.

Mr. Witt was away from home, leaving his wife and eight children who, with the servant girl, were sleeping alone in the house. At an early hour Mrs. Witt was awakened by the smell of smoke and burning wood and discovered that the lower part of the house was enveloped in flames. The frightened woman ran from the house, but returned immediately and attempted to save her children, but she was forced to give up and barely escaped with her life. The neighbors made heroic efforts to save the nine occupants of the building, but without success.

The house was completely destroyed, and in the ruins were found the charred bodies of the eight children and the servant girl, which will be buried in one grave. The cause of the fire was a defective flue. Mr. and Mrs. Witt are prostrated by the terrible calamity, and it is feared that they will lose their minds.

AN OPEN LETTER

— FROM —

BILLINGS, KING & CO.

DON'T WEAR OUT.

The wearing quality of paint depends largely on the quality and quantity of Pure Linseed Oil (not Water, not Benzine, not Petroleum, not Rosin Oil—please remember), that enters into its composition. The paint manufacturer may employ the best and finest pigments, but he is not so particular about the use of an absolutely Pure Linseed Oil. Neither are many of the jobbers over the country particularly anxious to sell a Pure Linseed Oil, for a better profit is made by selling the adulterated article.

A BAD MISTAKE.

Some jobbers (not well posted) recommend—and often times conscientiously—the use of paste paint and the purchase of oil to use with it, unmindful of the great risk to the consumer.

CONSIDER TRUE ECONOMY.

We urge the use of our Strictly Pure Linseed Oil Paint ready for use, because we can guarantee the quality AS A WHOLE, and, what is also very essential, guarantee that the best coloring material is the only kind used, and that it is mixed and ground so thoroughly with the base as to insure a non-fading paint. It possibly costs per gallon a little more money than paint compounded from cheap raw material, but a gallon of our paint covers from 15 to 20 per cent. more surface and takes less labor to apply it. Hence we say it it is cheapest, and you certainly have the assurance of having your buildings painted with a first-class article.

CHALKS OFF. WHY SHOULDN'T IT?

White lead will surely chalk off after a few months' exposure, and even this article—like other forms of paste paint—may not be pure so far as the pigment is concerned; added to this may exist the fact that it is not always ground in pure oil, for oftentimes paste paints are offered to the consumer at a price per pound less than Pure Linseed Oil sells for at the lowest market price (estimating a gallon of Oil to weigh 7½ pounds). Add to this the risk when purchasing Oil, as also the risk incident to the unscientific use of strong dryers which burn up the life and body of the oil, and you will form some idea of the chances you take of getting a reliable mixture for your buildings when you use any kind of paste paint.

BY THE PEOPLE,

THE ADULTERATION OF OIL IS NOT EASILY DETECTED.

THE PROPER PROPORTION OF DRYERS TO BE ADDED TO EACH GALLON OF PAINT IS NOT THOROUGHLY UNDERSTOOD.

COMMON SENSE.

We believe we present here briefly the most convincing reasons why our paint should be used, and why the use of White Lead and other forms of paste paint should be discouraged. How much more reliable must a ready made product be, when bearing the name and brand of a reputable manufacturer, who, having compounded it with care and with a knowledge of the essentials that go to make a first-class paint, practically guarantees the quality of each package.

BRAINS AND THRIFT.

We aim to have our Paint on sale with one reputable dealer in every city and town.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Boston Liable.

The bill in equity of Mrs. L. B. Titus against the city of Boston and the Metropolitan sewerage commission, decided Thursday, was brought to fix the liability between the State and the city of Boston for the damage done to the estate of Mrs. Titus at Moon island. The city of Boston took the fee in 220 acres of land and flats belonging to Mrs. Titus, four and one-half years ago, and up to date had made her no payment for it. The city of Boston then made a contract with the Metropolitan sewerage commission to discharge all the sewage of Newton, Brookline and Watertown through its works to Moon island, receiving for such service an annual compensation of $26,000. Mrs. Titus then brought a bill in equity to determine the right of the city of Boston to make such a contract with the State. The Supreme court having now decided that the city of Boston had such a right, the city of Boston now becomes liable for a large amount of damages to Mrs. Titus, which will probably be assessed by a jury at the next session of the Superior Civil court at Dedham in May.

A GRAND BANQUET.

Unitarian Ladies and Gentlemen of Wollaston at the Table.

SUPT. LULL AS TOASTMASTER.

The Subjects Were Varied and the Responses Witty and Thoughtful.

The gentlemen's supper, which was given by Mr. Frederick H. Bishop and his co-laborers at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening was a great success. The large company of ladies and gentlemen, after a short social talk adjourned to the vestry where they were served with a hot turkey supper. After the supper Mr. Bishop called the company to order and in a few brief remarks presented Mr. H. W. Lull, the Superintendent of Schools, as toastmaster.

Mr. Lull filled the position admirably, all of his toasts being witty and felicitous of which the introduction is a sample. He said:

"A toastmaster, a master of toast! The mere sound of this word, toast, is wont to cause an involuntary smacking of the lips; but this sweet osculation is due, I fear, to only a partial understanding of the word. In reality, toast comes from the old French and means to roast. Whether this roasting applies to me, to you as listeners, or to the speakers of the evening, you will know later.

"There are various forms of toast as dry toast, wet toast, quail on toast, etc. etc.

Judging from the appearance of the glassware on the table, the toast this evening will be DRY; judging from the brave appearance of the brethren who are to speak, there will be no suggestion of quail; as to how wet with laughter the toast will be, only the future will disclose.

Space will not allow us to give all of the introduction or the speeches.

A toast to "Wollaston" was first proposed. Ex-Mayor Fairbanks responded and after a few words introductory said:

It is not in my province to state in details, the interesting history of Wollaston, although around its name clusters many historic memories, although it may not be out of place to state, that it derives its name, from one Capt. Wollaston who sailed from England in 1625, with about 30 others, most of whom were bound to service and who landed on our shores. The larger number of these emigrants were not suitable for New England life, and Capt. Wollaston, carried these to Virginia where they were sold, leaving the remainder of the colony in charge of a Mr. Fitcher. Among the number was one Thomas Morton, a lawyer by profession, but a reckless adventurer. Inducing his associates to drink to excess, he easily prevailed upon them to comply with his scheme of deposing Fitcher, and then assuming the command himself, revelling and riotous living was the order of the day.

Morton named the place Mare Mount, which the Puritans sarcastically called Merry Mount. On the mount a May pole 80 feet high was erected, which was visible for miles around "a faire marke says Morton how to finde the way to mine host of Mare Mount."

On the pole he placed this inscription:

"With proclamation that the first of May
At Mare Mount shall be kept a hollyday."

We are all aware that the revels at Mare Mount aroused the ire of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, who learning that the revellers were selling arms and ammunitions to the Indians, determined to capture them, and so Captain Standish with an army of 9 brave men started from Plymouth. Arriving at Mt. Wollaston, they found Morton entrenched in a log fortress with four of his followers, and they seeing that they were out numbered, willingly surrendered, and history tells us that the only blood that was shed in this historic battle on the soil of Wollaston, was from the nose of one of Morton's men who from imbibing too much liquor stumbled against the sword of one of Standish's warriors. So you see friends that in the early days, our territory was the scene of many exciting events, which make an interesting chapter in our country's history, and while a noble army was obliged once to come to old Wollaston to preserve order and maintain peace, yet it is pleasant to note that the tax on account of this Pilgrim raid was assessed mostly on Salem and Portsmouth, and not handed down as a heritage to the good citizens of new Wollaston.

"From cape to cape, search round our noble bay,
No lovelier sight than here can eye survey;
From yonder hill when sunset's blazing sheen
Sets in a golden frame the pictured scene,
Let the eye wander freely as it will,
Landward or seaward, all is beauty still."

So you see friends that around the name of Wollaston clusters many historic memories, and the praises of her beauty have been sung by those of earlier days as well as by those who are now with us.

"Our Commercial Traveller" was responded to by Mr. E. H. Sprague, who was asked to speak particularly for that mysterious concoction the sausage, and he bravely came to the rescue.

Dr. G. B. Rice responded for "The Village Doctor." He related an interesting and amusing story of a lady who was apparently afflicted with a serious throat trouble which she claimed was caused by the lodgment of a bristle from a tooth brush in her throat. Her case was diagonised by eminent physicians but they could afford no relief. A young physician had in the mean time taken up his residence in the immediate vicinity. He was called in and being an unusually clever fellow, after a careful examination said that he could see a bristle firmly embedded in her throat. Taking an instrument from his surgical case, and slyly inserting a small bristle in the forcips he put it into her mouth and in a few seconds withdrew it exclaiming,

Many entertainments and parties have been held this week but for some reason none of them have been very largely attended.

The certificates and diplomas awarded at the evening drawing schools will be presented this evening, and the list will be published in Saturday's LEDGER.

Tuesday evening the young people of the Atlantic M. E. church gave a connundrum supper in the hall. It was a success and all who were present had a most enjoyable time.

A memorial service for the late Rev. Henry Dorr, so fondly remembered by the West Quincy M. E. church for his successful pastorate, will be held in Weslyan hall Bromfield street, Boston, at 11 A. M. Monday, April 2. Friends are invited to attend.

At the Primitive Mission, West Quincy, there will be special gospel meetings next week, commencing Tuesday evening and continuing until Saturday, conducted by Miss Crosby. She is a very impressive speaker and has great success wherever she goes. The public is invited.

A relic of the U. S. S. Kearsarge can be seen in the M. E. parsonage, West Quincy, in the form of a fruit dish made from a timber taken from her hull, said timber having been in place during the memorable fight with the Alabama in the French harbor. Now that the historic ship has finally disappeared these relics will assist in perpetuating her memory.

The next session of the New England annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in Asbury Temple, Waltham, opening Wednesday April 11. The pastorates of four churches in the city of Quincy will be affected by the appointments from that conference. Probably not more than one of the pastors will be removed by appointment.

The fad of raising the dollar for the church has at last struck the Atlantic ladies, and schemes both novel and amusing appear to loom up in all sections of the Ward. Some of the society people have taken the grip in hand and are offering their wares for sale from door to door; doughnuts, corn-balls, silver polish, etc., have been liberally purchased. One lady gave a mystery party which was very largely attended where many novel features were introduced to the merry guests. Other strange schemes are hinted at, and if the revenue is not a liberal one, it certainly will not be the fault of the ladies who are putting in many hours of hard work.

MILTON.

Easter was very fittingly observed at the East Milton Congregational church. There was a beautiful display of flowers and pot plants very artistically arranged around the pulpit and altar. The whole reflecting great credit on the committee of three, the Misses Brackett, VanHorne and Kemp.

At the morning service the pastor, Rev. H. C. Vrooman, preached a very interesting sermon on "The Resurrection," and the special music by the choir was very finely rendered.

One of the finest Sunday school concerts we have had for sometime was given in the evening to a crowded house. The recitations and singing by the little folks were much enjoyed, and special praise is due Mr. Ellis, the organist, the choir and the young people who so willingly gave their time and talents to help make the occasion a memorable one.

The concert was a complete success, all owing to the untiring zeal of Miss O. M. Baxter, who planned the whole and trained the children, both in singing and speaking.

☞ When we took up the bicycle business last season, it was to deal with them just as we dealt with other merchandise, buy and sell without extravagant profit to anyone. For the benefit of ladies and gentlemen we have cut the price of the Crawford Safety from $85.00 to $69.75. Easy payments when desired. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

ASSOCIATES' HALL.

The Name for the Grand New Opera House

TO BE ERECTED IN QUINCY.

Twenty-five Thousand to be Raised in Shares of $100 Each.

The prospectus has been issued for a grand new opera house in this city to be known as "Quincy Associates Hall," and subscriptions are invited in sums of $100 per share, to the amount of $25,000.

It will be a business block and will contain a large and small hall, commodious ante room, etc., etc.

Mr. A. G. Durgin is the leading spirit and at his store may be seen a prospectus which demonstrates clearly that it will be a paying investment for the stockholders.

The location is on Granite street in the rear of the Greenleaf and a sketch has already been prepared.

Already there have been some large subscriptions to the stock, and success seems assured, and work will probably be begun in a few weeks. The LEDGER is pleased to encourage the enterprise, and will keep its readers posted on the progress made.

A GRAND BANQUET.

"Here is the bristle!", It is needless to add that in a short time she was cured and the doctor received a fat fee. But luckless man, he told his wife and in time it reached the ears of his rich patient.

"Our Children" was responded to by Mr. Sibley, who spoke of the development of character, the management, etc.

Mr. C. W. Smith responded for music. He said in prefacing his remarks: "What is music? There are all kinds of music—good, bad and indifferent. Now to me there can be but one kind of music and that is music which is artistic. In music the highest notch should always be considered. It seems to me there is nothing more beautiful than good music. We should have it at home and all about us. The old saying is "whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well," is as true with our music as it is of everything else."

Mr. George W. Bennett responded for "The Unity Club." He said: Although the club was small and young, there was a membership of 50 with an average attendance of 25. Although the club is an adjunct of the Unitarian church the subjects which are discussed and the papers which are read are non-sectarian.

It is impossible to attempt to report Mr. W. E. Simmon's inimitable address in response to "Entertainments." He is a speaker who has to be heard to be appreciated.

Mr. Hatch spoke for "Our Helpmates," and described the wife of prehistoric times, contrasting her position with the wife of today.

"On the road" was the toast to which Mr. F. H. Bishop responded. He said: My ancestors were drummers in the army, my grandfather being a drummer in the Continental army and my father a drummer in the Union army, so that I came from a race of drummers. Mr. Bishop said that it was expected that he would stand up and tell funny stories, as drummers had that reputation, but as a matter of fact all of the funny drummer stories originated with the newspaper correspondents. But nevertheless Mr. Bishop kept the audience in a roar with his dry sayings and funny anecdotes.

Superintendent Page responded for the Sunday school. It seems, he said, that there is no need of giving up our ideal Sunday school. The theory that I have is that if the work can be sufficiently subdivided we can do anything. If we can make our helpers understand that this work is just as important as everybody's else, I don't see why we cannot have a good school. The most important thing we get in our Sunday school is the influence of the teachers on the scholars.

Sylvester Brown responded for "The Public School" in a thoughtful and excellent speech, which will be reported at length in the LEDGER of Saturday.

"Our Pastor" was the closing toast, and Rev. James Edwin Bagley made a timely address on the social side of the church.

☞ A pinch of profit for us, the rest is all for you. The Crawford Safety Bicycle $69.75. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

—Inventor Edison is the latest addition to the number of temperance lecturers, and he makes a most effective argument. Miss Frances E. Willard asked him why he was a total abstainer, and whether home influence had made him so. "No," said he; "it was because I always felt that I had better use for my head."

Mrs. Putnam, Forristdale, Mass., says:

"That Bearing-Down Feeling and dizzy, faint, gasping attacks left me as soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am like one raised from the dead. I was sick with womb troubles so long I thought I never could get well."

IMPORTANT NOTIFICATION.

American Heiresses Are Warned to Look Out For a Prince With a Record.

A young Belgian prince of undoubtedly high birth and unquestioned impecuniosity has just abandoned Paris and a swarm of mourning creditors, and, it is said, we do not know how truly, is to set sail for the United States. His proper title is his serene highness the Prince de Looz Cos Warren, and it may be of interest to American heiresses to learn that this new importation is at present unmarried.

About three years ago he was engaged to a young South American girl. The wedding was to be sumptuous and to take place in one of the swell churches of Paris. As is usual for stylish gatherings, the crowds of lookers on nearly excluded the personal friends of the contracting couple. The bride floated up the aisle, and the priest prepared to begin the ceremony, when it was observed that one important adjunct was missing—namely, the bridegroom. He had quietly gone off on a honeymoon tour all by himself after a stormy discussion respecting finances with the father of the bride. The young lady fainted, the guests were greatly amused, and the wedding party went sadly home.

The odd part of the whole affair was the fact that the couple having been married by the mayor, and the absence of religious ceremonial having no legal significance, the forsaken bride had to get a divorce in due form from her recalcitrant spouse, who continued to travel.

However, the French courts dissolved the marriage some time ago, so the volatile gentleman is at liberty to try matrimony all over again. Whether that be his design in seeking your hospitable shores time alone will reveal.—Paris Cor. Philadelphia Telegraph.

WILL STUFF THE CARCASS.

A Man at Far Rockaway Wins In a Struggle With a Fighting Sea Dog.

Charles Silas of the Belmore House at Far Rockaway, L. I., killed a sea dog on Wednesday while walking along the beach. Mr. Silas, taking advantage of the fine weather, started to walk along the water's edge on the inlet of the peninsula. When near what is known as Hog island, he saw an animal somewhat resembling a seal lying asleep on the sands. The animal was of a yellowish white, with black rings on his back.

The animal was sunning itself and was disturbed by the approach of Mr. Silas. It started toward him, showing its tusks. The only weapon Mr. Silas had was a small stick. This was snapped in two by the sharp fangs of the animal, and the sea dog, or whatever it was, attempted to bite Mr. Silas. Mr. Silas struck the animal on the head with his fist and stunned it. Before it recovered he obtained a heavy club, and when it rushed at him again he struck it on the head and killed it.

The animal had a long, snoutlike nose, with whiskers about the nostrils. The ears were short and rounded. The fore legs were short, with long, sharp claws. The hind legs were flipperlike. The tail was short, and the entire body was covered with short, coarse hair. Mr. Silas secured the carcass and will have it stuffed. Several other people report having seen similar animals along the south shore.—New York Tribune.

OCEAN TELEGRAPH.

The Heaviest Cable In the World Is to Be Laid During This Year.

This will be a great year for ocean telegraphy. The Anglo-American Cable company will lay a new Atlantic cable this spring, which is now making in England. The copper conducting wire of this cable will weigh 650 pounds per knot, while hitherto no cable has had a conductor weighing so much as 500 pounds per knot.

The Atlantic cables have conductors weighing 400 pounds or less per knot. Many short cables have cores weighing as little as 107 pounds. Cables 1,900 miles long on the east coast of Africa have cores weighing 250 pounds to the knot.

The heaviest core is that of the French cable from St. Pierre, Miquelon, to Brest. It is 2,242 miles long and weighs 485 pounds per knot. The estimated cost for making and laying long cables is about $1,200 per knot. The cost of the proposed Pacific cable will be somewhat greater because it cannot be manufactured in the vicinity.

The total length, exclusive of 740 knots already laid in Australasian waters, will be about 2,900 knots, making the total cost about $6,200,000 for cable and laying alone.—Philadelphia Press.

A Steamship on Lake Titicaca.

A triumph in engineering is reported from the mountains of Peru, where a twin screw steamer of 540 tons, 170 feet long and 30 feet wide has been successfully launched on Lake Titicaca, the highest navigable waters in the world, more than 13,000 feet above the sea. This steamer, which belongs to the Peruvian government and is to be used for freight and passenger traffic, was built on the Clyde, then taken apart in more than 1,000 pieces and shipped to Mollendo by sea. It was then carried to Puna by railway and transported over the mountains on the backs of llamas and mules and put together by a Mr. John Wilson, a Scotch engineer, with great skill and success.—Chicago Record.

Effect of Lord Dufferin's Speech.

Lord Dufferin's speech on the peace of Europe, in Paris, has had a remarkably good effect throughout Europe. In France itself the words have been received in excellent spirit, and public sentiment has quite taken the sting from the vulgar insults to the British embassador which, by a few days, preceded the address. The French government's bold declaration of a policy of religious toleration also has been received as a distinct mark of progress. Even some of the French Radicals show signs of having made the discovery that denunciation of all religion is not an evidence of true democracy.—Paris Letter.

WORK OF SUPERINTENDENT.

Our School Still Upon a High Plane—Excellence Recognized.

Concluding a review of the City Book of 1893, began in Wednesday's LEDGER and continued Thursday, is the reports of the school departments.

The School Committee compliments Superintendent Lull very highly and adds: "It will be pleasing to our citizens to know that the excellence of our schools has been recognized in a prominent manner on two occasions during the past year. The report of Dr. J. M. Rice has classed our schools with those of Springfield and Brookline, and puts them in advance of many other cities and towns whose pecuniary resources are in every way superior to ours. Moreover at the World's Fair held in Chicago, a medal with its accompanying diploma was awarded to the Quincy schools for excellence in work and specimens of that work have been asked for by the authorities of the city of Philadelphia with a view to the formation of a permanent educational exhibit.

"The question of adjustment of salaries is ever a difficult and delicate one. Nevertheless, in connection with the subject, we have found occasion to make two marked innovations. We have elevated the maximum salary of teachers occupying positions below that of principal in the grammar and primary grades from $500 to $550 per annum. This latter figure has been attained by a certain number of teachers in virtue of long and faithful service coupled with real professional merit. A further advance to $600 might not unreasonably be considered in the future. We have thought it well to fix at $1,400 the maximum salary of grammar school principals; but this figure is to be secured only during the fifth year of service by means of an annual increment of $100, the initial salary still remaining at $1,000. By this means we hope to secure the continuance in work of valuable teachers as well as increased advantage which pupils derive from prolonged personal contact with a good master."

Superintendent Lull makes an exhaustive report and we believe it to be a fact that the word "I" does not appear therein. The school property includes ten school buildings of eighty-one rooms which seat 3900 pupils. The approximate valuation of buildings, land and furnishings is $321,000. He recommends that land be purchased at Norfolk Downs for a school building.

The crowded condition of the Lincoln, John Hancock and Willard schools is noted.

A summary of teachers shows an increase of five during the year; a man at the High, two women at the Willard, and one each in the John Hancock and Lincoln.

The whole number of different pupils registered is 4,114; the average number belonging 3211 and the average attendance 3067.

The need is felt of one energetic truant officers.

Quincy rank 137 among the 351 cities and towns of the State, and 16 among the 27 of the county, in percentage of valuation appropriated for schools. In average attendance to whole number of children between 5 and 15, the standing is 301 and 23 respectively.

A comparison shows the following number of pupils in each grade in December 1892 and 1893:

	1892.	1893.
Primary I	652	672
Primary II	450	400
Primary III	406	421
Primary IV	393	402
Grammar V	361	370
Grammar VI	319	314
Grammar VII	253	291
Grammar VIII	214	227
High IX	86	124
High X	48	67
High XI	30	33
High XII	19	25

The Superintendent comments as follows on the above:

"A comparison of the number in any grammar grade of last year with that next higher this year will reveal a decided shrinkage and shows that we still have to regret the loss of pupils at the age when they need a strong hand and mind to direct them in the paths they should enter. Their reading age is just beginning, and if they could be controlled for a year or two, and be given the right taste and habit by contact with teachers who realize their responsibilities and their opportunities, we should have better citizens and manlier men. These children will be able to answer easily all the demands and requirements of our Board of Registrars, and yet they will be more likely to be led than to lead, more willing to allow someone else to do their thinking for them than to do it themselves."

Commenting on the new era in salaries Mr. Lull says 13 left in 1892 for larger salaries, while only 7 left in 1893.

The building of the new High and the surprising growth of the school are mentioned, and paragraphs are devoted to the evening schools, general meetings of teachers, the promotion book, letter writing, visits to schools, the training class, etc. Relative to visits, the superintendent says:

However, it is a cause of regret that this number of visitors includes a relatively small number of the parents of the pupils. Much of the friction that arises could be prevented if the father or mother would visit the school, see the aims, efforts and methods of the teachers and would then co-operate with them. Misunderstandings are due in a great measure to gossip, to the vigorous imaginations of the pupils, and to ignorance of the real work of the school.

A visit, now and then, would be an excellent corrective and would increase the child's respect for his school, his teacher and his work, if the parents showed by their presence that they considered them worthy of their attention. It would also be an incentive to the teacher to do better work, if the parents would manifest such an interest."

Superintendent Lull says it is unfortunate that the training class is looked upon as a "short cut" to the teacher's position and recommends a normal course if possible.

Regarding special studies he says the courses in drawing, music, nature work and sewing have been strengthened during the year by the special directors. Commenting further on special studies, he says:

"Manual Training should be doing for the boys what sewing is doing for the girls. The basement of the Coddington school can accommodate all the boys of grades VII and VIII of the eight schools for one half-day lesson per week. Such a plan will necessitate an outlay for only one set of apparatus and for only one instructor. "If Quincy is to hold the position in the educational world that should be hers, she must strengthen herself in at least three places; in her secondary instruction, in the education of the hand in conjunction with the brain, and in the training of those whom she receives into the lower Primary grade. The new High School building will be new as regards the building and also in the courses of instruction offered and will provide for the first need; Manual Training will develope the hand; and to the Kindergarten we must look for the training that will take the child at four years of age and give him to the lowest Primary grade at five in a condition to make a rapid stride in his work. A trial Kindergarten established within the triangle formed by the John Hancock, Lincoln and Willard Schools and near Brewer's Corner would be a most acceptable beginning."

The financial report follows in detail, and in the appendix, the attendance of each room.

A list of teachers gives the home, date of appointment and salary. Six of the seventy-one teachers have served for more than fifteen years. Their services date from '55, '57, '65, '74, '75, and '78. The Board deemed these worthy of a special reward, not only for length of service, but for faithful and successful effort. These now receive $550, as a token of appreciation. They are in point of service Miss Julia E. Underwood of the Coddington, Miss Emeline A. Newcomb of the Willard, Miss Eliza C. Sheahan of the Adams, Miss Mary Marden of the Washington, Miss Ellen Fegan of the Willard, and Miss Euphrasia Hernan of the Adams. Miss Dearborn of the Coddington has served the longest period as principal, being appointed in 1876.

Then follows a list of resignations of teachers; list of members of training class; the High school graduating exercises, and prize speaking contest, together with the prizes and subjects for 1894; outline course in nature study; sewing lessons, and the School Committee and sub committees of 1894.

STARVING TO DEATH.

Plenty to Eat but They Get No Nourishment from Their Food.

Dangerous Loss of Weight—Doctors Can Do Nothing.

There are in America perhaps 5,000,000 people who, in the midst of plenty, are starving to death. Not paupers, simply people who cannot digest their food. What is to be done with them? Give them a food that is already digested—Paskola.

There is no medicine in nature's laboratory that will keep people who cannot digest their food from starving to death. There is only one thing that will do them any good—food. If ordinary food doesn't feed them, Paskola will. Fat people who want to get thin abstain from starch food. Thin, starving people, who want to get fat, should do the opposite, of course. Paskola is prepared according to this scientific fact. It is a pure starch food, artificially digested—not "pepsinated." Pepsin doesn't digest starch The starch in Paskola is digested with the natural ferments discovered in the human saliva and prepared from other natural products. People who are starving, show it by losing weight. Consumptives starve to death. The loss of two lungs wouldn't make a hundred pounds difference in your weight.

What must people do who are steadily losing weight? Eat starch food? But if that doesn't help? Paskola.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W. Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

A Song of Cheer.

There are many will tell you: "The best has been done;
There is nothing worth striving for under the sun;
There's no hope for achievement when all of the past
Is pitted against you—an army so vast,
Overwhelming in numbers and deeds of renown,
It were foolish to struggle and wise to lie down."
But turn a deaf ear when these croakers come near;
Keep steadily at it and be of good cheer.

"The height you can climb to is nothing at all,
So why make the effort and risk the rude fall?"
Oh, take but one breath of that sweet mountain air,
And having inhaled it you'll never despair!
But striving still upward and onward each day,
"The labor, I love it!" at last you will say.
Then turn a deaf ear when the croakers come near;
With face toward the summit, oh, be of good cheer!

Think not for a moment all songs have been sung!
There are sorrows and joys that have never found tongue!
There are hearts today waiting the message you bring;
They listen for songs that you only can sing!
So think not of Shakespeare or Milton or Burns,
But sing as they sung, make your sweetest returns,
And turn a deaf ear when the croakers appear.
Sing life as you live it and be of good cheer.
—William S. Lord.

SOUND MONEY WINS.

President Cleveland Vetoes the Bland Seigniorage Bill.

BETTER POWER TO ISSUE BONDS

Urged as Means For Protecting the Gold Reserve.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—At 12:25 yesterday, while the roll of the house was being called on a contested election case, Mr. Pruden, the president's executive clerk, appeared at the bar of the house, and transmitted the president's special message vetoing the Bland seigniorage bill.

As Mr. Pruden announced that he was directed to transmit a message in writing, and the president's approval of sundry house bills, for a moment the Democrats believed that possibly Mr. Cleveland had signed the Bland bill.

Members rushed down the aisles from all directions and crowded about the speaker's desk. Speaker Crisp himself broke the seal. One glance was enough: "It is a veto," said he, and the word was passed from lip to lip.

The news was received with a mixture of joy and sorrow. To a large majority of Democrats the news was a severe blow, and their expressions of dissatisfaction in some cases were loud and emphatic. The Republicans seemed to be greatly elated at the confusion and havoc created in the Democratic camp by the message.

Reasons For the Veto.

In vetoing the bill the president reviews the financial conditions, and says that the recovery being so well under way, nothing should be done to check convalescence. His main objections to the bill are its unfortunate construction, and that it will not maintain parity of the two metals. He says the present perplexities and embarrassments of the secretary of the treasury ought not to be augmented by devolving upon him the execution of a law so uncertain and confused.

He is convinced that the scheme proposed by the second section of the bill is ill-advised and dangerous, and that its ultimate result would be to replace legal tender treasury notes by silver certificates, which are not legal tender.

He closes by urging the desirability of granting to the secretary of the treasury better power than now exists to issue bonds to protect the gold reserve. If this could be done, he thinks the bullion seigniorage now in the treasury could be safely coined.

Text of the Bland Bill.

Section 1. The secretary of the treasury shall immediately cause to be coined, as fast as possible, the silver bullion held in the treasury purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, entitled "an act directing the purchase of silver bullion, and the issuing of treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes," to the amount of the seigniorage of such bullion, to wit: The sum of $55,156,681, and such coin and silver certificates issued thereon shall be used in the payment of current expenditures, and the secretary of the treasury, may, in his discretion, if the needs of the treasury demand it, issue silver certificates in excess of said coinage, provided that said excess shall not exceed the amount of the seigniorage, as herein authorized to be coined.

Section 2. After the coinage provided for in the first section of this act, the remainder of the silver bullion purchased in pursuance of said act of July 14, 1890, shall be coined into legal tender standard silver dollars as fast as possible, and the coin shall be held in the treasury for the redemption of the treasury notes issued in the purchase of said bullion.

Section 3. As fast as the bullion shall be coined for the redemption of said notes, the notes shall not be reissued, but shall be cancelled and destroyed, in amount equal to the coin held at any time in the treasury derived from the coinage herein provided for, and silver certificates shall be issued on such coin, in the manner now provided by law, provided that this act shall not be construed to change existing law relating to the legal tender character or mode of redemption of the treasury notes issued under said act of July 14, 1890.

Section 4. A sufficient sum of money is hereby appropriated to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

Bland's Statement.

Representative Bland, author of the Bland seigniorage bill, authorized the following statement, concerning the veto and its effect upon the future of silver: "The main point of the veto is that the president does not wish to infuse into the currency any more silver until he has more bonds and greater gold reserve.

"He insists on the fight that has been in progress for the last year, on the one hand by those who wish to increase the bonded debt in the interests of national banks by selling bonds for gold and for money to pay the current expenditures of the government, and on the other hand by the representatives of the people, who are opposed to bond issues and in favor of coining the silver bullion—the assets we have on hand—and using this money in the payment of current expenses.

"The message criticizes to some extent the language of the bill, but it states that the veto is not based on that, but on the broader ground that the purposes of the bill, if carried out, would largely inflate the silver currency, while providing no gold basis to preserve the parity.

"The day is fast approaching, when the peoples president' will sign a coinage bill. I intend to do everything in my power to present to the president a free coinage bill, and let him exercise his rules of Lindley Murray on that."

And Still Another.

Representative Hender followed the presentation of the president's veto message by submitting a bill for the coinage of the silver seigniorage. The text is the same as the Bland bill, omitting the second section and some of the explanatory language of the first section. It briefly directs the secretary of the treasury to coin as fast as possible the silver seigniorage into legal tender standard silver dollars. The bill was referred to the coinage committee.

HEALY BOUNCED.

Stormy Meeting of the Directors of the Freeman's Journal.

DUBLIN, March 30.—There were disorderly scenes at the meeting of the directors of The Freeman's Journal. Finally, the annual report was adopted by a vote of 36 to 33. A motion was made and carried to substitute John MacDonald for Timothy Healy as a member of the board. Healy, in a long speech, demanded why he was being displaced.

The motion to remove Mr. Healy caused a disgraceful scene. The meeting was almost instantly in an uproar, and such epithets as "Thundering blackguard" were exchanged.

A similar scene occurred later when Thomas Sexton arose to make an explanation of his own position. Remarks that tended to create disorder were exchanged on all sides, and for a time the situation was very threatening.

When order was somewhat restored, John Dillon arose and declared that if he was ousted from the board of directors, he would not appeal to the country as Mr. Healy had threatened to do, but would do his best for the company.

The motion to remove Healy from the directorate was then put to a vote and was carried by a small majority. When the result was announced, Healy, in high dudgeon quitted the room, followed by a dozen young priests.

A vote was then taken on the motion to replace Dillon. The motion was carried without dissent.

AN UNDERGROUND RAILWAY

For Smuggling Opium Through Canada to the United States.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The customs officials have in custody a man who is believed to be one of the principles in a big opium smuggling scheme, and warrants are out for others who are believed to be implicated in smuggling many thousands of dollars' worth of the narcotic into the United States by way of Canada.

The man under arrest says that his name is Samuel Tilford Rowe, and that he lives in this city. A policeman noticed Rowe passing through Mott street, with a large package under his arm. The man's actions were suspicious, and the policeman took him to the police station. There his package was opened, and was found to contain 40 cans of opium, which did not bear the government stamp, and had clearly been smuggled.

He was remanded to the custody of special inspectors of the treasury department. Postal orders which were found in Rowe's pockets and which he was about to forward to people in Toronto, throw considerable light on the smuggling scheme, it is claimed, furnishing the names of the parties who probably attended to getting the opium through Canada.

CITY TIED UP.

Affairs Assume a New Phase In Denver's Great Squabble.

DENVER, March 30.—Judge Glynn has issued an order for an injunction restraining the old police board from interfering with the new board pending the settlement of the controversy between the two boards in the court, on the quo warranto proceedings. The sheriff is also enjoined from taking a hand in the controversy.

As Judge Allen's injunction restrains the new board from interfering with the old board, the two injunctions leave the city in almost the same state as martial law would. The police and fire departments are tied up, and even the sheriff could not act in case the partisans of the two warring boards should clash.

Must Share Profits.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 30.—The government has decided that henceforth all American insurance companies conducting operations in the empire must divide their profits with the insured after the policies have been in effect for four years. Policies already issued are exempt from the provisions of this regulation.

Reconstructing the New England.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Judge Wallace has granted permission to Thomss C. Platt and Marsden J. Perry, receivers of the New York and New England railroad, to execute to the United States government and the customhouse authorities a number of bonds to enable them to carry on the business of the company.

An Osculatory Performance.

ABBAZIA, March 30.—The Emperor of Germany and the Emperor of Austria met at Mattuglie, the end of the railway route to Abbazia. They embraced and kissed one another. After the greeting the emperors went to Abbazzia. The inhabitants assembled and cheered along the entire route.

Many Lives Lost.

WARSAW, March 30.—The shaft of a coal mine at Koszelew collapsed yesterday. Thus far 11 bodies have been recovered, and a number of miners have been removed from the mine, seriously injured.

PEARL RIVER HARBOR

Will Be Utilized by Vessels Patrolling the Sealing Areas.

A SCHEME OF GREAT MAGNITUDE.

London Standard Gives Praise to Ambassador Bayard.

WASHINGTON, March 30. — When Admiral John C. Walker sails from San Francisco on April 5, he will carry with him instructions having a most important bearing on the Behring sea question, all speculation to the contrary notwithstanding.

Admiral Walker was not selected by the president for this mission on account of any threatening condition of affairs in Hawaii, for the official advices received from that country gave no hint of trouble or of a restoration to be expected in the near future, and Admiral Walker's stay at Hodolulu will not extend over two months at most.

Of course, if during his stay trouble should arise, he will be in a positiou to command the situation, but there is no such expectation, and the admiral's mission has to do primarily with the seal question.

The arbitration just concluded provides for a joint protection by the United States and Great Britain over the seal waters, and the two nations are bound to secure, if they can, the co-operation of other interested nations—Russia, Japan and China, and perhaps Germany.

A Great Undertaking.

The policing of the seal waters, which had previously been a temporary expedient, was made a permanent charge upon the parties to the arbitration, and the difficulties in the execution of the task had been enormously increased by the vast extent of the protected zone, fixed by the arbitration, comprising all of the Pacific ocean east of the 180th meridian and north of the 35th paralell and Behring sea.

If the effort to secure the co-operation of Russia and Japan and China should succeed, of which there is every promise, the zone would be still further extended, so as to include the Western Pacific to the shores of Asia. No such task as this—the policing of a vast ocean—was ever before undertaken, and it became necessary to devise a system by wnich this could be done effectively, economically and permanently, by the combined action of the nations interested.

The first requisite to an effective and economical patrol was the establishment of a permanent basis of supply. There will probably be three of these—San Francisco on the east, Yokohama on the west, and Pearl harbor, Hawaii, in the center, all on the lower boundary of the protected zone.

Looking Over Pearl Harbor.

The first two are already within reach, and it is the establishment of the third which had caused Admiral Walker's journey to Hawaii. He will select the best location, looking to its adaptability to the supply, and, in a limited way, repair of the cruisers engaged in the patrol service, estimate the difficulties to be met in dredging a channel across the bar at the entrance to Pearl harbor, and upon his report to the president, will depend the expenditure of the $250,000 which for years has been at the disposal of the president for the establishment of naval stations.

LONDON, March 30.—The Standard this morning says editorially: It is due to Ambassador Bayard that we testify to the friendly and sympathetic temper in which he has throughout performed his share in the Behring sea negotiations. Thus a pleasant ending will close an exceedingly unpleasant clash of opinion between the two nations.

We doubt that after a certain amount of grumbling and remonstrance on the part of the unreasonable and grasping Canadian fishermen, that it will be universally recognized that everything has been saved for Canada that could reasonably be claimed. Neither need we harbor any misgivings as to the manner in which America will carry out the award of the tribunal of arbitration.

The absolutely amicable and pacific spirit that has animated the conduct of the matter throughout constitutes an effective guarantee that any future differences will be settled in the same rational and friendly manner.

Timothy Porter Weds.

Steam Wringer Burst.

PROVIDENCE, March 30. — Three girls were at work beside a steam wringer in the Narragansett hotel laundry, when it burst. Pieces of the flying iron struck the girls on the face and head. Celia McCurdy was badly injured. The other girls were not so seriously hurt.

Famous Musician Dead.

BADEN, March 30.—Jacob Rosenhain, the celebrated composer and pianist, died yesterday. He was born at Mannheim on Dec. 2, 1815. He was the author of a very large number of compositions for the piano, and wrote many songs.

MERIDEN, Conn., March 30.—One hundred and fifty spinners employed at the mill of Rawitzer Bros., here, struck yesterday for an increase of 10 per cent in their wages, which had been deducted recently.

HIS STORY IS LONG.

Colonel Breckinridge Reviews Events of the Past Ten Years.

IS NOW A QUESTION OF VERACITY

Between Miss Pollard's Witnesses and Defendant.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Chapter two of the story of Colonel Breckinridge was told yesterday. It consumed the whole session of the court, and still the narrative remains incompleted. It was a wearying experience for the Kentucky congressman to stand all day in a narrow stall, detailing step by step the history of a decade of his life so far as it had any bearing in his illicit relations with Madeline Pollard, whose movements were entangled with his, so often and so intricately.

From their second meeting at the Lexington house of assignation, kept by Sarah Guest, in 1884, down to the late spring of 1893, the recital wound its way along a path stormy with pistols, illegitimate children, concealed meetings, clandestine interviews and of secret marriage, more of intrigue than one would suppose could be contained in the life of such a mild-looking, elderly man as the man who leaned over the witness box and told it all in a matter-of-fact way, occasionally dropping into jest.

Before him sat the woman who is willing to emulate Samson by dragging down herself with the temple, and she was the only disturbing factor in the scene. She persisted in becoming agitated, and once she made an outcry demanding to know why the defendant could not tell the truth, but Judge Bradley warned her firmly and kindly that she must exercise control or leave the room.

A Good Talker.

There is a wealth of detail in the defendant's story; he binds it about him with many extraneous matters, and throws an atmosphere of high life over it, weaving in with his meetings with Miss Pollard, allusions to the many political events in which he has taken part, the schools he has addressed, the confederate reunions he has attended, banquets to which he had been called as an honored guest, the ladies he has taken to call on Mrs. Cleveland, even the dinner of the Reform club in New York, at which, as Mr. Butterworth observed, "Speaker Crisp did not speak."

The case is practically narrowed down to a question of veracity between the plaintiff and several of her supporting witnesses, and the defendant. Their stories coincide on many points, but it is noticeable how differently the same events appear, when viewed from the standpoints of Colonel Breckinridge and Miss Pollard.

Only on a few points was he obliged to take issue with the testimony of anybody but the plaintiff. Sometimes he and Mrs. Blackburn differed, and the story of Claude de la Roche Francis that he overheard a conversation between the pair relating to their engagement, he said, could not be true, for no such conversation had occurred.

The heart of the defense, however, is that he had represented to Mrs. Blackburn that there was an engagement as a method of explanation of the rumors about the young woman, and enabling her to leave town with an untarnished name.

The Curious Public.

The growth of interest in the trial was shown by the crowd of 700 people which filled the street in front of the courthouse at the hour of adjournment, waiting to get a sight of the parties as they came out. Many well dressed women were in the crowd which filled the sidewalk before the office of Attorney Carlisle, and who pressed forward so eagerly to stare at Miss Pollard, that she had difficulty in forcing her way through. They saw in Colonel Breckinridge, a man who had aged visibly since the beginning of his trial, and walks with bowed head and slow step.

Well Patronized.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 31. — The quarterly statement of the librarian of Harvard university shows a total of 431,298 bound volumes, and if the unbound pamphlets be included, the total number is 762,850. The percentage of users is 80. Seventeen years ago only 51 per cent of the students used the library.

Judge Caldwell's Reprimand.

OMAHA, March 31.—Judge Caldwell, in the hearing of the wage schedule of the Union Pacific railroad yesterday, lectured the railroad officials sharply for coming into court and asking their men to do something that would cause thousands of men to suffer, and which they dared not do themselves.

Poultry raisers in Medway, Medfield, Franklin, Bellingham and Wrentham, Mass., are to form a poultry association to promote interest in the business.

Murderer Lynched In Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 31.—Oliver Jackson, one of the Grant murderers, was lynched. A dozen masked men took the prisoner from two deputies and shot him to death. Jackson had committed three murders.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 31. — The body of Thomas Morriman was taken from the Gaylord mine yesterday. Every bone in his body was broken.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

Queer Hitch In the Senate—Telegraph and Telephone Supervision.

BOSTON, March 31.—Ought not to pass was reported by the committee on street railways on the bill to provide for quarterly statements by street railway corporations.

President Butler announced that senate bill 183, relating to the proposed demolition of the state house, and sundry petitions affecting the question, as well as the report of the state house committee, had been illegally acted upon by the senate, as under the constitution all money bills must originate in the house. The several matters were then referred to the state house committee.

The committee on public health reported adversely on a bill compelling cities and towns to establish hospitals for the treatment of infectious and contagious diseases.

The same committee reported ought not to pass on a bill requiring owners of patent or proprietary medicines to furnish the state board of health with the formulæ used in the preparation of the same, the health authorities to analyze the medicines and report whether or not they contain anything of a poisonous nature.

The joint committee on judiciary reported against a bill that no condition attached to a grant of land restricting the use which shall be made thereof shall be valid or binding after the expiration of sixty years from the date of such grant.

The bill to incorporate the town of East Longmeadow was passed to a third reading without debate.

In the house the committee on liquor law report inexpedient to legislate on the report of the Norwegian system of liquor selling.

The committee reported a bill establishing licensing commissions in all the cities of the commonweath outside of Boston. The boards are to consist of three members, each to serve respectively, six, four and two years.

In the senate, the committee on mercantile affairs reported leave to withdraw on the petition for legislation providing for the control and supervision of the telephone and telegraph companies operating within the state.

The house took from the calendar the bill to provide for the appointment of a board to consider the subject of the unemployed and the measures for their relief. Mr. Mellen said the only difference of opinion about the bill is as to the number on the board. He moved that the membership be 5 instead of 3. The amendment of Mr. Mellen was rejected on a rising vote by a vote of 39 to 111. The house refused to order the yeas and nays, and the bill was passed to be engrossed.

An order was adopted permitting the committee on military affairs to visit Antietam.

PLEA FOR A TREATY.

The United States a Great Market For Canadian Products.

OTTAWA, March 30.—Mr. Charleton, (Liberal) during the debate on the Budget, said that however favorable the concessions made to the United States might be, they were not worth as much as a treaty, because a treaty bound each country for a number of years, and to that extent was permanent.

The United States was Canada's exclusive market for mine products, hay, hides, poultry, fruits, vegetables, etc. There were 150 articles exported to the United States in excess of our exports of the same articles to all other countries of the world combined. Would the honorable gentleman tell him that Canada would be unable to pay for her imports as at present if a free trade policy existed?

Last year the balance of the trade against Canada with the United States was $14,000,000, which was paid out of the balance of trade in favor of Canada with Great Britain. This, he contended, should not be the case with a country within almost telephone call.

THE DISPENSARY LAW

Leads to a Terrible Riot In a North Carolina Town.

FOUR PERSONS ARE SHOT DOWN.

Liquor In the State Dispensary Destroyed by a Mob.

WILSON, N. C., March 31.—There has been a serious riot at Darlington, growing out of an attempt to enforce the dispensary law. Two citizens of Darlington and two of Governor Tillman's spies, have been killed, and a number of spies and citizens have been wounded.

The country in the vicinity of Darlington has been thoroughly aroused, and a large number of people have turned out to hunt down the spies. The trouble grew out of an attempt to search private houses for the liquor. The citizens protested against this and the spies yielded in face of the excitement, and agreed not to search private premises. They also promised to leave Darlington, although the original force, 17 in number, had been reinforced to 37.

They had gone to the depot when they were set upon by some tramps. Out of this grew this trouble, which spread rapidly. The arms of one of the militia companies have been taken by the citizens, and a neighboring militia company is reported not to be in sympathy with the governor. The people of Charlotte, Sumter and Darlington agreed to support each other in resisting the search of private houses.

Last night, in accordance with the agreement, armed parties of men from town and country assembled in each of the above cities, and they picketed all the railroad stations from which the spies can escape by rail. Mounted men are scouring the woods for the constables, who are armed with Winchesters, and will fight for their lives.

Liquor Is Scarce.

The Darlington Guards are under arms, endeavoring to preserve the peace, but trouble has outgrown their control. Sheriff Scarborough is powerless, and under threats of being killed by the citizens if he interferes, has subsided. One of the wounded constables is in Darlington jail, protected by the local military company. There is great excitement all over the state, and the inability to procure liquor at this critical juncture is a godsend to the public peace.

In Columbia, S. C., last night, the excitement was at fever heat, and threats were made against the governor and of burning the dispensaries. Governor Tillman will uphold the law, no matter at what cost, and will call on the country companies to enforce obedience, should the city militia continue to refuse to act.

The constables are said to be surrounded in the swamp, and slaughter is expected at daylight.

Constable Brennan, one of the three who left Darlington by the Charleston, Sumter and Northern railroad, is now here. He reports to the governor that his detachment was fired upon by the mob as the train was pulling out, and that at the same time the detachment was about to leave on the Cheraw and Darlington railroad, and in sight of them, was similarly set upon by the citizens.

Constable Killed.

Constable McLendon had some words with a Mr. Redmond about the Floyd-Rogers fight. Some say Redmond cursed McLendon and McLendon fired at Redmond. Others say McLendon fired at Rogers, and that the bullet passed through Redmond's throat instead, killing him instantly. Firing then became general and citizens hurried to the front of the encounter.

It was found that the constables had scattered to the woods and four men were lying on the ground—Redmond, Frank, Norment and Constables Pepper and McLendon. Pepper was shot through the heart, McLendon through the stomach and is living but will die. Norment is dead. Chief of Police Dargan was shot in the side and several citizens were wounded. Mr. Norment, who was killed, had taken no part in the riotous proceedings in the last few days and had, gone to the depot on business of his own.

Troops Disband.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 31.—Three companies of state troops have disbanded under the great pressure brought to bear on them, rather than obey the governor's orders to go to Darlington. The excitement here, in consequence of this action, is at fever heat.

Dispensary Attacked.

CHARLESTON, March 31. — A dispatch from Florence says that a mob entered the state dispensary at 2:05 this morning, and destroyed the entire stock of liquors.

CRISP DECLINES.

Will Not Relinquish the Speakership For a Seat In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Speaker Crisp, in a telegram to Governor Northern of Georgia, declining the seat in the senate offered him, said: "A very large majority of the Democratic members of the house have united in a request that for the remainder of this congress I continue in the position in which they have elected me. I am grateful to you for the honor you have done me. And in declining it, I am sacrificing a cherished ambition to what I regard as a sense of duty.

The Shooter May Die.

BONDSVILLE, Mass., March 31.—Ludwig Copacz shot Agnez Nikodem and then tried to kill himself. The girl was shot in the arm and is seriously injured. Copacz fired three shots into his neck which may prove fatal.

AN OPEN LETTER

— FROM —

BILLINGS, KING & CO.

DON'T WEAR OUT.

The wearing quality of paint depends largely on the quality and quantity of Pure Linseed Oil (not Water, not Benzine, not Petroleum, not Rosin Oil—please remember), that enters into its composition. The paint manufacturer may employ the best and finest pigments, but he is not so particular about the use of an absolutely Pure Linseed Oil. Neither are many of the jobbers over the country particularly anxious to sell a Pure Linseed Oil, for a better profit is made by selling the adulterated article.

A BAD MISTAKE.

Some jobbers (not well posted) recommend—and often times conscientiously—the use of paste paint and the purchase of oil to use with it, unmindful of the great risk to the consumer.

CONSIDER TRUE ECONOMY.

We urge the use of our Strictly Pure Linseed Oil Paint ready for use, because we can guarantee the quality AS A WHOLE, and, what is also very essential, guarantee that the best coloring material is the only kind used, and that it is mixed and ground so thoroughly with the base as to insure a non-fading paint. It possibly costs per gallon a little more money than paint compounded from cheap raw material, but a gallon of our paint covers from 15 to 20 per cent. more surface and takes less labor to apply it. Hence we say it it is cheapest, and you certainly have the assurance of having your buildings painted with a first-class article.

CHALKS OFF. WHY SHOULDN'T IT?

White lead will surely chalk off after a few months' exposure, and even this article—like other forms of paste paint—may not be pure so far as the pigment is concerned; added to this may exist the fact that it is not always ground in pure oil, for oftentimes paste paints are offered to the consumer at a price per pound less than Pure Linseed Oil sells for at the lowest market price (estimating a gallon of Oil to weigh 7½ pounds). Add to this the risk when purchasing Oil, as also the risk incident to the unscientific use of strong dryers which burn up the life and body of the oil, and you will form some idea of the chances you take of getting a reliable mixture for your buildings when you use any kind of paste paint.

BY THE PEOPLE,

THE ADULTERATION OF OIL IS NOT EASILY DETECTED.

THE PROPER PROPORTION OF DRYERS TO BE ADDED TO EACH GALLON OF PAINT IS NOT THOROUGHLY UNDERSTOOD.

COMMON SENSE.

We believe we present here briefly the most convincing reasons why our paint should be used, and why the use of White Lead and other forms of paste paint should be discouraged. How much more reliable must a ready made product be, when bearing the name and brand of a reputable manufacturer, who, having compounded it with care and with a knowledge of the essentials that go to make a first-class paint, practically guarantees the quality of each package.

BRAINS AND THRIFT.

We aim to have our Paint on sale with one reputable dealer in every city and town.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

THE NEW HIGH.

Contract Let Before Plans Were Approved by State Authorities.

State Inspector Moore, in conversation with a LEDGER representative, states that there was no controversy so far as he knew regarding the fire escape in the new High school building. The contract was let to Henry Mellen & Sons of Worcester by Mayor Fairbanks in December, 1893, before the plans had been filed with the State Inspector of Buildings as required by law. On January 6, after the contract had been signed by the Mellen's, the plans were filed by Architect Thayer with the State Inspectors and at that time Inspector Moore suggested certain changes in the plans whereby better means for egress in a case of fire could be had.

These changes Mr. Thayer agreed to, and on March 17 the corrected plans were filed with the Inspectors, but in the meantime the contractors had been pushing the work on the building. These corrected plans were not entirely satisfactory and Inspector Moore suggested that the difficulty could be overcome by the erection of a tower to contain the fire escape, which may be done and will add greatly to the architectural features of the building. Inspector Moore states that the whole trouble lies with the authorities in not filing the plans with the State Inspectors before the contract was let out and work begun on the building. If this had been done there would have been no change in the plans after the contract had been signed, and no additional expense to the city.

THE NEW BLOCK.

Citizens Subscribing Liberally to Secure a Large Hall for Quincy.

Although the first public notice was given yesterday of the project to build a grand hall in this city, the subscription papers already bear the names of several monied men and it is expected that the whole amount will be subscribed within two weeks. The names of Mr. Theophilus King, Dr. John A. Gordon and ex-Representative Graham appear for ten shares or $1,000 each, and Senator Merrill and Mr. A. G. Durgin will probably take a like amount. Mr. John Hall is down for $500, and the following for smaller amounts:—F. W. Tirrell, Edward Southworth, E. B. Souther, and M. P. Wright.

It is proper to state that the project was not revived until the Hospital trustees had abandoned the proposed opera house on Coddington street.

The need of a large hall in Quincy is very apparent, yet no charity is asked. An income is practically guaranteed which will net the stockholders six per cent. or more upon their investment.

On the first floor will be four large stores and a bowling alley and on the second floor the larger hall which will comfortably seat 1300, also a smaller hall or banquet room nearly as large as Faxon hall, etc., etc.

Associates Hall, as the building will be known, will be completed next fall and the LEDGER predicts a gay season for Quincy next winter which will make things lively and improve business locally. Grand fairs, concerts, balls, the drama and other entertainments will follow each other in rapid succession.

WOLLASTON GROWING.

Lower Floor of the Wollaston Hotel to be Used for Business Purposes.

The old Wollaston hotel, which for over twenty years has been one of the principal hosteleries of the city is on the eve of extensive alterations. Four large stores, three fronting on Newport avenue and one on Beal street, are to be put in by the Merrill brothers of Germany, who have for several years owned the property. It is understood that all of the stores will be leased to Wollaston parties, and that one store will be occupied by Charles R. Sherman, who will become the representative in this vicinity of the great carpet firm of W. & J. Sloane of New York; another store will be occupied by E. S. Thomas, who at present has a store under the hotel; and it is also possible that Tucker's pharmacy and Light's dry goods store, which have been located for many years in the Taylor building, will occupy the two other stores.

It will be a great feather in Wollaston's cap if the Sloans of New York establish a branch carpet house at that place.

Free from Debt.

On Sunday, after the regular morning service at the Wollaston M. E. church, the finances of the society were presented to the congregation by Mr. Walter F. Nichols, who made an appeal to raise $260. In a very few minutes upwards of $300 was subscribed, which will enable the church to begin its conference year free from debt of every name and nature, with a balance in the treasury, conditions which should ensure prosperity.

THREE LIVES LOST.

A Serious Fire at Squantum Last Night.

DWELLING HOUSE CONSUMED.

Two Dogs Also Lose Their Lives—Box Not Pulled Properly.

Quincy experienced this morning its most serious fire, when loss of life is considered, the bodies of three men being taken from the ruins.

It was the summer house of Mr. Charles M. Driver at Squantum, occupied most of the year by that gentleman, although his family live in Boston, where he was a large property owner. He had retired from business and his wealth was estimated at $100,000.

Last night the house was occupied by Mr. Driver and two plumbers who have been engaged on some repairs.

It was about 1 05 when Mrs. Pike, wife of the foreman who has charge of property of Mrs Titus, was awakened by a dischange of guns and discovered that the house of Mr. Driver was in flames. She and the others of the family went to the fire and were watching it burn when someone suggested the ringing in of an alarm and Mrs. Pike pulled in box 68. At about the same time someone pulled in box 64 located at Gurney's store in Atlantic. Both of these boxes struck all right on the bell at Atlantic but did not at the Centre.

Some moments later a telephone message was sent from Gurney's store to the central fire station where three blows were rung in which called the chief who upon learning the cause ordered the apparatus to the fire.

The chief then rang in Box 68 from his own house, and this was the alarm heard on the Quincy bells at 2.05.

When the department arrived, the building had been consumed. It was a five mile run for the steamer, and the nearest piece of apparatus was nearly two miles.

The stable on the estate was saved and no other buildings were in danger.

The doomed house was well built and was valued at $1,800.

The bodies of the three men were taken from the ruins, but early this morning had not been recognized. One was thought to be Charles Cutter but this is denied by a relative. The bodies are at the undertaking establishment of John Hall at Quincy.

The bodies of the three unfortunate men present a horrible appearance, there being practically nothing but the charred trunks remaining, as the heads and parts of the legs and arms are burned off.

A son of Mr. Driver visited the undertaking rooms of Mr. Hall this morning and feels sure of the identification of his father by means of a pair of eyeglasses found in some clothing near his body. Mr. Driver says his father always slept alone and he therefore thinks that the two men must have slept up-stairs together and his father on the lounge down-stairs.

These two plumbers worked for John Killion of Roxbury, who visited the undertakers this morning and identified the two men by particles of clothing.

One of the men was Cornelius Murphy, aged 46 years. He was married and lived at 3 Dighton street, Boston. The other was Timothy O'Mara, aged 22 years and unmarried. He lived on Northampton street, Boston.

Mr. Driver was about 63 years of age and leaves a widow and one son who reside in Roxbury.

Since writing the above, it has been learned that Mrs. Pike did not pull Box 68. She was unfamiliar with the manner of giving an alarm and upon opening the box, instead of pulling down the hook, she moved it back and forth sidewise.

There can hardly be any question but what if the box had been properly pulled that it would have given the alarm, as Chief Williams afterward tested the box and rang in the recall from it and it worked all right then.

Much time would have been saved had a telephone message been sent direct from the residence of Mrs. Titus, although the building had been so far consumed that it could not have been saved.

In addition to the three unfortunate men who were burned there were two dogs that lost their lives.

A maximum fine of $20 may be imposed upon any person offending. This also removes an element of danger from the streets, as serious runaway accidents have been caused by the exhibition of dancing bears.

The Day He Celebrates.

The New York Sun says: "On Arbor day the Hon. Josiah Quincy of Quincy, will positively shin up his family tree, touching the bark as lightly as possible, and, sitting on the top branches, resume his old expresson of rapt and solitary thought. These lower plans are ill-suited to a climbing mind, and a rarer air is needed for those pensive lungs."

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

An After-Dinner Speech at the Wollaston Banquet

BY SYLVESTER BROWN, ESQ.

What They Have a Right to Demand From All Classes.

Among the toasts at the banquet of the Unitarian society at Wollaston, Thursday evening, was "Our Public Schools," and the response of Mr. Sylvester Brown, is given in full below. Mr. Brown is a Boston master and was formerly on the school board of Quincy. The address:

I am well aware that an after-dinner speech should be of a different from the one I shall give you. I do not hold myself responsible, however, as I did not select my subject. The subject of the public school is a very profound one, and demands the most serious consideration from all thoughtful person who desire to see our democratic institutions perpetuated.

Universal education is the corner stone upon which our republic rests. It seems to me as I have looked over the educational interests of our state and nation for the past twenty-five years, that the average citizen does not realize the tremendous influence that is exerted by the American public school. The influence of the faithful, earnest and devoted teacher can never be measured. I believe you will all agree with me that it is second only to the influence of mother and father and home.

I believe you will agree with me that however much the clergymen and the churches may be doing for the children of a community, the public schools and their teachers are doing vastly more for these same children in leading them to right thought and its corresponding action.

What then has the public school a right to demand of a community?

I believe that the public schools have a right to demand from all classes and conditions loyalty, not that passive loyalty that allows a man to pay his taxes cheerfully for the support of the children of the poorer classes; not that kind of loyalty that speaks at all times well of the public schools, in a half hearted way; but the kind of loyalty that makes a man put his children into the public schools and when this is done take that vital interest in them that will make every one with whom he comes in contact desire to do the same. He should seek to do everything in his power to make of the public schools such models of perfection that none can afford to keep their children from them.

In 1885, Phillips Brocks delivered an address at the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the Boston Latin school. In speaking of the American public school, he says, "Would that its blessing might be made absolutely universal. Would that it might be so arranged that once in the life of every Boston boy, if for only three months, he might be a pupil of a public school, might see his city sitting in the teacher's chair, might find himself along with boys of all degrees and classes, simply recognized by his community as one of her children. It would put an element into his character and life which he would never lose. It would insure the unity and public spirit of our citizens. It would add tenderness and pride and gratitude to the more base and sordid feelings with which her sons rejoice in their mother's wealth and strength and fame."

I do believe that the efficiency of the public schools would be greatly increased if they were more generally patronized by children from homes of wealth and culture. Many such children are today educated apart from those in less fortunate circumstances. For this reason the public schools do not get that earnest attention from many of our best citizens that their importance demands. It is impossible for men and women to be so vitally interested in schools not patronized by them as under the opposite condition.

The parents in a commmunity should never form a judgment concerning a school on ex-parte evidence. All school troubles arise on account of misunderstandings from such evidence. In fact misunderstandings are really the cause of about all the trouble in the world. You have all heard perhaps, of the way an editor recently got himself into trouble simply on account of a misunderstanding. Two of his subscribers wrote to ask his remedy for their respective troubles. No. 1 a happy father of twins wrote to inquire the best way to get them safely over their teething, and No. 2 wanted to know how to protect his garden from myriads of grasshoppers. The editor framed his answers upon the orthodox lines, but unfortunately transposed their two names with the result that No. 1 who was blessed with twins read in reply to his query: "Cover them carefully with straw and set fire to them and the little pests after jumping about in the flames a few minutes will speedily be settled." While No. 2, plagued with grasshoppers was told to give a little castor oil and rub their gums gently with a bone ring. Of course you can readily imagine the serions outcome of this editor's mistake and the misunderstanding that came. How easily the misunderstanding might have been connected. Nearly every difficulty between parents and teachers may be as easily corrected.

I think the patrons of our schools should study to know the limitations of their own children. It is a fact that fathers and mothers as rule regard their offspring as the most important addition to humanity the world has ever known. It is natural and proper that we all should look upon what is ours as best.

In this way only can the happiness of families be secured; but the sober second thought of all must lead to the conclusion that every child born into this world has tremendous possibilities both for good and evil. The seeds of good have been shown by heredity. The seeds of evil have been sown upon the same ground by the same hand. The wheat or the tares—which shall win? Environment only shall determine. Environment only can be responsible for the ultimate goodness of badness of every human being.

A good deal of wonder having been expressed as to what the term of Seignorage means, perhaps it would not be out of place to give the defination of Webster by way of clearing up the matter.

Webster gives the pronunciation "seen'yur-age and meaning "something claimed or taken by virtue of sovereign prerogatives; specifically, a certain toll or deduction on bullion brought to a mint to be coined, designed originally to defray the expense of coinage, but afterward made a branch of revenue. This deduction is still made, with certain modifications of the original system, at governmental mints.

John Stewart Mills says in this connection "If the government, however, throws the expense of coinage, as is reasonable, upon the holders, by making a charge to cover the expense (which is done by giving back rather less in coin than has been received in bullion, and is called "levying a Seignorage) the coin will rise to the extent of the Seignorage above the value of the bullion."

—Ejectments are too often heard of and are indeed quite too common when the victims are poor working people who cannot pay their rent. But New York has an ejectment case in which the victims are of the millionaire persuasion. The hotel New Netherland, corner of 5th avenue and 59th street, built by Wm. W. Astor last year at a cost of about $2,000,000, was leased to Gen. F. P. Earle at a rental of $162,000 annually, but it seems he did not make the hotel pay, or at any rate he didn't pay Astor his rent, and in consequence Mr. Astor has cabled across the Atlantic an order for him to vacate.

—Farmers are planting their peas, onion sets, radishes and other early vegetables. The grass is growing green, the frogs and birds are singing, and on the whole the season is at least a fortnight ahead of the average. Of course nobody can tell about the future, but it is already too late to expect much snow or severe weather.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

—The New York State Board of Health, like that of Michigan, has ordered local health officers to register the facts of every case of tuberculosis in mankind within their respective jurisdictions, with the design of ultimately taking such measures as may seem proper to prevent the communication of the disease to persons in health.

—The warrant committee of Dedham, recommend $11,500 for the highways of that town for 1894.

New Postoffice for Atlantic.

With the date of this paper the Atlantic post office departs from its home within Mr. Thomas Gurney's store. In a few months more it would have attained the legal age for voting; Mr. Gurney having received the appointment in December, 1873. At that time he was located in the store owned by Elijah Ramsdell, on Hancock street, not far from the bridge.

Nearly all the mail received then came addressed North Quincy, and there was quite a sharp agitation at that time whether the new office should be named North Quincy or Atlantic, but as there were already a Quincy, a West Quincy, a South Quincy and a Quincy Point, it was thought advisable not to multiply the name Quincy more. In the fall of the following year Mr. Gurney removed the office to his new store, where it has since remained, and in all these years he has been a model postmaster, striving to please and receiving no word of complaint. It was hoped it would remain undisturbed until free delivery was established, but the "powers that be," who have made themselves so offensively offensive in promoting the common woe, ignoring the welfare of the people, have caused its removal.

Merry Mount.

A piece now being presented at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, called "America" presents in a vivid way the history of our country from the time of the interview of Columbus, with King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella, up to the present time Quincy is but a small part of our great country, still it plays a part in early history. "Merry Mount" is represented in the play with Thomas Morton, the settlers and Indians all dancing and reveling around the celebrated May-pole and the appearance of Miles Standish and his followers on the scene, putting a stop to further festivities. As presented on the stage Merry Mount does not look exactly like our own Merry Mount but the idea is all there and Quincy is proud to be thus brought before the people.

—The town of Braintree has put in a $50,000 electric plant which it is using for lighting the streets and for furnishing commercial lights. A report has been made covering nearly a year, which shows that the town saves something by the enterprise. Whether in the long run public control of such a plant will prove better than private, remains to be seen. It is an experiment that will be watched with much interest, not only by the public, but by those interested in private electric light plants.—Somerville Citizen.

SAMOA'S DISTURBANCE

Was Not Altogether Unexpected by Officials at Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The report of the recent formidable native uprising in Samoa, by way of Auckland yesterday, was the first news of the event received by the state department. It cannot be said, however, to have caused much surprise, for previous advices received from our consular officers at Samoa indicated the existence of disturbed and threatening conditions in the islands.

The department has kept as well informed of affairs there as the difficulties in the way of communication would permit, and it was felt that sooner or later, the United States would again become vexed with the questions growing out of the obligations assumed, under what President Cleveland has declared to be a shining example of an un-American and entangling alliance.

Justice Ide is a Vermont man, and up to this time the reports show that he has secured the approval and commendation of the treaty powers in every move. Therefore it is believed that he was acting strictly within the limits of his powers, and for the interest of all his parties in his treatment of recalcitrant natives, and there can be no doubt that he will be upheld effectively and speedily in his course.

The barbarities described in the report of the battles are always accompaniments of Samoan warfare, and the best efforts of missionaries and civilizing influences heretofore have failed to abate the savagery in battle of the otherwise gentle Samoans.

A FALLING STANDPIPE

Kills One Person and Injures Seven Others—Much Damage Done.

PEORIA, Ills., March 31.—While workmen were making repairs on the standpipe at the corner of Bourland and College streets, the great structure gave a lurch, broke squarely off at the base and fell to the ground. It was 120 feet high, 20 feet in diameter and contained 1,000,000 gallons of water.

When the pipe fell Frank Hogan, aged 15, was standing near by and was instantly killed. The following were injured: Charles Littlefield, Rolla King, N. S. Wing, slightly; Frank Colwell, right leg broken and crushed; John Huber, bruised about the head; W. B. Morris, serious injuries about head and shoulders; Mrs. John B. Trapp, bruised about head and shoulders.

The damage to property was considerable, as a number of houses were carried from their foundations by the rush of waters. Every cellar in the neighborhood was filled with water, and in many instances carpets and other furniture on the first floors of residences were badly damaged, the flood taking full possession.

SHERIFF KNEW HIM.

Chief of a Gang of Train Robbers Must Go Back to Wyoming.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 31.—George G. Smith, 28 years old, the chieftain of a gang of western train robbers and a fugitive from justice in Wyoming, was arrested in this city by local officers, at the home of his grandmother. Smith has been here about three weeks. He was recognized on the street by a former Wyoming deputy sheriff.

Smith, with his three pals, was arrested at Green River, Wy., in February, 1891, by Sheriff Whitmore, charged with breaking into a car on the Union Pacific road and taking from it two barrels of whisky, which the gang afterward sold at Green River. All four broke jail, but the other three were soon recaptured. Smith confesses his guilt and says the jailor's wife released the gang from jail. His father, now a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., was formerly an alderman of this city.

WILL BE SETTLED MONDAY.

Directors of King Philip Mills Are Anxious to Resume Operations.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 31.—Agent Chase of the King Philip mills and his spinners are having a little argument on the question of wages. The mills have been closed and the agent has been directed to start them up. Wednesday he made a proposition that they accept a slight reduction. No schedule has been submitted yet, but a meeting will be held Monday, when one will be presented.

The directors of the mills are not pleased that their plant, or the greater part of it, is stopped, while other mills in outside towns and in the city are in full operation. The upward tendency in the cloth market has increased their anxiety, and it is said that several big orders have been received or are at the disposal of the concern.

Strike Almost Certain.

PROVIDENCE, March 31.—Riverside mill weavers met the mill officials last evening. The agents refused to make any concessions until they had time to consult with other mills that proposed to introduce the two-loom system. There is little doubt that the mill will refuse to abandon the new system, and if the weavers carry out their intentions, a strike will be declared.

Strike Impending.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 31.—A committee of the employes of the dyehouse of the Amoskeag mills, asked for the increase of wages to that paid before the cutdown of 10 per cent last fall, and the agent of the mill stated that he could not concede their demands. It is the current report in this city that the men will strike.

A Costly Entertainment.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 31,—As fast as those who participated in the local prize fight between Billy Fox and Charlie Grier could be found, including all who were in attendance, were brought into court yesterday, and given a sentence of $10 and costs, amounting to some $18 each.

Another Slump.

SANDWICH, Mass., March 31.—The Old Colony Interior Canal company has lost its charter to build a canal across Cape Cod, the time for depositing $50,000 in the state treasury having expired. There are few here who ever expect to see the canal completed.

In Memoriam.

WELLFLEET, Mass., March 31. — Memorial services were held in commemoration of the lost men from the ship Jason on Dec. 5. Addresses were made by four clergymen. Eighteen of the crew of the ill-fated ship are buried here.

PATENTS

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of man-kind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" system. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N W, Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

PRESIDENTIAL VETO

Has Helped to Clear Uncertainty In the Business World.

A SLOW GAIN IN GENERAL TRADE

Indicates that the Worst of the Depression Is Over.

NEW YORK, March 31.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: The president clears away one grave uncertainty with his veto. For some days it has been expected, and in speculation perhaps fully discounted. The more confident tone observed this week is partly due to the belief that no disturbance of the currency will be permitted, but other causes helped forward improvement. Slowly, but yet quite perceptibly, the force at work increases.

The approach of spring compels thousands of dealers to replenish stocks, and the aggregate of orders, if smaller than usual at this season, is distinctly larger than in January or February. Except in speculative markets prices do not recover, and in a few instances have gone lower, but the absence of sensational record-breaking inspires hope that the bottom may have been reached. Business, though small, is exceptionally cautious and safe, and its slow gain is more encouraging than a frothy and flighty expansion.

A Rise In Wheat.

Wheat rose briskly with reports, due every year about April 1, that great injury has been sustained. Later accounts were better and prices well, closing 3 cents higher than last week. Western receipts for four weeks have been only 6,829,063 bushels, against 11,523,745 last year, but exports are very small.

Corn receipts for four weeks have been 12,773,748 bushels, against 7,995,115 last year, so that the tonnage of the two grains taken together is as large as a year ago. Pork products have sharply advanced, though corn but little.

Cotton has advanced an eighth, the weekly movement being more favorable to holders, though 200,000 bales have already come into sight in excess of the entire crop according to some so-called investigations.

Improvement In Industries.

Industries have gained again thought not so much as in other weeks this month, but the works in operation enjoy some increase in the demand.

Fall trade in woolens is still very small, but needs of belated clothiers have caused quite an improvement in spring goods. Cottons are also in better demand and print cloths have advanced a sixteenth.

The shoe manufacturer is supported by larger orders, particularly from the south for women's goods, with many small purchases for immediate delivery at the east and a little better demand at the west. Shipments from Boston, 17.6 per cent less than last year for the first quarter, are only 14.7 per cent less for March. The demand for leather also increased, though only in medium or lower qualities.

Domestic trade continues about 30.4 per cent less than a year ago. Clearings at New York are 34.7 per cent less and at uppers and 22.7 per cent less.

Failures for the week number 238 in the United States against 166 last year, and 30 in Canada, against 28 last year.

The liabilities for three weeks of March thus far reported have been $10,061,991, of which $4,699,188 were of manufacturing and $4,225,082 of trading concerns. The returns so far indicate a smaller aggregate for March than for February.

Burglars Captured.

BOSTON, March 31.—About 2:30 this morning, John Daly, 23 years old, of Fitchburg, and James Reynolds, 32 years old, of New Bedford, were arrested for breaking and entering the liquor saloon of Thomas L. Smith, 21 Washington street. Daly gave the police officer a long chase, and the latter shot Daly in the spinal column and brought him down. It is thought Daly will recover.

Two Bank Embezzlers Sentenced.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Benjamin G. Sanford, who misappropriated $53,000 of the funds of the Continental National bank, was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years. Harry C. Witshaw, bookkeeper of the United States National bank, who embezzled upward of $35,000 of the bank's funds, also received a sentence of five years in the penitentiary.

Killed Five and Himself.

DODGEVILLE, N. Y., March 31.—Fritz Kloetzer killed his wife and four children, and then committed suicide at his home last night. He had been out of work for a long time, and despondency is supposed to have led to the deed. For weeks he had been selling his furniture, piece by piece, to pay for bread for his family.

A Cool Theft.

HAVERHILL, Mass., March 31.—A man giving the name of Chester Willey is locked up for stealing a trunk containing valuable drummers' samples. He hired a job team and drove to the depot, and took the trunk to his room. He broke it open, and was carrying away the contents, when arrested.

Expelled For Elopement.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., March 31.—Pastors trials were the feature of yesterday's session of the Baltimore Methodist South conference. Rev. C. M. Bragg was formally expelled on the charge of having eloped with a young lady member of his congregation.

Big Strike at New York.

NEW YORK, March 31.—As a result of a fight between the Brotherhood of Carpenters and the entire building trade labor organizations, over 1000 members of the various building trade organizations of this city went on strike yesterday.

Obstreperous Governor Waite.

DENVER, March 31.—News leaked out last night, which leaves no doubt that Governor Waite is preparing to call out the troops again to enforce his order removing Police Commissioners Orr and Martin.

Fifty Buildings Destroyed.

QUINCY, Ills., March 31.—Fire destroyed over 50 buildings, embracing all the business portion of the city of Barry, about 30 miles from here. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

Laidlaw Wins.

NEW YORK, March 31.—The jury in the Laidlaw-Sage case awarded Laidlaw $35,000 damages.

THE BELOVED PATRIOT.

All Classes Anxious to Pay Tribute to Louis Kossuth's Memory.

BUDA-PESTH, March 31.—Kossuth's remains arrived here last evening. Immense crowds of people stood bareheaded as the body of the dead patriot was borne to the National museum.

Never in the history of Hungary has there been such a popular manifestation of sincere sorrow as that which has marked the arrival here of the body of Kossuth. Mourning decorations are everywhere displayed. Never before, not even at the death of a member of the royal family, has there been such a genuine popular display of regret.

The bells on the churches throughout the city were tolled during the transference of the body from the station to the museum. In every way the ceremony was of the most solemn character. The coffin was placed on a catalfalque in the museum, and was covered with wreaths.

Disturbances have occurred in various parts of Hungary, owing to the refusal of Catholic clergymen to toll the bells of their churches or to drape their edifices. It is expected that on the day of the funeral the city will be crowded as it never was before.

So determined are the Hungarians to be present when the last honors are paid the dead, that an enormous number of them, who are too poor to ride to Buda-Pesth, will walk to the city. Five thousand of the inhabitants of Czegled, a town 76 kilomtres distant from here, have already started from their homes. They will walk the entire distance.

DAY OF FIGHTING.

Whole Time of the House Devoted to Filibustering and Wrangling.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Another long filibuster consumed the time of the house yesterday, and although the proceedings were not characterized by the turbulence and disorder which marked them Wednesday, they culminated in a very sharp passage-at-arms between the speaker and Mr. Reed, and left partisan feeling still at high tension when the recess was taken. For four hours Mr. Reed successfully filibustered against the approval of the journal.

During the progress of the filibuster, the speaker several times declined to entertain motions or appeals from his decisions, refusing to state the grounds upon which these decisions were made. He held that it was the chair's privilege, as it was the privilege of a judge, to furnish the reasons for decisions or not, as he saw fit.

When the president's veto of the Bland bill was read, Mr. Bland gave notice that on Tuesday next he would move to pass the bill, the president's objections notwithstanding.

A single vote was had in the O'Neill-Joy contested election case after the long struggle, but although the Democrats had a quorum present all the afternoon, it mysteriously disappeared at the critical juncture. Seven votes were lacking. The struggle will be resumed.

WATCHING IMMIGRANTS.

Boston's Inspector Proposes to Strictly Enforce the Law.

BOSTON, March 31.—Chief Inspector of Immigration Skeffington, in enforcing the United States laws relating to immigrants, is not meeting with the approval of the steamship companies. The steamship Yarmouth, from Yarmouth, N. S., arrived in port last Sunday, having on board 130 passengers, according to the list, but upon investigation by the immigration officers it was found that a large number were on board whose names had not been entered.

Before allowing any one to land, the steamship officials were forced to enter 56 additional names on the passenger list. The Yarmouth's officials, it is alleged, with a number of the delayed passengers, held a meeting on board the boat, and denounced the action of the immigration officers. Mr. Skeffington said yesterday: "Complaints have been made that persons under contract can enter this port without any fear of detection, but I will make this one of the special features of the department, and shall detain all those who enter this port under suspicion of having made a contract, either expressed or implied."

Sullivan Is Held.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 31.—The witnesses for the prosecution in the case of Jeremiah Sullivan, charged with inflicting the wound upon William E. Willey of Rochester, on March 3, completed their testimony yesterday afternoon. The judge held Sullivan for the supreme court in September.

Rejection Predicted.

BROOKLYN, March 31.—A meeting of the board of auditors of the town of Gravesend was held yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of auditing the accounts of John Y. McKane. The accounts were submitted by George McKane, the son of John Y. McKane. It is understood that the report will be rejected.

Albanians the Aggressors.

CETTINGE, March 31. — Thousands of Albanians attacked a Montenegrin village on the frontier, killing four and wounding seven of the Montenegrins. The loss of the Albanians is not known. The fighting is liable to lead to further and more serious disturbances.

Robbers Got Scared.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., March 31.—Burglars visited North Attleboro, but failed to secure any booty. The office of W. H. Riley & Co. was broken into and an attempt made to blow open the safe. The robbers evidently became frightened, for all the tools used in drilling were left behind.
